But one morning each of the five rejected candidates rushed to the other four, exclaiming, "Have you seen it?"

"Yes. Isn't it shameful?"

"Catch me again employing a woman as a go-between in such an affair!"

The occasion of this comment was an item in the society columns of a newspaper:

The engagement is announced of Mr. Guy D. Harrison to Miss Margaret Boyd.

"You are all wrong!" said a married woman to one of the ex-candidates on bearing the invidious remarks. "Margaret Boyd is only twenty-nine, and there has never been a time that she couldn't get almost any bachelor in the city she wanted."

CONSTANCE WILD.

Bunions and Rank.

"It is extraordinary," writes Sir Henry Drummond Wolff in "Rambling Recollections," "to observe in England the weakness that most people have for boasting of their friends in high places and the deference that they show to them. The daughter of a lady of very high rank had some pain in her foot which the mother asked the governess to be good enough to look at. The latter after examining it said, 'If it were not for her ladyship's exalted rank I should say it was a bunion.'"

Breathing Lampblack in the Country.

A careful glance at white lace curtains that have been hanging for some time in a room where Kerosene or Gasolene Light has been used will tell its own story.

Another look at the wall-paper on ceiling and walls will also tell the tale, if that paper be light colored and in use for a year or so.

The Lampblack will be found deposited in very fine, closely-packed layers upon everything in the rooms where Kerosene or Gasolene Lamp Light is constantly used.

Being all Light, instead of only one-tenth Light like that of Kerosene and Gasolene, only one-tenth as much flame is needed from Acetylene to produce as much Light as nine-tenths from Kerosene or Gasolene.

This means, with Acetylene, only a small fraction of the heat, soot, Oxygen-consumption, and Carbonic Acid Gas production of Kerosene, Gasolene or City Gaslight.

A 24 candle-power Kerosene Lamp used 10 hours will cost about 6 cents for Kerosene, Chimneys and Wicks.

A 24 candle-power Acetylene Gas Light used 10 hours will consume nothing but one pound of Carbide at 3¾ cents in most of the States.

Because, with Kerosene or Gasoline Light we are paying for one-tenth Light and nine-tenths soot, heat, color-fog, and other useless or injurious things besides.

Drop me a line to-day for further particulars. State how many rooms you have to light or how large your store.

CHOKED HER TO DEATH.

Husband Kills Young Wife—Citizens Demand Vengeance.

Newark, O., May 25.—Ernest Terwilger has slain his eighteen-year-old wife and their unborn child by choking the mother to death during a quarrel, and now the confessed homicide is under special guards in the city jail, because many infuriated citizens set up a cry for summary vengeance about the prison when the crime became known.

The Terwilgers were married about a year ago, the bride being popular on account of her beauty and social qualities. Terwilger was jealous of his wife, and domestic discord caused a separation.

Recently the pair became reconciled and went to live at the home of Charles Nutter. When one of the Nutters went to call the Terwilgers for breakfast no response was forthcoming, and the door was forced. Mrs. Terwilger was found dead on the bed. Her tongue protruded from her blackened face, and there were finger marks on her throat.

As Terwilger was gone, a search was begun for him. No sooner had he been apprehended than he admitted the double crime. He said that he had been out of work for some time and that he had taken several drinks with some friends. Returning home, he said, his wife asked him for money to buy baby clothes. He told her that he had no money for her, and the quarrel waxed warm. Old troubles were revived, and recriminations aroused the husband's anger to such an uncontrollable stage that he seized his wife by the throat, broke her over the edge of the bed and choked her until she ceased to struggle.

Fatally Shot by His Cousin.

Camden, Tenn., May 25.—Cyrus Thompson, manager of the Camden Produce company, was shot and fatally wounded as he was trying to climb in the window at the home of James Saunders, Jr., his cousin. Saunders, who did the shooting, is nearly crazed with grief. He mistook Thompson for a burglar. Thompson thought he was at his own home.

Eminent Physician Says This Great Liquid Prescription is Certain Cure for Eczema.

Still another Eczema specialist comes forward in enthusiastic praise of D. D. D Prescription, the wonderful extern a remedy which cures Eczema and other similar diseases like magic. He is Dr. C. B. Holmes of Silver City, Miss., and in summing up his impressions of the startling cures D. D. D. has effected, he says:

"I have been using your D. D. D. for four years with gratifying results. 'TIS AS NEAR A SPECIFIC FOR HERPES, ECZEMA, PSORIASIS, ETC., AS IS QUININE FOR MALARIA."

Dr. Holmes is one of hundreds of physicians who use D. D. D. in their daily pratice. The D. D. D. company allows physicians to use this remedy with the understanding that they tell their patients what it was that cured them when the terrible itch had been wiped out, the skin healed and the raw wound covered over with soft white skin. D. D. D. is not a nasty paste to smear the skin and clothing, but it is a clear liquid. It is advisable to use D. D. D. soap in connection with D. D. D. Prescription.

Is any furthur proof of the curative powers of D. D. D. Prescription necessary? That remedy is sold at C. A. WRIGHT & SON'S. Come in and let us show you convincing proof that D. D. D will cure your skin disease. Even if you have not decided to use D. D. D. remedy come in and explain your case anyway.

INTERSCHOOLASTIC MEET

High Schools of Lenawee County Met in Tecumseh Last Saturday

SIX HIGH SCHOOLS PARTICIPATE IN THE EVENTS FIELD DAY

Tecumseh Holds Base and Basket Ball County Championship.

Last Saturday the Fourth Interscholastic meet of the High Schools of Lenawee county was held in Tecumseh. The day dawned clear and beautiful and by noon the town was crowded with school children from all parts of the county. Not only school children were attracted but older ones, all of whom are interested in the welfare of the schools. Each train brought large delegations from Addison, Britton, Clinton, Hudson and Morenci. Deerfield being the only one to back out, thus making the first attraction a dissapointment, as the Deerfield basket ball girls were to have a game at 9 o'clock with the Tecumseh team. The Tecumseh girls, rather than dissapoint their crowd played against a picked High School team of this village runing from them by a score of 41 to 3.

50 yard dash. Time, 5 4 5—
Ayers, Addison 1st.
Bamberger, Hudson 2nd.
Quackenbush, Tecumseh 3rd.

110 yard hurdle. Time 16 3 5—
Bramble, Tecumseh 1st.
Tansley, Tecumseh 2nd.
Bamberger, Hudson 3rd.

Shot put—
Bamberger, Hudson 39 ft. 3 in.
Lawrence, " 37 ft. 2 in Clark, Tecumseh 36 ft. 3 in.

Ayers, Addison 1st.
Clark, Tecumseh 2nd.
Barrett, Hudson 3rd

Standing hop, step and jump—
Lenardson, Britton 29 ft. 1 in.
Blanchard, Clinton 29 ft.
Palmer, Hudson 27ft.

100 yard dash. Time 0:11—
Ayers, Addison 1st.
Granger, Morenci 2nd.
Quackenbush, Tecumseh 3rd.

Running broad jump—
Silver medals were also given to the winners of the track events, there being 13 in all.

Waring, Tecumseh 19 ft. 9 in.
Lenardson, Britton 18 ft. 6 in.

Granger, Morenci 1st.

Lawrence, Hudson 9 ft. 6 in.
Lenardson, Clinton 9 ft. 5 in.
Ferrick, Clinton 9ft. 4½ in.

880 yd. or ½ mile run. Time 2:23 3 5—
Boyd, Tecumseh 1st.
Snell, Tecumseh 2nd.
McNeil, Tecumseh 3rd.

Relay Race—
Bamberger, Hudson 1st.
Ayers, Addison 3rd.

The crowd then dispersed for dinner meeting on the Base Ball grounds at 1:30 for the afternoon sports The basket ball games between Hudson and Tecumseh was finished a tie. After some dispute it was decided at Hudson's suggestion to play the game until the first field basket. Tecumseh won the game, the final score standing 11 to 9.

Pole Vault—
Ferrick, Clinton 1st.
King, Hudson 2nd.
Bailey, Morenci 3rd.

The running high jump was next in order:

Waring, Tecumseh 1st.
Palmer, Hudson 2nd.
Barrett, Hudson 3rd.

Standing high jump—
Ferrick, Clinton 1st.
Waring, Tecumseh 2nd.
Wilson, Tecumseh 3rd.

The tug of war between Hudson and Tecumseh was won by Hudson, those participating in this event were for Hudson—F. Laurence, D. Laurence, Barrett, Bamberger; Tecumseh—Marsh, Avery, Clarkson, Clark, McNeil.

The day passed pleasantly and quickly, with no accidents to spoil the pleasures. The business places and dwelling houses were gaily decorated in high school colors, orange and black, and flags. This was Tecumseh's second gala day in the one week, and the citizens feel that it was a decided success. To say that the pupils of the Tecumseh schools were delighted because they won the base ball and basket ball games, and now hold the championship of the county, would be only a mild way of expressing the enthusiasm and and excitement exhibited during the meet.

In the running broad jump, Roger Waring broke the high school record by jumping 19 feet, 8 inches.

Prizes were awarded as follows:

Tecumseh High School Athletic Association, a silver Trophy Cup, for winning the greatest number of points.

A silver Trophy Cup to the Tecumseh Base Ball and one to the Basket Ball girls for the Championship of the county.

Two silver Loving Cups to the Hudson High School for winning both the Relay race and the Tug of War.

A gold medal to Ayers of Addison for he best all around athlete.

EVENED UP MATTERS.

The Way a Fine Imposed In Court Came to Be Remitted.

A raw mountaineer got back at Judge Mose Wright of the Rome circuit in a very clever way. While the judge was presiding over the Chattooga superior court he had occasion to plaster a fifteen dollar fine on this man because he failed to appear in time as a witness in a case.

"Say, judge, hain't that purty steep?" mildly inquired the Chattoogan.

"No," was the reply. "You know you were an important witness in this case and ought to have been here. I will suspend payment, however, and hold it over you to see that there is no like trouble in the future."

Later Judge Wright was spending a few weeks at Menlo, a popular summer resort in Chattooga county, several miles from a railroad. He had a package to come out from Summerville, and the big mountaineer happened to deliver it.

"Well, what do I owe you?" asked the judge genially, reaching for his change pocket.

"Waal, judge, I reckon about $15 would square us," was the calm reply.

"What?" yelled Judge Wright, staggering back.

"Mebbe you won't be so dern keerless next time 'bout leavin' yo' packages," was the imperturbable answer.

"Look here," whispered the perturbed jurist, "I'll just remit that fifteen dollar fine I put on you down in Summerville."

"Gid ap, Beck. That 'bout squares us, judge."

Royal Crowns.

Royal crowns have tended to become lighter. Thus, one made in the middle ages weighed over seven pounds, that of George IV. weighed five and one-half pounds, while Queen Victoria's crown, containing the great ruby which belonged to the Black Prince, weighed three and one-quarter pounds.

AN ISLAND IN THE AIR.

Three miles south of the Mesa Encantada, in Mexico, is a splendid specimen of fantastic erosion—an "island" in the air, a rock with overhanging sides nearly 400 feet high, seventy acres in area on the fairly level top, indented with countless great bays, notched with dizzy chasms. The greater part of the island overhangs the sea like a huge mushroom, and on the top stands a town which for artistic charm, ethnological interest and romantic history has no peer.

This little town of Ancoma is one of the most perfect types of the prehistoric Pueblo architecture. Most of the houses remain of the type invented when every house must be a fort. One climbed a ladder to his first roof and pulled up the ladder at night, living on the second and third floors and using the ground floor as a cellar. Against enemies armed only with bows and arrows this was a fair defense. Comfort had to be sacrificed to safety. Nothing except the eagle sought such inaccessible eyries as these victims of their own civilization.

Because they were farmers instead of freebooters, because they had homes instead of being vagrants, they were easy to find, and they were the prey of a hundred nomad tribes. With inconceivable labor this island town in the air was built and fortified. It was reached only by a mere trail of toe holes up the stem of the "mushroom." The age of the island is not known, except that it was already old in 1540, when the first explorer visited it and wrote an account of its wonders.

A Good Talker.

"They say her conversational powers are immense."

"Is that so?"

"Yes, sir. They tell me that girl once talked clear through 'Parsifal.'"—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Where is the man who will pretend to call himself a philosopher and lay down no rules of duty?—Aristotle.

The Most Dangerous Fish.

The shark and the octopus are usually looked upon as the most dangerous among the denizens of the deep, but it appears that fishermen who frequent tropical waters have a much greater fear of the devilfish, the green moray and the swordfish. There seems to be unanimity of opinion that the shark and the octopus will not attack a boat, while the others which have been mentioned will. And, moreover, the attacks of the devilfish, the moray and the swordfish are a great deal more terrific than those of the shark and the octopus.

The devilfish is a large ray which infests the warm waters of the Atlantic. It attains a weight of a ton and a half, has horrible looking teeth and a barbed, poison holding spike in its tail which it uses with tremendous effect when it assails a party in a boat. The green moray is to be met with off the coast of Bermuda. It resembles a conger eli, but is green in color. The moray is reckoned the most savage inhabitant of any water.

The Year and the Calendar.

After Julius Caesar corrected the calendar the year was still 11 minutes 14 seconds too long, amounting to one day in 128 years. As the centuries passed the interval between the commencement of the year and the spring equinox grew less. It was not, however, until 1582 that anything was done about it. Then Pope Gregory XIII. set out to remedy the difficulty. This he did by directing the suppression of ten days outright. In order to provide for the future he ordered that all century years (1700, 1800, etc.) which would ordinarily be leap years should be common years unless they were multiples of 400. This arrangement, which still holds good, leaves only one day too much in 3,400 years. A French scientist has proposed dropping an additional day in the year 3,200 and repeating the process every 3,200 years. This would leave us short one day every 80,000 years, which may be considered correct enough for all practical purposes. At any rate, the matter is not pressing.—New York Post.

A TRUE STORY.

Material furnished by Rev Dunning of Tecumseh.

While fishing in Fifth lake north of Grand Rapids last summer Rev. J. Wirt Dunning hooked a large pickeral which escaped after a struggle when almost landed carrying a spoon hook with it. A few days ago some fisherman observed a fish floundering in the weeds on the edge of the lake. It was captured and in its jaws was found the spoon lost by Mr. Dunning, together with a small piece of the line. The spoon had become entangled in the weeds holding the fish fast. When weighed he tipped the scales at twenty pounds. The hook was identified by Mrs. Dunning's father to whom it belonged.

RUNAWAY.

Last Saturday night as Floyd Russell was returning home from Tecumseh, his horse became frightened at an automobile in front of the Presbyterian church and ran down Maiden Lane throwing the occupants out at the corner of Maiden Lane and Pottowatamie and breaking the buggy in pieces. Help was quickly summoned and it was found that the horse was badly injured. It was taken to a nearby barn and about three o'clock Mr. Russell's father drove in after him and they took the animal home. The automobile did not stop and made no pretense at stopping until the driver was compelled to do so by some of the men who were trying to quiet the horse. It is thought the parties are from Hudson, who had been here for Field day and had remained for the dance. They refused to give their names. The automobile was running at a furious rate and was not properly lighted. Mr, Russell was not injured except for a slight bruise on one ankle.

AT REST

After a Sickness of four Months B. J. GARLINGHOUSE Answered the Final Summons, Sunday Morning.

With heavy hearts we are obliged to chronicle the death of another one of our young business men. After a short illness of four months B. J. Garlinghouse died of tuberculosis on Sunday morning, May 24th at 4 o'clock. He leaves a wife formerly Miss Margaret Gray of Detroit, and two children, Burton and John besides two brothers Guerdon of this place and Burton, a twin brother of Jackson. The funeral services were held to-day at 3 o'clock from the house with his Masonic brotherin charge, Rev. Dunning officiating. His remains were laid at rest at Brookside.

MEMORIAL DAY

Will be Properly Observed in Tecumseh

SATURDAY, MAY 30

Hon. Dayton Morgan has Been Secured to Give the Address.

In response to a call from the Mayor and the comander of Beers Post, a number of citizen, with a few Grand Army men assembled at the Council room on Thursday evening of last week to make preliminary arrangements for the proper observance of Memorial Day at Tecumseh, on Saturday May 30th, next.

It was unanimously decided to prepare for an old fashioned, enthusiastic Decoration Day celebration, and with this end in view, assignments were made as follows:—

Orator—Hon. Dayton B. Morgan.

President—John H. Combs.

Marshall—Charles A. Bidwell.

Floral Committee—Mesdames A. W Mills, J. F. Hicks.

Geo S Tiffany, T. C. Harris, Eugene Harris;—also the officers of Beers Auxiliary, and all other patriotic ladies, willing to assist.

Committee on Program—J. D. Shull Flora Hartbeck, Nellie Mingay.

Committee Music—C. H. Tansley, H. W. Stevens, W. S. Dickenson.

Committee on Opera House—Geo. J. Keyser, A. S. VanWinkle, Committee to Decorate Opera House and Soldiers Monument—Lester Heesen, J. J. Belcher, James Henderson.

Committee to Decorate Soldiers Graves—Chas. E. Barry, Wm. Jordang H. E. Daniels.

Committee on Transportation—A VanValkenburg, Thomas Hanley.

The exercises at the opera house will begin at 2 o'clock p. m., standard time The Grand Army and the soldiers of the Spanish-American war will unite in the decoration, and commemorative features at the cemetery. Our citizens generally are urged; and the children of the public schools especially invited to take such part in the parade as will be enjoyable, and not tiresome to them. The village officers, the fire department, all civic societies and lodges more particularly the Uniformed Rank. K. P., will be most warmly welcomed nto the line. Soldiers of any war, whether members of Post or Camp or not, are invited to assemble at the G. A. R. rooms and join in commemoration of this sacred festival of the dead.

All persons who are willing to assist in gathering flowers will please take them to the corner room in the Mills Block at as early an hour as practicable Saturday forenoon. Ladies prepared to assist in arranging the floral decorations will kindly promptly report for work at the same place at the usual hour in the forenoon.

The opera house has been secured for the afternoon meeting, and enough progress made to warrant the statement that a fine program, both musical and literary will be presented. Full particulars in Fridays Herald. Let all good citizens unite in assisting to make this most beautiful of all our National holidays full of patriotic instruction.

AT BRIDGE.

Saturday afternoon Mrs. Albert De Forest Lawrence and Mrs. Percival Fitzsimons entertaind about fifty guests most delightfully at Bridge in honor of the bride, Mrs. Horace R. Brewer, who was most attractively gowned in pink chiffon and white lace The house was decorated in lilacs and fleur delis. The highest score of th afternoon was made by Mrs. Bawden and the consolation prize was won by Mrs. Lilley. The color scheme of the luncheon was pink and white. The guests from out of town were Mrs. Harry B. Root of Buffalo, Mrs. Matthew Root of Spokane, Mrs. Alonzo L Haight of Chicago, Mrs. J. Raynor Lilley of New York, and Mrs. Chas. V. Hicks of Alpena.

SIMPLE WASH CURES ECZEMA.

Great inventors often have been praised for surrendering the secrets of their discoveries. Practically the same thing happened in the medical world n the case of Dr. Decatur D. Dennis, the eminent skin specialist of Chicago.

Dr. Dennis, in his own office practice, dis covered that pure vegetable oil of wintergreen, properly mixed with other simple redmedies was practically a sure specific for Eczema, psoriasis, barber's itch salt rheum and other itching skin diseases. But the oil of wintergreen alone was found ineffective. It required other mild ingredients such as glycerine and thymol compounded with the wintergreen to produce the real eczema cure.

This compounded D. D. D. Prescription positively takes away the itch at once—the instant it is applied to the kin. This vegetable liquid noes away with deleterious drugs so long used in an attempt to doctor the blood, whereas modern science has determined that eczema is first and all the time a skin iseaae.

If you want to know more about the merits of D. D. D. Prescription, call at our store. We vouch for this remedy. B. J. Pulver, Tecumseh, Mich.

SYMPTOMS OF CATARRH.

Given by doctor who has treated thousands of cases.

A physician, who has made a life work of treating catarrhal troubles gives the following list of symptoms which indicate when catarrhal germs are present in the mucous membrane of the nose, throat, bronchial tubes, or tissues of the lungs:

Offensive breath, frequent sneezing dryness of the nose, pain across the eyes pain in back of the head, pain in front of the head, discharge from the nose stoppage of the nose at night, huskiness of voice, aching of the body, tendency to take cold, tickling in the throat, droppings in the throat, burning pain the throat, mouth open while sleeping hawking to clear the throat, tickling back of the palate, formation of crusts in the nose, dryness of the throat in the morning, a cough, pain in chest, stitch in side, losing in flesh, loss of strength, variable appetite, spasms of coughing, low spirited at times, cough short and hacking, raising of frothy mucous, expectorating yellow matter, cough worse night and mornings, difficulty in breathing, and loss in vital force.

Until the activity of the catarrhal germs is destroyed by using Hyomei, the syptoms cannot permanently disappear and you cannot expect to be relieved of catarrh. If you have any of the above symptoms, begin the use of Hyomei at once. It is the only treatment for catarrh that is sold by C. A. Wright & Son under an absolute guarantee to refund the money unless it cures.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Home of Swamp-Root.

Mrs. S. Joyce, 180 Sullivan Street, Claremont, N. H., writes: "About a year ago I bought two bottles of Foleys Kidney Cure. It cured me of a severe case of Kidney trouble of several years standing. It certainly is a grand, good medicne, and I heartily recommend it. For sale by all druggist.

DON'T WAIT.

When the back begins to ache,

Don't wait until the backache becomes chronic:

Till serious kidney troubles develope.

Wm. Witherell, living on Pottawatamie street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "In 1901 I gave a statement for publication recommending Doan's Kidney Pills and today I still hold the same high opinion of them. When I first used Doan's Kidney Pills I was troubled with severe pains across my back and hips and if I stooped sharp pains would dart through my body. At one time I was laid up in bed several days. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills, bought a box and received great benefit from the first such that I continued using them until they effected a cure. I am glad to say that the cure then made has proven permanent. I have recommended the Pills a number of times and will continue to do so."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States Remember the name Doan's,—and take no other.

Time flies so fast after you pass fifty that last year becomes yesterday.

Insist upon DeWitt's witch hazel salve. There are substitutes, but there is only one original. It is healing, soothing and cooling and is especially good for piles. Sold by all druggists.

A Californian's Luck.

"The luckiest day of my life was when I bought a box of Bucklen's arnica salve" writes Chas. Budahn of Tracy, Cal. "Two 25c boxes cured me of an annoying case of itching piles which had annoyed me for years and that yielded to no other treatment." Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

Photographers to Meet In Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., May 25.—The Photographic Association of America is to hold its annual convention here July 14-17. Both armories have been secured for the occasion, and the exhibitions will be on an elaborate scale. Between 1,200 and 1,500 photographers from all parts of America will be on hand with their work.

All Records Are Broken.

Washington, May 25.—Although the figure on the total appropriation for the present session of congress are incomplete, from careful estimates the indications are that they will exceed $1,020,000,000. This is just $100,000,000 in excess of any previous session. The largest increases over previous years are found in the postoffice, pension, naval and army appropriation bills.

RIVERS ON RAMPAGE.

Oklahoma Experiences Heavy Rains and Floods.

Muskogee, Okla., May 25.—Not a railroad in Oklahoma is in operation as a result of heavy rains and cloud bursts that have occurred in various parts of the state during the past three days. The last road to suspend operations was the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, which was forced to quit when the bridge on the main line at Eufaula went down.

To add to the disaster, the main supplying natural gas to the Indian territory part of the state was carried away with the Clarksville bridge, and the supply of gas for Muskogee and several other cities in the southeast part of the state has been entirely cut off. Officials of the gas company say it will be a week before repairs can be made. As natural gas is used for light and heat, business will be suspended in a measure. Elevators have been forced to stop running, and hotels and restaurants have practically been put out of business.

The Canadian river has risen ten feet during the past twelve hours and the Arkansas river has risen eight feet. The entire country is under water.

A message has been received at the Midland Valley railroad offices here from Jenks, Okla., saying that the town is under water and that help is needed. The railroad is powerless to send aid, as much track and a bridge went out. Jenks is fifty-three miles north of Muskogee and is located in extremely low country. It is feared that a number of persons have perished.

Blame

No One But Yourself if You Don't Get Well When Sick.

All we can do is give advice.

Of course that's easy.

But our advice is really worth a little more to you than most people's, for we offer to give you the first bottle of our medicine free, if it fails to help you

We could not afford to do this unless our medicine was good. Such an offer, on the wrong kind of medicine, would put a merchant prince in the poor house.

Dr. Miles' Nervine, however, as years of experience have proved, is a medicine that cures the sick.

Those whom it cannot benefit—less than one in ten thousand—we prefer to refund their money.

All we ask of you is to try Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine for your complaint. If you suffer from sleeplessness, nervous exhaustion, dizziness, headache, muscular twitchings, melancholy, loss of memory, weak stomach, poor blood, bilious troubles, epilepsy, St. Vitus' Dance, etc., we will guarantee to benefit you or refund your money.

You are the doctor.

Amorous Youth Goes to Jail.

Marshall, Mich., May 25.—Because of his amorous disposition, Bert Eby, aged eighteen, of Lee township, will spend the next ten days in jail. Alma Sunberg, aged sixteen years, alleged that while on this way home from the district school, Bert threw her down in the road, sat on her and kissed her, amid the shouts and jeers of the other pupils. Bert was convicted of assault and battery.

Approximately $5,000,000 is the estimate of the cost of coal consumed by the Atlantic battleship fleet when it will have finished its cruise around the world. The estimate of the cost of coal necessary to move the fleet from San Francisco to Hampton Roads by way of Honolulu, Manila and the Suez canal has been reported by the chief of the bureau of equipment as amounting to $4,039,000.

The Pain of It.

"I wouldn't have minded being whipped so much," said the young culprit, "if the teacher hadn't said that my punishment hurt him more than it did me."

"That oughtn't to make you feel any worse."

"Well, it did. What he punished me for was telling stories."

EVELYN IS INDIGNANT.

Thaw's Pretty Wife Complains of Treatment Received.

HIS RELATIVES INSINCERE.

She Declares Proceedings For Annulment of Marriage Were Begun at Behest of Family—Has Proof in Writing to This Effect.

New York, May 28.—That the relations between Evelyn Nesbit Thaw and her husband's family are greatly strained is made apparent by the issuing of a statement by her vigorously assailing "the insincere attitude assumed toward her by Mr. Thaw's relatives since the beginning of his trouble."

The statement followed an exchange of formal statements between Mrs. Thaw and Franklin Bartlett, counsel for Harry K. Thaw's mother, which were furnished after the discontinuance Tuesday of the proceedings which young Mrs. Thaw began for annulment of her marriage. She declared at that time that she had practically been forced to begin the action by pressure exerted by her husband's relatives, and that she withdrew her suit because she believed her husband in his present predicament merited her loyalty.

A little later Mr. Bartlett, acting for Mrs. William Thaw, made a statement in which he declared emphatically that neither he nor any of Thaw's relatives had anything whatever to do with the institution of the annulment proceedings. He said Mrs. William Thaw desired that Evelyn Thaw be treated not only fairly, but generously, and that at the present time she was being given an allowance of $1,000 a month. Mrs. Evelyn Thaw's reply to that statement is as follows:

"In answer to the threatening and insulting statement issued by Colonel Bartlett, in the name of Mrs. William Thaw, Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw has this to say, that the statement is in keeping with the insincere attitude assumed toward her by Mr. Thaw's relatives since the beginning of his troubles.

"Daniel O'Reilly now reiterates that the annulment proceedings were begun at the behest, persuasion and solicitation of Colonel Bartlett and A. Russell Peabody, representing the Thaw family, and so that the question may not be discussed further, I have in my possession the undeniable proof in the handwriting of a member of the family, and that there is so much proof is known to Colonel Bartlett and A. Russell Peabody. Mrs. Thaw deprecates a newspaper controversy, but will resent as long as she is able such an attack as was contained in the interview issued by Colonel Bartlett last night.

"There is a place for the proper adjustment of Mr. Thaw's family affairs, but that place is not in the columns of the daily press, notwithstanding that the counsel who are harrassing her have, at the least provocation, sought to air their views at her expense through this channel. This may be one of the many methods to influence her husband so that he may be more pliable to their desires."

Admiral Crowninshield is Dead.

Philadelphia, May 28.—Admiral A. S. Crowninshield, U. S. N., retired, is dead in the Episcopal hospital here. He had been at the hospital for about a month, and an operation was performed on him for an affliction of the nose. He never fully recovered from the shock. The immediate cause of death, however, was hardening of the tissues of the body. Mrs. Crowninshield was at the admiral's bedside when he died. The remains will be interred in Arlington cemetery at Washington.

LIKE ACTUAL WARFARE

Enormous Projectile Hurled at Monitor Florida.

AN IMPORTANT EXPERIMENT.

Naval Officials Pleased Over Results. Little Craft Was by No Means Put Out of Business—Battleship Arkansas Did the Shooting.

Old Point Comfort, Va., May 28.—The biggest naval gun, the heaviest projectile and the highest explosive known, combined with close range and deadly aim, have been allowed to work their full havoc on the turret plate of the monitor Florida, in an experiment off the coast here. The result is declared to be a victory for turret construction, and this, notwithstanding the eleven-inch hardened steel plate, was blackened, broken, the seams of the turret sprung and the rivets and screws loosened and twisted.

It was not five minutes after the terrible impact that the finely balanced mechanism of the turret was being worked with perfect ease and the twelve-inch gun of the left side trained at will. Inside the turret, where stood the gunners and gun crew, the havoc was much less apparent than from the outside. Examination showed that of the many delicately adjusted instruments for fire control, sighting and operating the turret, few, if any, were out of working order.

"If this had happened in battle, the Florida would be fighting yet," said one of the rear admirals, with enthusiasm.

Then followed a futile attempt to destroy the newly designed fighting mast erected on the stern of the Florida. After five shots from the big guns had gone ripping through it, the mast still stood firm.

"Forty shots would not bring it down, and no enemy would waste ammunition and time shooting at it," was the expert comment.

It was predicted that all new ships will be equipped with battle masts of this design.

The "shooting up" of the Florida was an event in which the keen edge of expectation was not dulled by the realization. Rear admirals and brigadier generals, together with their juniors, saw the experiment. The battleship Arkansas did the shooting, the distance being 342 yards.

SEVENTEEN DROWN.

Ocean Liner Runs Down Fishing Schooner.

Yarmouth, N. S., May 28.—The Boston fishing schooner Fame was run down and sunk on Chaspes bank at night by the Dominion-Atlantic line steamer Boston, and seventeen of the schooner's crew of nineteen men were lost.

The collision happened in a fog. The Boston, which was bound from Boston for Yarmouth, was proceeding at low speed, whistle blowing constantly. Nothing was heard or seen of any vessel until the Boston smashed into the Fame. The sharp prow of the steamer sliced the stern off the schooner, and she sank in three minutes.

The Boston was stopped, and a boat was immediately lowered, but it capsized. Two more were sent off within a few minutes. One of them found the cook floating about supported by a lifebelt. Another survivor was swimming in the wreckage and was hauled on board the lifeboat in an exhausted condition. The lifeboats maneuvered about for an hour without finding others of the schooner's crew.

No Fees For Witnesses.

Kalamazoo, Mich., May 28.—County Clerk Vosburg has sent out eighteen subpoenaes for the witnesses in the so-called "sausage cases" to the state dairy and food department bearing this indorsement, "Officers' and witness fees will not be paid by the county of Kalamazoo." This was done in accordance with instructions handed down by Judge Adams. The latter declared that his decision in the matter had been misconstrued. He said that he did not rule on the question whether the county or the state was obliged to pay the fees of the witnesses, but that he held the matter in abeyance, simply directing the county clerk to issue subpoenaes with the indorsement that the county refused to pay the fees.

Falling Timber Kills Two.

Calumet, Mich., May 28.—A piece of timber fell from a car in a shaft of the Calumet & Hecla mine and struck two Italians working 2,000 feet below, killing them instantly. They were Peter Cicotte and Peter Guglielmo, employed as trammers.

HE REFUTES ANNIE.

Detroit's Sensational Case Receives Sudden Jolt.

HIBBLER MAKES A DENIAL.

Prominent Men, Including Former Mayor, Police Commissioner and Others, Drawn Into Affair—Justice Jeffries to Testify.

Detroit, Mich., May 28.—Annie Smith's story of graft, implicating high police officials and some not quite as high or prominent, received a complete denial Wednesday afternoon from Frank D. Hibbler, a man whom Annie charged with accepting $500 from her in three installments, the money to be used in giving her police protection, according to her accusations.

Hibbler took the stand in his own behalf. He admitted taking money from the Smith woman. He recalled various amounts, but these were all for cigars, tobacco or a piano, which he sold to her, according to Hibbler's story. And he said the Delray resort keeper still owed him $200, for which he held her note.

Anna Lavard, a much sought woman witness, also appeared in court and took the witness stand. This is the girl who Annie Smith said was in her place as an inmate of her resort and who she said was in the hall of the house on the night she claimed Smith and Hibbler visited her. Annie said the Lavard woman was stopped by Smith in the hall and that Smith talked to her.

On the stand, under oath, the Lavard girl said she never saw the commissioner of police in the Delray resort. She denied that she knew what he looked like until she met him at police headquarters on Tuesday.

Smith's Defense.

Part of Commissioner Smith's defense will be in the form of an affidavit from Emma Meyers, a former inmate of Annie Smith's place. The affidavit is to the effect that Annie Smith asked the Meyers woman to swear that the police commissioner was in the Delray resort on a certain night, so that Smith could be put out of business and a new commissioner appointed who would not disturb her. Annie denies that she ever made the remark.

Justice Edward J. Jeffries was summoned to appear in court today as a witness. It was Jeffries' grand jury investigation which first stirred up the Annie Smith affair. Police Commissioner Smith will take the stand today, and Captain Newberry will do the same thing.

Ex-Mayor George P. Codd testified that, in a way, he contributed toward a punch bowl that was presented to Commissioner Smith, and which the Smith woman said was given to the police commissioner by herself. Codd cancelled a debt that he had charged against Hibbler for some legal service he rendered Hibbler.

Arguments will be presented in the case. Justice Stein stated that he would have no objection. It was stated previously that arguments would be made unless the court ruled otherwise. These will probably take an entire day, and it is not likely that the case will end before Friday evening.

Had Remarkable Career.

St. Louis, May 28.—After having served as errand man for a candy firm for forty years, Jacob Gross, seventy years old, who during his years of service was never known to wear a hat, is dead of heart disease. Several years ago the firm told Gross that his wages would be increased, but he refused the increase.

Suspects Set Free.

Flint, Mich., May 28.—Sheriff Zimmerman arrested five tramps as suspects in connection with the finding of the mangled body of Edward White on the Michigan Central tracks near Rochester. It was believed the men were some who had been seen near the scene of the tragedy. The Oakland county sheriff came to Flint and, being unable to identify the men or produce any other evidence against them, they were released.

Ride on Handcar Causes Death.

Temperance, Mich., May 28.—Henry Grant, sixty-five years old, an old resident of this place and a veteran of the civil war, dropped dead from over exertion. Mr. Grant lived north of town, and after finishing work came to town on a handcar. The exertion of pumping the car was too much for his weakened heart. He fell and dropped dead almost immediately after leaving it. He formerly lived in Plymouth and Redford.

TORNADO IN WEST.

Ten Persons Killed in Alfalfa County, Oklahoma.

Guthrie, Okla., 28.—Ten persons were killed in a tornado which swept through Alfalfa county near Ashby. The storm started in Woods county and swept a path half a mile wide through Alfalfa county for several miles. Everything in the path of the storm was swept away. The storm had sufficient force to pull well pumps out and to break the bones in bodies of livestock. Four of the dead are: Peter Rudy, his wife and their daughter and son.

Mrs. Frank Ice and daughter, and Mrs. Parker and baby, near Ingersoll, Okla., were injured. Several other persons sustained bruises.

Hogs Find Bones on Gunness Farm.

Laporte, Ind., May 28.—Hogs, wallowing in the lowlands just below the private cemetery of Mrs. Bella Gunness, brought to the surface two human bones. One was from an arm and the other from a leg. The hogs dragged the bones around the hog yard for some time before the find became known. As a result, Sheriff Smutzer will begin turning the surface of the hog run and dragging the pond which borders on it. Coroner Mack has sent to Dr. Walter Haines of Rush Medical college, Chicago, the stomachs of Mrs. Gunness and two of her children and of Andrew Helgelein for chemical analysis for possible traces of poison.

Car Kills Nurse.

Wayne, Mich., May 28.—Maude Berthiaune, a night nurse at the county house, was struck and instantly killed by an interurban car at Hammond's road, near the asylum. The woman was waiting to take a car to Detroit, and it is surmised that she became confused and stepped in front of the car. Her home is in Au Sable.

IN WASHINGTON

Tentative Draft of Republican National Platform Will Be Prepared.

Washington, May 28.—At least a tentative draft of the Republican national platform will be prepared in Washington. Already arrangements are making for conferences on the subject. The liklihood is that the conferences will be held here next week, and that by the time the delegates to the convention turn their faces toward Chicago, the declaration of principles will have been whipped into shape and tucked away in the inside pocket of a prospective member of the committee on resolutions.

Participating in the platform conferences will be President Roosevelt, Secretary Taft, leading Republicans in both branches of congress and others who will probably take a conspicuous part in the convention and subsequent campaign.

It is expected that Wade H. Ellis, attorney general of Ohio, who is one of the delegates at large from that state, will have a part in the preparation of the platform. He drew the tariff revision plank of the platform adopted by the Republicans of Ohio at their state convention, and it is anticipated that a somewhat similar declaration respecting the tariff will be adopted at Chicago.

Beyond informal discussion of the subjects to be treated in the platform, nothing yet has been done in a definite way in its preparation.

Counting Votes For Hearst.

New York, May 28.—The actual recounting of the ballots cast for W. R. Hearst and George B. McClellan for mayor in the last election for that office in this city in November, 1905, has begun, after a delay of more than two years. The contents of two ballot boxes have been counted in the presence of a justice of the supreme court and resulted in a net gain by W. R. Hearst of twenty-seven votes in the two precincts the votes of which were counted. There are 1,940 precincts in the greater city. Mayor McClellan's plurality over Mr. Hearst in the original count was 3,478. The votes in one of the boxes counted, which showed a net gain of fifteen votes for Mr. Hearst, had been the subject of a complaint before the grand jury.

McGregor Re-Elected Grand Tyler.

Jackson, Mich., May 28.—James S. McGregor of Detroit was re-elected grand tyler of the Michigan Grand Lodge of Masons for the fourteenth time, at the election held at the annual convention here Wednesday. Other officers elected were: Grand master, Herbert Montague, Traverse City; deputy grand master, Arthur M. Hume, Owosso; senior grand warden, G. Roscoe Swift, Adrian; junior grand warden, James E. Dillon, East Tawas; grand treasurer, William Wente, Manistee; grand secretary, Louis B. Winsor, Reed City; grand lecturer, F. O. Gilbert Bay City; grand chaplain, W. G. Gallagher, Saginaw; senior grand deacon, James H. Thompson, Evart; junior grand deacon, Francis D. Clark, Flint.

A great many people imagine they have heart trouble when the fact is that the whole trouble lies in the stomach. The pains in the side around the region of the heart are not necessarily heart trouble. We suggest that you start with the stomach and whenever you feel a depression after eating or whenever your food seems to nauseate take Kodol. It will not be very long until all these "heart pains" will disappear. Take Kodol now and until you know you are right again. Their isn't any doubt about what it will do and you will find the truth of this statment verified after you have used Kodol for a few weeks. It is sold by all druggists.

A Story For ...A Bride.

(Original.)

"Now, my dear Chrystine, I wish on the eve of your marriage to impress one fact upon you. You are to manage your husband. A wife who is incapable of managing her husband is not fit to have one. A man's nature is no more like a woman's than an alligator is like a bird of paradise. Civilization, the family circle, all that is above the brute creation forces him to be satisfied with one woman. Ours is the best type of union between the sexes, but it is not the only type. Polygamy has always existed and may always exist."

"Oh, mother! You frighten me. What are you going to say to me?"

"This, that you have a man to hold whose nature it is to fly away from you. On you will depend whether marriage is a failure, whether your family remains a unit or is eventually broken up."

"And nothing depends on Dick?"

"A great deal depends on Dick, but he has the nature of a man to fight against, and nature is liable to get the better of us all. A married man is like a canoe in the rapids. His wife is the pilot. She must guide him between the rocks. But enough of this preface. I will tell you a story to illustrate what I say, a personal experience I once had with your own father."

"Father!"

"Yes, your father is a man. If he were not I would not love him, though we have long ago passed the matrimonial rapids and are paddling in calm waters. It was six years after our marriage. Roy and Millie and you had all been born and we were a united and happy family. Your father and I were in society, and one season I went out so much that I engaged a hairdresser to come every evening before dinner and dress my hair. She was very pretty, with pink cheeks and blue eyes. Usually father would find her dressing my hair when he came home from business and upstairs to kiss me and you children. I would be sitting before the dresser, where I could see myself reflected in the mirror and watch the girl as she proceeded with my hair. Father would come and kiss me and then go and have a romp with you children. At 7 o'clock he and I would dine, and you little tots would be put to bed by your nurse, and father and I would go out either to the opera or some social function.

"One afternoon while I was sitting before the mirror having my hair done I heard father put his latchkey in the door, take off his hat and coat in the hall and came upstairs. I was happy, as usual, at seeing him again after a day's separation and that the hour I enjoyed most at home was about to begin. He came into the room behind me, but I could see his reflection in the mirror. The hairdresser turned toward him and—they forgot the mirror."

"That look froze the blood in my veins. Your father came up to me and kissed me as usual. By an effort I controlled myself, and he did not know what I had seen. I must have time to consider. My first and second thoughts were simultaneous—they were for myself and the family. On me depended whether we should fly apart or be the happy circle we are today. Never before or since have so many dreadful possibilities crowded upon my mind. I saw you children suffering under the loss of divorced parents, perhaps your father married to the hairdresser. I nerved myself for a great effort."

"Go on, mother; go on! What did you do?"

"Nothing then—nothing for several days. No one could see the slightest change in me, though I suffered agony, but one day when I heard father open the hall door I jumped up from my seat and told the hairdresser to sit in my place. Then I turned the gas a trifle lower. When father came into the room I turned and smiled at him. In the dimmer light he did not recognize me and, going up to the girl in the chair, was about to kiss her when I burst into a merry laugh. He looked from her to me and from me to her, then went out of the room."

"To think father should ever have done such a thing! Why have you told me this?"

"Listen. Father didn't go in and play with you children as usual. He went to his own room. We were to go out in the evening, and I supposed he was getting into evening dress, but when he came down to dinner he had not changed his business suit. I chatted with him gayly, but he looked very much crestfallen. At the end of the dinner, when there was nothing more to be brought in and we were free from intrusion by the servants, he looked at me and said:

"'Wife, you're a great big blooming brick!'

"I wanted to give vent to my feelings in a flood of tears, but controlled myself.

"'Can't you get some one else to dress your hair and let that young woman go?' he added.

"I saw that my work was done, and I could stand the strain no longer. I put my hands to my face, and the tears came all at once. Then I felt his arms about me, and I knew that I had saved him, myself, all of us. Never from that day to this have I had cause for jealousy."

"Mother, dear, after all, I'm glad you told me. Your story shall be my guide throughout my whole married life."

Buy Hair at Auction?

At any rate, you seem to be getting rid of it on auction-sale principles: "going, going, g-o-n-e!" Stop the auction with Ayer's Hair Vigor. It certainly checks falling hair; no mistake about this. It acts as a regular medicine; makes the scalp healthy. Then you must have healthy hair, for it's nature's way.

HAD TWO MORE PLATES.

And Felt They Saved the Honor of the American Navy.

Every graduating class at Annapolis leaves behind it the fame of certain heroes in the line of physical prowess or mental endeavor. One of these heroes was George Dewey, a fine, manly, athletic youth, the pride of the boxing and fencing masters and the terror of all bullies.

In Dewey's class was a youth of an excellent bent for applied mathematics, but so tender of physique that he often suffered from the rough horseplay of his elders. Dewey took the boy under his protection, and the two became fast friends. They swung their hammocks in the same watch on their graduating cruise and when the ship touched at Liverpool obtained permission to run up to London on a day's leave. By rigid economy the two had scraped together a little more than £2 apiece, and they landed in the English capital arrayed in spick and span new uniforms. A round of sightseeing had reduced their combined capital to 2 sovereigns and their return tickets when their boyish appetites announced the hour of noon.

With the cautious economy of his ancestors the Scotsman suggested a chophouse, but nothing but the best would suit Dewey, and he accordingly steered his chum into the finest hotel he could find.

The two seated themselves at one of the tables and scanned the menu with a magnificent air. The first item that caught their eyes was strawberries and cream, and this, with its reminiscence of home, they proceeded to order.

Now, the time was winter, and strawberries from the hothouse are expensive in London, so it was small wonder that the other guests who had learned the order looked inquiringly at these specimens of the jeunesse dorée of the American navy. An Oxford lad who sat next them seemed particularly impressed and turned his large eyes upon them with awe. The strawberries were good, and all went well until the obsequious waiter returned with a bill for £1. The Scotsman nearly collapsed, but Dewey noticed the eyes of the Oxonian upon him and, turning superbly to the waiter, ordered two more plates.

DOCTOR USES D. D. D. IN HIS PRACTICE.

Still another Eczema specialist comes forward in enthusiastic praise of D. D. D Prescription, the wonderful external remedy which cures Eczema and other similar diseases like magic. He is Dr. C. B. Holmes of Silver City, Miss., and in summing up his impressions of the startling cures D. D. D. has effected, he says:

"I have been using your D. D. D. for four years with gratifying results. 'TIS AS NEAR A SPECIFIC FOR HERPES, ECZEMA, PSORIASIS, ETC., AS IS QUININE FOR MALARIA."

Dr. Holmes is one of hundreds of physicians who use D. D. D. in their daily pratice. The D. D. D. company allows physicians to use this remedy with the understanding that they tell their patients what it was that cured them when the terrible itch had been wiped out, the skin healed and the raw wound covered over with soft white skin. D. D. D. is not a nasty paste to smear the skin and clothing, but it is a clear liquid. It is advisable to use D. D. D. soap in connection with D. D. D Prescription

Is any further proof of the curative powers of D. D. D. Prescription necessary? That remedy is sold at C. A. WRIGHT & SON'S. Come in and let us show you convincing proof that D. D. D will cure your skin disease. Even if you have not decided to use D. D. D. remedy come in and explain your case anyway.

CHURCH AFFAIRS

WORK BEING DONE IN OUR CHURCHES.

What is accomplished through the Social Life.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The mission society had charge of the program at the midweek service and gave a very interesting Missonary program on "The Phillipines."

Sunday morning the pastor will exchange pulpits with Rev. Ashby of the Congregational church in Clinton and will address the men's class of that place.

The pastor is planning a special service in the interests of the older members of the church at which time all over 70 years of age will be especially remembered.

Four of the girls of the church have been appointed to arrange for flowers at the church each Sabbath morning. If any have flowers bring them five minutes before the last bell.

Presbyterian church, John Wirt Dunning, minister. In the morning Rev. Ashby of Clinton will preach. Bible School at 11:15. Men's class, subject, "Socialism". Leader, J. H. Smith. Young Peoples' meeting at 6 p. m. Subject, "John G. Paton's work in New Hebrides", illustrated by stereoptican pictures. In the evening the pastor will preach on "Lessons of the Trees". Special music.

The Lenawee county S. S. association will hold a Sunday school institute at the Presbyterian church, Tecumseh, June 4th, afternoon and evening. Mr. E. C. Knapp, a Sunday school specialist of national reputation at present assistant pastor of Union Park church, Chicago and an instructor in S. S. administration in Chicago Seminary, will be present. All those interested in this work will do well to avail themselves of this opportunity to have their puzzling questions regarding S. S. work answered and at the same time receive the inspiration which such workers will impart. Remember the date.

The first annual boys banquet was held in the church last evening. About 35 of the boys were present. The tables were prettily decorated with American flags and the boys sat down to a menu as follows:

Vegetable soup, pickles, scalloped potatoes, ham, jellies, bread, salad, ice cream, cakes, fruit, lemonade, candy. Speeches were made at the close and the meeting broke up early in the evening. Those present were—

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

The Memorial service at our church last Sunday morning for translated workers in our Zion was well attended and deep interest was manifested throughout the service. The auditorium of the church was appropriately decorated with potted plants and a profusion of cut flowers. The choir rendered several choice selections in their usual beautiful and effective manner. There was quite a number of out of town relatives and friends of deceased members in attendance on the service, who were most heartily welcomed back in the old "home church" by the pastor and members of the society at the close of the service. The reading of the roster of our dead quickened many tender memories and served to bring all nearer in spirit to the Eternal Home where the sorrow of parting will never come.

Morning worship, 10 a. m., Universalist church, Rev. Blanche Young, minister. Sunday school at noon. Young Peoples' C. U. at 6 o'clock, Mrs. Ethel Mathias, leader. Subject of the evening discourse—The Teaching of Our Church in Reference to Amusements. Bible study, Thursday evening at 7 o'clock at Miss McNeil's. Special music by full quartette choir.

The many friends of Leon McNeil, late of Carey, O., will be glad to learn that he has accepted a fine position as manager of the Enterprise printing office in the beautiful and thriving little city of New Caledonia, near Cincinnati and has moved his family there.

With deep joy we welcomed back into our church circle once more Mr. and Mrs. John Van Vleet formerly of this place but at present residing on their farm just west of Ridgeway.

Homer Bickford and Miss Ada Watkins came over from Adrian to attend the Memorial service.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Chas. Snedicor is taking the school census.

Mrs L. Smith of Onsted, is being entertained by her nephew, Albert Howard and wife.

Rev. Kamm, Mrs. A. C. Bryan, and Miss Effie Yawger are delegates to the association at Rollin.

The church and S. S. gave Miss Fern Stringham a miscellaneous shower at the church parlors last evening.

At the Baptist church all are invited to attend the prayer circle held in Dr. North's class room at 9:45 a. m.

Chaplain White, who came here last week to attend the 31st reunion, is a Baptist. For some years he was pastor of the First church at Jackson but is now engaged in evangelistic work.

Morning worship at 10 o'clock. Subject of the sermon "The Power of the Holy Spirit". Bible study at 11:15 a. m. B. Y. P. U. prayer meeting at 6 p. m. Evening service at 7 o'clock, theme—"The Resisting Life."

At the prayer meeting Wednesday evening, the clerk, Dr. Stienhoff, read the church letter to be sent to our association which meets June 3rd and 4th at Rollin, Mich. The letter was very encouraging showing a marked increase in all departments of church work.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Services next Sunday morning in their usual order. Children's service at 3. p. m. and class meeting at 5:30.

At a meeting of the Sunday school board held last Tuesday evening a constitution and by-laws were adopted for the governing of the school.

In place of the regular Epworth League service and preaching the E. L. will hold a special service at 6 o'clock in which the following program will be observed:

Hymn, 416.
Apostles Creed.
Prayer.
Anthem by the choir.
Scripture, responsive.
Hymn, 386
Reception of new members.
Anthem by choir.
Installation of officers.
Response by new president.
Solo, Ellsworth Ellis.
Address, Prof. W. H Pearce, Adrian.
Hymn 332
Epworth League benediction.
All are welcome.

FRIENDS CHURCH.

Plans were made for organizing a Bible class and music and refreshments were enjoyed.

Miss Helen Taylor of Denver, Col., spoke at the Wednesday evening service. Miss Taylor is going to Korea this fall as a missionary.

Preaching at the Friends church Sunday morning at 10 a. m. Bible school immediately following Junior C. E. at 8 o'clock. Young peoples meeting at 6 Mrs. Emma Wonder, leader. Evangelistic service at 7. All welcome.

The subject of the C E. next Sunday evening is Work in Alaska. Mrs Wonder is leader and we expect an interesting meeting. Be sure and come.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Vestryman Hayden and family spent Wednesday in Toledo.

The parish meeting was postponed again last Tuesday. As yet another date has not been set.

Members of Misses Combs' and Kaiser's classes in Sunday school have received silver crosses as a reward for attendance.

Members of the choir are especially urged to attend choir practice Friday night as arrangements have been made for special music Sunday.

Episcopal church, C. C. Kemp rector. Service Sunday at 4 p. m. Sunday school at 11:30. Mid-week service Friday night at 7 o'clock followed by choir practice.

M. G. Stewart, a merchant of Cedar View, Miss., says: "I tell my customers when they buy a box of Dr. King's new life pills they get the worth of that much gold in weight if afflicted with constipation, malaria or billiousness." Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

MAY PARTY

WHITMIRE'S ORCHESTRA

Of Ypsilanti, furnished the music.

The annual May party given at Witherell Hall last Tuesday evening was the largest and one of the most delightful social functions ever given by the young ladies of Tecumseh. The arrangements were all perfect in detail. The hall presented an animated scene when Whitmire's orchestra of Ypsilanti opened the ball, thirty-nine couples being in attendance.

The young ladies planned the decorations, which were suggestive of summertime, being entirely of maple leaves and palms, the former being used in profusion. The reception halls were made pretty and home like by the use of divans, couches and sofa pillows. Cosy corners also, formed no small part of the pretty decorations.

The program consisted of twenty dances, and a number of extras, the orchestra making a hit in several of their selections. Among them was the Train Ride, and the waltz, Are You Sincere, which was sung with great success by the entire orchestra. The young people were wildly enthusiastic over the music and thoroughly appreciative.

Mr. Whitmire is a thorough musician having been director of a large orchestra for some time. Tuesday was his first visit to Tecumseh for several years, but the exquisite music of the orchestra assures the young ladies interested in making the party a success, that another visit from Mr. Whitmire and his musicians, would guarantee a much larger patronage of the party.

A two course supper was served by the ladies of the Rebekah lodge, in the dining room of the Odd Fellow hall, at eleven o'clock. Among those from out of town who attended the party were Misses May Kopke of Holloway; Imo Avery, Macon; Ethel Ames, Bay City; Hazel Exelby, Britton; Geraldine Heesen, Toledo; Edith Shull of Ann Arbor; Messrs. Frank Camburn of Ann Arbor; Earl Babcock, Ypsilanti; Eugene Krapp, Flint; Edward Clement and Eugene Cook of Adrian and Wylie Van Gelson of Clinton.

Memorial Day in Tecumseh Saturday May 30th.

For the appropriate observances of this Holy day in the national calender a majority of our merchants will close their places of business from 2 to 4 p. m.

Citizens generally, and especially along the line of march, are requested to display the national colors.

Promptly at 2 o'clock standard time, all organizations and citizens participating will assemble at the Opera house, where will be rendered the following program;

Music—Tecumseh band.
Introduction—Hon. John H. Combs
Invocation—Rev. F. W. Kamm.
Music—Glee club and Orchestra.
Lincoln's Gettysburg speech—Dwight Clarkson.
Chorus—Sixth grade Tecumseh school
Recitation—Miss Nellie Mingay.
Girls quartette Tecumseh school.
Oration—Hon. Dayton H Morgan.
America—Led by H. W. Stevens
Procession to cemetery, directed by marshall, Charles A. Bidwell, and aided by Tecumseh band.
Decoration of soldiers graves.
Dirge—Tecumseh band.
Taps—Parade dismissed.

Tecumseh has in the past few months lost by death five of her prominent business people. The first was Mrs. M. A. Freeman, followed by the deaths of Calvin Hitesbu, of the Harris & Hitesbu dry goods firm; George N. Stacy, editor of the Tecumseh Herald; John Anderson, a member of the Anderson & Rosacrans dry goods firm, and on Sunday occurred the death of B. J. Garlinghouse, manager of the Tecumseh telephone office. All of these people were prominent and respected citizens of that village and were always in the welfare of Tecumseh and its people.—Adrian Times.

MORE TRAINS

New time table goes into effect

SUNDAY, MAY 31ST

On the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern.

On Sunday May 31st the Lake Shore Railway company will put back into service the trains that were taken off last fall and will also make an improvement over the old service.

The Sunday train will leave Tecumseh for Detroit at 8:29 arriving in Detroit at 11:05. Returning train leaves Detroit at 6:30 arriving in Tecumseh at 9:30. This train runs solid between Jackson and Detroit. Connections can be made at Lenawee Junction for Toledo and Adrian, arriving in Toledo at 9:50 and in Adrian at 9:00.

Trains north due in Tecumseh at 8:57 a. m. and south due at Tecumseh at 9:30 p. m. will be daily trains.

The Dundee run will be made between Dundee and Addison instead of Dundee and Tecumseh making two round trips daily.

Sunday service will be resumed between Toledo and Addison the same as last year.

Mrs. Laura Mathias.

Mrs. Laura A. Mathias of Brooklyn, died last Saturday of heart trouble, aged 67 years. Her maiden name was Laura Taylor and she was born in Rome township. In 1866 she married Reuben R. Mathias in Tecumseh, residing near here for five years. Five children were born to them, all of whom are living. Mr. Mathias was accidently drowned July 4, 1889, in a small lake near their home. Mrs. Mathias' funeral was held from the house last Monday. Interment at Cambridge cemetery.

B. J. GARLINGHOUSE.

Died, at his home in this village last Sunday morning, Benson J. Garlinghouse, after an illness of four months. He was born in Raisin township Aug. 11, 1860, residing on the farm with his parents until February 1886. At this time he associated with Charles F. Patterson and leased the Hotel Lilley, continuing in the business until May 1889. He then purchased an interest in the Tecumseh Electric Light Co. and managed the business for two years at which time he sold out and engaged in the livery business until March 1899.

On Nov. 26, 1895 he was married to Miss Margaret Grey of Detroit, their married life having lasted 12 years and 6 months the day he was buried. He leaves two children, Burton, aged 9 and John, aged 5 years and his brothers, Burton and Guerdon.

In 1901 he purchased an interest in the Tecumseh Telephone Co. and served them as president and manager since that time. Mr. Garlinghouse was twice elected supervisor of Tecumseh township and four times assessor and resigned the office in April on account of failing health. He has held other offices of public trust and his nomination always meant election as he was never defeated. He always had associated with him in business his twin brother, Burton.

Big hearted, generous Ben Garlinghouse, who was noted for performing little acts of kindness to his friends and for his kind consideration of his help. We shall all miss his kindly smile and friendly greeting; we will long in vain to hear the ring of his jovial laugh and feel again his genial presence.

None but those who have sat in the shadow of a great bereavement can justly weigh such a sorrow as this. Those who have gone down into the valley of suffering and stood for months by the side of a loved one as hope after hope dropped away as the petals fall from a fading flower, know that such anguish cannot find solace in the tenderest words. Ben's home life was extremely happy. He was tender and considerate of wife and children.

The funeral was held from the house at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, the Masons of which order he was a member had charge of the services, Rev. Dunning officiating. The remains were laid at rest at Brookside. There was a profusion of flowers from clubs of which both he and Mrs. Garlinghouse were members and from friends. Among the floral pieces were very handsome pieces from the Masons, Mystic Shriners of Detroit, Eastern Star and Knights of Pythias.

Among those from away who attended the funeral were, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Gray of Birmingham; D. M. Gray, Alex Gray, Adam Gray, Detroit; Geo. Benedict, Portland; Mr. and Mrs. John Garlinghouse, Napoleon; Mrs. Will Kenyon, Monroe; Dr. Gertrude Jones, Dr. Gibson, Willis Chatfield, Adrian; A. C. Mills, F. L. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Garlinghouse, Jackson.

There are certain truths in life that are brought home to every member of the Big Family, but there is no one truth that we are impressed with more as the years go by than the one "that the bridge between joy and sorrow is not long." We, who have been made to realize, this last year, how short the bridge is as so many of us have, can sympathize with the dear ones of Ben Garlinghouse in having to give him up to his last sleep.

Four months ago their outlook on life was so joyous but the bridge was not long and the shadows closed around the dear one and Ben was at rest Sunday morning at 4 a. m., May 24. We who knew how he suffered could not wish him back for life was labor and death was rest and we could but fancy Ben saying to us all "Say not goodnight but in some brighter clime bid me good morning."

WHAT CAUSES INDIGESTION

The chief cause of indigestion is the weakness of the stomach muscles and the lack of gastric juice.

To make a complete cure of stomach trouble, most people think they have to give up business and devote their time to dieting, exercise, and, perhaps, a vacation.

But by taking Mi-o-na stomach tablets the stomach muscles will be stimulated and strengthened and the flow of gastric juice will be increased. Mi-o-na does not do the stomach's work; it makes the stomach strong enough to do it. In this way the trouble is completely cured and there is no further need of medicine.

No matter how severe a case of stomach trouble you have, Mi-o-na will cure it by strengthening the whole digestive system, and you will soon find that both stomach and bowels do their work as they should.

C. A. Wright & Son sell Mi-o-na in 50-cent boxes, and guarantee to refund the money if the remedy does not give complete satisfaction. They take all the risk, and the remedy cost you nothing unless it cures.

If you suffer with sick headache, heartburn, bad taste in the mouth, coated tongue, specks before the eyes, sleeplessness, nervous troubles, or any of the other symptoms of indigestion, here is the chance to get a remedy on the fairest plan ever known—costs nothing unless it cures.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle

Mrs. S. Joyce, 801 Sullivan Street Claremont, N. H., writes: "About a year ago I bought two bottles of Foleys Kidney Cure. It cured me of a severe case of Kidney trouble of several years standing. It certainly is a grand, good medicine, and I heartily recommend it. For sale by all druggist.

DON'T WAIT.

When the back begins to ache,
Don't wait until the backache becomes chronic;
Till serious kidney troubles develope.
Till urinary troubles destroy night's rest.

Wm. Witherell, living on Pottawatamie street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "In 1901 I gave a statement for publication recommending Doan's Kidney Pills and today I still hold the same high opinion of them. When I first used Doan's Kidney Pills I was troubled with severe pains across my back and hips and if I stooped sharp pains would dart through my body. At one time I was laid up in bed several days. I learned of Doan's Kidney Pills, bought a box and received great benefit from the first such that I continued using them until they effected a cure. I am glad to say that the cure then made has proven permanent. I have recommended the Pills a number of times and will continue to do so."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn company, Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name Doan's,—and take no other.

"The luckiest day of my life was when I bought a box of Bucklen's arnica salve" writes Chas. Budahn of Tracy, Cal. "Two 25c boxes cured me of an annoying case of itching piles which had annoyed me for years and that yielded to no other treatment.", Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

There is a happy medium between the words miser and spendthrift.

"Doan's Ointment cured me of eczema that had annoyed me a long time. The cure was permanent."—Hon. S. W Matthews, Commisioner Labor Statistic Augusta, Me.

Transvaal Terminations.

In perusing the names of South African towns in the daily newspapers many must have noted the word "fontein," which appears so often. This word is the English fountain, and towns with this termination have been named after Dutch farms, which are always built beside fountains of spring water. Thus Bloemfontein means "flowery fountain;" Modderfontein, "muddy fountain;" Kleinfontein, "small fountain," and Ellandsfontein, "deer fountain." Another town termination which English readers must have noticed is that of "laagte," which is pronounced "laughty." It means "shelter for animals," and hence when we talk of the battle of Ellandslaagte we may know that it was fought on a spot frequented by deer.—London Globe.

Never Without Pe-ru-na in My House

So Writes Mr. C. G. Convers, Hot Springs, Arkansas.

There Are a Multitude of People In the United States Who Have Been Restored to Health By the Use of Pe-ru-na.

There are a multitude of people in the United States who have been restored to health by the use of Peruna. There is no use trying to deny this fact.

As a rule, doctors dislike to admit it. There is now and then a courageous doctor who does admit it, however. In such cases Peruna is prescribed by the doctor himself. Even though the doctor suffers pecuniary loss by such a transaction his patient is benefited, which ought to be the doctor's chief concern.

We do not claim that doctors generally prescribe Peruna. But we do claim whenever Peruna is intelligently prescribed it rarely disappoints either the doctor or patient

MR. C. G. CONVERS.

MR. JAMES P. BRACKEN.

Nasal Catarrh and Indigestion.

Mr. James P. Bracken, 610 Tenth Ave., New York City, N. Y., has occupied the office of Water Inspector of New York City for the past fifteen years. He carries on an extensive plumbing business at 610 10th Ave. He is Post Deputy of Grand Knights of Reigna Celia Council Knights of Columbus, N. Y. He writes as follows:

"For nearly a dozen years catarrh has bothered me in one form or another. I was troubled with nasal catarrh that had affected my stomach, which troubled me most in the morning. My appetite was poor, and I did not seem to relish my food. Indigestion bothered me at times, also. I was advised to take Peruna, and I took it as prescribed for a month when my cure was almost complete. Today there is not a trace of catarrh in my system, and I can say without hesitation that Peruna cured me."

Kidney Disease.

Mr. Samuel A. Paxton, 1118 Troost Ave., Kansas City, Mo., member I. O. O. F. and National Annuity Association, writes:

"I am a well man today, thanks to your splendid medicine, Peruna.

"I was troubled with catarrh and kidney disease of long standing when I first began using Peruna. I soon found I was getting better, and continued taking it for four months. It cleaned out the system, leaving me well and strong and feeling better than I have in years."

Colds and Stomach Trouble.

Mr. C. G. Convers, Pres. Cold Storage Ice and Coal Co., Hot Springs, Ark., writes:

"I had been troubled with a very serious case of catarrh for a number of years. Having tried many prescriptions by good physicians, I found myself no better.

"On the advice of a friend who had used Peruna with good results I purchased a bottle. The results were so good that I continued using it. Have, perhaps, in the last three years used a dozen bottles, which have kept me from the trying troubles of catarrh. I am never without a bottle of Peruna in my house.

Internal Catarrh.

Mr. Michael Rooney, 26 Fifth St., Watervliet, N. Y., writes:

"If I had known of Peruna years ago I should have been saved much suffering. Under carelessness and exposure in my younger years my system got into a very bad condition before I was aware of it.

"My doctor thought that I had catarrh of the bladder and duly prescribed for me, but nothing did me any good.

"My friends advised me to try Peruna, for which I am very thankful, as it has cured me in two months, and I am in perfect health."

Catarrh of the Head and Stomach.

Mr. Frank Richter, of 309 East 2nd St., Winona, Minn., writes: "I take pleasure in recommending Peruna for catarrh of the stomach. Peruna cured me, and I know it will cure any one else who suffers from this disease. My catarrh was principally located in my head and stomach. I tried many remedies without success. I read of Peruna in the papers, and five bottles cured me."

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

Charles Graves, aged thirty, a well known jeweler of Bad Axe, accidentally shot himself, on the farm owned by himself and his father, four miles east of the village, and he died a short time later.

James Conklin, a prominent farmer near Fenton, is in a critical condition as the result of a fierce encounter he had with a stallion. The animal, in a moment of freedom, pounced on Conklin and bit off nearly half his face. The man was also otherwise badly hurt.

Laboring under the hallucination that the world was going to the dogs and that he must sacrifice himself to save it, William Daniel Hubbard, twenty years old, left his apartments, 308 Randolph street, Detroit, on Jan. 27 last and drowned himself in the river. His body was found floating at the foot of Brush street.

Horace G. Snover, receiver for the United Home Protectors' fraternity, at Port Huron, has filed papers in a suit against the American Bonding company of Baltimore, Md., to recover $5,000, the amount of the bond of ex-Secretary William L. Wilson, recently convicted of embezzlement. The suit is brought for the reason that a representative of the bonding company, after visiting Port Huron and investigating the affairs of the fraternity, declared that his company would refuse to pay the amount of the bond, for the reason that the trustees and the officials of the concern did not fulfill their requirements in keeping a check on the ex-secretary's actions and allowing him to conduct the affairs of the business himself.

CURRENCY LAW ASSURED.

House Concurs in Conference Report. Senate Has It Under Consideration.

Washington, May 28.—An emergency currency law is assured. The currency question held its place Wednesday as practically the only subject of consideration at both ends of the capitol, and when both houses adjourned the compromise bill which was drafted by the Republican conferees had received the sanction of the house and had been presented to the senate, where it was taken up for consideration today, and where it will also be passed when the vote is reached.

Wednesday began with a continuation of Tuesday's conference between the Republican representatives of the two houses. This resulted in a complete agreement, which, being later presented as a matter of form to the Democratic conferees, was shortly after 2 p. m. presented to the house. There it was taken up at 3 o'clock, discussed for one hour and passed by a vote of 166 to 140.

The house had no sooner recorded its verdict in favor of the bill than it was hurried over to the senate shortly before 5 o'clock with the announcement of approval of the house.

The conference report was read, and after the reading had been concluded Mr. Aldrich announced that today, after routine business, he would move to take up the report and continue its consideration until it was disposed of.

ACTRESS DISAPPEARS.

Stopped Her Maid and Then Dropped Out of Sight.

Detroit, Mich., May 23.—Following a quarrel with her maid in Ann Arbor last Thursday, Johanna Janzen-Eiseman, a German actress, came to Detroit the same day and has since mysteriously disappeared. Her husband is Maurice Eiseman of Buffalo, also an actor. The couple appeared in a vaudeville sketch entitled "The Unwritten Law," in the Majestic theater, Ann Arbor, and at the close of the engagement, Eiseman went east, leaving his wife in the university town.

In a tiff with her maid, Mrs. Eiseman is said to have slapped the girl's face. The latter ran for a policeman, and when he entered the apartments the actress fainted. The officer went away, and as soon as Mrs. Eiseman revived she left for Detroit, renting a room at 346 Monroe avenue. She then then wired her husband to come to Detroit at once. The telegram failed to reach him promptly, and he did not arrive until Wednesday.

Eiseman learned that his wife waited a day for him and then left the Monroe avenue house, saying she was going to meet a woman friend at the boat. That was the last heard of her, and he appealed to the police for help.

Miners Had Narrow Escape.

Bay City, Mich., May 28.—Caught like rats in a trap when a fierce fire broke out in Wolverine mine No. 2, twelve imprisoned miners narrowly escaped suffocation in the lower entry, and they were only rescued by climbing a slender ladder up an air shaft 185 feet to the surface. The fire started in the timbers and spread with such rapidity that all attempts to get the men out in elevator shafts were futile. Signals were sent down, and an attempt was made to operate the cage. The machinery became overheated by the flames and refused to work. The men were finally rescued without injury.

The happiness of life consists in something to do, something to love and something to hope for.—Dr. Chalmers.

DEAD IN AN ALLEY.

Detroit Man's Death Has Air of Mystery About It.

HEAD WAS BADLY INJURED.

Was Last Seen Leaving Saloon With Companion—Officers Declare Victim Lost His Balance and, Striking on Head, Caused His Own Death.

Detroit, Mich., June 1.—What the police say is an accident, but looks to some others more like a murder was revealed when the dead body of Albert French, 474 Fifth street, was found early in the morning in the alley between Farrar street and Cadillac square.

The gruesome discovery was made by William Cox, a negro, who was driving through the alley at 2:20 a. m. He rushed to the Central station and announced the discovery to the police, and patrolmen were immediately sent to the scene.

They found French lying on his back in the center of the alley. His head rested in a pool of blood, and his body was cold. The skull was fractured in two places, and on the left side it was completely crushed in. The scalp showed two clean-cut wounds.

In the pockets was found a trifle over $6 in money. No sign of a struggle was seen in the vicinity.

French, who was thirty years old and leaves a widow and a five-week-old baby, was employed as a foreman in the livery stable of his brother-in-law, I. Sillman, 31 Farrar street.

Mr. Sillman says French quit work about 9 o'clock and drew between $9 and $10 in pay. As has been his custom almost every night, he went across the alley and had some drinks at the saloon of Charles Heinicke.

"French was in here about that time," says the saloon keeper. "He was with several of the barn men, but none of them were drunk. I remember his buying only one drink. About 10:45, I think, I said I was going to lock the back door, and French said he would go out that way before I did. In fun he called, 'You can't catch me,' and ran through the hall and out. Alexander Lawson, a man who does porter work for me at times, was near, and I said, 'You'd better go out too.' Then, he laughed and ran out the back door. I locked it, but did not look out to see which way the pair had gone. That is the last I saw of French. There was absolutely no trouble in my saloon."

Lawson, the man who ran out with French, was taken to the station by detectives, but was later released.

He said he did not remember leaving the saloon with French. The proprietor of the Continental hotel, where Lawson lives, said he went to his room about 11:45 and was so drunk that he fell three times in trying to get upstairs.

Captain McDonnell, with detectives, visited the scene and came to the conclusion that the man had missed his footing in the dark alley and had reeled backward to his death.

Heirs to Enormous Fortune.

Muskegon, Mich., June 1.—Five prominent Holland-American residents of this city have just been notified that they are the heirs to an estate valued at $5,000,000, located in the Netherlands. This information was sent to the Muskegon people upon the discovery that the will of Jacob Mool, a prominent Holland tulip merchant, who died eight years ago, bequeathing his fortune to a grandmother of the Muskegon people was false, and that they were the rightful heirs. Mool owned property on which the heart of Amsterdam is now located. United States Consul John Stekete of the Netherlands was interested in the case, and a big fight is expected to ensue.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

San Jose scale has struck the vicinity of Deerfield, and trees are dying by the dozens.

A meeting of lumber manufacturers in the Georgian bay district is to be held at the Canadian Soo, June 23, for the purpose of effecting reduction of 25 per cent in output of mills in that district this season.

Percy Edwards of Flint has received an appointment from Adjutant General Duval of Washington, D. C., an interpreter for the Twenty-fourth United States infantry regiment. Mr. Edwards is a native of the Argentine Republic and speaks eight languages.

While milking a cow, C. F. Henry, a prominent farmer near Breckenridge, narrowly escaped death, a bolt of lightning killing the cow and knocking the pail he held across the barn floor. While suffering from the shock, Mr. Henry was not seriously injured.

BOYS HELD UP TRAIN.

Lads in Montana Confess After Being Captured.

BOLD PIECE OF BUSINESS.

Four Youths Forced Passengers to "Shell Out" to Conductor, Whom They Paraded Through Car at Point of Gun—One Man Shot.

Great Falls, Mont., June 1.—A holdup Saturday night of the northbound Great Northern train at the stockyards, about a mile and a half from Great Falls, was the work of three boys, who now occupy cells in the city jail. A fourth youth, who admits having assisted in planning the holdup, but took no active part, is also a prisoner. The quartet have made a complete confession to the police.

The four boys are: Albert Hatch, aged fifteen; William Randall, aged seventeen; Harry Rheams, aged fifteen, and George Creswell, aged sixteen.

According to the story told by Randall, Rheams and Creswell, the holdup was planned and carried out under the generalship of Hatch, the youngest of the four, who is said to have turned the switch, ordered the engineer to back up and to have gone through the passenger coaches with the conductor, forcing the latter, at the point of a gun, to collect money from the passengers. According to the other boys, it was also Hatch who shot William Dempsey in the leg and narrowly missed shooting Conductor Jack Hayes.

Rheams states that Hatch, after the scene of the holdup, proposed that they cross Sun river to the Montana Central line and holdup passenger train No. 236 from Butte, which was due in two or three hours.

Because he demurred, Rheams says, Hatch drew his revolver and threatened to kill him. He was finally dissuaded from the second attempt at train robbery.

The stories told by the boys, with the exception of Hatch, agreed in the main details. They state that the holdup was planned two nights before, it being decided to rob the train on the first dark night.

REPORTED WRECKED.

Dispatch From Paris Says Steamship Vaderland Is Lost In North Sea.

Paris, June 1.—A special dispatch to the Petit Journal from Brussels says it is rumored that the Red Star steamship Vaderland has been wrecked in the North sea in a dense fog. There are 1,600 passengers aboard.

Lloyds do not confirm this news, which, however, comes from what is usually considered a most reliable source. There were three collisions in the North sea Sunday, and passengers on the Dover-Ostend mail declare that they say the vessel cast away on the Goodwin sands.

'Quake Shakes Allentown, Pa.

Allentown, Pa., June 1.—All Allentown was thrown into a state of excitement at 12:42 p. m. Sunday by what is believed to have been an earthquake shock. The shock was severe enough to rock buildings, rattle windows, clatter crockery, tumble down shaky chimneys and upset small children. People rushed out of their homes in great alarm, and mothers carried out their children in fear that their homes were about to fall. The shaking was felt all over the city, but not beyond its limits or in any of the suburbs. In the western part of the city, where the shock was most apparent, the people heard a muffled sound. Rumors spread that a powder mill five miles from Allentown had blown up and that boilers at various plants had exploded. But all these reports were false, leaving the sole conclusion that it was an earthquake. This section experienced such a seismic disturbance on a Sunday twenty-four years ago.

Kingston Celebrates Its Beginning.

Kingston, N. Y., June 1.—Kingston's people and their thousands of visitors are celebrating the city's 250th anniversary of its beginning. The chief event was a parade participated in by military, fire, fraternal and civil organizations. The parade started at 11 o'clock, on a signal flashed by President Roosevelt from the White House in Washington. It passed in review before Governor Hughes, who also made an address. Another feature of the celebration was an automobile parade. An attack on the Esopus stockade by the Indians on June 7, 1663, will be re-enacted on the lowlands beneath the original stockade. Five hundred persons will participate in the mimic battle.

ALL OF THEM DROWN.

Entire Family Perishes In a Creek In New Jersey.

THEIR BOAT WAS UPSET.

Philadelphia, June 1.—An entire family, consisting of William Eidleman, aged thirty-eight years; his wife, Elizabeth, aged thirty-seven and their two children, Anna, aged seventeen, and William, aged seven, of West Pensauken, N. J., were drowned in Pensauken creek, below Riverton, N. J., by the capsizing of a small rowboat. The family was taking an outing in celebration of the fact that the father had just cleared off the mortgage on a home he had purchased.

While rowing down Pensauken creek, which empties into the Delaware river near Riverton, the little craft was caught in the swift current and carried against a scow moored in the stream. The boat was overturned, and all the occupants were thrown into the water. Eidleman was seen swimming in the swift current with his son, but spectators did not realize that an accident had occurred until they heard Eidleman shout for help. Before assistance could reach him, the father sank with his son.

The mother and daughter sank before the father and son. The bodies of the four were recovered after several hours of grappling. Persons who saw the boat further up the stream, before it was wrecked, say there were five of six persons in it, but no trace of other bodies has been found, and the fact that there were more than four persons in the boat cannot be verified.

IN RACE TO STAY.

Fairbanks' Name Will Be Presented at Chicago.

Indianapolis, June 1.—So many false and misleading statements regarding Vice President Fairbanks' candidacy have been and are being made that Senator Hemenway authorized the following statement: "The purpose of these reports is obvious and should not be given credence. Vice President Fairbanks' name will be presented to the Chicago convention for the presidential nomination. Any report or intimation between now and the assembling of the convention at Chicago, from whatever source it may be attributed, that any variation will be made from Vice President Fairbanks' present position may be put down as absolutely untrue."

Visiting Emperor of Germany.

Berlin, June 1.—King Gustave of Sweden and the queen have arrived here. They were met by the emperor and other members of the royal family. The route to the castle was lined with troops, and the royal visitors were greeted enthusiastically all along the way.

Spread of Plague Feared.

Caracas, Venezuela, May 28, via Willemstad, Dutch West Indies, June 1.—Notwithstanding President Castro's decree of May 23, in which it was set forth that because of the absence of any new cases of bubonic plague at La Guayra the port would be opened to traffic with the interior on May 29, great alarm is felt here for fear of the spead of the disease. The plague still continues at La Quayra, several cases being reported daily. A Dutch steamer brought the information that the port of La Guaira still remained closed on account of the appearance of new cases of plague.

Eloping Princess at Lucerne.

Lucerne, Switzerland, June 1.—Princess Amelie Louise of Furstenburg and Gustave Kozian, an employe of an automobile firm, with whom the princess recently eloped, accompanied by Kozian's mother, have arrived here. Negotiations are now proceeding with the family of the princess to secure approval of the marriage, but in the event of failure in this, it has been decided that the wedding shortly will take place in this city.

Forgives Penitent Thief.

Altoona, Pa., June 1.—Two years ago Mrs. A. C. McCartney of Juniata was attacked by a masked burglar and $3.40 in money stolen. A man called on her, told her he was the burglar, had been converted at an evangelistic meeting and begged her forgiveness. She forgave him. Then he tendered $1 and said he would pay the remainder of the stolen money back as soon as he got work, and she forgave the [illegible]

TO MASON'S MEMORY.

Statue Is Unveiled In Detroit Memorial Day.

Detroit, Mich., June 1.—Molded in bronze, there was unveiled in Capitol park Saturday afternoon the heroic statue of Stevens Thomson Mason, the tribute of the commonwealth of Michigan to its "Boy Governor," which will stand as an enduring example to the youth of the land of patriotism, loyalty and high-minded ability.

Less than eight years spans the public career of Governor Mason, but in that comparatively brief period he left an imprint that will never be effaced, and the gratitude of the great University of Michigan was manifested by the presence of President Angell. An immense throng gathered to do honor to the occasion, and when the flag which draped the statue fell there was a hum of surprise as the assemblage beheld for the first time the graceful figure and frank countenance of the American youth who honored the best blood of the nation.

The rain caused a short postponement of the exercises, but shortly after 2 o'clock Miss Emily V. Mason of Washington, sister of the governor; Mrs. E. H. Wright of Newark, his only daughter, and Edward Wright, a grandson were escorted to the grandstand. Governor Warner, with the members of his staff, in full uniform, and Mayor Thompson occupied a separate stand for the purpose of reviewing the Memorial day parade.

Rev. D. M. Cooper, D. D., opened the ceremonies with a touching invocation, which was largely a eulogy of the first governor. Hon. Daniel McCoy of Grand Rapids, president of the monument commission, read the various resolutions of the legislature making the appropriations for the monument. As chairman, Senator Thomas W. Palmer introduced Governor Mason's relatives to the audience, and they were presented with magnificent bouquets of roses on behalf of the city. Senator Palmer pointed out that few men have been honored so long after their death and said that it was most fitting that the state should remember one who had accomplished so much for his charge.

Miss Mason was given the honor of unveiling the statue. She pulled the cord so hard that it separated from the flag, but two soldiers quickly completed the task. As the graceful figure was exposed to view, the hundreds present stood up, and the band played "The Star Spangled Banner."

The principal address of the day was delivered by Rev. Walter Elliott, C. S. P., of Washington, who was listened to with the closest attention. It was a scholarly and vigorous presentation of the salient points of Mason's career, and in eloquent words the speaker eulogized the dead governor.

Jackson Alderman Disappears.

Jackson, Mich., June 1.—Martin O'Meara, fifty years old, alderman of the Seventh ward, this city, mysteriously disappeared from a party of friends, while visiting Portage lake and has not been seen since. The man is believed to be either wandering about the country, unable to find his way, or else he is dead. Searchers found traces of him on the land, his footmarks leading some distance, while his coat, folded as though he had been lying on it, was discovered near a haystack. Relatives of the man believe he strolled away, as he did several years ago.

Olivet Student Drowns.

Olivet, Mich., June 1.—Thomas Beecher of Reed City, a freshman in Olivet college, lost his life while swimming in Pine lake. He went boating with two other young men and when out in the lake, where the water is forty feet deep, entered the water for a swim. After clinging to the end of the boat for a time, he told his companions he could swim and let go. A moment later he called for help, saying he could not swim, and sank before his companions could reach him.

Brutal Murder In Paris.

Paris, June 1.—A sensation has been caused in the art world here by the brutal murder of the distinguished painter, Adolphe Steinheil, and his mother-in-law, who were found strangled in the former's residence in the Rue de Vaugierard, which adjoins the studio of Seymour Thomas, the American portrait painter. The house was ransacked of everything of value. M. Steinheil's wife, who was found gagged and bound to a bed, declares that the crime was committed by two men and a woman. The latter, she believes, she recognized as a model who was employed by her husband.

Mrs. Gunness Visited St. Joseph.

Laporte, Ind., June 1.—The authorities are investigating the supposed connection of Mrs. Bella Gunness with a matrimonial bureau at St. Joseph, Mich., the proprietors of which have disappeared. It developed that Mrs. Gunness was a frequent visitor to the Michigan town, and it is believed that a number of her victims were secured through the medium of this bureau

A Grand Family Medicine.

"It gives me pleasure to speak a good word for Electric Bitters," writes Mr. Frank Conlan of No 435 Houston st., New York. "It's a grand family medicine for dyspepsia and liver complications; while for lame back and weak kidneys it cannot be too highly recommended." Electric Bitters regulate the digestive functions, purify the blood, and impart renewed vigor and vitality to the weak and debilitated of both sexes. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 5-y

Some people dispense sympathy because it doesn't cost anything.

A manwfody dayrperfect health, so can do an honest day's work when necessary, has much for which he should be thankful. Mr L C Rodgers, of Branchton, Pa., writes that he was not only unable to work, but he couldn't stoop over to tie his own shoes. Six bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made a new man of him. He says, "Success to Foley's Kidney Cure."

The actor is like a flaming chimney and the critic often makes him draw.

If you will make inquiry it will be a revelation to you how many succumb to kiddey or bladder troubles in one form or another. If the patient is not beyond medical aid, Foley's Kidney Cure will cure. It never disappoints.

Ma says some women are busy in the present making a past for the future.

W. R. Ward, of Dyersburg, Tenn., writes: "This is to certify that I have used Orina Laxative Fruit Syrup for chronic constipation, and it has proven, without a doubt, to be a thorough, practical remedy for this trouble, and it is with pleasure I offer my conscientious reference."

Some women will spend fifty cents on a cab to save two cents on a spool of thread

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a ballet. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are prompt and thorough and will in a very short time strengthen the weakened kidneys and allay troubles arising from inflammation of the bladder. They are recommended everywhere. Sold by all druggists.

A man doesn't have to go to Nevada to be in a terrible state

Big cuts or little cuts, small scratches or bruises or big ones are healed quickly by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It is especially good for piles. Be sure to get DeWitt's. Sold by all druggists

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup is the one that children like so well to take as it tastes nearly as good as maple sugar. It is different from the others as it does not constipate, but on the other hand it acts gently yet freely on the bowels and thereby it drives the cold out of the system. It is sold by all druggists.

Stomach troubles are very common in the summer time and you should not only be very careful about what you eat just now, but more than this, you should be careful not to allow your stomach to become disordered, and when the stomach goes wrong take Kodol. This is the best known preparation that is offered the people to [illegible] spepsia or indigestion or any stomach trouble. Kodol digests all foods. It is pleasant to take. It is sold here by all druggists.

Tact is the ability not to look solemn when a rich relative gets off an alleged

Nature has provided the stomach with certain natural fluids known as the digestive juices, and it is through these juices that the food we eat is acted upon in such a way as to produce the rich, red blood that flows through the veins of our body and thereby makes us strong, healthy and robust, and it is the weakening of these digestive juices destroys health. It is our own fault if we destroy our own health, and yet it is so easy for any one to put the stomach out of order. When you need to take something take it promptly, but take something you know is reliable—something like Kodol for Dyspepsia and Indigestion. Kodol is pleasant to take, it is reliable and is guaranteed to give relief. It is sold by all druggists.

The trouble with most cough cures is that they constipate. Kennedy's laxative cough syrup does not constipate, but on the other hand its laxative principles gently move the bowels. It is pleasant to take and it is especially recommended for children as it tastes nearly as good as maple sugar. Sold by all druggists.

It was because the clothing store in the east in which he was employed made a cut in salaries that James Halpin went west. During the next six years he was cowboy, miner, prospector and teamster. As a prospector he made a miserable failure of it. In the other vocations he put in honest work for his money. Among his acquaintances he was spoken of as an honest man and was often trusted. There were men who sneered at his principles. For instance, when he discovered the $3,000 nugget in the dump at the Golden Lion mine and turned it in to the company as its property he was sneered and laughed at on all sides. The company did not even hand him out a cigar for his probity.

Then there was the case of the train holdup. The robbers got the express all right, together with a big lot of registered mail, but in their hurry they abandoned a mail bag and dropped two or three packages. Halpin found them among the rocks and sagebrush. There was over $20,000 in all. The express company started out to reward him, but finally ended up by notifying him that he ought to be glad that he had not been arrested as one of the suspects. Uncle Sam received his mail bag and said nothing and did nothing.

As a prospector Halpin discovered the Double Cross mine and told a friend of it in confidence. The friend hastened to the land office and located the mine in his own name and within two months had sold it for a quarter of a million dollars. He was a man without "sand," and Halpin could have gone to him with a gun and at least made him divide, but he did nothing of the kind. It thus came about that the men who knew Halpin had two saying to fit his case. One was "As honest as Jim Halpin" and the other "As big a fool as Jim Halpin." He was simply trying to be a square man. It was in his blood, and it took a long time to convince him that all the rest of mankind was on the make and that he would get the worst of the deal every time. He had to be reduced to rags and hunger before he would believe it.

One day Jim Halpin woke up. He had traveled over a good part of three western states and was familiar with the better portions. He got the loan of a suit of clothes and a few dollars in cash and brought up in the town in which a certain member of congress was living. They had a talk. They consulted maps. They made a bargain. Halpin wasn't to be fooled again, and the bargain or agreement was ironclad. The congressman would have left loopholes by which he could later on swindle the man who had come to him as they had planned to swindle Uncle Sam, but he had to abandon this part of the programme. When all was ready Halpin set forth to locate lands. They were fertile valleys, timbered lands, coal lands and hills filled with iron and coal. They were entered under different names as homesteads, desert lands, soldiers' lands and other trickery, and in one year they had gobbled up more than a million dollars' worth. Then Halpin sold his share for a hundred thousand dollars rather than wait longer. He also had other plans he wanted to carry out, and he needed the money to do so.

Jim Halpin with a hundred thousand dollars to his credit in the bank was no longer sneered at. He had become a man to take off the hat to. They dropped "the honest as Jim Halpin." They knew that he had made his money by sharp practice, but they thought all the more of him for it. The man who can make a fortune and just escape the law in doing it receives more praise than an honest man who toils a lifetime to get $25,000 together. The "Jim" now became "Judge" or "Colonel" when men addressed him.

In locating the lands Halpin had not played square with the congressman. He had left out certain coal fields. He now located them for himself. He was even generous enough to pay the government $2.50 an acre for land worth perhaps a hundred thousand per acre, and thus he had nothing to hide. The coal lands were in the mountains and the towns and cities on the plains. To carry out his plans the two must be connected by railroads. Mr. Halpin went to three different legislatures. A few members could be made to see what a great thing it would be if this and that town could secure coal at the price of buffalo chips, and they were ready to grant a charter. A number of others saw it only after they had been paid from $500 to $1,000 apiece. Land grants were obtained with the charters. By selling half the acreage the roads were built. The price on the remainder was doubled to make even. There was cheap coal for a year; then the price doubled. Consumers howled and went to the legislature. There was no agreement as to the price of coal, and so nothing could be done.

Mr. Halpin is a millionaire now. He is not a member of congress, but it is not his fault. He could have had the nomination and election, but he did not want them. He wanted a grand mansion on the Hudson; he wanted a steam yacht; he wanted horses, carriages, servants and statuary and pictures; he wanted trips to Florida in the winter and to Europe in the summer, and he got them—got everything—and is today referred to in the papers as "that eminent and liberal Mr. James Halpin, the self made man." M. QUAD.

Fish Food and National Greatness.

There is not the smallest reason to suppose that a meat eating nation would be superior either in intellect or physique to a fish eating one. We as a race were never stronger than when we fed on fish to such an extent that the careful guardian of the newly entered apprentice commonly inserted a clause in his indentures stipulating that he was not to be required to eat salmon more than three days a week. —London Globe.

Home-Made Gas Light for Country Houses.

Acetylene Gas is ten times purer than City Gas. That is why only one-tenth as much of its flame is needed as would be required for the same candle-power of light from City Gas, Kerosene, or Gasolene.

This means that only a very small fraction of the heat, and none of the soot nor smell of Kerosene or Gasolene is present with Acetylene.

It also accounts for the fact that an Acetylene Light of 24 candle-power costs only 3¾ cents for 10 hours lighting (in most of the States), while that same 24 candle-power in 10 hours lighting would cost about 6 cents from ordinary Lamps for Kerosene, Wicks and Chimneys.

And 40 Acetylene Lights need only 30 minutes per month of labor, while 8 Kerosene Lamps need that same 30 minutes labor each day for 365 days in the year.

Compare 6 hours work per year for 40 Acetylene Lights, with 183 hours per year for 8 Kerosene Lamps, and consider the unpleasant kind of work "Lamp Slavery" is.

Meantime, Acetylene is the most beautiful Light ever used in home, hotel or store as well as the most convenient and the safest.

Brilliant, steady, soft, cool, safe, and colorless as Sunlight itself. Two million Americans use it regularly and over 348 towns are publicly lighted by it. Shall I tell you how little it need cost to make this time-saving, money-saving and beautifying Light at your own home?

Write me to-day how many rooms you've got, or how large a store, and receive definite information.

WHEN THE EARTH DIES

And When Our Other Planets and Our Sun Are Also Dead.

STILL THE HEAVENS BLAZE.

The Infinite Space Shall Always Be Filled With Suns and Worlds and Souls, For In Eternity There Can Be Neither Beginning Nor End.

The earth was dead. The other planets had died, one after the other. The sun was extinct, but the stars were still twinkling. There shall always be stars and worlds.

In the unmeasurable eternity time, which is essentially relative, is determined by the movement of each of these worlds, and in each world it is felt according to the personal sensations of their inhabitants. Each globe measures its proper period of time. The years of the earth are not those of Neptune. Neptune's year equals 164 of ours and is no longer in the absolute. There exists no proper common measure of time and eternity.

In the empty space time does not exist. There are no years, no centuries, but there is a way of measuring time upon a revolving globe. Without periodical movements one can have no conception of time whatsoever.

The earth existed no longer; neither did its celestial neighbor, Mars, nor beautiful Venus, nor the gigantic Jupiter, nor the strange universe of Saturn, its rings gone, nor the slow planets Uranus and Neptune, nor even the sublime sun, whose rays had for centuries made fertile the celestial countries suspended in its light.

The sun was a black globe, the planets were other black globes, and this invisible system continued to course in the starred immensity at the bosom of the cold darkness of space.

From the viewpoint of life all these worlds were dead, existed no longer. They survived their antique history as do the ruins of the dead cities of Assyria, which the archaeologist discovers in the desert and revolved dark in the invisible and unknown. Everything was covered with ice, 273 degrees below zero.

No genius, so sage, could have brought back the days of old when earth sailed through space bathed in light, its beautiful green meadows awakening with the rays of the morning sun, its rivers flowing like serpents through the green fields, its woods reverberating with the songs of the birds, its forests enveloped in majestic mystery.

Then all this happiness seemed eternal. What has become of the mornings and evenings, the flowers and the lovers, the harmonies and joys, the beauties and the dreams? All have disappeared.

The earth is dead, all the planets are dead, the sun is extinct. The solar system gone. Time itself even annihilated.

Time flows into eternity, but eternity remains, and time revives.

Before the earth existed, during a whole eternity, there were suns and worlds, humanities filled with life and activity as are we today. For millions and millions of years our earth did not exist, but the universe was no less brilliant. After our time it will be as before. Our epoch is of no importance.

The dead and cold earth carried in itself, however, an energy not lost, its movement around the sun, which energy transformed into heat would suffice to melt the whole globe, to reduce it to vapor and to begin a new history for it, which, it is true, would not last long, for if this movement around the sun should suddenly cease the earth would fall into the sun and cease to exist. It would rush toward it with ever increasing speed and would reach it in sixty-five days.

When the earth is dead, other worlds will come. There will be other humanities, other Babylonians, other Thebeans, other Athenians, other Romes, other Parises, other palaces, other temples, other glories, other loves, other lights.

And these new universes will disappear in their turn, to be followed by still others. At a certain time far away in the future eternity all the stars of the Milky Way shall rush toward one center of gravity and form an immense formidable sun, center of a system, whose enormous worlds shall become populated by beings living in a temperature which would seem red hot to us.

The infinite space shall always be filled with worlds and stars, souls and suns, and eternity shall last forever, for there can be neither beginning nor end.—Camille Flammarion.

During the Memorial day exercises at Calvary cemetery in St. Paul, Timothy F. McCarthy, an aged railroad man of St. Paul, fell dead of heart disease while placing flowers on his wife's grave.

Ringling Bros. at Adrain

SATURDAY, JUNE 13th.

The people of Tecumseh will have an opportunity, on Saturday, June 13, of visiting Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Shows, the point of exhibition being Adrain.

This season marks the 25th anniversary of this great circus, and the Ringling Brothers are celebrating the year by presenting the greatest European program ever offered, a parade that surpasses all those of the past, a new and complete menagerie, another brilliant spectacle, the most astonishing and sensational "thriller" in all history.

The "thriller" is nothing less than a double somersault made in mid-air by a heavy automobile with Mlle. La Belle Roche, a young French woman, at the wheel. The car dashes down a steep incline from the dome of the tent, an abrupt up-curved terminal hurls the car high above the heads of the audience, where it accomplishes two complete revolutions and then lands with a crash on a narrow speedway, exhausting its terrific momentum on the hippodrome track.

This is an act that defies English. It cannot be described and when once seen the picture of it will be carried in memory always. It is the first instance where a single automobile has turned two somersaults in space.

The world-wide character of this year's company can be seen at a glance. From France come the great Leon family of acrobats; the Patty Brothers who walk, skip the rope and dance on their heads; Burgeos and Clara the gymnasts; Martell cyclists; the aerial Millettes and Miss LaBelle Roche.

From Italy come the Bedini riders and a quartette of acrobatic bell ringers. In Germany were found Schadel, the zebra rider, and the Mirza Golem acrobats are from the court of the Shah of Persia. Kerslak and his company of pigs are from New Zealand; Alvarez the aerialist and DeWarlo, the contortionist are from Spain.

A GOOD REASON.

Tecumseh people can tell you Why it is so.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache, and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Tecumseh people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. Geo. Teachout, living on Oneida street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "Some years ago I began to have a great deal of trouble from my kidneys. There were intense pains in the small of my back extending to my shoulder blades, and at times when I stooped, sharp stitches of pain would catch me and I would be unable to straighten for a few seconds. At night, I could not rest well on account of the frequent action of the kidneys, and though I doctored no benefit. I had heard a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a box at Wright and Son's drug store and began using them. I soon noticed the good effects and continued taking them until entirely cured. I cheerfully recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to any one afflicted with kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

THE HINDOO FAKIR.

His Patience and Skill In the Bag and Spear Trick.

The feat known as the bag and spear trick has been considered one of the greatest of the Hindoo magician's art. In this trick, says a writer, the Hindoo fakir has his assistant get into a sack, the mouth of which he firmly secures, and then unceremoniously hurls his helpless victim to the ground. Without a sign of warning the fakir drives his spear through the center of the bag.

After withdrawing his weapon, upon the point of which no blood stain appears, the fakir stands and gazes dreamily over the heads of the spectators. The body within the bag flounders about as if in mortal agony. At last, when the occupant is apparently dead, the fakir again plunges his spear into the motionless body. The same antics are repeated. Then the fakir releases his attendant from the bag, and he steps out without a scratch upon his body.

Although the trick is performed with all the carelessness imaginable, it calls for more patience, skill and exactness than any of the so called black art achievements. From the time the attendant enters the bag both fakir and assistant count every breath they take. When a stated number of breaths have been taken the fakir makes his thrust, and the occupant in the bag is prepared to avoid it. Then the count begins again, and at the proper time the spear is driven through the bag a second time. In order to evade the spear and make it appear to pass through his body the assistant doubles up in as small a form as possible. His legs are drawn up close, with the chin resting upon the knees and the arms folded round the lower limbs across the shins. When in this position, at the fiftieth breath, the spear passes under the attendant's arms between the abdomen and the thighs.

The slightest miscalculation by either the fakir or his assistant would mean a serious if not a mortal wound for one and an unheard of disgrace for the other.

Village Local

IDLE NOTES

Of Interest to the One Big Family

Decoration day can not but help to bring to each one, thoughts, of when life's day is ended, of the spot where we all will at last find rest and no more beautiful place could be found than Brookside. Still it cannot but sadden us when we pass by the unkept graves, we wish there could be a fund created to pay the expense of caring for these lots. They are a blemish on the escape the ones who have been laid here have been loved by some one, and it would seem a duty that has devolved on us to care for them.

* * *

How many know that perpetual care can be bought for their lot at Brookside by paying $50.

* * *

And while we are on this subject of caring for lawns, why would it not be a good idea to take up the subject of village parks. We have some beautiful spots, we call parks, but they look like pasture fields. It would cost very little to keep them mowed and we know there are many men who need and would be glad of the work.

* * *

It has been suggested by members of the "One Big Family" that as flowers are so scarce for Decoration day, why not lay out large flowers beds in our parks, and fill them with bulbs and spring flowering plants, to use for this special purpose. We think there would be no trouble in having enough bulbs and plants donated to fill the beds, so with very little expense these parks could be made useful and ornamental.

MEMORIAL DAY

Appropriate Exercises Held in the Opera House Saturday.

Memorial day, the day set apart by American people to commemorate the sacrifices and achievements of our heros of '61 was observed in this village last Saturday at 1:30, exercises were held in the New Bradley. Dayton Morgan of Adrian delivered the address and in eloquent terms eulogized our fallen heroes. The Tecumseh band furnished the music. On account of the rain, the decorating of the soldiers graves was postponed until Sunday afternoon.

There was a large amount of flowers this year, and familes whose loved ones sleep in the city of the dead paid tribute to their memories with floral tributes. Many of these decorations were placed the previous afternoon, making beautiful Brookside very attractive. A large number of people witnessed the ceremony at the cemetery.

GOT HIS MONEY.

The New Depositor Made Quick Work With His Check Book.

During a financial stringency a Swedish farmer in one of the middle west states had sold some hogs on the local market and upon receiving his check in payment immediately went to the local bank to realize on his sale. Upon presentment of the check the banker said to him, "Do you wish the money on this check?"

"Vell, I tank I yust so vell take him," was the quick reply.

"You really want the money?"

"Yah; I tank I take the mon-e."

"But do you really need the money?" asked the banker.

"Vell, no; I don't exactly need him, but I tank I take life mon-e."

"Well," said the banker, "if you really want the money of course I will give it to you, but I thought if you did not need it perhaps you might open an account and deposit the money and then check against it as you needed it."

"Oh, no, we won't. If you open the account, we will pay your checks whenever they come in."

This seemed assuring to the Swede, and he said, "Vell, if you pays my shecks, den I open de account." And the account was opened and passbook and check book handed to the new customer.

Half an hour later a close friend of the new depositor appeared at the cashier's window and presented a check signed by his friend for the full amount of the deposit, which was promptly paid by the banker without comment.

In about an hour the Swede appeared and, walking up to the cashier's window, handed the banker his check book minus only one check, with the remark, "Vell, I don't tank I need him any more."—Youth's Companion.

COSTLY MATTRESSES.

The Kind That Are Used on the Big Plate Glass Wagons.

Probably about as costly a sort of mattress as any is one that is made not to sleep on at all, but to spread on the long, broad table or platform of the wagons built for carrying plate glass.

These mattresses, which are made of curled hair, are very thin, scarcely thicker than a comfortable, and must be made with the greatest care to insure perfect uniformity of thickness. A lump anywhere would be likely to break the plate of glass resting upon it, and there would be still greater danger if the weight of two plates of glass was rested on the lump at once.

A mattress for a plate glass wagon costs, according to size, from $60 to $75. In use the corners of smaller plates carried on it cut into the ticking covering, and sooner or later it has to be made over. Simply to make over such a mattress costs from $20 to $25.

On the table topped and mattress covered glass wagons the biggest plates are carried with confidence and safety. The table is built to remain absolutely rigid, and the thin but uniform mattress protects the plate from jar.

Before plate glass store fronts had come into common use, when the handling of a big plate was counted as a good deal more of a job than it is now, they used to carry a great pane of glass in a sort of frame, which was put on the wagon with the glass in it. At its destination this frame or support was worked carefully across the sidewalk to the store front, where the glass was dislodged from it to be set, and altogether the setting of a great plate of glass was then quite an undertaking.

Now, with the setting of such plates a common daily occurrence and with men skilled in the handling of them, they simply carry a big plate out and lay it on their mattress-covered table topped wagon and carry it to where it is to go and there slide it off, to rest it for a moment on blocks on the sidewalk, and then they pick it up and carry it to the window front.

Then they run under the lower edge of the glass lifting straps, by which men standing inside the window as well as men standing outside can lift on it when the glass is put into place in the window frame. There again it is raised on blocks until the straps can be withdrawn, and then the blocks are taken out and the glass secured in place, all this being done with great care, but still with comparative ease and quickness and with certainty, and in these times great panes of glass are thus moved and set on all but the windiest days.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

DOG INTELLIGENCE.

The Clever "Malamutes" That Carry the Mails In Alaska.

The Eskimo begins to train his dog for sledge work before it is a month old. One of the most interesting features of Eskimo villages are puppies tied to the pole of a tent. They pull on the rope with all their puppy strength in the effort to break away and join in the frolics of their elders.

Not until a dog bred for mail service is one year old is it put in training for the trail. It begins by running ten miles with the team; then it is dropped out. Next day it runs the same distance. Gradually the distance is increased until it reaches its fifteenth month of life, when it becomes part of the regular service. The life of a mail dog is from three to four years. No greater punishment can be inflicted than to lay a dog off from service. When unruly they are often threatened with a lay-off, and with almost human intelligence they seem to understand the disgrace it implies in the eyes of their fellow workers on the trail. All light to be leaders. A constant spur to an unambitious dog is the "outsider," who will quickly take away the leadership not only in the mail service, but in teams maintained chiefly for the pleasure of the sport. The intelligence of the malamute is remarkable, its scent wonderful, its instinct, as a rule, unerring.

Some dogs are better trail followers than others, as some are better leaders. In a blizzard the best of them lose the trail, but invariably find it. When on the trail they never eat but once a day, then at the end of a journey. After feeding, like weary children, they fall asleep and are never quarrelsome. It takes on an average twenty pounds of food a day for a team of eleven dogs on a hard route.—Lida Rose McCabe in St. Nicholas.

MARS' SEASONS.

Were Mars not an old planet, corroborating by absence of cloud the general course of planetary development, our knowledge of it would have been slight. To begin with, it enables us to mark the permanency in place of the planet's features and so to time their axial rotation, by which we come to knowledge of the planet's day. This day proves to differ little from our own in duration, being 24 hours 40 minutes long instead of 24 hours. Next it discloses the tilt of the axis to the planet's orbital plane, a relation which causes the seasons of the year. Now, the Martian tilt as well as the Martian time of rotation turns out to be singularly like our own, being, in fact, 24 degrees as against 23½ degrees for the earth. The year of Mars, however, is twice ours in length, which, joined to great eccentricity of orbit, gives it diversifiedly long seasons. Thus in the northern hemisphere spring lasts 199 days, summer 183, autumn 147 and winter 158, while in its southern hemisphere the figures stand reversed.

The numbers have more than academic importance, for absolute length is as vital a factor in a season's influence as the fact of the season itself. Much may be brought to pass in twice the time which could not develop in the shorter period, and it is not a little interesting that precisely this possibility actually turns out to be vital in the vegetative economy of the planet's year.—Percival Lowell in Century.

ECZEMA NOW CURABLE

Can eczema be cured?

Some physicians say "Yes."

Some say "No."

The real question is, "What is meant by eczema?" If you mean those scaly eruptions, those diseases which make their first appearance, not at birth, but years afterward and perhaps not until middle age—then there can no longer be any question that these forms of eczema are curable.

Simple vegetable oil of wintergreen mixed with other vegetable ingredients, will kill the germs that infest the skin. Apply this prescription to the skin and instantly that awful itch is gone. The very moment the liquid is applied, that agonizing, tantalizing itch disappears and continued applications of this external remedy soon cure the disease.

We carry in stock this oil of wintergreen properly compounded into D. D. D. prescription. While we are not sure that it will cure all those cases of skin trouble which are inherited, we positively know that this D. D. D. prescription, whenever rightly used, will cure every last case of genuine eczema or other skin trouble, which did not exist at birth.

MANY GOING TO CIRCUS.

The circus seems to be the popular topic of conversation these days and many are making arrangements to visit Adrian Saturday June 13, when Ringling Brothers visit there. The splendid parade at 10 in the morning is a feature. The Ringling Brothers are celebrating the 25th jubilee year of their enterprise by giving a splendid entertainment. The circus this year numbers 1,280 people and 12 acres of ground are required for their many tents. The great program is given in three rings on two stages in a vast hippodrome. Over 300 of the performers are making their first tour of America. Many remarkable features are introduced such as were never before witnessed in America.

TECUMSEH Telephone Co.

BOARD OF DIRECTORS MET LAST SATURDAY AND APPOINTED MRS. J. B. GARLINGHOUSE MANAGER OF THE PLANT.

At a meeting of the directors of the Tecumseh Telephone Co. last Saturday, Mrs. Margaret Garlinghouse was appointed manager, a position, which for the past three years, has been ably filled by her husband, B. J. Garlinghouse and whose death leaves the position vacant. Mrs. Garlinghouse thoroughly understands the work and the directors feel sure of a successful year under her management.

The board of directors consists now of C. A. Wright, C. A. Slayton, James Lowry, Dr. L. G. North and B. A. Garlinghouse of Jackson in place of B. J. Garlinghouse deceased. The Tecumseh Telephone plant is fast growing, having now 430 subscribers and employing 7 operators and 2 linemen. It is the intention of the directors to place the plant in first class condition during the coming year and make several improvements.

STRINGHAM-WILLISTON.

The marriage of Miss Fern Stringham daughter of Mrs. Ida Stringham, to John O. Williston of Findlay, O., occured at the Baptist parsonage this morning at 6 o'clock. Mrs. Stringham, and Mrs. E. Wisner of Sharon, mother and grandmother of the bride were the only ones present. Rev. Kamm used the beautiful ring service.

Mr. and Mrs. Williston left at 7 o'clock for Toledo, going later to Detroit and Buffalo for a weeks trip. They will be at home in Findlay, Ohio after August 1st.

The bride wore a travelling gown of dark blue cloth. Mrs Williston for the past six years has been a compositor at the Herald office, and only resigned her position a few weeks ago on account of her approaching marriage. She is one of Tecumseh's choicest young ladies, honored by old and young alike.

Mr. and Mrs. Williston begin life under the most favorable circumstances, and conditions and we bespeak for them a long life of happiness.

Holland, Quaint and Sedate.

While Americans are living "The Strenuous Life," the Hollanders are living "The Simple Life" so serenely that Americans should find Holland a sure cure for nervous prostration Simplicity seems to be the key note of the Hollanders as its windmills seem to be the chief characteristic of their country. These phases of life in one of the most curious and smallest countries on the globe, contribute only one of Howe's moving pictures in the New Bradly Opera House, Tecumseh on Tuesday, June 9th. Other features of the new program show a Polar Bear Hunt, The Quarrying Industry in France, Wild Birds in their native haunts. Amongst the Zulus of South Africa, Riding 80 miles an hour in an automobile, Life on a French man-o'-war, and many others.

Thinks It Saved his Life.

Lester M Nelson, of Naples, Maine, says in a recent letter: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery many years, for coughs and colds, and I think it saved my life. I have found it a reliable remedy for throat and lung complaints, and would no more be without a bottle and I would be without food." For nearly forty years New Discovery has stood at the head of throat and lung remedies. As a preventive of pneumonia, and healer of weak lungs it has no equal. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store, 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

CATARRH YIELDS

To Healing Air of Hyomei. Sold Under Guarantee by C. A. Wright & Son.

Catarrh is the most prevalent disease known to humanity. Probably ninety per cent. of the people in this country suffer at one time or another with this common disease.

It is a germ disease and hence can be cured only by some method that will reach and destroy the germs.

This is best found in Hyomei, which may be called the direct method of treating catarrh, as its medication, taken in with the air cell in the nose, throat and lungs; kills all catarrhal germs; heals the irritated mucous membrane and vitalizes the tissues so as to render catarrh no longer possible.

The unique way in which Hyomei is sold should dispel all doubt as to its curative properties, for C A Wright & Son give their absolute guarantee to refund the price to any catarrh sufferer that Hyomei fails to benefit You do not risk a cent in testing its healing powers. What offer could be more fair to you than this, where a leading druggist takes all the risk of Hyomei giving satisfaction, and leaves you to be the judge.

If you have catarrh, give Hyomei a trial, for there is no other medicine like it, nothing else that is just as good, none that gives such quick relief and lasting satisfaction in catarrhal troubles. The complete outfit costs only $1.00; nothing if it fails to cure.

Reached the spot.

Mr. E. Humphrey, who owns a large general store at Omega, O., president of the Adams county Telephone Co., as well as of the Home Telephone Co., of Pike county, O., says of Dr. King's New Discovery: "It saved my life once. At least I think it did. It seemed to reach the spot—the very seat of my cough—when everything else failed." Dr. King's New Discovery not only reaches the cough spot; it heals the sore and weak spots in throat lungs and chest. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

WILL CURE CONSUMPTION

A. A. Herren, Finch, Ark., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar is the best preparation for coughs, colds and lung trouble. I know that it has cured consumption in the first stages." You never heard of any one using Foley's Honey and Tar and not being satisfied.

Do babies know the truth about you when they stare so impudently at you?

The Best Pills Ever Sold.

"After doctoring 15 years for chronic indigestion, and spending over two hundred dollars, nothing has done me as much good as Dr. King's New Life Pills. I consider them the best pills ever sold." writes B. F. Aysene, of Ingleside, N. C. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 25c

The bigger fool you make out of a fool, the better he likes it

Bucklen's Arnica Salve Wins.

Tom Moore, of Rural Route 1, Cochran, Ga., writes: "I had a bad sore come on the instep of my foot and could find nothing that would heal it until I applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Less than half of a 25 cent box won the day for me by effecting a perfect cure." Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

Healthy kidneys filter the impurities from the blood, and unless they do this good health is impossible. Foley's Kidney Cure makes sound kidneys and will positively cure all forms of kidney and bladder disease. It strengthens the whole system.

Heart.

When Your Heart Fails to Pump Your Blood, Trouble Results.

Have you heart trouble?

You have, if you find it hard to breathe after walking up stairs, exercising, etc. If you have pain in your left side, in chest, back or shoulder. If you suffer from cold extremities, pale face, blue lips, dry cough, swollen ankles.

Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure is the prescription of a famous specialist, whose great success in treating obstinate nervous heart disease has made his name pre-eminent in the medical and scientific world.

The medicine will cure you. We know it. We want you to prove it. If first bottle does not benefit, your druggist will give you back your money.

"I have for several years suffered at times with heart trouble. I got so bad I could not sleep half the night, and had to sit up on the side of the bed lots of times to get breath. Three of my brothers have died of heart trouble, and I thought I was going the same way, but about two and a half years ago I got a pamphlet about Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and thought I would try a few bottles. After using them I recovered, and have had better health since then than before for several years. I can heartily recommend them for heart trouble."—REV. JERRY HURT, Pastor Baptist Church, Hurt, Kans.

CLEVELAND RETURNS HOME.

Former President Makes Journey of Three Hours' Length in Auto.

Lakewood, N. J., June 1.—Former President Grover Cleveland, who has been confined to the Lakewood hotel for two months with an attack of rheumatic gout and acute indigestion, has sufficiently recovered from his illness to leave here for his home in Princeton. The trip was made in a large touring car. Mr. Cleveland was accompanied by Mrs. Cleveland and Dr. G. Rowe Lockwood, who has been alternating with Dr. Joseph I. Bryant, the family physician, in caring for the patient.

The departure did not attract any great attention, only a few persons being at the hotel when the start was made.

Mr. Cleveland left his room, and, unaided, descended the stairs for the first time in seven weeks. Leaning on a cane, he walked to the door of the hotel, where he greeted the friends who had come to bid him Godspeed and said good-bye to the few employes who have remained since the hotel closed.

Without further pause, he stepped into the waiting motor car, which speeded away on its three-hour journey.

Manager Becker of the Lakewood hotel said that Mr. Cleveland looked as well as he did the day of his arrival here and needed no help whatever in getting about.

Princeton, N. J., June 1.—Former President Grover Cleveland, who has been ill at Lakewood for some time, has reached home here. Members of the family said that Mr. Cleveland stood the trip well and was but little fatigued.

AERONAUT DROWNS.

New York, June 1.—Entangled in the folds of a large American flag, which he had waved as he made a parachute drop of 2,000 feet from a balloon at Hillside park, near Passaic, N. J., Frederick L. Wood, a twenty-one-year-old aeronaut of New Haven, Conn., fell helpless in the Passaic river and was drowned.

Wood made his ascension in the presence of a thousand persons. As the balloon rose, Wood unfolded an American flag, which he waved to the people below.

Near Nutley the balloon had risen to a height estimated at 2,000 feet, and Wood decided to descend with the parachute. Nearing the earth, Wood saw that he would probably fall in the Passaic river, and, waving his flag as a last salute, he prepared for a plunge into the water.

It was at this moment, while the parachute was only 100 feet above the river, that a puff of air caught the floating flag and wrapped it around Wood's legs. The aeronaut struggled to free himself from its enveloping folds, but failed, and, with his limbs still bound by the flag, Wood plunged into the river. He arose to the surface and cried for help, but, before the spectators could come to his aid, he sank and was drowned.

No Ill Feeling in Japan.

San Francisco, June 1.—"The American fleet will be given a royal welcome by the people of Japan," was the statement made by Post Wheeler, secretary of the United States embassy at Tokio, who has arrived here on the Pacific liner Manchuria. "All the ill feeling toward the United States, what little there was of it, has died out," said Mr. Wheeler. "The Japanese no longer talk of immigration troubles. That question has been settled, and there is no longer any friction over it."

Dash to South Pole.

Brussels, June 1.—At a session of the International Polar congress here it was disclosed that an American is preparing to undertake an expedition to the south pole in 1910 upon plans worked out by Lieutenant Peary. The latter, however, is not to take part in the expedition. President Roosevelt, to whom Lieutenant Peary disclosed this idea, is said to have indorsed it enthusiastically. The identity of the American who is to make the voyage has not been revealed.

Billings' Body Found.

Dundee, Mich., June 1.—The body of Thomas Billings, who mysteriously disappeared from the Hotel Pockington, this city, on Feb. 14, has been found in the Raisin river, near the mouth of the Saline river. A party of fishermen came upon the body, badly decomposed and mutilated, possibly from the ice, caught in a bunch of willows near the shore.

Rockefeller Makes Big Gift.

New York, June 1.—John D. Rockefeller has made a gift of $500,000 to the Rockefeller institute for medical research, for the purpose of erecting and equipping a hospital which is to join the present institute building at the foot of East Sixty-sixth street. The gift was announced at the meeting of the board of directors.

Deafness cannot be cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hendershot.

Mrs Elizabeth Hood Hendershot was born Nov. 19, 1837, in Novi, Oakland Co., Mich. and passed away April 29 1908.

Mrs. Hendershot was one of a family of 10 children, 6 sisters and 4 brothers. The family was bereft of the mother when Elizabeth was but 5 years of age, but her childhood days were pleasantly spent with her sisters Mrs. Mabelle Fowle and Jane Gale of Moscow where her sympathetic nature found ready response to all the religious activities of her home church.

Her character was early molded to eliminate evil and to see and feel the good in all.

Mrs. Hendershot was a teacher in the several public schools of Hillsdale and Jackson county, Michigan, also taught two years in the state of Iowa.

June 7, 1883, she was married to Isaiah Hendershot of Macon, Lenawee county, Mich. and resided there till her husband's death July 1, 1907.

Since then she made her home with her sister Mrs. Mabelle Fowle of Moscow and has had the loving care of many friends and relatives.

The best tribute we can bestow upon our loved one is "To know her was to love her."

The thought passed through the writers mind as she gazed upon the inanimate form for the last time. What a life of loveliness has passed from us, and yet that life will live on in the aspirations of the many friends who have felt the Christian influence of the soul now departed from earth.

Her life was as a sunbeam carrying light and cheer to all who came within its bright rays of quiet and sweet womanliness, which marked her personality.

ELKS' BIG DAY.

Ten Thousand of Them Are at Kalamazoo.

Kalamazoo, Mich., June 4.—Today is the big day of the convention of the Michigan Elks' association. Ten thousand delegates, from all parts of the state, are here.

The convention opened Wednesday afternoon with a business session, at which little business was transacted, most of the time being taken up by an opening address by President Dan J. Cutting of Bay City and a welcome speech by Mayor F. H. Milham. In the evening a banquet to the officers was given at the New Rickman hotel.

Officers will be elected today and the next place of meeting chosen. Calumet, Traverse City and Flint are candidates for the convention, and each will put up a hard fight.

HE ESCAPED DEATH.

Dr. Winfred Grenfell Fought Hungry Dogs.

NEARLY FROZE TO DEATH.

Celebrated Missionary-Physician, on Moving Ice Field Off Coast of Labrador, Had Harrowing Experience Before Reaching Safety.

St. Johns, Nf., June 4.—Battling for forty hours against a pack of hunger-maddened dogs on an ice pack off the coast of Labrador, with the temperature 10 below zero, and with only a knife to defend himself from being torn to pieces by the savage brutes, is the thrilling experience that Dr. Wilfred Grenfell, the celebrated missionary-physician, has recently passed through. The story of Dr. Grenfell's escape from death is told by Captain W. Bartlett of the steamer Stratheona, which has just arrived from the north. Captain Bartlett was with Commander Peary on several of his expeditions to the Arctic.

Dr. Grenfell had left Battle Harbor, Labrador, to attend several patients at another settlement, ten miles distant, and was traveling over the ice with a pack of dogs when he found himself driven off the coast by a moving ice field. Before he realized it, he was in an area covered only with broken drift ice, and, before he could stop the dogs, the animals had carried him into the water. The dogs attempted to climb on Dr. Grenfell's back, and he was obliged to fight them before he was able to climb onto a solid piece of drift ice. The dogs also succeeded in saving themselves.

Would Have Frozen to Death.

With the wind blowing a gale from the northwest, the temperature 10 below zero and no help at hand, the doctor would have been frozen to death, for his clothing was saturated, but for the originality and ingenuity he displayed. Taking off his skin boots, he cut them in halves and placed the pieces over his back and chest to shield those parts of his body from the blast. As the wind and cold increased with the night came on, he succeeded in killing three of the dogs to afford him more warmth and to supply the other beasts with food, fearing that, becoming hungry, they would eat him to pieces.

As it was, they attacked his savagely, and he was bitten terribly about the hands and legs. He spent a very bad night. He wrapped himself up in the skins of the dead dogs, but still found it so cold that he repeatedly had to run about the ice to keep up the circulation of the blood. Hoping that next day he would be in sight of land, though the ice was fast receding from the shore, the doctor took the legs of dead dogs and binding them together, made a pole, to the top of which he attached part of his shirt to serve as a signal, and this eventually proved to be his salvation, for the flag was seen by George Reid and others of Locke's cove, Mare bay, and they effected a rescue.

Dr. Grenfell was made a Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George two years ago by King Edward. His work is supported largely by Americans.

Woman is Hanged.

Veronezh, Russia, June 4.—Madame Feodoravna, the woman who made an unsuccessful attempt to assassinate General Bibikoff, governor of this province, on May 6, was hanged here Wednesday. She was [illegible] years old and was formerly a schoolteacher.

No Mention Made of Bryan.

Baltimore, June 4.—The Democratic state convention was held here, and delegates to the national convention at Denver were elected and a platform adopted. The latter makes no mention of the candidacy for the presidential nomination of William Jennings Bryan, and his followers, who had been demanding half the delegation sent to Denver, count but four sure Bryan men among the sixteen delegates chosen.

Killed by Moros.

Manila, June 4.—Harry Jeffs, a government mining expert, and a companion were killed by two Moros while sleeping in a hut in a remote section of the mountains.

Bishop May Go to Rome.

Detroit, Mich., June 4.—It is probable that Bishop Foley will make an official visit to Rome to see Pope Pius some time before the end of the year. It will be his first visit since the accession of Pius X. A number of other bishops will probably go to Rome at the same time, and all will travel in company.

CHILDREN STARVING.

Deplorable Conditions Exist in New York Schools.

PARENTS ARE WITHOUT WORK

Charitable Organizations at Once Begin Distribution of Food—Kitchens, Where Free Food May Be Procured, to Be Established.

New York, June 4.—Appalling destitution has been discovered among residents of the lower east end of this city. Thousands of children go daily to school without breakfast; they have only a few scant crumbs before they go to their wretched beds at night. Hundreds are actually starving. In many cases children go without food on an average of two days a week, and these children frequently faint in school from lack of nourishment. They are the offsprings of respectable men and women, who are willing to work, but can get no employment. A public meeting is to be held to take action in the matter.

Emergency measures for the relief of the pupils of the east side schools have been adopted by a committee of East side school board members.

At a conference just held the committee decided to arrange for the speedy opening of two kitchens on the lower east side, at which the hungry children may be fed. While the funds for the support of these kitchens have been supplied only in part, the public has been so stirred by the disclosures of the pitiable plight of children fainting at their desks from want of sufficient nourishment that the committee anticipates no trouble in obtaining by subscription all the money needed for the purpose.

Reports None Too Black.

That reports already made public have hardly painted conditions black enough is the statement made by Isadore M. Levy, chairman of the Third district school committee.

"An investigation," said Mr. Levy, "has shown that many of the destitute families have sent their little tots to school without having given them food for forty-eight hours. To my own personal knowledge, several children have fainted while they were reciting in their classrooms."

Destitution has visited hundreds of East Side families as the result of the business depression. Not only have the educational authorities taken up the matter, but various charitable societies have begun active work for alleviating the distress. Among these are the Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor and the United Hebrew Charities.

A teachers and principals' organization, just perfected, is to be called the "Children's Relief society," and it has announced that the hungry children in many of the lower East Side schools will at once receive tickets entitling them to a substantial luncheon consisting of soup, an egg, plenty of rolls and butter, crackers and sterilized milk.

Gas Kills Four.

Chicago, June 4.—The bodies of Mrs. William Dorman and her three children were found in their home at 63 Tell court, all four having been asphyxiated by gas. Neighbors, who noticed the odor of gas, broke down the doors and found the bodies. One child was still alive when found, but died in a few minutes. The children were: Gertrude, fourteen years; Ethel, eight years, and Elsie, seven years. Tuesday was Gertrude's birthday, and a party was given in her honor. During the festivities the mother lighted a small gas stove to make "fudge." The hose attached to the gas jet was rotted, and one of the children brushed against the hose, starting a leak.

Bank Teller Commits Suicide.

New York, June 4.—On being questioned by the bank's officers about an apparent discrepancy in his accounts, Charles T. Muir, paying teller of the Forty-second street branch of the Corn Exchange bank, asked to be excused until he could obtain a deposit ticket to explain the matter, went to the basement and, after writing a brief confession that his accounts were short, shot himself in the head. He died later. Vice President Drew of the Corn Exchange bank says that Muir's shortage is $9,063.

South Lyon Postoffice Robbed.

South Lyon, Mich., June 4.—Burglars, just before sunrise, blew the safe of the local postoffice and got $240 in cash and $242 in stamps. The village was aroused by the explosion, but the burglars escaped before anyone could reach the scene. They were apparently professionals.

A Grand Family Medicine.

"It gives me pleasure to speak a good word for Electric Bitters," writes Mr Frank Conlan of No 435 Houston st., New York. "It's a grand family medicine for dyspepsia and liver complications; while for lame back and weak kidneys it cannot be too highly recommended." Electric Bitters regulate the digestive functions, purify the blood, and impart renewed vigor and vitality to the weak and debilitated of both sexes. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 50c.

A manwfoly dayrperfect health, so can do an honest day's work when necessary, has much for which he should be thankful. Mr L. C. Rodgers, of Brancton, Pa., writes that he was not only unable to work, but he couldn't stoop over to tie his own shoes. Six bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made a new man of him. He says, "Success to Foley's Kidney Cure."

If you will make inquiry it will be a revelation to you how many succumb to kiddey or bladder troubles in one form or another. If the patient is not beyond medical aid, Foley's Kidney Cure will cure. It never disappoints.

Ma says some women are busy in the present making a past for the future.

W. R. Ward, of Dyersburg, Tenn., writes: "This is to certify that I have used Orina Laxative Fruit Syrup for chronic constipation, and it has proven, without a doubt, to be a thorough, practical remedy for this trouble, and it is with pleasure I offer my conscientious reference."

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a ballet. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are prompt and thorough and will in a very short time strengthen the weakened kidneys and allay troubles arising from inflammation of the bladder. They are recommended everywhere. Sold by all druggists.

A man doesn't have to go to Nevada to be in a terrible state.

Big cuts or little cuts, small scratches or bruises or big ones are healed quickly by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It is especially good for piles. Be sure to get DeWitt's. Sold by all druggists.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup is the one that children like so well to take as it tastes nearly as good as maple sugar. It is different from the others as it does not constipate, but on the other hand it acts gently yet freely on the bowels and thereby it drives the cold out of the system. It is sold by all druggists.

Stomach troubles are very common in the summer time and you should not only be very careful about what you eat just now, but more than this, you should be careful not to allow your stomach to become disordered, and when the stomach goes wrong take Kodol. This is the best known preparation that is offered the people today for dyspepsia or indigestion or any stomach trouble. Kodol digests all foods. It is pleasant to take. It is sold here by all druggists.

Nature has provided the stomach with certain natural fluids known as the digestive juices, and it is through these juices that the food we eat is acted up on in such a way as to produce the rich, red blood that flows through the veins of our body and thereby makes us strong, healthy and robust, and it is the weakening of these digestive juices destroys health. It is our own fault if we destroy our own health, and yet it is so easy for any one to put the stomach out of order. When you need to take something take it promptly, but take something you know is reliable—something like Kodol for Dyspepsia and Indigestion. Kodol is pleasant to take, it is reliable and is guaranteed to give relief. It is sold by all druggists.

The trouble with most cough cures is that they constipate. Kennedy's laxative cough syrup does not constipate, but on the other hand its laxative principles gently move the bowels. It is pleasant to take and it is especially recommended for children as it tastes nearly as good as maple sugar. Sold by all druggists.

PUTTING BAN ON 'EM.

U. of M. Faculty Senate Is Rapidly Suppressing Use of Liquor.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 4.—The faculty senate of Michican university has promulgated the followings resolutions, aimed at the different drinking clubs in college:

"That, in the judgment of the senate, growing practice on the part of students of meeting in rooms or halls attached to or connected with saloons or drinking places is for obvious reasons to be condemned; that students who organize or participate in such meetings shall become subject to disciplinary action; further, that any students who organize or take part in what are called keg parties, no matter where they may be held, should also be liable to discipline by faculties in whose department they are enrolled."

This is just another move in the campaign against convivial societies here. The Friars, the upper classmen club, is being investigated, together with The Owls, a senior society. The Pipe and Bowl has been dissolved and its members forbidden to join The Friars or any other drinking club.

Farmer Killed by Dynamite.

Boyne City, Mich., June 4.—While dynamiting a stump on his farm, August Bergman, aged forty years, a well known farmer living south of town, was instantly killed by a premature blast. Evidently he was clearing his way with a big sledge, and one cartridge, dropping from his pocket, was struck by the heavy hammer, setting it off. In turn, it discharged a box of ten pounds nearby. He was horribly burned and parts of the body blown to atoms. He leaves a widow and one child.

CHURCH AFFAIRS

What is accomplished through the Social Life.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Floyd Bryan spent Sunday in Adrian

The Ladies social was held at the church parlors yesterday. Mrs. Kay and committee furnishing the supper.

Mrs Will Orr of Andover, Ind., has been the guest of her brother Geo. Kay and family.

The children are practicing for Children Day exercise to be given in the near future. Miss Marie Bramble has charge of the program.

Margaret VanWinkle has the mumps.

Among the speakers at Rollin this week, we notice the names of Rev. Kamm and C. H. Bramble.

Dr. and Mrs. North are in Chicago for a couple of weeks.

Grandpa Mills has been under the weather this week.

Mrs. Sheldon had quite a serious accident Monday evening, going upstairs with a lamp she stumbled over a piece of carpet and fell breaking the lamp and cutting her hand very badly.

Mr. J. C. Rooney of Escanaba stopped over between trains and visited his brother-in-law Timothy Mills, he was on his way home from attending a meeting of the Lapeer Baptist church. Last Sunday evening he preached to a congregation of a thousand people.

The prayer circle held in Dr. North's class room in 15 minutes before the morning worship is open to everyone. Worship with preaching at 10 a. m. Bible school at 11:15. B. Y. P. U. meeting at 6 p. m. No evening preaching service. Midweek meeting on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

Universalist church, Rev. Blanche Young, minister. There will be no services of any kind at our church next Sunday; as the pastor and choir and several others of the congregation, will be in Onsted in attendance on the special services at the People's church.

The Bible Study class will meet on Thursday evening at the home of the McNeil sisters, at 7 o'clock.

Will someone who knows please leave the answer to the following question at the Herald Office:—"Why is Japan called the Sun Rise Kingdom?"

Miss Franc Hyde entertained the Ladies' Union very pleasantly at her home on Chicago street Wednesday afternoon, the occasion being the annual meeting of the organization. The treasurer's report showed a substantial balance on the right side of the ledger. Election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: President, Miss Loana Stacy; vice president, Mrs. C. M. Mabee; secretary, Miss Mary Whitelock; treasurer, Miss Lydia McNeil. At the close of the business session, Miss Hyde served light refreshments of ice cream and wafers and a social good time was enjoyed.

The parish scribe misunderstood the the name of the place where Mr. Leon McNeil has recently settled; it was New Carlyle, instead of New Caledonia, O., as stated in the "Notes" last week.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kennedy of Jackson visited their niece Miss Viola Zeluff the fore part of the week and took in the Pioneer gathering Tuesday, returning home Wednesday afternoon. He was in fine health and spirits; and, as of yore, he regaled his many friends on an entirely new and choice lot of humorous anecdotes executed in his best form. We wish he and his good wife would come again and come often.

An interesting letter from Rev. S. Louisa Haight tells of a pleasant and prosperous year's work in her new charge at Perry, Iowa. She had eleven accessions to her church on Easter Sunday. Her work closes for a two months' vacation on June 28, when she will come direct to Michigan. And we hope to have her with us for some Sunday in July.

METHODIST CHURCH.

The Epworth service was certainly an evidence of vigor in the young people's work. A fine class of 13 was formally received and the installation tho' brief was impressive. The response by Prest Waldron was clear, timely and pertinent.

Prof. Pearce's address was a treat simple earnest and effective. The officers of the league for the ensuing year are:

Prest—Wilfred Waldron.

Department of Spiritual Work—Mrs. Meda Russell.

Department of World Evangelism—Mrs. Conklin.

Department of Mercy and Help—Miss Edna Wright.

Secretary—Lynn Rogers.

Treasurer—Elmer Brown.

Organist—Miss Fern Hanford.

Chorister—Glenn Tansley.

Director of Athletics—Miss Florence Rosacrans.

Mr. Ellis leadership of the choir promises good things and we are glad to see the new faces in the choir loft.

The District Convention of the W. H. M. society held this week in Ann Arbor was attended by Mrs. F. Rosacrans, Mrs. W. M. Ward, the Misses Harriett Hurrey and Fern Hanford.

Pastor Ward was called to Detroit on Thursday to officiate at the marriage of an old friend.

Services next Sabbath in the usual order. We trust that a sense of loyalty to Christ will be constrain our people to faithful attendance whatsoever—unto Him.

Bishop Charles D. Williams, who left for Europe Tuesday, to attend the Pan-Anglican conference at London, gave his last public utterance before leaving to the cause of Charity Day of the Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis at the Hotel Pontehartram.

C. C. Kemp rector—Service Sunday at 4 o'clock. Sunday school at 11:30. Midweek service Friday at 7 o'clock followed by choir practice.

There will be a meeting of the vestry Sunday afternoon following the church service. Everyone come.

Mr. Kemp took tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. Harris west of town Tuesday.

The missionary circle will meet Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. George Tiffany. Mesdames Gordon and Mingay will assist.

DUNDEE.

Mrs. H. D. Boyce and Mrs. E. E. Richardson visited Mrs. Emil Kopka at her farm home.

Geo. Cheever and wife entertained his daughter Mrs. McIntosh of Napoleon, O., last week.

Mrs. Lewis Kanabush of Britton has been here visiting relatives.

Sunday morning while Mr. Eli Denis and son, also Mr. Bigelow, were on the river two and one half miles from town they found the body of a man caught in among bushes and debris. Word was sent to the authorities in Dundee and Justice Dan Covell, sr. and Dr. J. B. Haynes went immediately down there. They found him fully dressed and a heavy overcoat on.

The pockets were searched and only two dollars and fifty cents were found in them.

The body was identified by Charles Briggs as being his son-in-law Thomas Billings who has been mysteriously missing since Feb. 14, 1908. When he was last seen at the hotel Pocklington and was left alone in the parlor at midnight by the Landlord Fred Sloman.

The body had kept in a very good condition but the lower part of the face was scratched by bushes in the river or eaten by some animal or fish, it is thought and it was carried to Azalia and buried beside his wife who died a few months before he was missing. Mr. Billings leaves three small children to be cared for by relatives or friends.

He had worked for a long time for Loyal Jones of London and it is said that he had quite a sum of money near $300 when he drew his pay and came to Dundee.

It is also said that on his arrival in Dundee he spent his money freely and drank heavily all the afternoon and evening. The inquest to be held on Monday, June 1, at 10 a. m. in Dundee.

It is thought that he undertook to go home in the storm and fell into the river while walking over the railroad bridge in the darkness and storm and some try to think that there was foul play.

The inquest was held today at 2 p. m. at the opera house after going to Azalia and taking up the remains of Thomas Billings that were found Sunday and making a more through examination to find out more fully if possible what was the real cause of his death.

The inquist at the opera house was conducted in an able manner by prosecuting attorney John Kiley of Monroe for the people.

The verdict was from the jury that "Thomas Billings came to his death from causes unknown."

It is also stated that "vermin had had made sad havoc about the body."

POSTAL & MORRY, Props.

Five hundred photographs of President Roosevelt, all assembled in one big double page picture, 13 by 19½ inches in size, is an extraordinary feature of the June Woman's Home Companion. The five hundred photographs were taken in almost every state in the Union, at all periods of Roosevelt's public career, and show his wonderful versatility and energy.

The Ladies' World for June is the most attractive number of this periodical that we have yet seen, and there is small wonder at its popularity when so much that is good is offered for so little. There are three notable special articles in this number, one of them describing the Bryan family life at Fairview, and another the growing-up of Ethel Roosevelt, the young lady of the White House while the third has some remarkable pictures showing the ways of a bird with its young.

There is a happy medium between the words miser and spendthrift.

Holland, Quaint and Sedate.

While Americans are living "The Strenuous Life," the Hollanders are living "The Simple Life" so serenely that Americans should find Holland a sure cure for nervous prostration Simplicity seems to be the key note of the Hollanders as its windmills seem to be the chief characteristic of their country. These phases of life in one of the most curious and smallest countries on the globe, contribute only one of Howe's moving pictures in the New Bradly Opera House, Tecumseh on Tuesday, June 9th. Other features of the new program show a Polar Bear Hunt, The Quarrying Industry in France, Wild Birds in their native haunts. Amongst the Zulus of South Africa, Riding 80 miles an hour in an automobile, Life on a French man-o war, and many others.

MANY GOING TO CIRCUS.

The circus seems to be the popular topic of conversation these days and many are making arrangements to visit Adrian Saturday June 13, when Ringling Brothers visit there. The splendid parade at 10 in the morning is a feature. The Ringling Brothers are celebrating the 25th jubilee year of their enterprise by giving a splendid entertainment. The circus this year numbers 1,280 people and 12 acres of ground are required for their many tents. The great program is given in three rings on two stages in a vast hippodrome. Over 300 of the performers are making their first tour of America. Many remarkable features are introduced such as were never before witnessed in America.

The members of the One Big Family are always interested in the affairs of the Nation and especially so, when one of our former Tecumseh boys plays such a prominent part in these affairs as Col. Albert S. Cummins did in the great Naval and Military Parade at Seattle, Washington last week.

This was the largest pageant, ever seen in the Pacific Northwest and took place on Tuesday, May 26. Following the platoon of mounted police, which cleared the way and Grand Marshall Lamping with his staff, first came Col. Albert S. Cummins, U. S. A. and his staff, who were followed by other officers of the army, United States Naval forces consisting of 6,000 marines and sailors from the battleship fleet and all fraternal military societies, consisting of their uniformed drill teams.

Col. Cummins is commanding officer for the Puget sound artillery district, with headquarters at Fort Worden. He will reach Seattle with a personal staff at an early hour Monday morning. The officers will participate in the parade mounted.

Col. Cummins is a native of Tecumseh, Michigan, being appointed a West Point academy cadet from that state, and graduating in 1869. He attained the rank of colonel in 1907, the rank of second lieutenant, lieutenant, captain, major and lieutenant colonel in 1873, 1875, 1888, 1890 and 1895, respectively.

During the Spanish-American war Col. Cummins served as colonel of the Twenty-seventh Volunteer infantry, spending two years in the Philippines. He has served with distinction as an instructor in the army artillery school at Fortress Monroe, and preceding his assignment to command the Puget sound artillery district was attached to the Washington office of the adjutant general, United States army.

The parade, which was ten miles long, was witnessed by 400,000 citizens who cheered wildly as the boys in blue marched through the main streets of Seattle.

Each division as it passed was greeted with applause and cheering. The Coast Artillery detachment, in command of Col. Albert S. Cummins, made a splendid appearance in the full dress of that arm of the service, with the red facings flashing in the sunlight. The troops kept perfect alignment and marched with the precision of veterans. Each company as it passed the reviewing stand evoked rounds of applause that betokened the affection with which the people of the Northwest hold the defenders of the coast.

BASE BALL

Tecumseh got back at Kalamazoo in Tuesday's and Wednesday's games, winning both. Tuesday's score was 5 to 1. Holmquist was in the box for the home team, was steady and effective, allowing but four scattered hits. He gave no bases on balls and the support he received was nearly perfect. Hastings for the visitors was hit freely. Tecumseh scored in the first on an error, a sacrifice and three singles. In the third on Shippy's single, Newcombs error and three in the fifth on a walk, a sacrifice two singles and a two bagger.

Wednesday's game was Kalamazoo's until the last half of the ninth inning, the score standing 4 and 2 in their favor. Doty was given a base on balls, Shippy singled, stole second, Sommerlott passed, McDonald and Lagoe were out when Holmquist came to bat. A two bagger brought in the three necessary scores

Wagner was benched in the seventh inning for disputing a decision of the umpires, and Holmquist went into the game. His "umps" was without glasses Wednesday, for several decisions were decidedly rotten.

The Atlantic Monthly for Junes combines in an unusual manner the discussion of timely, educational, and social topics with a decided outdoor flavor appropriate to an early summer issue. The number opens with a readable paper by Clinton R. Woodruff of the American Civic Association on "City Planning in America." New York, Chicago, St. Louis and Springfield, Mass., are among the cities whose important work he mentions.

Walter Wellman's study of "Taft, Trained to be President," in the June Review of Reviews, is both luminous and convincing. In other magazine articles you may see what has been said about Taft; in Mr. Wellman's article you see Taft himself.

Those who believe that matches are made in heaven have faith to burn.

Thinks It Saved His Life.

Lester M. Nelson, of Naples, Maine, says in a recent letter: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery many years, for coughs and colds, and I think it saved my life. I have found it a reliable remedy for throat and lung complaints, and would no more be without a bottle and I would be without food." For nearly forty years New Discovery has stood at the head of throat and lung remedies As a preventive of pneumonia, and healer of weak lungs it has no equal. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store, 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

HA! HA! HA!

Whoever heard of a jolly dyspeptic?

Merriment and indigestion are as far apart as the North and South poles. Don't blame the poor dyspeptic for being blue, cross, nervous, irritable and grouchy. He can't help it. No one whose stomach is weak, whose nerves are on edge, whose tongue is furred and who hesitates at eating a hearty meal for fear of the distress that will follow, can be sweet-tempered.

Tone up the weak stomach muscles and get digestion working naturally by using Mi-o-na stomach tablets. This remedy is not a mere digestive that gives temporary relief only; it cures all stomach troubles by strengthening the digestive machinery and putting it into such perfect order that it will take care of all foods without distress, indigestion or flatulence.

Mi-o-na cures stomach troubles in a perfectly natural way, increasing the flow of gastric juices so that life's nourishment is extracted from the food and the refuse is expelled without the aid of laxatives or other medicine.

If the complexion is blotched or pimpled, in nine cases out of ten it is caused by stomach troubles and cannot be cured until the stomach is regulated by Mi-o-na.

So reliable and positive is the action of Mi-o-na in curing indigestion and all stomach weakness that C. A. Wright & Son sell the remedy under guarantee to refund the money unless it cures. Try a 50 cent box and see how quickly you will get relief from indigestion and in how short a time you will forget that you have had a stomach.

DAVID HARTON.

David Harton, died at his home in Brooklyn last Friday, aged 77 years, 5 months and 1 day. He was born in County Antrim, Ireland, coming to America at the age of 21 years, settling in New York state. Two years later he moved to Tecumseh, Mich., in and near which place, he spent the greater portion of 15 years. Later he purchased a home in Brooklyn, in which he spent the remaining years of his life. He leaves a wife and two children Mrs. Wilson Read of Onsted and Willis Harton of Detroit. In faith he was a Presbyterian, joining this church at Tecumseh, in 1864, and to which creed he has ever been faithful. The funeral was held Sunday, interment at Brooklyn.

A Novelette with a Southern California setting is the main feature of the June Smort Set It is entitled "Hors-d'Oeuvres" and it is written gy Austin Adams, who has contributed many charmingshort stories to the magazines.

DOCTOR USES D. D. D. IN HIS PRACTICE.

Still another Eczema specialist comes forward in enthusiastic praise of D. D. D Prescription, the wonderful externa remedy which cures Eczema and other similar diseases like magic. He is Dr C. B. Holmes of Silver City, Miss., and in summing up his impressions of the startling cures D. D. D. has effected, he says:

"I have been using your D. D. D. for four years with gratifying results. "IS AS NEAR A SPECIFIC FOR HERPES, ECZEMA, PSORIASIS, ETC., AS IS QUININE FOR MALARIA."

Dr. Holmes is one of hundreds of physicians who use D. D. D. in their daily pratice. The D. D. D. company allows physicians to use this remedy with the understanding that they tell their patients what it was that cured them whe the terrible itch had been wiped out, the skin healed and the raw wound covered over with soft white skin. D. D. D. is not a nasty paste to amear the skin and clothing, but it is a clear liquid. It is advisable to use D. D. D. soap in connection with D. D. D. Prescription.

Is any furthur proof of the curative powers of D. D. D. Prescription necessary? That remedy is sold at C. A. WRIGHT & SON'S. Come in and let us show you convincing proof that D. D. D will cure your skin disease. Even if you have not decided to use D. D. D. remedy come in and explain your case anyway.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and over comes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

WILL CURE CONSUMPTION

A. A. Horren, Finch, Ark., writes "Foley's Honey and Tar is the best preparation for coughs, colds and lung trouble. I know that it has cured consumption in the first stages." You never heard of any one using Foley's Honey and Tar and not being satisfied.

The Best Pills Ever Sold.

"After doctoring 15 years for chronic indigestion, and spending over two hundred dollars, nothing has done me as much good as Dr King's New Life Pills. I consider them the best pills ever sold." writes B. F. Ayscue, of Ingleside, N. C. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 25c

Bucklen's Arnica Salve Wins.

Tom Moore, of Rural Route 1, Cochran, Ga., writes: "I had a bad sore come on the instep of my foot and could find nothing that would heal it until I applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Less than half of a 25 cent box won the day for me by affecting a perfect cure." Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

Healthy kidneys filter the impurities from the blood, and unless they do this good health is impossible. Foley's Kidney Cure makes sound kidneys and will positively cure all forms of kidney and bladder disease. It strengthens the whole system.

A GOO REASON.

Tecumseh people can tell you Why it is so.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Tecumseh people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. Geo. Teachout, living on Oneida street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "Some years ago I began to have a great deal of trouble from my kidneys. There were intense pains in the small of my back extending to my shoulder blades, and at times when I stooped, sharp stitches of pain would catch me and I would be unable to straighten for a few seconds. At night, I could not rest well on account of the frequent action of the kidneys, and though I doctored no benefit. I had heard a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a box at Wright and Son's drug store and began using them. I soon noticed the good effects and continued taking them until entirely cured. I cheerfully recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to any one afflicted with kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

DIES SUDDENLY.

Detroit, Mich., June 3.—Peter White of Marquette, the most widely known citizens of the upper peninsula and one of Michigan's great pioneers and business men, died suddenly on the street in this city, near Woodward avenue and Fort street, from an attack of heart failure. Mr. White was walking from the city hall to the Hotel Pontchartrain when death overcame him.

Born at Rome, N. Y., in 1830, Mr. White was nine years of age when his parents removed to Green Bay, Wis. When he was fifteen years old he heard the stories of the marvelous discoveries of copper in the upper peninsula, and he ran away from home, his destination being the Lake Superior district. It was three years before he got there, however, due to lack of funds. For a year he clerked in Detroit and spent two more on Mackinaw island, at that time an important fur station. In 1849 he joined a party organized to open up the iron veins around Ishpeming and Marquette. When the iron mines began to develop he was placed in charge of the company's general store. In 1851 Mr. White was elected county clerk and register of deed, which he was compelled to accept, though he insisted than an older man should have been chosen. He was also made a member of the school board. It is worthy of note that he remained on the board up to the time of his death. When a postoffice was established he was made the first postmaster and retained the position for twelve years.

About the same time Mr. White opened a general store of his own, but sold out to engage in the insurance business. This led him to take up banking and real estate, and then he decided to become a lawyer, practicing for some ten years. In 1857 Mr. White was elected as a representative to the legislature and in the same year was appointed register of the federal land office, which had been moved to Marquette. When the latter was created a port of entry he was made collector of customs. In 1866 Mr. White incorporated his private bank into the First National and has been president of it ever since. Mr. White went back to the legislature in 1857 as a state senator.

Becoming a wealthy man, he gave liberally to charity. Marquette has a magnificent library which was presented to the city by him.

He was a regent of the University of Michigan at the time of his death.

Ask For Electric Freight.

Marshall, Mich., June 3.—In the order of the state railway commission requiring physical connection between steam and electric lines of the state at junction points for shippers who desire the same interchange of freight in carload lots as between steam lines, Marshall, with only steam line, the Michigan Central, is affected. The Business Men's association here has been considering taking the matter up where freight might be exchanged between the M. U. R. and Grand Trunk, the change being made at Battle Creek.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

Survivors of the Twenty-fourth Michigan infantry will hold a reunion on Belle Isle, at Detroit, the afternoon of June 18.

Suspected of complicity in the brutal highway robbery of John Merritt, May 28 last, John Collins has been arrested in Detroit. Merritt was knocked down and robbed of $60.

Herman Weichert, a farmer living near St. Ignace, was drowned while fishing. He was alone, and it is supposed he hooked a large fish, and in his excitement lost his balance and fell from the boat.

Ground has been broken in Detroit for the new headquarters of the Gleaners at Woodward and Palmer avenues. The understanding is that the work is to be pushed so as to have the building ready for occupancy in four months.

After nearly twelve years, the mystery surrounding the disappearance of aged Robert Davidson, pioneer settler and prosperous farmer of Deckerville, has been solved by the finding of his skeleton in what is known as the "Black River swamp," about three miles southwest of the village.

The dedication of two cannon, relics of the battle of Brownstown, war of 1812, which were presented to Wallace post, G. A. R., Detroit, by the late Dr. Hal C. Wyman, and which was to have taken place on Decoration day, has been set for August 5, the anniversary of the battle.

While being entertained in the home of his recently-made acquaintance, Arthur H. Sebastian of 607 Second street, Detroit, a man supposed to be Herman Baer, but who is also known under the aliases of Herman Barnes and Herman Baird, is alleged to have disappeared with diamons valued at $1,500 belonging to Mrs. Sebastian.

DEPART FOR FAR EAST.

Battleships Maine and Alabama Leave San Francisco.

CAPTAIN HARBER COMMANDS

Secretary Garfield a Guest as Far as Honolulu—The Two Vessels Constitute "Special Service Squadron." Will Reach Hampton Roads Oct. 22.

San Francisco, Cal., June 3.—Leaving the other warships of the Atlantic fleet to follow a month later, the battleships Maine and Alabama, designated as a special service squadron, sailed from this port this morning on the long voyage to Hampton Roads by way of Honolulu, Manila, Aden and the Suez canal. Captian Giles B. Harber of the Maine is in command of the special squadron, and he has Secretary of the Interior Garfield as a guest and passenger as far as Honolulu, where he goes to study the labor question, immigration problem, commercial development of the islands and the coastwise trade.

First Ships to Leave.

The Maine and the Alabama are the first two ships of the big fleet that came through the Straits of Magellan to turn their bows homeward. They will complete the trip around the world in advance of the remainder of the fleet, arriving at Hampton Roads on Oct. 22, ten months from the time that they left there on their record breaking cruise. The two warships will arrive at Honolulu on June 17, remain there five days, touch at Guam on July 7 and reach Manila on July 21. This will be the last American port to be entered by them until they reach Hampton Roads. On July 29 they will sail from Manila, touching at Singapore on Aug. 3, Colombo on Aug. 14 and pass through the Suez canal on Sept. 5.

Stay Week at Naple.

The squadron is scheduled to arrive at Naples on Sept. 10, remaining there a week and arriving at Gibraltar on Sept. 30.

The dropping of the Maine and the Alamaba from the main fleet is due to limited steaming capacity in one case and inferior engines in the other.

When the Atlantic fleet sails through the Golden Gate on July 7, homeward bound via Honolulu, the Antipodes, Manila and the Suez canal, the battleships Nebraska and Wisconsin will be in the place of the Maine and the Alabama.

Nearly 400 men of the fleet, who are short termers, will be transferred from their vessels during the next two weeks and taken on board the Prairie and conveyed to Hampton Roads. Men to fill places for the remainder of the round-the-world trip will be brought here on board the Buffalo before the fleet sails westward.

Tear Down Old Bridge.

Marshall, Mich., June 8.—The work of tearing down the South Marshall avenue bridge across the Kalamazoo river, which was damaged by the flood this spring, began today. The bridge was erected in 1892 at a cost of $4,500, it being a two-span stone bridge. The new bridge will be about eight feet wider and will probably cost $6,500. It will cost $500 to take out the old bridge. The contract for the new one is not yet let.

Two More Victims Buried.

San Pedro, Cal., June 8.—The funeral of J. P. Carroll, fireman, second class, of Hartford, Conn., and F. S. Maxfield, fireman, second class, of Toughkenanon, Pa., victims of the boiler explosion on the United States cruiser Tennessee, were held this morning. They were buried with military honors in Harbor View cemetery. Captain T. B. Howard, the officers and several hundred of the crew of the Tennessee escorted the bodies.

Admits Three Murders.

Norwood, Mass., June 8.—After startling the police by declaring that he had killed two boys in Brooklyn last March, Anthony Santo, a fourteen-year-old boy, later told the authorities that he was guilty of the killing of six-year-old Louise Staula, at Dedham, May 11. The death of the Staula girl has been a mystery, and an inquest is now in progress. Her body was found in a field.

Train Kills Jackson Man.

Jackson, Mich., June 8.—Louis Dorson, 327 Danon street, was struck and killed by a Michigan Central passenger train. Dorson was seventy-nine years old and leaves a widow and six children. A son was killed while walking on the railroad tracks six years ago.

PLATFORM IS FRAMED.

President and His Lieutenants Put It Together.

TAFT ALSO HAD A HAND.

Document Which Will Be Offered Republican Convention For Endorsement Contains Full Approval of Roosevelt Administration.

Washington, June 8.—That the platform which will be adopted at the Chicago convention and on which the Republican party will stand during the next campaign has been completed, with the exception of a few details, which will be left for the committee on resolutions to insert, is the opinion of many who are in the confidence of the Republican leaders.

The work has been done by Hon. Wade Ellis, attorney general of Ohio, the draftsman of the recent Ohio state platform; Senator Hopkins, who will be the chairman of the committee on resolutions; Senator Long of Kansas and a few others, including the president and Secretary Taft, who have been freely consulted.

The Central Idea.

The policies of President Roosevelt will be endorsed unequivocally, and this endorsement will be the central idea of the document. The Republican party's record as the party of protection and sound money, as the party of progress and good principles, as the party that gave freedom to Cuba and lifted the yoke from the necks of the people of the Philippines and Porto Rico will be made the subject of much praise, and the votes of the public will be asked to continue to patronize the political craft that has carried it across so many streams.

Specifically speaking, more attention has been given by the platform makers to the tariff than to any other subject. There will be an unequivocal declaration for revision, but the disposition is to leave the working out of details to the ingenuity of congress.

Next to the tariff, the financial plank has received most careful attention. The administration will be especially complimented upon the passage during the Fifty-ninth congress of the railroad rate law, and this legislation will be pointed to as an example of what the party will do for the country at large in case it is given such a lease of power as to afford it sufficient time for the changes which are believed to be desirable.

The president's attitude in the matter of the general protection of the resources of the country will be favorably commented upon as indicating the best course for future legislation, as will his vigorous work in prosecuting the construction of the Panama canal.

Labor's Demands Recognized.

Cognizance will be taken of the demand of labor to the extent of recommending such legislation as will insure labor organizations against snap judgment by the courts in the issuance of injunctions without due notice or necessary hearing.

As usual, the platform will declare for the protection of the civil liberties of the negro race. There will be a strong declaration in favor of the continued improvement of the navy, including the constant increase of our battleships. The recommendations will be made for the admission at the next session of congress of Arizona and New Mexico as separate states of the Union; for the exclusion of coolie labor, and strong recommendation of the present civil service policy will be made.

Tornado Demolishes Many Buildings.

Charles City, Ia., June 8.—A tornado striking Charles City, demolished about 200 buildings of various sizes and killing W. R. Beck and a child. Three children are reported missing. The path of the storm was about ten rods wide and ten miles long. Telephone wires are down, and details as to the destruction wrought in the country are meagre.

Cardinal Logue Returns to Europe.

New York, June 8.—Cardinal Logue, primate of Ireland, has sailed for Europe on the steamer Campania, after a sojourn in this country of five weeks, which he declared to have been the most eventful in his long life.

A testimonial of regard on the occasion of the ordination to the priesthood of William Murphy, a Kalamazoo man who has just completed a four years course in the American college at Rome, in an elaborate outfit of vestments prepared by the women of St. Augustine Catholic church of Kalamazoo, Mr. Murphy will be ordained next Saturday in Rome, and the vestments have been forwarded to him there.

EDITOR QUINBY DEAD.

Well Known Free Press Publisher Passes Away.

SUCCUMBS TO A CANCER.

He Held Controlling Interest in Prominent Michigan Publication For Fifty Years—Honored by President Cleveland and U. of M.

Detroit, Mich., June 8.—William E. Quinby, one of Michigan's best known publishers, and for forty years principal owner of the Detroit Free Press, died of cancer with which he had been ill for many months. The end came [illegible] and was expected, as physicians had announced weeks ago that there was no hope of recovery.

William Emory Quinby was the eldest son of Daniel Franklin and Aratina Reed Quinby. He was born in the town of Brewer, Me., Dec. 14, 1835. The year of his birth his parents moved to Lisbon, Me., where he attended the public schools. In 1850 the Quinby family came to Detroit, where, in partnership with J. K. Wellman, Daniel Quinby engaged in the publication of Wellman's Literary Magazine.

Attended U. of M.

William Quinby attended the high school and in 1854 attended the University of Michigan, from which he obtained the degree of A. B. in 1858 and of A. M. in 1861. During this time he contributed extensively to his father's publication.

After his return from college, Mr. Quinby entered the law office of Walkers & Russell as a student. His progress was rapid, and he was admitted to the bar in the next year. The legal profession had little attraction for him, however, and while practicing he was a member of the reportorial staff of the Free Press.

Develops Noted Writers.

When Henry N. Walker became proprietor of the Free Press, in 1861, following the sale of Wilbur F. Storey's interest, Mr. Quinby became city editor. Two years later he was made managing editor, and at the same time he acquired a quarter interest in the paper. In 1872 he became editor in chief and obtained a controlling interest. Mr. Quinby developed many prominent writers and built up the publication to an enormous enterprise.

Of the mechanical side Mr. Quinby took as good care as of the editorial department. He was the first to introduce the web perfecting press in Michigan, and he was the first newspaper publisher in America to operate successfully the typesetting machine.

Honored by Cleveland.

President Cleveland, in 1893, appointed Mr. Quinby envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary to the Netherlands, a post which he held for four years. When he returned, in 1896, for a short visit, in order to attend the reorganization of the Free Press, he was honored by the University of Michigan with the degree of LL. D. It was in 1897 that he returned again to take charge of the Free Press. In 1906 he retired from active management of the paper, at which time its present owners obtained control.

In 1860 Mr. Quinby was united in marriage to Adeline Frazier. They had seven children, of whom six are now living.

Thief Drove Horse to Death.

Detroit, Mich., June 8.—When William Newberry, 405 Fifth street, went to the ball game Saturday afternoon, he left his horse and buggy standing near Bennett park. When he came out, after the game, the horse was gone, and he reported his loss at Central station. Sunday afternoon, at the hottest part of the day, a horse attached to a buggy was driven up Wabash avenue at a fast clip. When the corner of McGraw was reached, the horse dropped. The driver jumped out of the buggy and ran down a nearby alley. People in the vicinity noticed the boy's strange actions and notified the police, who identified the rig as belonging to Newberry. Humane Agent McMillan was called, but the horse died shortly after he arrived.

Asks $10,000 For Wife's Death.

Howell, Mich., June 8.—Suit for damages, based on circumstances believed to be without precedent in Michigan, has been started by the filing of a declaration in the circuit court by Peter North against the Interstate Long Distance Telephone company. Three months ago the wife of the plaintiff and Carrie Allen, who had been living with the Norths, were killed by lightning which entered the North home in Hartland township. It is asserted by the plaintiff that the lightning entered the house on wires and that the telephone company is responsible for the death of his wife. Plaintiff sues for $10,000 damages.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased partion of the ear There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

A Grand Family Medicine.

"It gives me pleasure to speak a good word for Electric Bitters," writes Mr Frank Conlan of No 435 Houston st., New York. "It's a grand family medicine for dyspepsia and liver complications; while for lame back and weak kidneys it cannot be too highly recommended." Electric Bitters regulate the digestive functions, purify the blood, and impart renewed vigor and vitality to the weak and debilitated of both sexes. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Some people dispense sympathy because it doesn't cost anything.

A manwfody dayrperfect health, so can do an honest day's work when necessary, has much for which he should be thankful. Mr L. C. W. R. Ward, of Dyersburg, Tenn., writes: "This is to certify that I have used Orina Laxative Fruit Syrup for chronic constipation, and it has proven, without a doubt, to be a thorough, practical remedy for this trouble, and it is with pleasure I offer my conscientious reference."

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a ballet. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes.

Tact is the ability not to look solemn when a rich relative gets off an alleged

Nature has provided the stomach with certain natural fluids known as the digestive juices, and it is through these juices that the food we eat is acted up on in such a way as to produce the rich, red blood that flows through the veins of our body and thereby makes us strong, healthy and robust, and it is the weakening of these digestive juices destroys health. It is our own fault if we destroy our own health, and yet it is so easy for any one to put the stomach out of order. When you need to take something take it promptly, but take something you know is reliable—something like Kodol for Dyspepsia and Indigestion. Kodol is pleasant to take, it is reliable and is guaranteed to give relief. It is sold by all druggists.

A BRAVE ...EFFORT.

[Original.]

Edgar Bertram, a young American traveling abroad, was making a pedestrian tour of the Alps. One evening while stopping at an inn on the road leading over the Fraele pass a man and a girl of eighteen, carrying a variety of bundles, came and sat down at a table near him. The girl was very pretty, and Bertram kept glancing at her repeatedly. After supper the man who was with her smoked his pipe on the porch of the inn, and Bertram fell to talking with him. He said that the girl was his daughter, and they were going over the pass the next day.

The height of the Fraele pass is over 7,000 feet and the distance the two proposed to go perhaps ten miles. Bertram wondered why they should attempt it. The man was past fifty, and the girl, though strong, was, after all, but a girl. "There is no danger," said the man. "We have done it before. Of course we have some bad places to cross, but we tie ourselves to a rope like other climbers, and if one slips the other stands fast."

The man went into the taproom, where he indulged in a bottle of wine and a game of dominos with the landlord. This left Bertram and the girl together. He chatted with her some time and won her confidence. "Tell me," he said, "why you attempt this pass when there are easier ones? And why do you not cross the mountains by conveyance? You seem to be people who are able to pay." Then the girl confessed that they were smugglers and by crossing the Fraele pass on foot could get the goods they were carrying into Italy without paying any duty.

The next morning when Bertram had finished his breakfast he stood on the porch of the inn looking up the road that led over the pass. Far up the mountain side he saw two figures, a man and a woman, trudging slowly onward. He always carried a pair of glasses with him, and, bringing them to bear on the figures, he saw that they were the smugglers. He watched them for an hour. They were tied together, the father leading. At last a cloud enveloped them, and he saw them no more.

To the smugglers the cloud was a mist, through which they could see nothing. They toiled on as best they could, but despite the father's efforts to keep on the road he lost his way. Then suddenly there was a quick slide and a jerk on the rope. The girl caught a projection with her ice ax, and it held. Then she knew that her father had slipped and was dangling over a precipice.

There was no way by which he could gain a foothold to save himself or lessen the strain on the rope, which, as his daughter lost strength, would inevitably pull her over and the two would together fall thousands of feet into the abyss below.

"Cut the rope!" he called.

"No!"

"Cut it! One of us may live. Both cannot."

"No!"

Repeatedly he called upon her to do that which would send him into the abyss. She always answered "No," but gave no reason why she should not do his bidding. They were alone far up in the mountains; there was no one near to help, and for the mist they could not be seen if there were those to see them.

An hour passed. An hour—sixty minutes of sixty seconds each, and each second a frightful strain! There could be no change of position either for the father or the daughter. Any motion on his part would increase the strain, and the daughter must lie flat, both hands clinging to the ax handle. How long would her strength endure? And why should it endure? Was not each moment an agony to be followed by the frightful end at last?

Thirty more of these dreadful minutes passed, each an eternity of agony. Then a zephyr carried away the mist, and the girl clearly saw down the mountain a man approaching. He was glancing about him as if he were looking for some one. With all the little strength she had left she cried again and again till at last he raised his head and looked straight at where she lay. Then he bounded up the mountain like a goat.

The girl did not know who relieved her, at least not then. She felt the strain on the rope disappear and knew that her father was saved. Then all was a blank. Her father and the rescuer carried her down the mountain into Italy, stopping at the first inn they reached.

In the evening, after she had come to herself, she asked to see the man to whom she was indebted for her and her father's life. When he came in and stood before her, she recognized the young American with whom she had spent the previous evening.

Bertram, after seeing the cloud envelop the father and daughter, could not divest himself of misgivings concerning them. Then it seemed to him that he heard the girl cry out, though this was entirely a mental impression, not a sound transmitted through the ear. He started up the mountain to reach them doubtless but a short time before the girl's strength must have given out.

When the next day he left the couple at the inn to pursue his journey there was a sad look in the eyes of the girl. Bertram has forgotten many of the episodes of his foreign tramps, but he has never forgotten, nor will he ever forget, the brave girl who by her heroic endurance saved her father from an awful death.

Violet Ink the Cheapest.

"Look here, you, a literary man can't afford the extravagance of violet ink."

"I know," he admitted, "that violet ink costs thrice as much as black, but black corrodes a pen in a week, whereas violet is noncorrosive, and with its use it is possible to make one pen last six or seven months. The late Russell Sage, who used violet ink exclusively in his office, revealed this great truth to me during my brief clerical career in his office."—Exchange.

Didn't Want to Be Singular.

It was in the drawing room after dinner that they discussed an absent maiden friend's bad points with the usual grim and scathing glee. Having thoroughly dissected her personal appearance, they next paid attention to her mental shortcomings.

"She is a very singular girl," spake the one.

"Yes, indeed," responded her companion. "But, then, that is not her fault, for I never saw a girl so anxious to be plain." Argonaut.

Home-Made Gas Light for Country Houses.

Acetylene Gas is ten times purer than City Gas. That is why only one-tenth as much of its flame is needed as would be required for the same candle-power of light from City Gas, Kerosene, or Gasolene.

This means that only a very small fraction of the heat, and none of the soot nor smell of Kerosene or Gasolene is present with Acetylene.

It also accounts for the fact that an Acetylene Light of 24 candle-power costs only 3¾ cents for 10 hours lighting (in most of the States), while that same 24 candle-power in 10 hours lighting would cost about 6 cents from ordinary Lamps for Kerosene, Wicks and Chimneys.

And 40 Acetylene Lights need only 30 minutes per month of labor, while 8 Kerosene Lamps need that same 30 minutes labor each day for 365 days in the year.

Compare 6 hours work per year for 40 Acetylene Lights, with 183 hours per year for 8 Kerosene Lamps, and consider the unpleasant kind of work "Lamp Slavery" is.

Meantime, Acetylene is the most beautiful Light ever used in home, hotel or store as well as the most convenient and the safest.

Brilliant, steady, soft, cool, safe, and colorless as Sunlight itself. Two million Americans use it regularly and over 348 towns are publicly lighted by it. Shall I tell you how little it need cost to make this time-saving, money saving and beautifying Light at your own home?

MEET AT REVAL.

Quaint Old Russian Town Awaits the Coming of King and Emperor.

Reval, Russia, June 8.—This quaint old town is filled with visitors today for the meeting of King Edward and Emperor Nicholas. The hotels are crowded, and all available private lodgings are engaged. The ministers of court have established headquarters here, and a regiment of infantry and 500 secret service officers have arrived for guard and police duty. Four destroyers have taken their station in the harbor to keep the roadstead clear for the royal yachts.

The narrow, twisted streets and the Thirteenth century houses of the city bloom with bunting and decorations.

The imperial yachts will anchor tomorrow so far out in the offing that from them only the battlements of the old Danish fortress on the hill top and the graceful early Gothic church spires will be distinguishable by the unaided eye.

St. Petersburg, June 8.—On account of rough weather in the Gulf of Finland, the emperor and members of the imperial party gave up the sea trip and left by rail today for Revel to meet King Edward. The imperial yachts Polar Star, Standart and Tsarevna, with Admiral Niloff and Count Heyden, chief of the imperial chancellory, aboard, are on their way there escorted by Rear Admiral Von Essen's fleet of destroyers. The cruiser Almaz, with Admiral Dikoff, the minister of marine, aboard, sailed today.

Thirty-Six on Trial.

St. Petersburg, June 8.—The trial by jury of thirty-six participants in the notorious program of 1906 began today at Bialystok. Among the accused are eight women. Only two of the prisoners, M. Bakunovitch and Novakovsky, are held for murder or attempt at murder, the others being charged with minor acts of violence. The indictment emphasizes the leading part the Jews took in the revolutionary activities of 1905-6, the victims of which included twenty-four police officers killed and wounded.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

COUNTY INSTITUTE HELD IN TECUMSEH, THURSDAY, JUNE, 4,

Successful Meetings Have Been Held in the County.

The Sunday School institute which was held in the Presbyterian church, Thursday afternoon and evening was a success thought attendance was small. Mr. E. C Knapp of Chicago, a man wide awake on Sunday school administration was the principal speaker and gave mady helpful suggestions. Mrs. H. E King, superintendent of the primary department of the 1st Baptist Sunday school of Adrian, read two papers on grading and primary work while the singing was led in an efficient manner by E B Butler of Morenci. Mrs. Willets of Adrian and Rev. Sweet of Hudson, president of the County Association was unable to be present.

This meeting was one of a number which have been held throughout the county in the past two months under the direction of the Lenawee county Sunday school association. Five places were visited in may and three (Blissfield, Tecumseh and Adrian) in June. The final session of the series was held in the Methodist church of Adrian, Friday evening.

The tour party consisted of E. C. Knapp, Sunday school specialist of Chicago, E. B. Butler of Morenci in charge of the singing, Mrs. W. D. Willets of Adrian, county primary superintendent, Mrs. H. E. King, superintendent primary department of the 1st Baptist Sunday school of Adrian and Rev. M. J. Sweet of Hudson, president of the association. E. C Ducham of Adrian took Mr. Sweet's place twice.

The purpose of this tour was to bring to the very doors of the Sunday school workers of the county the benefit of a high grade convention: To ascertain how many workers would attend if given such an opportunity and how much they would be willing to contribute to the association because of the tour as well as to arouse interest in the county convention to be held at Blissfield next fall.

The attendance and offering at all the places were fairly good but at some exceptionally so.

Following is a list of the places visited with the attendance and offerings:

BOULDER FUND.

The Ladies of the Federated Clubs wish to express their thanks for the generous patronage given their dinner for the Boulder fund by the public and to A. W. Mills in particular who donated the use of the rooms where the dinner was held also to Miss Ida Chase for the use of dishes and to Messrs. Belding and Rauch who loaned chairs and to the Baptist church, the grange, the Oddfellows and Rebekahs who furnished the silver for the occasion. If the ladies who prepared the dinner had been more optimistic in relying upon the patronage of the "Big Family" there would have been more chicken pies and less people to go away unserved. It was thought that ample provision had been made for all who would come but the willingness of our friends to assist a patriotic cause so far exceeded our expectations that it must serve as our apology for not having things quite as we wished them. It will no doubt interest our patrons to know that fifty dollars was cleared for the Boulder fund. This will be the Federated Clubs contribution to the Pioneer society.

AN ANCIENT HIGHWAY.

England's Great North Road Is Two Thousand Years Old.

Before we reached Hatfield, a few miles out of London, we had already been impressed with the magnificence of this Great North road, which is said to have been built by a Mr. Caesar, whose headquarters were in Rome at the time. It is the direct route from London to Edinburgh and has been traveled for so many centuries that the earliest histories of England contain accounts of the movement of troops upon it. It is a great thoroughfare for vehicles of all sorts, motorists and cyclists, and in these modern days there are well worn footpaths along either side for pedestrians. We passed scores of motors, and I was told while in England that the popularity of motoring had noticeably diminished the number of first class travelers by rail. We found the road for its entire length of 400 miles in perfect condition. In many portions the macadam is said to be nine feet thick. Long sections of the road are oiled, and on no part of it was there any appreciable amount of dust. There are few sharp curves, and the grades are so slight that it has become a great thoroughfare for speeders, with the result that there are many police traps for which one has to watch. We found that we could stop in almost any little village and get information as to just where the traps were located—as, for instance, they told us at Biglewade, which is a better looking place than its name, to look out for traps just the other side of Buckden and again in approaching Weston.—Frank Presbrey in Outing Magazine.

He Didn't Care.

A Georgia man tells of the meeting of a negro "literary society" in that state. During the consideration of the business part of the club's programme some one had proposed that the regular time of meeting be changed from Tuesday to Friday, and this proposition provoked much disputation. Finally, the president of the society being appealed to for his opinion, that official declared with much gravity:

"Membahs of de s'ciety, pussonally, now, pussonally, I don' care which night de s'ciety meets, but fo' myse'f I prefers Tuesday."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

SIMPLE WASH CURES ECZEMA.

Great inventors often have been praised for surrendering the secrets of their discoveries. Practically the same thing happened in the medical world n the case of Dr. Decatur D. Dennis, the eminent skin specialist of Chicago.

Dr. Dennis, in his own office practice, discovered that pure vegetable oil of wintergreen, properly mixed with other simple remedies was practically a sure specific for Eczema, psoriasis, barber's itch salt rheum and other itching skin diseases. But the oil of wintergreen alone was found ineffective. It required other mild ingredients such as glycerine and thymol compounded with the wintergreen to produce the real eczema cure.

The Colorado man who pawned his false tooth for food may have planned for a case of dyspepsia which would make fasting easier.

Go to Cuba, Old Man!

When the advice was given to young men 30 years ago to "Go West," it was excellent advice for YOUNG MEN. But not for old men. The West was sure, but too slow for the old man, and the trials were too great. Cuba is different. Cuba will do in 5 years what the West did in 30. The West WAS O. K., but TODAY look to Cuba.

Cuba will come quick enough for the OLD man, and the climate is so soft and agreeable that it will add 10 or 20 years to your life.

WRITE US. Just send your name and address on a postal card. We want to tell you more of Cuba. You can get a lot from magazines, but our information is first-handed.

POSTAL & MOREY, Props.

The Only One.

Henry VIII. of England, being at one time at variance with Francis I. of France, decided to send an ambassador and to charge him with a very fierce and menacing message to this prince. He chose for this office an English bishop in whom he had great confidence and whom he believed would be the most proper person to carry out his design. His prelate, being informed of the nature of his mission and fearing for his life should he treat with Francis in the haughty manner his master desired, represented to the king the danger to which he was exposing him and begged not to be sent on this mission.

"Oh, never fear," said Henry. "If the king of France should kill you, I will have the head of every Frenchman I find in my kingdom."

"I believe you, sire," replied the bishop, "but permit me to assure you that of all the heads you will cut off there is not one of them that will fit on my body as well as my own!"

Proper Form of Asseveration.

A teacher in the Garfield school was teaching a primary class the beginnings of arithmetic.

"Now, I have one pencil in my right hand and one in my left," she said. "How many pencils have I? Helen, you may answer."

"Two," piped a small voice.

"Then one and one make two, do they?"

"Sure!"

The teacher frowned at the disrespectful answer.

"That's hardly what you should have said," she said. "Will some one in the class tell Helen what her answer should have been?"

There was a moment of hesitation. Then one brown fist shot confidently into the air.

"Ah, James, you may tell Helen what she should have said?"

A very jolly feature of the June Century is the series of Harvard, Yale and Princeton "Old College Songs"—"Fair Harvard." "I-eel" and "Old Nassau"—with drawings, eight pages in all, by John Wolcott Adams, who has done his work with a quaint touch. Of altogether different quality, but also marked by timeliness, is Mrs. Isaac L. Rice's condemnation of "Our Barbarous Fourth"—whose "grim statistics probably furnish a sadder commentary on human folly than that afforded by any other celebration in the world"—a helpfully constructive, as well as destructive, discussion of a very live question.

Thinks It Saved his Life.

Lester M. Nelson, of Naples, Maine, says in a recent letter: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery many years, for coughs and colds, and I think it saved my life. I have found it a reliable remedy for throat and lung complaints, and would no more be without a bottle and I would be without food." For nearly forty years New Discovery has stood at the head of throat and lung remedies. As a preventive of pneumonia, and healer of weak lungs it has no equal. Sold under guarantee at C. A. THIEVES.

Who Worked at Holloway, Friday Night were Captured, Early, Saturday Morning.

Friday night, the post office and general store of Bartholomew and Giles of Holloway was entered, and several articles of clothing, chewing gum, cigars and tobacco, canned goods and $3.00 worth of postage stamps. The officers were notified in the entire county as soon as the theft was discovered Saturday morning. Sheriff Holt went to Holloway in his auto and found that Mr. Bartholomew and Kenneth Holloway had one man, whom they found in a small building near the Wabash depot. He was eating his breakfast, which consisted of the canned goods stolen from the store. He gave his name as John Klien, 88 years of age, and of course denied having anything to do with the theft.

Will Bennett of this place arrested two men near the Quaker mills about 9 o'clock and with the one from Holloway were brought to Tecumseh. They gave their names as Ed Thomas, aged 39, and E. J. Britt, aged 45, claimed they were moulders and lived in Ohio. They were taken to Adrian, one in the automobile, and two on the train. Entrance was made into the store at Holloway by smashing a large glass in the front door. Sheriff Holt searched the grounds around the depot and discovered the bag of plunder.

Burglars visited Clinton Wednesday night, entering two or three stores, and securing but very little Thursday afternoon officers arrested a man here, who gave his hame as James Watson. He was taken to Adrian, and awaits examination.

REUNION OF OLD 4th., MICHIGAN INFANTRY.

On the 19th day of June, 1908, at Tecumseh. occurs the 39th annual reunion of the old 4th Michigan Infantry. It is hoped and expected that every survivor, will be present on that day. And we hope to see the remnant of this famous regiment once more in line.

These boys of 1861 to 1865. These heros who have left their mark on 39 battlefields—Tecumseh has always been liberal with her blood and treasure. Take this day off and come, yourself, and bring the children. Teach them patriotism by showing to them that you honor the Veteran.

Do not send a postal card saying. "Glad to see you." Come, and to rejoice that you can have the honor of greeting these Veterans.

Lincoln Steffens heads the list of contributors to the Fifth Anniversary number of Everybody's with a powerful exposition of the views of President Roosevelt, Secretary Taft, and Senator La-Follette, upon "What the matter is in America, and what to do about it" He has put a lot of leading questions to these men, and their answers are wonderfully instructive. The article has been illustrated by remarkable photographs taken specially for the magazine. There is also an article by Charles Russell, "A burglar in the Making," which brings to light some of the horrors perpetrated in the convict camps of Georgia.

ACCIDENT.

Two young men of this place have narrow escape from drowning.

Sunday afternoon, while Earl Wiley and Eugene Cook were enjoying a little ride on the quiet waters of the Globe mill pond in a canoe which they had rented of Lyle Avery, in some manner the canoe was upset and the occupants were precipitated into the water.

Mr. Cook was unable to swim and it was only through the efforts of Earl Wiley and Howard Shurtz that his life was saved. As Mr. Cook was going down the third time, Earl grabbed him and held him above water until Howard Shurtz could get to him. It was an experience they won't care to repeat.

Holland, Quaint and Sedate.

While Americans are living "The Strenuous Life," the Hollanders are living "The Simple Life" so serenely that Americans should find Holland a sure cure for nervous prostration Simplicity seems to be the key note of the Hollanders as its windmills seem to be the chief characteristic of the country. These phases of life in one of the most curious and smallest countries on the globe, contribute only one of Howe's moving pictures in the New Bradly Opera House, Tecumseh on Tuesday, June 9th. Other features of the new program show a Polar Bear Hunt, The Quarrying Industry in France, Wild Birds in their native haunts. Amongst the Zulus of South Africa, Riding 30 miles an hour in an automobile, Life on a French man-o war, and many others.

BACCALAUREATE SERVICES.

Baccalaureate services were held in the Presbyterian church last Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, Rev. C. C. Kemp of the Episcopal church, delivering the address to the graduates Music was rendered by Miss Mary Kreidler and Floyd Slater, and Miss Edith Magers.

The members of the class and the teachers met at the home of Roger Waring and marched in a body to the church. The pulpit in the church was prettily decorated with poenies, roses and ferns, for the occasion.

The world-wide character of this year's company can be seen at a glance. From France come the great Leon family of acrobats; the Patty Brothers who walk, skip the rope and dance on their heads; Burgess and Clara the gymnasts; Martell cyclists; the aerial Millettes and Miss LaBelle Roche.

From Italy come the Bedini riders and a quartette of acrobatic bell ringers. In Germany were found Schadel, the zebra rider, and the Mirza Golem acrobats are from the court of the Shah of Persia. Keralak and his company of pigs are from New Zealand: Alvarez the aerialist and DeWarlo, the contortionist are from Spain.

Macdougal Alley is the center of the stable dwellers of New York, says the June Designer. This double row of stables, opening on a clean cement-paved alley, was originally occupied by the equine aristocracy of Washington Square. Later they fell into the hands of itinerant Italians, and were in a pretty bad state of dirt and disrepair when they attracted the attention of certain artists and sculptors, who immediately took them as their own.

As an instance of wide-awake, unalloyed entertainment the June Lippincott deserves a place in the front row. This number opens, as always, with a complete-in-one-issue novel, followed by a strong showing of "fiction, fact, and fun." The novel is "The Plague of a Heart," by Helen Milecete, a young Canadian writer who is rapidly making a name for herself. She has her plot completely mapped out in her own mind and then allows the reader to have it without that circumlocution in which many aspiring authors become entangled, to the great detriment of their work.

MANY GOING TO CIRCUS.

The circus seems to be the popular topic of conversation these days and many are making arrangements to visit Adrian Saturday June 13, when Ringling Brothers visit there. The splendid parade at 10 in the morning is a feature. The Ringling Brothers are celebrating the 25th jubilee year of their enterprise by giving a splendid entertainment. The circus this year numbers 1,280 people and 12 acres of ground are required for their many tents. The great program is given in three rings on two stages in a vast hippodrome. Over 300 of the performers are making their first tour of America. Many remarkable features are introduced such as were never before witnessed in America.

FROM THE PINE WOODS.

Hyomei is nature's true cure for catarrh. There is no stomach dosing in using Hyomei, no more than there is when you go to the mountains or the sea-shore to get relief from lung troubles.

When using the Hyomei treatment, the air you breathe is like that on the mountains high above sea level where the pine woods fill the air with aromatic healing that gives health and strength to those suffering from diseases of the respiratory organs. Breathed through the neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, the healing balsams of Hyomei reach the most remote air cells of the throat, nose and lungs, destroying all catarrhal germs and giving quick relief and cure.

Hyomei has performed almost miraculous cures of catarrh, often restoring health in chronic cases that had given up all hope of recovery. Its best action is at the start of the disease, when the breath is becoming offensive and when discharges from the nose, droppings in the throat and frequent sneezing or spasmodic coughing begin to make life a burden. At the first symptom of catarrhal trouble, use Hyomei and see how quickly you get relief and cure.

The complete outfit costs but $1.00 and is sold by C. A. Wright & Son, under guarantee to fund the money if it does not give satisfaction.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Home of Swamp-Root.

WILL CURE CONSUMPTION

A. A. Herren, Finch, Ark., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar is the best preparation for coughs, colds and lung trouble. I know that it has cured consumption in the first stages." You never heard of any one using Foley's Honey and Tar and not being satisfied.

Do babies know the truth about you when they stare so impudently at you?

There is much that is evil in mediaval poetry.

Big cuts or little cuts, small scratches or bruises or big ones are healed quickly by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It is especially good for piles. Be sure to get DeWitt's. Sold by all druggists.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve Wins.

Tom Moore, of Rural Route 1, Cochran, Ga., writes: "I had a bad sore come on the instep of my foot and could find nothing that would heal it until I applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Less than half of a 25 cent box won the day for me by affecting a perfect cure." Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

Marriage is like a cucumber—it doesn't lay you up.

A GOOD REASON.

Tecumseh people can tell you Why it is so.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Tecumseh people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. Geo. Teachout, living on Oneida street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "Some years ago I began to have a great deal of trouble from my kidneys. There were intense pains in the small of my back extending to my shoulder blades, and at times when I stooped, sharp stitches of pain would catch me and I would be unableto straighten for a few seconds. At night, I could not rest well on account of the frequent action of the kidneys, and though I doctored no benefit. I had heard a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a box at Wright and Son,s drug store and began using them. I soon noticed the good effects and continued taking them until entirely cured. I cheerfully recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to any one afflicted with kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo. New York, Sole Agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

SPECTACULAR RAID.

Police In New York Arrest Fifty-Eight Persons For Suspected Gambling.

New York, June 4.—A spectacular raid was made, late last night, on two houses in West Forty-seventh street, where they suspected gambling operations were going on, by a large force of policeman, who dashed up in automobiles and took fifty-eight prisoners. The raids were made while the streets in this section, the heart of the theater district, were crowded, and the actions of the 200 or more officers soon attracted a great throng.

To insure the capture of every person found in the suspected house, police lines were formed around the entire block. Revolvers were flashed everywhere by police and plain clothes men, and all attempts to escape were frustrated.

The arrests were made on John Doe warrants, which called for the arrest of owners and operators of the houses. Five men, giving their names as Abraham Levy, Frank Beer, Frank Meehan, Joseph Brown and Maurice Winslow, were held on these warrants, and the rest of the prisoners, who had been taken to the nearest station, were afterwards released. The police reported the capture of a large quantity of gambling paraphernalia from the raided houses, one of which was formerly owned by "Honest John" Kelly.

President Had Narrow Escape.

Washington, June 4.—President Roosevelt had a narrow escape from a serious accident while horseback riding in Rock Creek park. Mrs. Roosevelt was with the president. Roosevelt was riding a new horse, a frisky, young animal. They rode down through a cut in a bank, forded a creek and were ascending the bank on the other side when the president's horse reared and then went over backward into the creek. Feeling that he was going over, the president slipped from the saddle and, as luck would have it, fell into the creek close beside the horse, which landed on its back. Roosevelt got out of the way as rapidly as possible. The horse was captured at once, the president remounted and rode for an hour and a half before returning to the White House.

Jeff Davis' Birthday Anniversary.

New Orleans, June 4.—Honor was paid to the memory of Jefferson Davis all over the southland Wednesday, the 100th anniversary of his birth. At Montgomery, Ala., the "cradle of the Confederacy," and where the Confederate government was first organized with Jefferson Davis as president, ceremonies were held which will help to perpetuate the memory of the cause of which Davis was the head. These ceremonies, consisting in marking the spots where Davis was elected, where he was inaugurated, where his office as president was situated and the site of the first headquarters of the new government, were impressive. Later, permanent markings will be placed on these historic spots.

Iowa Re-Elects Allison.

Des Moines, Ia., June 4.—Returns from Tuesday's primaries, that are complete in nearly all the counties of the state, indicate that Iowa Republicans nominated William B. Allison for re-election to the United States senate. His majority is now generally conceded to be at least 10,000. B. F. Carroll was nominated for governor over Warren Garst by about 20,000 votes. George W. Clarke was nominated for lieutenant governor over B. Murphy by 20,000 or more. J. F. Riggs was nominated for superintendent of public schools by an overwhelming majority.

Nerve Fag.

If You Waste Your Nerve Energy, After Awhile You Will Suffer For It.

You can waste nerve force by excess, over-work, worry, anxiety, etc.

You can weaken yourself by not eating proper food or securing sufficient rest to renew the nerve energy you use up.

The proper treatment, in addition to good phosphatic food, such as whole meal bread, prepared cereals, etc., is Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine.

This is as truly a brain and nerve food as any food you could eat; and besides, furnishes strength and tone of its own, which goes to the weakened nerve system, and sets it to rights.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine is a refreshing, revitalizing tonic food-medicine for the brain and nerves. It reconstructs worn-out nerve tissue, and fills your languid brain with new life and vigor.

Dr. Miles' Nervine has made so many marvelous cures, of people so sick the doctors thought they were incurable, that it is today the standard medicine in many thousands of American homes.

"The extreme heat, close confinement and intense mental strain incident to the banking business, has caused me to suffer with nervousness and insomnia. It gives me pleasure to say that I have used Dr. Miles' Nervine with very satisfactory results in the treatment of these affections. I am now on my fifth bottle, and eat and sleep well in fact have almost forgotten that I possess nerves."—R. L. DALBY, Asst. Cashier, State Bank, Texarcana, Ark.

NOW COMES TEST AGAIN.

New York's Legislature Assembles Again to Tackle Hughes' Anti Gambling Bill.

Albany, N. Y., June 8.—The extraordinary session of the legislature, convened by Governor Hughes on May 11, will reassemble this evening, and it is generally believed it will take up for the second time the question of abolishing public gambling on race tracks.

Governor Hughes, it is known, has received assurances that Senator Foelker of Kings, who is convalescing from an operation for appendicitis, will be here this week if his vote is necessary to pass the anti race track gambling bills. With these assurances and with the election of W. C Wallace in the Forty-seventh senatorial district, who has pledged himself to support these bills, the governor is expected to renew his recommendation for anti race track gambling legislation.

Opponents of this proposed legislation express a belief that the condition of Senator Foelker is still so serious that he will not be able to come to Albany this week.

Sticking to the Disagreeable Job.

It is the man who can stick to the disagreeable job, do it with energy and vim, the man who can force himself to do good work when he does not feel like doing it—in order words, the man who is master of himself, who has a great purpose and who holds himself to his aim, whether it is agreeable or disagreeable, whether he feels like it or does not feel like it—that wins.

It is easy to do what is agreeable, to keep at the thing we like and are enthusiastic about, but it takes real grit to try to put our whole soul into that which is distasteful and against which our nature protests, but which we are compelled to do for the sake of others who would suffer if we did not do it.

To go every morning with a stout heart and an elastic step, with courage and enthusiasm, to work which we are not fitted for and were not intended to do, work against which our very natures protest just because it is our duty, and to keep this up year in and year out require heroic qualities.—Success Magazine.

Platt Must Pay Wife's Debts.

New York, June 4.—The sealed verdict of the jury which heard the suit brought against Senator Thomas C. Platt by Mrs. Platt's lawyers to recover money which they had advanced to pay her pressing obligations, upon being opened, was found to be in favor of the plaintiffs for the full amount, $3,471.60. In November, 1906, Senator Platt signed an agreement whereby he was to pay his wife $75,000 and give her an estate near Highland Mills, this state. The suit just decided arose over the incurrence of bills by Mrs. Platt between the dates of the separation of the couple and the signing of the absolute separation agreements.

Schofield Is Promoted.

Washington, June 4.—John C. Schofield has been appointed assistant and chif clerk of the war department, to take effect July 1 next. The appointment was made by Secretary Taft after consulting with President Roosevelt. Mr. Schofield has for some time been chief clerk of the war department. The new title adding the word "assistant," created by congress, is interpreted as adding an additional secretary of war and relieves a situation which has been found embarrassing whenever, in the absence of both the secretary and assistant secretary, it is necessary for the ranking army on duty in the department to act in the capacity of secretary.

Saved Her From Poorhouse.

Jonesville, Mich., June 4.—Ill, friendless and poverty stricken, and left alone by her husband, Mrs. Earle H. Dresser, who lives on a farm between here and Litchfield, was saved from the poorhouse by the action of a philantrophist, who denies the use of his name for publication. This man, who holds the mortgage on the Dresser home, which he was compelled to foreclose, has assured the unfortunate woman, through his attorney, that she can remain in her old home and retain a portion of the farm, for her own use, as long as she needs them. Dresser disappeared last fall.

Horses Hold Up Train.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 4.—The southbound Lake Shore passenger train was held up here for three hours by the acrobatic feats of a team of horses belonging to A. C. Sargent, a farmer living near the railroad bridge. The horses jumped the fence of their pasture, got on the railroad track and started across the bridge. They had gone but a little way when their legs slipped through the trestlework, and there they were stuck. It took several men three hours to release them, while a trainload of fuming passengers and an irate train crew said things.

Foresters Agitated.

Owosso, Mich., June 4.—The Independent Order of Foresters is agitated over the prospects of an increase in rates, and meetings for discussions are now being held which will probably culminate at a state meeting at which some sort of policy will be formulated. According to the understanding of local Foresters obtained from the main offices in Toronto, the Canadian parliament will soon, it is expected, reorganize the fraternal insurance business, requiring companies to compete on an equal basis with old line companies.

LAUNCH STRUCK ROCK

Six Men Had Terrible Experience on Big Bay de Noc.

ENGINE WOULD NOT WORK.

Craft Drifted For Hours In Heavy Sea. Finally Went to Pieces on Rocky Reef—Occupants Forced to Tramp For Miles to Civilization.

Escanaba, Mich., June 4.—Drifting helplessly in a disabled launch in the middle of Big Bay de Noc during a terrific gale, and to be finally dashed on a rocky reef, where their boat was completely pounded to pieces, was the experience of six men of Garden, Mich.

The members of the party were six miles from shore when the engine suddenly stopped, and all efforts to start it again were fruitless. The little craft floundered about in the trough of the seas, shipping large quantities of water at every plunge. For four hours the members of the party were forced to work desperately bailing the water from the boat with their hats to keep it afloat. When all were nearly exhausted, the boat was carried on a rock reef near the shore by the wind.

The beach at that point bristles with jagged rocks, and with the first crash the boat was demolished, and all of the men were thrown into the water. All were luckily able to swim and finally managed to reach shallow water. The point where the men landed is nearly twenty miles from the nearest settler, and in the gathering darkness the members of the party started on the long tramp through the thick woods to civilization.

After being lost in swamps many times during the night, and undergoing many hardships, they arrived at Garden completely exhausted.

Preacher Has Unusual Record.

Flint, Mich., June 4.—On the occasion of his eighty-fifth birthday anniversary, the Rev. Seth Reed was given a reception at the Court Street Methodist church. Despite his advanced age, Mr. Reed continues to enjoy excellent health and takes an active interest in public affairs. Mr. Reed was born in New York state and, owing to the fact that he was a weakling, attended school but forty-five weeks in his entire life. Sixty-four years ago he entered the Methodist ministry at Grand Rapids, after teaching school there for five years. His first charge was the Grand River circuit, covering a territory of 400 miles. For eighteen years he was presiding elder, being first accorded that distinction in 1869. Since that date he has been in charge of churches in Owosso, Grand Rapids and other Michigan cities.

Married on Short Courtship.

Vassar, Mich., June 4.—What is evidently a simon-pure case of love at first sight culminated here when Rev. G. W. Olmstead married John A. Moore, a farmer living near Flint, and Mrs. Mary A. Brown of Vassar. It is no "puppy love" affair, either, for the groom is fifty-two years old, and his bride blushingly confesses to having seen fifty summers. The two had corresponded for some time, but had never met. John finally came over to call. It didn't take him long to decide that he had met his affinity, and so ardent was his wooing that the couple were married the next day, just as soon as the groom could procure a license and the services of the minister.

Barry Wins W. C. T. U. Contest.

Bay City, Mich., June 4.—The W. C. T. U. state convention spent both sessions Wednesday listening to reports of state officers, department superintendents and secretaries of the various bureaus. The organization gained 1,400 members in the year, and fifty-six unions were organized. The report of Mrs. E. L. Calkins, state president, dealt largely with the constitutional convention and the effort before it for temperance and against cigarettes. Charles A. Barry of Kalamazoo won the state diamond medal contest. The contestants were: Orson Munn, Grand Rapids; Leslie Quale, Manistee; Ward Maynard, Sparta; Clifford Johnson, Manistee; Charles H. Hunt, Sparta.

Four Priests Appointed.

Detroit, Mich., June 4.—The Rev. Father John Mueller, former pastor of St. Helwig's Polish Catholic church, has been appointed by Bishop Foley as pastor of St. Mary's Polish Catholic church in Parisville. The bishop has also appointed the Rev. Father John Koelzer pastor at Portland, Mich.; the Rev. Father Eugene Culnane of Niles to St. Mary's church, at Jackson, Mich.; the Rev. Father F. Ducat assistant at St. Mary's, Jackson, to Niles.

Prepared Gallows, Then Hanged Self.

Lincoln, Neb., June 4.—C. F. Wilber, a Beatrice (Neb.) butcher, improvised a gallows in the presence of workmen and hanged himself. The deed was done in the building he formerly occupied as a store. He parried questions while attaching a rope to a ceiling hook and, when attention was diverted, drew a noose over his head, leaped from his ladder and was killed. His neck was broken by a fall of seven feet.

Class Colors—Green and White.
Class Motto—"More Beyond."

The stage was handsomely trimmed with the class colors, green and white. The ferns, palms, and leaves used formed a beautiful back ground for the dainty white gowns of the girl graduates. The stage setting was planned by Miss Nellie Mingay and executed by her with the assistance of the members of the Junior class. Promptly at 8 o'clock the members of the class took their places on the stage.

Owing to the large number in the class, honors were divided among a few.

On account of the limited space we have in which to print these exercises, we are sorry that we cannot print all of the able papers presented last evening. However we print a portions of the Salutatory and below.

PROGRAM.

The entire program was interesting from start to finish. Each number showed thought and study.

The boys' quartette, the girls' chorus, Miss Addie Lanning and Wade Frost furnished the music for the program, which was excellent.

The class song, the words for which were written by Miss Alice Combs was very pretty, sung to the air of the old college song, "The Orange and the Black."

Classmates, this glad day we're thinking
That our High School days are o'er,
And these dear familiar faces
We shall see again no more.
Long we've toiled and hard we've studied,
But had much pleasure, I so,
And tonight we all take wit as
Many friendships, fond and true.

CHORUS.

Now, classmates, one and all, adieu.
Tonight this place of life is done.
Gladly we greet our life work new,
And victories to be won.

In the past we oft have faltered,
Many times our courage lost,
Often times we all have doubted
If the gain were worth the cost.
Though tonight, all cares behind us,
Yet with mingled joy and pain
We are leaving now, forever,
Days which ne'er can come again.

Comrades, out upon life's journey
Now we go with motives high,
Let us do our duty nobly,
Never own defeat is nigh.
Much we owe to these dear teachers,
Who have ever spurred us on,
Leading to this day of gladness,
The results of vic'tries won.

Benediction—Rev. Wollam.

The Salutatory by Miss Florence Keyser we print as follows:

We have triumphed. To be able to say this was the goal toward which Roman generals bent all their efforts. To them, as to us, it had a double meaning. It signified conquest after a long, and often tedious, struggle and also the public acknowledgement of victory. So we, the class of nineteen hundred and eight, during these long, and yet after all seemingly short, months have been meeting our enemies and conquering them with this, our hour of triumph, ever in view and tonight we, as a class and also as individuals, may well be proud to say "We have triumphed."

A Roman general, in order to triumph, must have have successfully brought to a close, under his own leadership, some foreign war. Afterwards he was given a public "triumph," a solemn rejoicing, including a pompa, or a procession of the general and soldiers on foot with their plunder. The victorious general, clad in a robe embroidered with gold and wearing a laurel wreath, solemnly entered the city riding in a chariot drawn by four horses. Captives and spoils went before him and the army followed. The usual length of one of these celebrations was one day but in special cases when the victory was of extraordinary importance it sometimes lasted for several days

So, tonight, our victory is publicly acknowledged and the goal toward which we have been striving has been reached. With Caesar we can say, "We came; we saw; we conquered."

The gaining of this victory has required long months of diligent and persevering effort on our part; it has meant the meeting and overcoming of obstacles often burdensome but let us remember that with these hours of toil have been intermingled many hours of pleasure.

A Roman was always proud to have his triumph witnessed by the whole nation and we also may be justly proud to have our victory acknowledged in the presence of so many friends. To our teachers and parents especially, and to all who have been instrumental in aiding us to win this great victory we owe the very best of which we are capable and it is with pleasure that we stand before you tonight as a class and welcome you to share with us the celebration of our triumph.

In behalf of the class of nineteen hundred and eight, I extend to each and every one a most cordial welcome.

Owing to the accident, which Miss Mildred Boyce suffered early in the spring, she was not able to give her oration.

Earl W. McNeil delivered the Valedictory, and it was a fitting close to the delightful program.

The presentation of Diplomas by S. W. Anderson, was followed by the benediction by Rev. Wollam.

LEGEND OF OLD JAPAN

The Story of Chobei, the Leader of the Duelists.

A MAN WHO KNEW NOT FEAR.

Rather Than Tarnish His Reputation For Bravery He Accepted the Prince's Invitation and Went Voluntarily to Assassination.

The following legend of Chobei has been handed down in Japan as indicative of the courage of the "bravis," or duelists, who flourished in Yeddo during the sixteenth century, forming a sort of Japanese St. Hermindad. Chobei, the leader of this clique, was a redoubtable swordsman, whose constantly recurring duels forced his master to expel him from his retinue. Unwilling to enlist with another of the feudal lords, he assembled all the D'Artagnans of Yeddo about him until his power incited even the princes to envy, although they declined to recognize the outlawed duelist.

On this pretense he was excluded from a popular tea house one day at an hour when was expected Juirozayemon, the leader of the Hatamotos, then the most influential political party in Japan, who had arrogated the city of Yeddo for the official residence. But Chobei, with a shrug of his shoulders, forced his way past the attendants into the apartments reserved for the prince, where he removed his garments and cast himself on a couch in feigned slumber.

"Who is that brute?" demanded the prince on his arrival. "The leader of the swordsmen," they answered him. Juirozayemon seated himself in silence and began to smoke. Having smoked his pipe, he emptied the glowing cinders into the pretended sleeper's nostrils, repeating this five times, when he paused, astounded by such courageous endurance. Chobei, noting this, yawned, rubbed his eyes like one awakening from profound slumber and exclaimed:

"You, oh, most noble master! And I, having drunk too much, should have slept uncovered before your eyes! How shall I excuse my vulgarity?"

"I have so long sought your acquaintance that you are forgiven. Be seated and accept this cup of wine, I beg you."

Politeness forbade Chobei to refuse a drop of the proffered cup, a huge beaker of powerful wine, offered him in the hopes of overpowering him. But Chobei drained it easily and, replenishing it, presented it to his host, who accomplished this feat with the utmost difficulty.

"Will your highness permit me to offer you some gift of value?" Chobei asked humbly.

"Surely."

"What do you most desire?"

Thinking to render the brave ridiculous before the whole city, the prince said promptly:

"A plate of macaroni."

"Ah, Chobei," thought he, "the whole town will soon be telling how the great duelist was permitted only to offer a plate of macaroni to the president of the Hatamotos."

After a whispered colloquy the attendant disappeared, leaving the two enemies alone, smiling, but impassive. But soon a great noise penetrated the apartment, and the prince discovered a crowd of workmen busily constructing an immense wall of macaroni around the tea house. All Yeddo was assembled to view this unique and royal gift. Discomfited that the "bravo" should have outwitted his ruse, the prince departed to plan revenge. The following day brought with it an invitation from Juirozayemon to breakfast. Despite his comrade's remonstrances Chobei insisted on accepting it. As he entered the prince's dwelling the samurais threw themselves upon him with drawn swords. Chobei's immense muscular strength enabled him to disarm them, when he proceeded unannounced to the rear apartment.

"Pardon me, your lordship," said he, "for announcing myself. Your attendants have forgotten to do so."

"Surely. Perhaps they have sought quarrel with you. 'Twas but a joke, for I wagered that all six could not disarm you. Perhaps you would like a bath to refresh yourself."

Who shall say that Chobei was wise? Alone in his enemy's house, he disarmed his weapons, removed his garments and crouched in the bath. The water that was at first hot was soon boiling. Chobei dashed from the bath, but ten spears held by invisible hands forced him back. Suffocated by steam, exhausted by blood, Chobei fell dying to the ground.

The samurais were still congratulating themselves on their success when a loud knocking was heard. Inquiry revealed the dueling confederates who were come to seek their leader.

"He is drunk and cannot see you."

"Our leader is dead. We have brought his bier."

The samurais were dumb with astonishment. Chobei had divined the trap, yet, preferring to sustain his reputation of daring untarnished by any accusation of fear, had voluntarily gone to his assassination.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

A Grand Family Medicine.

"It gives me pleasure to speak a good word for Electric Bitters," writes Mr. Frank Conlan of No 435 Houston st., New York. "It's a grand family medicine for dyspepsia and liver complications; while for lame back and weak kidneys it cannot be too highly recommended." Electric Bitters regulate the digestive functions, purify the blood, and impart renewed vigor and vitality to the weak and debilitated of both sexes. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 50c.

A manwfody dayrperfect health, so can do an honest day's work when necessary, has much for which he should be thankful. Mr L. C. Rodgers, of Branchton, Pa., writes that he was not only unable to work, but he couldn't stoop over to tie his own shoes. Six bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made a new man of him. He says, "Success to Foley's Kidney Cure."

The actor is like a flaming chimney and the critic often makes him draw.

If you will make inquiry it will be a revelation to you how many succumb to kiddey or bladder troubles in one form or another. If the patient is not beyond medical aid, Foley's Kidney Cure will cure. It never disappoints.

Ma says some women are busy in the present making a past for the future.

W. R. Ward, of Dyersburg, Tenn., writes: "This is to certify that I have used Orina Laxative Fruit Syrup for chronic constipation, and it has proven, without a doubt, to be a thorough, practical remedy for this trouble, and it is with pleasure I offer my conscientious reference."

Some women will spend fifty cents on a cab to save two cents on a spool of thread.

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a ballet. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes.

A man doesn't have to go to Nevada to be in a terrible state.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup is the one that children like so well to take as it tastes nearly as good as maple sugar. It is different from the others as it does not constipate, but on the other hand it acts gently yet freely on the bowels and thereby it drives the cold out of the system. It is sold by all druggists.

Stomach troubles are very common in the summer time and you should not only be very careful about what you eat just now, but more than this, you should be careful not to allow your stomach to become disordered, and when the stomach goes wrong take Kodol. This is the best known preparation that is offered the people today for dyspepsia or indigestion or any stomach trouble. Kodol digests all foods. It is pleasant to take. It is sold here by all druggists.

Nature has provided the stomach with certain natural fluids known as the digestive juices, and it is through these juices that the food we eat is acted upon in such a way as to produce the rich, red blood that flows through the veins of our body and thereby makes us strong, healthy and robust, and it is the weakening of these digestive juices destroys health. It is our own fault if we destroy our own health, and yet it is so easy for any one to put the stomach out of order. When you need to take something take it promptly but take something you know is reliable—something like Kodol for Dyspepsia and Indigestion. Kodol is pleasant to take, it is reliable and is guaranteed to give relief. It is sold by all druggists.

WORKED HIS WAY.

The Job an Energetic Student Took to Cross the Atlantic.

Jack had paid his way always. Out of the poverty of his childhood he had fought his way through the university. After graduation he felt he must see Europe, and with the little accumulation he had he "crossed the pond," trusting to good luck to get home again. But, his trip of sightseeing over, he found himself in Liverpool without money and with no means of getting any.

He thought he would just go down to the steamship, go on board and see how it would seem if only he were going home.

As he wandered over the big liner his attention was attracted by a crying baby. The mother was travelling alone, and while she was attempting to see to all the thousand and one details incident to the beginning of an ocean trip the baby had resented the neglect he felt he had received and was crying. The mother was at her wits' end.

Jack's kind heart prompted him to say: "Let me take the baby, madam. Perhaps I can keep him quiet until your preparations are made."

This request, so unusual from a stranger and especially from a man stranger, naturally filled her with surprise, but she looked Jack squarely in the eye for a second and trusted him. "I wish you would," she said.

Jack's care was extremely satisfactory to his baby-ship, and when, in a half hour, the mother was ready to reclaim her child she found a happy baby cooing and trying to devour a bunch of keys at one gulp.

She laughed as she took the youngster and thanked Jack. Then she added, quite in fun, "I wish you were going clear across."

Jack saw his opportunity. He said: "Madam, I'm a college student, out of funds and longing for home. If you will pay my passage to America I will take care of your baby all the way across."

His proposition was accepted, and he kept his word. He is a prominent lawyer now, and he looks back with considerable amusement to his experience in getting home from Europe.—Youth's Companion.

The Senate Band.

The press gallery of the senate does not look unlike a band stand, with its elaborately decorated front, and it is never occupied by the scribes prior to the opening of the proceedings. A young lady seated in the gallery opposite the press gallery had been looking intently at the empty seats for quite awhile. Her curiosity got the better of her, and, going to the doorkeeper, she said, "Mister, will you please tell me when the band begins to play?" The doorkeeper was amazed. "No band will play, miss," said that gentleman. "There is no band. Why do you ask?"

The young lady looked disappointed and embarrassed when she said, with hesitation, "Isn't that the band stand?" pointing to the press gallery.—Washington Herald.

CHURCH AFFAIRS

What is accomplished through the Social Life.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

Mrs. Milton Crane is on the sick list.

Mrs. Cynthia Gridley of Toledo is visiting here.

Miss Peck goes to her home at Thornton tomorrow.

James Waldron is expected h me this morning from the M. A. C.

Mrs. Robert Moore and son Robert, jr. have gone to Toledo for a visit.

Children's day exercises will take the place of the regular morning services next Sunday.

Mrs. C. H. Bramble is enjoying a visit from her mother Mrs Heath of Spring Lake.

Robert Moore, jr., celebrated his seventh birthday Wednesday and was made happy by a present of a baseball suit.

At the National convention at Oklahoma last month, Miss Carrie Millspaugh, whom most of our readers will remember, gave a well received talk on mission work in the west.

Our church is well represented in the graduating class this year, the following persons being members of the class: Leroy Bramble, Earl McNeil, Alvin Brazee, Florance Bryan, Iva Waldron, Clara Waldron and Percy Bowen.

At the Baptist church—Prayer circle at 9 45 a. m. The Children's Day exercises by the Bible school at 10 a. m. B. Y. P. U. prayer meeting at 6 p. m. Evening service with preaching at 7 o'clock. Theme, "A plea for decision," everyone invited.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Rev and Mrs. Kemp were in town to attend the missionary meeting Tuesday.

Friday evening service has been discontinued until after the warm season.

C. C. Kemp rector—Service Sunday at 4 p. m. Subject of sermon, "Love of Almighty God." Sunday school at 11:30.

The missionary meeting at the home of Mrs. Tiffany Tuesday afternoon was well attended Mr. Kemp read a very interesting paper on Pioneering on the Alaska, South Coast, also an artical that will be of interest to the parish as it is about Rev Burleson and his work on "The North Dakota Prairie." There is a deserted log house on the open prairie far away from other habitations. Rev. Burleson hearing of people to the westward who desired the services of the church, he sought them out, and arranged that on Sunday afternoons, he, journeying from the east and they from the west, should meet and worship at the abandoned log home. And they come never less than thirty. True, there is neither chancel nor furniture, and before service the missionary steps out side and hangs his coat on a nail driven into a log and dons his vestments on the broad prairie, but that is a small matter where men have the will to worship. It was amid such surroundings last November, that a unique service was performed. Church was at an end, darkness coming on. A man came into the church and said: "Parson, are you in a hurry?" "Why," said Mr. Burleson, "what can I do for you?" "Well," replyed the man I've brought a grain wagon full of children I'd like to have baptized and its a job to get them here.

"Of course I will have the baptism," replyed the clergyman and there in the abandoned house, with a salmon can holding the water (it was the only thing to be found) This family were baptized: with as much solemity and dignity as though the walls of a cathedral had stood about them, and a golden bowl with crystal water had been the means employed.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The pastor is planning to attend the Conference on Young People's Work at Lake Winona in July.

Work will be begun on the addition to the church next week, when the new kitchen 14x18 will be begun on the northeast corner of the building.

Next Sunday morning the rite of baptism will be administered to children, mothers who desire to present their children at that time will notify the pastor.

At the prayer service Wednesday night, a number of the children of the primary department were present to sing their songs. Elmer Magers, Michelene Heins, Geraldine Orr, Althea Haviland and Doris Anderson of the Junior department also assisted the pastor in the service. The prayers were for the Bible school.

Sunday evening at the Presbyterian church will be given the third muscial program. The program will in part be as follows:

"Song of the Flower"—Kauffman—Choir.

BASE BALL.

In Tuesday's game at Lansing, Tecumseh won by a score of 13 to 4. Schippy featured at bat getting 6 hits out of 6 times up, three singles, two triples and a double. Todd pitched for Lansing and Doty for Tecumseh.

Schippy's batting may be more than a South Michigan League record, a hurried search does not reveal that it has been duplicated.

The score was as follows:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Lansing	1	0	0	1	0	0	2	0	0	4	5	4

The Best Pills Ever Sold.

"After doctoring 15 years for chronic indigestion, and spending over two hundred dollars, nothing has done me as much good as Dr. King's New Life Pills. I consider them the best pills ever sold," writes B. F. Ayscue, of Ingleside, N. C. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 25c.

MRS. VIXENHEAD.

The Story of a Berlin Shrew and Her Likeness in Stone.

This quaint equivalent of the German term neidkopf is applied by travelers to an effigy carved in stone and fixed in a niche in the second story of a house in the Heiligengeiststrasse in Berlin not far from the emperor's palace. The neidkopf represents a hideous, harpy faced woman with snakelike curls and tongue protruding in mocking derision.

One day some 200 years ago, the legend runs, Frederick William of Prussia, more familiarly known as Old Fritz, was walking about the streets of the city in the unconventional way he affected when he chanced to look through a window and observed a hunchbacked goldsmith hard at work. The king entered the little shop for a chat.

The result of his interview was an order for a gold table service for the royal household, an order that made the fortune of the hunchback. Later his majesty made other visits to the shop to see how the work was advancing, and on one of these occasions he observed a woman in the window of the opposite house contorting her face in the most hideous grimaces and pointing with derisive finger at the crippled workman.

To the king's query as to what ailed the old woman the goldsmith replied: "It is envy, sire. She is the wife of a rival goldsmith, and ever since your majesty so graciously gave me this order she and her daughter have reviled me."

Frederick William, paternal in punishment as well as in reward, at once investigated as to the ownership of the house in which the shrew lived. He found that it belonged to her husband and therefore reasoned that there was little likelihood of the family moving, an idea that seemed greatly to please his majesty. His next move was to consult a sculptor, whom he commanded to make the bust of a woman with the most shrewish, Xantippe-like face he could imagine. The king then bought and renovated the house in which the hunchback had his workshop, presented it to him and caused the bust to be placed conspicuously above the workroom window. Thus whenever the envious woman across the street looked forth from her casement the first object on which her eyes fell was this intended portrait of her amiable self.

For more than a hundred years the neidkopt—spiteful vixen head, as one would say in English—stood in proud prominence, a reproach to the envious woman and her descendants. It afterward mysteriously disappeared, but in 1840 or thereabouts it was found in a forgotten collection of bric-a-brac. Frederick William IV. bought the bust for a large price and had it replaced in its original niche, where it stands today.—New York Tribune.

"Make anything on that deal?" Gobsa Golde inquired.

"Only a million," Mydusa gloomily replied.

"Well, every million counts."—New York Press.

MAKE THE STOMACH WORK

Indigestion Can Never be Cured by Mollycoddling.

Make the organ work. If it cannot take care of the food you eat without complaints such as flatulence, indigestion, headaches, and the feeling of fullness or distress, make its muscles work by using Mi-o-na stomach tablets.

These little tablets, taken with regularity for a few days, will soon strengthen the muscles and walls of the stomach so that it will take pleasure in working to digest the food you eat, and there will be no further suffering with indigestion, bloating, flatulence or distress after eating.

The time to treat a disordered or weakened stomach is when you begin to suspect that you have indigestion, for the suspicion will turn to certainty very soon. The heart-burn, the flatulence, the coated tongue and heavy and dull feeling after eating that come occasionally after you eat too much of something that does not agree with you, will show themselves after nearly every meal unless the stomach is put to work with Mi-o-na.

There is no need of special dieting if you set the stomach at work with Mi-o-na. Eat what you want and when you want it and believe that you are going to be well and you will see relief from the first dose and complete cure in a few days.

Try a 50 cent box of Mi-o-na on C. A. Wright & Son's drug store, guarantee of money back if it does not do all that is claimed for it.

MANY GOING TO CIRCUS.

The circus seems to be the popular topic of conversation these days and many are making arrangements to visit Adrian Saturday June 13, when Ringling Brothers visit there. The splendid parade at 10 in the morning is a feature. The Ringling Brothers are celebrating the 25th jubilee year of their enterprise by giving a splendid entertainment. The circus this year numbers 1,280 people and 12 acres of ground are required for their many tents. The great program is given in three rings on two stages in a vast hippodrome. Over 300 of the performers are making their first tour of America. Many remarkable features are introduced such as were never before witnessed in America

Thinks It Saved his Life.

Lester M. Nelson, of Naples, Maine, says in a recent letter: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery many years, for coughs and colds, and I think it saved my life. I have found it a reliable remedy for throat and lung complaints, and would no more be without a bottle and I would be without food." For nearly forty years New Discovery has stood at the head of throat and lung remedies. As a preventive of pneumonia, and healer of weak lungs it has no equal. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

E. D. G. RUSSELL DIES OF HIS INJURIES

Well Known Kalamazoo Man Victim of Accident in Tecumseh.

E. D. G. Russell, for 36 years a well known resident of Kalamazoo, died at his home, 625 Second street, at 5:30 Sunday afternoon after an illness of two weeks. He was 64 years of age and a member of St Luke's church.

For the last 18 years Mr. Russell had been one of Kalamazoo's well known traveling salesmen. Previous to that time he had been connected with business concerns in this city. About three weeks ago while in Tecumseh he accidently fell and broke his ankle. The injury seemed of little significance and for a week he seemed to be improving nicely. It was not until about two weeks ago that complications developed and it was discovered that the brain had been injured. His condition was not then thought to be dangerous and it was not until a week ago fatal results were feared. From that time the patient declined rapidly and death was expected at any time during the past few days.

Mr. Russell was born in New York city and came to Kalamazoo 36 years ago. He is survived by a wife, six children and four sisters, the sisters being residents of Hillsdale.

The funeral was held in St. Luke's church at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Burial, private, in Riverside cemetery.

JOINT MEMORIAL.

Sunday, June 14th, the lodges of Tecumseh will observe Memorial.

On Sunday, June 14th, the Odd Fellows, Rebekahs, Pythian Sisters, Sir Knights and Lady Maccabees, Royal Arcanums, Modern Woodmen and the Royal Neighbors will hold a joint Memorial, meeting at the Odd Fellow hall at 1 o'clock, forming in line and marching to the cemetery where the graves of the dead from the various lodges will be decorated, exercises will be given in the cemetery. Burton Hart of Adrian, will give the address and the ladies quartette will furnish music. The Tecumseh band will also be in line.

ACCIDENT

Ernest Elliott, who was working on a scaffold in Toledo last Saturday, fell to the ground breaking his collar bone and two ribs receiving internal injuries.

This is the third or fourth severe accident Mr. Elliott has had since commencing his work in Toledo a few years ago.

The "thriller" is nothing less than a double somersault made in mid air by a heavy automobile with Mlle. La Belle Roche, a young French woman, at the wheel. The car dashes down a steep incline from the dome of the tent, an abrupt up-curved terminal hurls the car high above the heads of the audience, where it accomplishes two complete revolutions and then lands with a crash on a narrow speedway, exhausting its terific momentum on the hippodrome track

This is an act that defies English. It cannot be described and when once seen the picture of it will be carried in memory always. It is the first instance where a single automobile has turned two somersaults in space.

The world-wide character of this year's company can be seen at a glance. From France come the great Leon family of acrobats; the Patty Brothers who walk, skip the rope and dance on their heads; Burgess and Clara the gymnasts; Martell cyclists; the aerial Millettes and Miss LaBelle Roche.

From Italy come the Bedini riders and a quartette of acrobatic bell ringers. In Germany were found Schadel, the zebra rider, and the Mirza Golem acrobats are from the court of the Shah of Persia. Kerslak and his company of pigs are from New Zealand: Alvarez the aerialist and DeWarlo, the contortionist are from Spain.

Macdougal Alley is the center of the stable dwellers of New York, says the June Designer. This double row of stables, opening on a clean cement-paved alley, was originally occupied by the equine aristocracy of Washington Square. Later they fell into the hands of itinerant Italians, and were in a pretty bad state of dirt and disrepair when they attracted the attention of certain artists and sculptors, who immediately took them as their own.

If a journalist were to become a gardener, I suppose he would raise plenty of "beats." A chiropodist would be quite likely, under the same conditions, to plant corn, and dentists would make a great effort to raise a large crop of rubber plant.

TO RESCUE NAPOLEON

A Bold Plan That Was Matured In This Country.

IT WAS A DARING SCHEME.

The Enterprise Was Known to the Exile of St. Helena, but Just as the Preparations Were About Complete the Fallen Emperor Died.

Even in "the last phase" our country sustained a certain association with the captive of St. Helena, says a writer in the Magazine of History.

The English felt that any danger of rescue would originate upon the western shore of the Atlantic.

Admiral Cockburn occupied the neighboring island of Ascension, avowedly to prevent it falling into the hands of Yankee raiders. The feeling in the United States against England was at that time quite bitter. Napoleon's landing at St. Helena followed the battle of New Orleans only about seven months, and the downfall of the revolutionary monarch aroused deep sympathy throughout the country.

But the actual grounds for believing in the existence of a rescue party and rescue plans in the United States rest upon the movements of General Lallemand and his associates. This officer's military record, from the revolutionary days to Waterloo, had been distinguished by notable feats of daring.

His devotion to the emperor was loyal and persistent; he had followed him until his embarkation from the shores of France and had tried in vain to accompany him to St. Helena. He was condemned to death by the reactionary tribunals of 1816, but had succeeded in escaping and joining his brother at Philadelphia.

At this time our country was literally swarming with French military refugees, many of whom, like Lallemand, were under capital sentence for their conduct toward the Bourbons during the hundred days.

The Lallemands proceeded ostensibly to unite a number of these veterans into a military colony which they called the Field of Asylum.

Our government granted them 100,000 acres on the banks of the Tombigbee, but as their own project required their establishment near the sea they sold the lands and with the proceeds settled on the Trinity river, in Texas, about fifteen miles from its mouth.

The second in command was Baron Rigaud, whose kindly feelings toward the ancient regime had been illustrated by publicly stamping the cross of St. Louis under his feet. Needless to say, he was also under sentence of death by Louis XVIII.'s court martial.

But the best known of all this devoted band was the famous pirate Lafitte, who had begun life as a Bordeaux blacksmith, had killed his love rival in a duel, had become a noted corsair, the terror of the Antillean seas, had been the effective ally of General Jackson in repulsing the British at New Orleans and at the time of the French settlement of old guardsmen in his vicinity was established at Galveston.

This narrative does not require a detailed statement of the affairs of the 400 grenadiers, of the attacks of the Mexicans on their camp, of their final removal to New Orleans.

All the circumstances indicate that it was not the intention of the Lallemands to found an agricultural colony, but to unite about 1,000 old soldiers for the deliverance of the great prisoner.

The location of their camp was most favorable for the scheme, being near the sea in an unsettled country where their movements would not be watched and, above all, being in proximity to Lafitte, who commanded the required ships. Besides these desirable vessels, one, a model of swiftness, was constructed at Charleston and equipped for its purpose in the most complete manner.

An intrepid captain named Boissiere, who navigated for pleasure, had accepted its command, and this was the ship destined to carry away Napoleon Bonaparte, while Lafitte would land the guardsmen and engage the attention of the English cruisers.

The enterprise was known to the captives, as shown by Bertrand's disclosures. But when the preparations were about complete the news arrived of the emperor's death.

Squaring the Circle.

There is a record of an attempted quadrature in Egypt 500 years before the exodus of the Jews, and, if we are to take Hone as an authority, the problem was solved by Hippocrates, the geometrician of Chios, nearly 500 years B. C. By some it is claimed that the efforts of Hippocrates were in the direction of converting a circle into a crescent because he had found that the area of a figure produced by drawing two perpendicular radii is exactly equal to the triangle formed by the line of conjunction. This last is the famous theorem of the "lunes of Hippocrates." The "Papyrus Rhind," the oldest mathematical book in the world, written by one Ahmes about 2,000 B. C., gives a rule for "squaring the circle." The rule given requires that the diameter of a circle shall be shortened by one-ninth and the square erected upon this shortened line. The early Babylonians also worked at this old mathematical problem, as is attested by several references in the Talmud.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

WILL CURE CONSUMPTION

A. A. Herren, Finch, Ark., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar is the best preparation for coughs, co'ds and lung trouble. I know that it has cured consumption in the first stages." You never heard of any one using Foley's Honey and Tar and not being satisfied.

Bucklen's Arnica Salve Wins.

Tom Moore, of Rural Route 1, Cochran, Ga., writes: "I had a bad sore come on the instep of my foot and could find nothing that would heal it until I applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Less than half of a 25 cent box won the day for me by affecting a perfect cure." Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are prompt and thorough and will in a very short time strengthen the weakened kidneys and allay troubles arising from inflammation of the bladder. They are recommended everywhere. Sold by all druggists.

Healthy kidneys filter the impurities from the blood, and unless they do this good health is impossible. Foley's Kidney Cure makes sound kidneys and will positively cure all forms of kidney and bladder disease. It strengthens the whole system.

A woman's hair is always too thick or too thin to suit her.

A GOOD REASON.

Tecumseh people can tell you Why it is so.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Tecumseh people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. Geo. Teachout, living on Oneida street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "Some years ago I began to have a great deal of trouble from my kidneys. There were int nse pains in the small of my back extending to my shoulder blades, and at times when I stooped, sharp stitches of pain would catch me and I would be unable to straighten for a few seconds. At night, I could not rest well on account of the frequent action of the kidneys, and though I doctored no benefit. I had heard a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills I got a box at Wright and Son, a drug store and began using them. I soon noticed the good effects and continued taking them until entirely cured. I cheerfully recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to any one afflicted with kidney trouble."

SERPENT OF AESCULAPIUS.

Worship of Snakes Led to Adoption of the Mystical Symbol.

It has been pointed out by Dr. Boudin that the worship of the serpent was so universal in antiquity that all temples came to be known as "draconia" (serpent houses).

However that may be, serpents were kept in many of the temples of antiquity, notably in those of Apollo, whose son, Aesculaplus, is represented in ancient statuary carrying a serpent intwined round a staff or round his arm. The serpent, indeed, came in time to be the special mystical emblem or symbol of the Aesculapian art.

The serpents of the ancient Greek temples were in all probability relics of that primitive serpent worship which was at one time universal among prehistoric peoples and has not died out among many savage races at the present day.

And "voodoo," or "obi," serpent worship is still said to linger in the West Indies among the descendants of slaves.

In Haiti especially, where negroes were dumped down from Africa by the old slave traders and were kept in reserve before being sold to masters in the surrounding islands, voodoo has defied Roman Catholic missionaries and priests for ages. A French naval officer who visited the court of the Haitian potentate Soulongue in 1849 described a voodoo ceremony where cannibalistic and other orgies were indulged in.

It is noticeable that the cock and black goat which were solemnly eaten on this occasion were both of them sacred to Aesculaplus. Hence we may infer that the Aesculapian cultus was originally an innocent form of voodoo and at the same a primordial religion.

The extreme antiquity of serpent worship seems, indeed, to be hinted at in Genesis, where the devil appears in the guise of the snake god latent on the ruin of man. In the story of the brazen serpent healing qualities are attributed to the image.—Lancet.

A PECULIAR SPIDER.

He Catches Birds as Big as Larks In His Mammoth Web.

Far up in the mountains of Ceylon there is a spider that spins a web like bright yellowish silk, the central net of which is five feet in diameter, while the supporting lines, or guys, as they are called, measure sometimes ten or twelve feet, and, riding quickly in the early morning, you may dash right into it, the stout threads twining round your face like a lace veil, while, as the creature that has woven it takes up his position in the middle, he generally catches you right in the nose, and, though he seldom bites or stings, the contact of his large body and long legs is anything but pleasant. If you forget yourself and try to catch him, bite he will, and, though not venomous, his jaws are as powerful as a bird's beak, and you are not likely to forget the encounter.

The bodies of these spiders are very handsomely decorated, being bright gold or scarlet underneath, while the upper part is covered with the most delicate slate colored fur. So strong are the webs that birds the size of larks are frequently caught therein, and even the small but powerful scaly lizard falls a victim. A writer says that he has often sat and watched the yellow monster—measuring, when waiting for his prey, with his legs stretched out, fully six inches—striding across the middle of the net and noted the rapid manner in which he winds his stout threads round the unfortunate captive.

He usually throws the coils about the head until the wretched victim is first blinded and then choked. In many unfrequented dark nooks of the jungle you come across most perfect skeletons of small birds caught in these terrible snares.

Blessings of the Blind.

The calamity of the blind is immense, irreparable. But it does not take away our share of the things that count—service, friendship, humor, imagination, wisdom. It is the secret inner will that controls one's fate. We are capable of willing to be good, of loving and being loved, of thinking to the end that we may be wiser. We possess these spirit born forces equally with all God's children. Therefore we, too, see the lightnings and hear the thunders of Sinai. We, too, march through the wilderness and the solitary place that shall be glad for us, and as we pass God maketh the desert to blossom like the rose. We, too, go in unto the promised land to possess the treasures of the spirit, the unseen permanence of life and nature.—Helen Keller in Century.

CATARRH OF THE STOMACH RELIEVED.

Perhaps No Medicine in the World Has Relieved More Cases of Catarrh of the Stomach Than Pe-ru-na.

The Symptoms of Stomach Catarrh Are Heaviness After Eating, Belching Gas, Sourness of the Stomach, Sluggish Bowels.

ALDERMAN GEO. W. WEICK. DENVER, COL. SAYS:—"I HAVE USED PERUNA FOR CATARRH OF THE STOMACH AND IT HAS HELPED ME WONDERFULLY."

SOME OTHER STARTLING TESTIMONIALS.

ALDERMAN GEORGE W. WEICK, 1471 South Seventh Street, Denver, Col., Alderman Eleventh Ward, writes: "I have used Peruna for catarrh of the stomach and it has helped me wonderfully."

Chronic Stomach Trouble.

MR. SAMUEL A. SEAL, Route 2, Treadway, Tenn., writes: "It gives me great pleasure to testify to the great good your medicine, Peruna, has done for me in a chronic case of catarrh of the stomach. I was confined to my bed for some time, and could not sit up. I had tried everything that I could find recommended for catarrh, without any benefit. I tried the best physicians in Hancock County, with little or no benefit. I then tried two of the best physicians in Hawkins County, and found they were doing me no good. I was gradually growing worse.

"Then a friend of mine, passing by, handed me one of your pamphlets, and seeing how Peruna was recommended for catarrh, I sent to Rogersville, Tennessee, next morning, a distance of about fifteen miles, and procured some of your Peruna, and began taking same according to directions, and after taking it a few days I began to get better.

"I continued using it until I was able to go to work on the farm again, and now I am in very good health and do work on my farm.

"I do honestly believe your great medicine, Peruna, saved my life, and I cheerfully recommend it to like sufferers. You are at liberty to publish my testimonial, and I truly hope it may be a benefit to some one."

Catarrh of Head and Stomach.

Mr. Frank Richter, of 309 East Second Street, Winona, Minn., writes: "As a remedy for catarrh I take pleasure in recommending Peruna for catarrh of the stomach. I know what it is to be afflicted with this awful disease, and consider it my duty to say a word in behalf of the remedy which gave me such relief.

"Peruna cured me, and I know it will cure any one else who suffers from this disease. It gives me great pleasure to testify to the curative effects of this medicine.

"Peruna is a well tested and frequently used remedy, and for catarrh of the stomach it is unsurpassed.

"My catarrh was principally located in my head and stomach. I tried many remedies without success. I tried several doctors, but they were unable to cure me. I read of Peruna in the papers, and five bottles cured me."

Almost from the first dose Peruna will relieve symptoms of stomach catarrh. Peruna at once sharpens the appetite, increases the digestive powers, and gives renewed strength.

People who Object to Liquid Medicines Should Buy Peruna Tablets

The trouble with most cough cures is that they constipate. Kennedy's laxative cough syrup does not constipate, but on the other hand its laxative principles gently move the bowels. It is pleasant to take and it is especially recommended for children as it tastes nearly as good as maple sugar. Sold by all druggists.

The Letter M.

The Hebrew name of M was Mem, water, and it is curious to note that the original form of this character in the most ancient manuscript is a waving line, which to the not too particular ancients represented water. By some philologists the letter M as used by the Phoenicians is supposed to have come from a picture representing the human face, the two down strokes representing the contour of the countenance, the V stroke signifying the nose, the two dots, long since disused, and a stroke beneath the V representing the eyes and the mouth. The old Phoenician form of the letter does indeed bear a comical sort of resemblance to the human face.

Hawaiian Girls.

The Hawaiian girls are almost universally handsome. They are brown in color (not black); their eyes and teeth are magnificent; their hair straight, jet black and often falling below their knees. Their heads are handsomely formed and their expression alert, intelligent and amiable; their forms in youth voluptuous, but heavy and overstout after youth; their features full and nose and upper lip slightly tilted; their voices extremely sweet.

PREPARE FOR VOYAGE

Battleship Fleet Assembles at San Francisco.

LEAVES THERE ON JULY 7.

Many Craft Already in Neighborhood. Cruisers Will Experiment in Towing Destroyers—Pacific Fleet Also Assembles.

San Francisco, June 15.—The assembling of the warships of the Atlantic fleet in San Francisco harbor preparatory to the beginning of the long homeward voyage across three great oceans to Hampton Roads has begun. Only nine of the fighting vessels are now in Man-of-War row, but at Mare Island navy yards and in drydock at Hunters' point are twenty-five fighting craft of various kinds, some of them among the number which will make the long voyage.

The ships of the Atlantic fleet now on the northern Pacific coast have been ordered to proceed to San Francisco as soon as possible. A departure schedule has been arranged whereby the Georgia will leave Puget sound on June 16, the Wisconsin on June 22, the Illinois on June 30, the Kentucky on June 25, the Nebraska on June 27, the Rhode Island, the Virginia and the New Jersey on June 28 and the Kearsarge on June 29.

The protected cruiser St. Louis will leave Puget sound today for Honolulu on a practice cruise and will bring Secretary of the Interior Garfield back to the Pacific coast.

The cruiser Charleston and the gunboat Yorktown are still at Bremerton, and no orders for their future movements have been received.

An interesting experiment is soon to be made when the destroyers Perry and Preble and the torpedo boat Farragut will be taken in tow by the cruisers Colorado, Pennsylvania and West Virginia to San Diego bay. If the experiment proves a success, the little craft of the flotilla will be towed to Honolulu later in the summer.

All the vessels of the Pacific fleet return here today from San Pedro and other southern ports. The Pacific squadron will remain in this harbor until after the departure of the Atlantic fleet for Hampton Roads on July 7. It is expected that by July 4 all the vessels of the Atlantic and the Pacific fleets will be assembled in the bay, and the long lines of war vessels on the anchorage grounds will remain unbroken until the morning of July 7, when the Atlantic fleet, headed by the flagship of Admiral Sperry, the Connecticut, will steam out on the first long leg of the trip around two-thirds of the world.

A Kansas City man pawned his store teeth for a beefsteak which he could not eat on account of the absence of his teeth.

CONTEST IMMINENT.

The Taft Platform Is Not Entirely Satisfactory.

ELLIS LISTENS TO OTHERS.

Manufacturers Are Against Injunction Process Plank; Labor Is For It. Delegations Arrive With Brass Bands and Noted Personages.

Chicago, June 15.—With flags flying, bands playing and crowds surging and other noisy demonstrations, Chicago ushered in the week of the Republican national convention. The broad lake front, along which the headquarters of candidates and state delegations are located, is besieged by the incoming throngs, which choke the hotel lobbies, overflow into the streets and mingle with the groups of curious onlookers on the broad plaza fronting Lake Michigan.

The chief interest centers on the arriving delegations with their distinguished personnel. The Californians were headed by M. H. DeYoung, chairman of the deelgation. With them were the delegates from Oregon, including the venerable George H. Williams, attorney general in the Grant cabinet, now white haired and eighty, but still a lusty delegate at large ready to make a speech seconding the nomination of Secretary Taft, and also the men from Idaho. The Pennsylvanians were re-enforced by two more detachments, one with bands and banners and 200 marchers, and another with Congressman Dalzell, who hails from the heart of the steel region and is counted upon to see that tariff revision does not trench too strongly on the traditions of protection. The

SENATOR DOLLIVER.
Hawaiian delegates, six in all, brought their wives, dainty creatures with brown faces and shrinking manner.

When the Massachusetts delegation arrived there was widespread report that the veteran figure of Massachusetts public life, ex-Governor John D. Long, was not among the number, having surrendered his place as delegate at large to an alternate. The ex-governor had taken an independent part in having the Massachusetts men come without instructions, and this had held out a prospect of interesting developments when Massachusetts made her choice for president and vice president.

Indians Will See the Fun.

The delegations of Iowa, Montana, Virginia, Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire and New Mexico, in whole or in part, are among those to arrive.

The headquarters of the presidential candidates are full of activity. Among the interesting groups to visit the headquarters is a band of Sioux Indians from the Pine Ridge agency, who have come on under the care of an agent to see the mysteries of the choice of a "great father."

The vice presidential contest continues to be the most enlivening feature of the preliminary work, and the delegates are as much in doubt as at any time the contest began. The Dolliver element appears to be making the greatest advance, and this has given rise to reports that the Dolliver movement is now assured of success. The friends of other candidates are far from admitting this and have begun maturing plans for decisive action. A caucus for the New York delegation is to take place, and this is expected to develop the strength of the various New York names, including Sherman, Woodruff, Cortelyou and possibly Low. Informal canvasses appear to make Woodruff the favorite numerically in his own delegation. But the outside influence, including that of the congressional element from many parts of the country, is strong upon the New Yorkers to make Sherman their choice.

Low Is Mentioned.

The availability of Seth Low appeals to the New York delegates at large, owing to his position as trustee of the Tuskegee negro institution and his recent work at the head of the civic organization in seeking to reconcile the issues between labor and capital. But outside of the delegates at large, Mr. Low has not developed any noticeable strength.

Pressure for platform modification has increased to such an extent that the Taft forces plainly sense a contest in the resolutions committee of the convention which promises to be both tenacious and prolonged. This pressure has so far only increased the determination of those directing the Taft movement to assume a more unyielding attitude.

"If we are to have Taft for the candidate, we are going to have a Taft platform," is the ultimatum.

This Taft platform, as is well known, has been written. It is in the custody of Wade Ellis, attorney general of Ohio, who has taken up his quarters at the Auditorium Annex. Every plank of this platform is declared to have received the most detailed and weighty attention, and the prediction is made that every plank will remain in the document and, in the language in which it is now expressed, with some possible changes in verbiage.

Listens to Complaints.

However stern may be the declaration against modification, there is not the slightest disposition to refuse to listen to those who want revision, and this has been the task of Mr. Ellis.

The platform contains an expression of the belief that a more liberal rule should be adopted by the courts in applying the injunction process in labor disputes. This plank is not liked by some members of the party. The elimination of any expression on the subject would meet with their hearty approval. President Van Cleve of the National Manufacturers' association has urged the rejection of this injunction plank with great earnestness. His arguments were listened to by Mr. Ellis. The plank was favored by Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, who was later given an opportunity to be heard. It may be stated upon authority that this plank will not be changed with the consent of Secretary Taft.

Mr. Gompers, as a result of the conference of the officials of his organization just concluded here, also presented to Mr. Ellis definite proposals intended to pledge the party to future action which would free labor organizations from the legal designation and responsibility of trusts.

Another point of issue is on the plank which sets forth the benefits which would accrue to the country through federal supervision or inspection of the issuance of stocks and bonds of corporations doing an interstate business. This plank makes it possible for the declared representatives of the corporations to make dire predictions as to the result on the election if the plank is allowed to remain, but it will not be disturbed.

With these and other expressions of policy, which are for the first time becoming known to the "opposition," interest in the document is increasing, and, as the framers of the document are determined in their attitude, there is prospect of a fight on the floor of the convention.

Guilty of Manslaughter.

Mt. Clemens, Mich., June 15.—Fred Ames of Warren, charged with the killing of James McClelland March 9 last, was found guilty of manslaughter by a jury in the circuit court here. Ames relied on a plea of self defense, but his pursuit of his victim and the shooting after McClelland had fallen over a fence were not justified by the jury. The trial occupied the entire week, and its result is considered a victory for the defense.

First of Fourth of July Victims.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 15.—The first ante-Fourth of July accidents occured here when Willie, the fourteen-year-old son of Matt Fisher, got too near a toy cannon. Both his eyes were badly peppered with gunpowder. It will be several weeks before the lad will see again.

Chosen Convention Sergeant.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 15.—Judge of Probate Edward P. Kirby has been notified that he has been appointed honorary sergeant-at-arms of the Republican national convention. Judge Kirby is chairman of the Republican county committee.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

A Grand Family Medicine.

"It gives me pleasure to speak a good word for Electric Bitters," writes Mr Frank Conlan of No. 435 Houston st., New York. "It's a grand family medicine for dyspepsia and liver complications; while for lame back and weak kidneys it cannot be too highly recommended." Electric Bitters regulate the digestive functions, purify the blood, and impart renewed vigor and vitality to the weak and debilitated of both sexes. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 50c.

Some people dispense sympathy because it doesn't cost anything.

A manwfody dayrperfect health, so can do an honest day's work when necessary, has much for which he should be thankful. Mr L. C. Rodgers, of Brancheton, Pa., writes that he was not only unable to work, but he couldn't stoop over to tie his own shoes. Six bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made a new man of him. He says, "Success to Foley's Kidney Cure."

The actor is like a flaming chimney and the critic often makes him draw.

If you will make inquiry it will be a revelation to you how many succumb to kidney or bladder troubles in one form or another. If the patient is not beyond medical aid, Foley's Kidney Cure will cure. It never disappoints.

Ma says some women are busy in the present making a past for the future.

W. R. Ward, of Dyersburg, Tenn., writes: "This is to certify that I have used Orina Laxative Fruit Syrup for chronic constipation, and it has proven, without a doubt, to be a thorough, practical remedy for this trouble, and it is with pleasure I offer my conscientious reference."

Some women will spend fifty cents on a cab to save two cents on a spool of thread

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a ballet. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes.

A man doesn't have to go to Nevada to be in a terrible state

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup is the one that children like so well to take as it tastes nearly as good as maple sugar. It is different from the others as it does not constipate, but on the other hand it acts gently yet freely on the bowels and thereby it drives the cold out of the system. It is sold by all druggists.

Stomach troubles are very common in the summer time and you should not only be very careful about what you eat just now, but more than this, you should be careful not to allow your stomach to become disordered, and when the stomach goes wrong take Kodol. This is the best known preparation that is offered the people today for dyspepsia or indigestion or any stomach trouble. Kodol digests all foods. It is pleasant to take. It is sold here by all druggists.

Nature has provided the stomach with certain natural fluids known as the digestive juices, and it is through these juices that the food we eat is acted upon in such a way as to produce the rich, red blood that flows through the veins of our body and thereby makes us strong, healthy and robust, and it is the weakening of these digestive juices destroys health. It is our own fault if we destroy our own health, and yet it is so easy for any one to put the stomach out of order. When you need to take something take it promptly but take something you know is reliable—something like Kodol for Dyspepsia and Indigestion. Kodol is pleasant to take, it is reliable and is guaranteed to give relief. It is sold by all druggists.

A DOG'S EVIDENCE.

[Original.]

The country homes of the Rudds and our family adjoined, and Walter Rudd and I grew up together, bosom friends. Walter was fond of animals, I of books. Among his pets was a yellow collie, the most intelligent being of the brute creation I ever knew. They are talking nowadays about animals not having any reasoning powers. If that dog didn't reason I don't reason.

I remember especially an instance in evidence of this. One rainy day, needling exercise, I concluded to walk around the house. Dick, the dog, was with me and, seeing me getting on my hat and coat, inferred that I was going for a stroll and was rejoiced at the prospect of going with me. There were two gates to the place, and when I came to the path leading to the nearest Dick was there. I kept on. Dick looked up, surprised; but, inferring that I was intending to go out of the other gate, immediately went to it. When I passed the path leading to that gate, too, Dick's astonishment was beyond bounds. "What does the fellow mean?" he said plainly with his attitude and expression. Then, seeing that I was not leaving the grounds, he went away disappointed.

One morning I was awakened by a scratching mingled with a dog's moans at our front door. I went downstairs and found Dick. He ran down toward the gate, indicating that I was to follow him. I was not long in understanding him and after getting on some clothes went with him to a wood several miles away. He led me to a point near a brook, but when he got there looked about him surprised and disappointed, moaning piteously. Then, putting his nose to the ground, he followed a scent to the brook, where he lost it.

All this was unintelligible to me. After waiting developments and getting none I went home.

I found there a messenger from the Rudds to ask if Walter had spent the night with us, since he had not come home. At once I began to suspect that something was wrong with him and the dog's action might be an explanation. Possibly there had been foul play at the spot where Dick had led me and some person or persons to conceal their tracks from the dog had gone away, walking in the brook. I took Dick back to the spot and led him both up and down the stream in the hope that he would pick up the scent, but notwithstanding a patient effort on the part of both of us he failed.

The case of Walter Rudd was one of those mysterious disappearances that occur every day, the bulk of them never being explained. Dick, being deprived of his master, adopted me as such, I being that master's most intimate friend. I became very fond of him and never went anywhere I could take him without doing so. The first winter that I went to the city I left him behind, but the caretaker of the house wrote me that he was pining away, and I was obliged to send for him. I inferred at the time that he had transferred his affections from his late master to me.

Walter Rudd had been teller in a bank. The cashier was Edward Griffin, a young man who a couple of years later became rich as a promoter. I knew Griffin, but had only a speaking acquaintance with him. One day while in the city walking with Dick on the street I saw Griffin approaching. Suddenly Dick gave a growl, darted forward, jumped upon Griffin, and only great effort on my part kept the dog from taking the man by the throat. I caught Dick by the collar and dragged him away, striking him with my cane at the same time. Griffin seemed very much affected by the encounter, paling and trembling like a leaf, but I was not surprised at this, as it is no light matter to have a dog suddenly spring at one's throat. I did not have an opportunity to apologize to the man, for Dick was so eager to get at him again that I was obliged to drag him away by main force, and Griffin hurried on.

Had Griffin been some rough unknown man I might have suspected that the dog's action had something to do with the mystery attending Walter Rudd's disappearance. As it was, I put it down to one of those unaccountable dislikes a dog will take to some especial person. But some months after this, when Griffin's schemes turned out bursted bubbles and he no better than a common swindler, the thought came upon me that while he and Walter were in the bank together the cashier might have had some reason for getting rid of the teller.

I asked the president of the bank for information bearing on the case and was confidentially informed that during the time referred to Griffin had been carrying a large defalcation, which was discovered only after it was made good.

After consultation with the Rudd family I was authorized to employ a detective to get evidence, with a view of confirming our suspicions.

It turned out that Rudd knew of Griffin's defalcation and had told Griffin that his duty required him to inform the officers of the bank. Griffin made an appointment to meet Rudd in the wood to talk the matter over. Griffin murdered the only man who knew his secret and left the body where it lay. He came back and found the dog with it. But the dog went away, and Griffin carried the body far down the stream and buried it.

Dick is still my companion, though he is very old.

ALBERT G. BENTLEY.

Camel Races.

Camel races are held regularly in the south of Algeria, where valuable prizes are offered for the encouragement of the breed of racers, and as much interest is taken in their preparation and performance as in that of race horses in this country. The racing camels are the result of very careful breeding through many generations, and in size, temper and appearance they are so different from the ordinary beast of burden that they might almost be considered a different race of animals.

Perhaps the most conspicuous characteristic of the ordinary camel is its extreme slowness. Nothing on earth will ever induce it to hurry. A twenty dollar note will buy a very fair specimen, but for a mehari, or racing camel, five or ten times that sum is required to effect a purchase.

The racer, however, can be depended on for nine or ten miles an hour kept up for sixteen or seventeen hours almost without a stop. The pace in a camel race is generally fast and furious at the beginning, when all the animals are together and seem to realize that a contest is in progress.

writes P. S. Baxter, Kyneaville, Fla.

Mr. Baxter writes: "My wife suffered with Sciatic Rheumatism for seven years. She was in a very bad condition. After using "5-Drops" for three months it made a permanent cure. This was several years ago and she is still well.

STOPS THE PAINS

"5-DROPS" taken internally rids the blood of the poisonous matter and acids which are the direct causes of these diseases. Applied externally it affords almost instant relief from pain, while permanent results are being effected by purifying the blood, dissolving the poisonous substance and removing it from the system.

WOULD HAVE SHOT HIM.

Quaint Story of Marshal Soult and Louis Philippe.

In the reign of Louis Philippe Victor Hugo was a frequent and welcome guest at the Tuileries. Here is one of his anecdotes of the time as told in Victor Hugo's memoirs:

"A few days ago the king said to Marshal Soult in the presence of others, 'Marshal, do you remember the siege of Cadiz?'

"'Rather, sire, I should think so. I swore enough before that cursed Cadiz. I invested the place and was forced to go away as I had come.'

"'Marshal, while you were before it I was inside it.'

"'I know, sire.'

"'The cortes and the British cabinet offered me the command of the Spanish army.'

"'I remember, sire.'

"'The offer was a grave one. I hesitated long. Bear arms against France? For my family it is possible, but against my country! I was greatly perplexed. At this juncture you asked me through a trustworthy person for a secret interview in a little house situated on the Cortadura, between the city and your camp. Do you remember the fact, M. Marshal?'

"'Perfectly, sir. The day was fixed and the interview arranged.'

"'And I did not turn up?'

"'That is so.'

"'Do you know why?'

"'I never knew.'

"'I will tell you. As I was preparing to meet you the commander of the English squadron, apprised of the matter I know not how, dropped upon me brusquely and warned me that I was about to fall into a trap; that, Cadiz being impregnable, they despaired of seizing me, but that at Cortadura I would be arrested by you; that the emperor wished to make the Duc d'Orleans a second volume of the Duc d'Enghein, and that you would have me shot instantly. There, really,' added the king, with a smile, 'your hand on your conscience, were you going to shoot me?'

"The marshal remained silent for a moment, then replied: 'No, sire. I wanted to compromise you.' The subject of the conversation was changed. A few minutes later the marshal took leave of the king, and the king, as he watched him go, said, with a smile, to the person who had heard the conversation: 'Compromise! Compromise! Today it is called compromise. In reality he would have shot me.'"

GALLERY WIT.

Sometimes the Actors Turn the Tables on the Interrupters.

Some amusing instances of the wit and humor of the gallery and pit patrons of the drama are printed in the English Illustrated Magazine. On one of the first nights of the opera of "Cymon" at Drury Lane a dissatisfied critic when Mr. Vernon began the last air in the fourth act, "Torn from me, torn from me! Which way did they take her?" immediately sang in the exact time of the air, to the astonishment of the audience, "Why, toward Long Acre, toward Long Acre!"

Vernon was for a moment stunned; but, recovering himself, he sang in rejoinder: "Ho, ho! Did they so? Then, I'll overtake her! I'll soon overtake her!" and precipitately ran off amid the plaudits of the whole house.

In "Sancho Panza," a comedy in three acts, by Dufreni, the duke says at the beginning of the third act, "I begin to get tired of Sancho." "So do I," said a wag in the pit, taking his hat and walking out. This sealed the fate of the piece.

When John Reeve was playing Bombastes at Bristol upon being stabbed by Artixommus he denied the fairness of the thrust and, appealing to the pit, said, "It is not fair, sir, is it?" A bald-headed gentleman who probably took the whole representation to be serious and to whom Reeve directed his glance replied, "Really, sir, I cannot say, for I don't fence."

Barry Sullivan, the Irish tragedian, was playing in "Richard III." some years ago at Shrewsbury. When he came to the line, "A horse! A horse! My kingdom for a horse!" some one in the pit called out, "Wouldn't a donkey suit you, Mr. Sullivan?" "Yes," responded the tragedian, turning quickly on the interrupter; "please come round to the stage door."

A Strenuous Task.

"Your honor," said the witness, "can't you order a recess?"

"A recess?"

"Yes, sir. I've stood on this stand and told the whole truth two hours on a stretch, and I'm toototally wore out! I never told the truth that long before—not in all my life!"—Atlanta Constitution.

CHINESE LANGUAGE.

Difference Between the Written Characters and Speech.

The dialects or languages of the Chinese empire are very numerous and dissimilar. Thus a Chinese speaking the dialect of the Kwangtung (Canton) province is not understood by a Chinese residing in the neighboring province of Fukien. The language or dialect spoken at Shanghai would be quite strange to the people residing at Pekin.

Written characters of Chinese are, however, understood and recognized by sight throughout the whole empire in the same manner as our Arabic numerals 1, 2, 3, 4, etc., are recognized by the eye throughout Europe. But as these numerals when pronounced or read have entirely different sounds attached to them in England, France, Germany, Italy, etc., so the Chinese written characters are spoken in totally different words and sounds in the several provinces of China, with, however, the important exception that the mandarin language is spoken or understood more or less throughout three-fourths of China or, roughly speaking, in nearly all the provinces north and west of the river Yangtze.

The language known as Wen-li is the medium by which the classical books of China have been handed down. It is par excellence the written language of China, but it is not generally understood by the great mass of the people. The spoken language—viz, Mandarin—may also be written, and there is a good deal of colloquial literature in Mandarin. Versions of the Bible in the local patois have also been produced in several districts of the southeast, where the dialects are very numerous and diverse.

In the Chinese written language there are over 40,000 distinct characters or symbols, and this vast number is being constantly increased by the addition of new characters to represent new scientific words and modern ideas.

Although the Chinese are considered a literary people and have naturally a desire for education, yet owing to the extreme difficulty of mastering the Chinese characters it is estimated that only one in ten of the population can read or write.—Contemporary Review.

LIVED AFTER HANGING.

Men and Women Who Survived the Ordeal of the Scaffold.

Innumerable instances of resuscitation after hanging are recorded. Henry III. granted a pardon to a woman named Inetta de Balsham, who was suspended from 9 o'clock on a Monday to sunrise of Thursday and afterward "came to." Dr. Plot tells of a Swiss who was hanged up thirteen times without effect on account of the peculiar condition of his windpipe, it having been converted into bone by disease.

Annie Green, a servant girl, was hanged at Oxford in 1650 and recovered fourteen hours afterward under a doctor's treatment. Mrs. Cope, who was hanged at the same place eight years later, also recovered. On Sept. 2, 1724, Margaret Dickson was hanged at Edinburgh and recovered while being carried to the grave. She lived for many years afterward and was universally known as "Half Hanged Maggie Dickson."

A housebreaker named Smith was hanged at Tyburn in 1705. A reprieve came when he had been suspended a quarter of an hour. He was cut down, bled and revived. William Duell, hanged in London in 1740, revived and was transported. A man hanged in Cork in 1765 was taken in hand by a physician who brought him round in six hours, and we are told the fellow had the nerve to attend a theatrical performance the same evening.

Richard Johnson, hanged at Shrewsbury, Oct. 3, 1696, obtained a promise from an undersheriff to place him in the coffin without changing his clothes. After hanging half an hour he still showed signs of life, and on examination it was found he had wrapped cords about his body connected with hooks at the neck which prevented the rope from doing its work. The apparatus was removed and the man hanged effectually.

It may be offered in explanation of the cases mentioned that there was no drop used at executions in those days, the culprit usually suffering asphyxia without the cerebral column being broken.—London Tit-Bits.

Its Origin.

"I wonder who first said 'It's better to be born lucky than rich?'" queried the young widow.

"Some old fool whose young wife married him for his money, I imagine," rejoined the wise bachelor.—Chicago News.

EAGLES ENTERTAINED

Edward Preston, center fielder of the Syracuse team, was entertained by the members of the Wilkes Barre Aerie of Eagles No. 353 last night. Mr. Preston, who is accompanying the Stars, is a member of Aerie 1563, Tecumseh, Mich., and when this came to the attention of the local "birds" a reception was planned. At the clubhouse Dr. B. M. Smith acted as the chairman and called on a number of those present for addresses and songs Prof. Edmund Bevan presided at the piano.

HIS COAT OF ARMS.

It Was Fairly Earned Since He Descended From a King.

A man applied to the college of heraldry for a coat of arms, says a writer in the Cornhill Magazine, and was asked if any of his ancestors had been renowned for any singular achievements. The man paused and considered, but could recollect nothing.

"Your father," said the herald, aiding his memory, "your grandfather, your great-grandfather?"

"No," returned the applicant; "I never knew that I had a great-grandfather or a grandfather."

"Of yourself?" asked this creator of dignity.

"I know nothing remarkable of myself," returned the man, "only that, being once locked up in Ludgate prison for debt, I found means to escape from an upper window, and that, you know, is no honor in a man's escutcheon."

"And how did you get down?" said the herald.

"Odd enough," retorted the man. "I procured a cord, fixed it round the neck of the statue of King Lud on the outside of the building and thus let myself down."

"I have it!" said the herald. "No honor! Lineally descended from King Lud! And his coat of arms will do for you."

They Won the Pool.

It was certainly reprehensible, though one cannot but smile at the bold trick played one night by half a dozen men in Paris. These individuals rang at the door of a private house, and before the servant could announce their arrival the leader had donned an official scarf and introduced himself as a police commissioner, seized about $1,000 which was lying on the table as stakes in a game of poker, saying he would not trouble the host and his guests to call at the office that evening, but would be obliged if they would do so the next morning. The "commissioner," with his escort, politely departed. When the players dutifully called at the office the next day, their visit created visible surprise, and they learned, to their disgust, that this police commissioner of the night before had tricked them and their $1,000 had been carried off by a gang of thieves. So much for playing poker and having an uneasy conscience!—Boston Herald.

FROST-DOWNING.

A very pretty home wedding occurred at the residence of John Frost at Macon, June 10, 1908, when his sister Miss Hazel Frost was united in marriage to Mr. Irving Downing of Britton. The house was decorated with maple boughs and white peonies, and to the strains of Lohengrin's Wedding March rendered by Ernest Burdette, the couple passed to an arch of green, the near relatives of bride and groom standing with them. The ceremony was the ring serv'ce Winnifred Depuy being ringbearer, and the knot was tied by the Rev. J. D. Halliday of Clinton. During congratulations "Love's Old Sweet Song" was sung by John Pennington, and then the party passed to the dining room where a dainty table in the prevailing colors of green and white, and a sumptuous three course dinner awaited them.

The numerous presents were both useful and beautiful.

Among the guests, sixty eight in number, those from a distance were Messrs. Webb Depuy of Saline, Andrew Murphy of Clinton, Chas. Frost of Britton with their family, Ollie Frost of Britton, Thomas Carman of Petersburg, Ransom Squires of Rea, Mesdames Viola Zeluff and Joe Emery of Tecumseh, Messrs. and Medames Wheelock of Saline, Edgar and Mildred Exelby and Addie Getty, Chas. Downing the Misses Nora, Anna and Nellie Downing, Emery and Chas. Downing of Britton.

A Bit of Advice.

Young man, if you should come across a girl who, with a face as radiant as a sunflower, says as you appear at the door, "I will be busy for half an hour yet, for the dishes are not washed," just squat right down on the doorstep and wait for her, because some other chap may come along and secure the prize, and right there you will have lost an angel.

METCALF AND CARTWRIGHT'S MINSTRELS.

For years Al. G. Field's Minstrel performance has been recognized as peer of them all. The very name Al G. Field in connection with a Minstrel was like magic upon the people throughout the country and the friends of the gentleman one year ago proclaimed all Minstrel features exhausted by him on earth. Few ever expected to see anything in that line which would make a comparison. He has reached the same—that was the popular verdict.

The advent of the Metcalf & Cartwright Minstrels has already changed the tide as far as Bryan is concerned at least. A packed house greeted last night's performance and after it was all over this aggregation that had sprung up in a single season snatched the laurels claiming them as their own. The performance was superb, there was not a single dull moment, no stale jokes, no tiresome features, but on the contrary was replete with fun from beginning to end. The opening scene is gorgeous with its many colors and elaborate scenery and the dashing costumes of the players. Originality stamps every detail of this performance which all goes to make up this first class and unique entertainment. They will exhibit here on the 17th day of June. Watch for the big free street parade at noon. They carry one of the best bands on the road and have a company of 35 people with the show. Don't miss it. All in all, this entertainment is as good, if not better, than any that has ever been seen here.—Bryan Express.

The Best Pills Ever Sold.

"After doctoring 15 years for chronic indigestion, and spending over two hundred dollars, nothing has done me as much good as Dr. King's New Life Pills. I consider them the best pills ever sold," writes B. F. Aycue, of Ingleside, N. C. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 25c.

The beginning of excellence is to be free from error.

No man on earth would want his friends to know what he knows about himself.

When you ask a girl to keep a little corner of her heart for you, you must remember that corner lots are the most valuable.

When you tell a girl significantly that two can live as cheaply as one, you invite the remark that she doesn't want to live cheaply.

When a man acquires the right to examine a girl's millinery and dressmaker's bills, it's too late to back out.

When we hear a fat soprano singing, "O for the Wings of a Dove," the thought intrudes that, as she couldn't fly with them she must want them for her hat.

MEMORIAL DAY

JOINT MEMORIAL OBSERVED HERE SUNDAY BY THE VARIOUS LODGES OF THE CITY.

Burton L. Hart of Adrian Paid a Beautiful Tribute to the Memory of the Dead.

Most notable among the many characteristics of this great nation is its patriotism and the love for the heroes who gave their lives for their country. One day of each year has been set aside to decorate the graves of the fallen heroes, and with appropriate services honor their memory. This beautiful custom has so appealed to the people, that societies and lodges are following the example set by the G. A. R. and each year one day, in June, usually Sunday, is given to Fraternal Decoration.

Sunday, June 14, a joint memorial was held in Tecumseh The various lodges and their auxiliaries met at the Odd Fellow hall at one o'clock and marched to the cemetery headed by the Tecumseh band.

Those participating in the memorial services were: I. O. O. F. and Rebekah lodges; K. O. T. M. M. and the Lady Maccabees; Knights of Pythias and the Pythian Sisters; Uniformed Rank, K. of P.; Modern Woodmen, Royal Neighbor and Royal Arcanum. Carriages were provided for the older members of the various lodges

There were flowers in great abundance and Brookside cemetery soon presented a handsome appearance.

Hundreds of people listened to the excellent program, which was opened by a prayer by Rev. Dunning.

The ladies' Quartette followed with a beautiful selection.

Friend McNeil then introduced the speaker, Burton L. Hart of Adrian, whose address was eloquent, forceful and full of good thoughts. He paid a beautiful tribute to the memory of the departed lodge friends. He closed his excellent talk with Longfellow's "Psalm of Life" There was a liberal applause at the close.

The ladies' Quartette favored the audience with that beautiful song, "The Lord Is My Shepherd," which closed the exercises.

The lodges then marched backed to Odd Fellow hall.

EASTERN STAR COUNTY ASSOCIATION

The members of the Eastern Star and their friends are invited to attend the County Association, which will be held at Monroe Piers on Tuesday, June 30th.

A basket dinner will be enjoyed. The train leaves Tecumseh at 7:30 a. m. special returning train leaves the Piers at 10:30 p. m. A long and delightful day may be enjoyed. Fare for round trip $ 80.

QUARTERLY MEETING OF FREE METHODISTS

Held Here This Week.

The Free Methodist will hold their quarterly meeting in the Y. M. C. A. hall. Presiding Elder Rev. Stone of Spring Arbor, Rev. Chas. Edinger of Hillsdale, Rev. Vinson of Adrian, will be present.

The meeting will begin Friday the 19th of June and continue over Sunday.

Animal Life.

The whale leads all animals in point of longevity, his age being placed conservatively at 800 to 1,000 years. The tortoise comes next, with an age limit extending from 100 to 200 years. The elephant, the camel, the eagle and the crocodile are each credited with 100 years and upward. The carp is an elusive creature, its age having been figured at from seventy-five to 150 years. Tigers, leopards, jaguars and hyenas live some twenty-five years in confinement and probably much longer in the wilderness. Swans, parrots and ravens live 200 years, pelicans forty to fifty years, hawks thirty to forty, geese eighty years, monkeys and baboons sixteen to eighteen, squirrels and rabbits seven years, queen bees four years, working bees six months and drones four months.—Minneapolis Journal.

East African Highlands.

The young Englishman, be he officer or settler in the east African highlands, cuts a hardy figure. His clothes are few and far between. A sun hat, a brown flannel shirt with sleeves cut above the elbow and open to the chest, a pair of thin khaki knickerbockers cut short five inches at least above the knee, boots and a pair of putties comprise the whole attire. Nothing else is worn. The skin, exposed to sun, thorns and insects, becomes almost as dark as that of the natives, and so hardened that it is nothing to ride all day with bare knees on the saddle—a truly Spartan discipline from which at least the visitor may be excused.—Strand Magazine.

BLANCHE MELLON

TECUMSEH GIRL A WINNER OF THE FIRST CASH PRIZE GIVEN BY FREE PRESS.

Miss Mellon Also Leads the 16th. District in the Free Trip to Quebec Given by Free Press.

The Detroit Free Press is conducting a Free Trip to Quebec contest, the State of Michigan having been divided into 20 districts, and several young ladies in each district are very busy securing votes on subscription. In district 16, Miss Blanch E. Mellon of this place, leads with 33,766 votes, a lead of over 4,000 votes in her district.

On June 3, in connection with this work, the Free Press offered three cash prizes of $15.00, $10.00 and $5.00 to the young lady who would secure the greatest number of votes between that date and June 15. As usual, our Tecumseh girl leads with 30,834 votes to her credit. This morning's Free Press contained the final votes for the cash prize, the Trip vote not closing until a month or so later.

The Free Press says:

Miss Mellon is now leader of the 16th district with a total of 33,766 votes and is entitled to much praise for the able manner in which she has conducted her campaign and beaten all competitors in a race open to every district in the contest.

DANGER OF CATARRH.

Catarrhal troubles are far more dangerous than they seem at first thought.

If you have catarrh, there is an irritated state of the mucous membrane and weakened tissues which afford an ideal lodgment and culture medium for disease germs, especially those of consumption.

You should get cured as quickly as possible before any dangerous germs that you may breathe lodge on the diseased tissue and work destruction in the throat and lungs.

The easiest, simplest, quickest, surest and cheapest way to cure catarrh is by the direct method, breathing Hyomei. This wonderful medicated air treatment does not drug and derange the stomach, but is breathed in, directly following and destroying all disease germs that may have been inhaled, and healing and vitalizing the tissues of the throat, nose and lungs so as to render catarrh and all other germ infections no longer possible.

The unusual way in which Hyomei is sold by C. A. Wright & Son is the best evidence of their confidence in the treatment and should dispel all doubt as to its curative properties. They agree to refund the purchase price to anyone whom Hyomei fails to benefit, and you do not risk a cent in testing its healing virtues. A complete outfit costs but $1.00 if it helps you, not a cent if it does not do all that is claimed for it.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

WILL CURE CONSUMPTION

A. A. Herren, Finch, Ark., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar is the best preparation for coughs, colds and lung trouble. I know that it has cured consumption in the first stages." You never heard of any one using Foley's Honey and Tar and not being satisfied.

Do babies know the truth about you when they stare so impudently at you?

There is much that is evil in mediaval poetry.

Big cuts or little cuts, small scratches or bruises or big ones are healed quickly by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It is especially good for piles. Be sure to get DeWitt's. Sold by all druggists

Bucklen's Arnica Salve Wins.

Tom Moore, of Rural Route 1, Cochran, Ga., writes: "I had a bad sore come on the instep of my foot and could find nothing that would heal it until I applied Bucklen's Arnica Salve. Less than half of a 25 cent box won the day for me by affecting a perfect cure." Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are prompt and thorough and will in a very short time strengthen the weakened kidneys and allay troubles arising from inflammation of the bladder. They are recommended everywhere. Sold by all druggists.

Healthy kidneys filter the impurities from the blood, and unless they do this good health is impossible. Foley's Kidney Cure makes sound kidneys and will positively cure all forms of kidney and bladder disease. It strengthens the whole system.

"I have been somewhat costive, but Doan's Regulets gave just the results desired. They act mildly and regulate the bowels perfectly."—George B. Krause, 306 Walnut Ave., Altoona, Pa

A GOOD REASON.

Tecumseh people can tell you Why it is so.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Tecumseh people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. Geo. Teachout, living on Oneida street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "Some years ago I began to have a great deal of trouble from my kidneys. There were intense pains in the small of my back extending to my shoulder blades, and at times when I stooped, sharp stitches of pain would catch me and I would be unable to straighten for a few seconds. At night, I could not rest well on account of the frequent action of the kidneys, and though I doctored no benefit. I had heard a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a box at Wright and Son,s drug store and began using them. I soon noticed the good effects and continued taking them until entirely cured. I cheerfully recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to any one afflicted with kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

New Method of Trust Fighting.

New York, June 15.—A new method of trust fighting is disclosed in an advertisement appearing in a trade paper announcing that John Morris, chairman of the committee on paper of the American Newspaper Publishers association, has been authorized by publishers using 151,000 tons of news print paper per annum to arrange with owners of pulp mills for the installation of paper making auxiliaries with the understanding that if a satisfactory basis can be reached the publishers will underwrite and guarantee the price f. o. b. at mill which the owners will receive for a term of years on the product of their new paper making installations. By "underwrite" the publishers mean that they will guarantee to take the entire output of the new machines for 312 days of each year, at the medium price to be fixed, in case the mill owner is not able to sell his product elsewhere at time of manufacture at a higher price.

Let the Thief Go.

Kansas City, Mo., June 15.—That the Kansas City police department had the thief who stole the mail pouch which was on the way from Los Angeles to New York and which contained money and valuable in excess of $50,000 under arrest last week, but released him because of no definite charge against him was brought out by the investigation made by government inspectors. The pouch was stolen, it developed, from the platform of the Union station on the night of June 6. The following morning, a patrolman arrested a negro. At police headquarters he gave the name of Charles Stewart. The desk sergeant took a large amount of money and several valuable articles of jewelry from him, and he was ordered booked for investigation. Later a lawyer called to see the negro. The charge against him was changed to vagrancy, and the next morning the negro was released in police court and ordered to leave town.

Bray's Mythical Vicar.

It is curious to reflect that there are scattered about the world many scores of places whose chief claim to distinction consists in their association with some famous ditty or other. Take, for example, the village of Bray, in Berkshire, always associated with the world famous "Vicar of Bray." The most curious part of the business is that, though Fuller, in his "Worthies of England," asserts that the cleric who is the hero of the song was one Simon Alleyn, careful search of the parish registers has failed to substantiate the story.—London Musical Home Journal.

Shattered Hopes.

He (anxiously)—I understand your father speaks very highly of me? She—Yes, but he doesn't mean a word of it. He—Are you sure of that? She—Certainly. He does it just to torment

Culture, said Prof. Shailer Mathews, is going to hum in Chicago, and then retired when George Ade read one of his fables in slang, thus giving culture a running start.

The trouble with most cough cures is that they constipate. Kennedy's laxative cough syrup does not constipate, but on the other hand its laxative principles gently move the bowels. It is pleasant to take and it is especially recommended for children as it tastes nearly as good as maple sugar. Sold by all druggists.

Pain Weakens

Headache, rheumatism, neuralgia, or pains of any nature weaken the system—they are a strain upon the nerves. Almost instant relief can be obtained by taking Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills, and without any bad after-effects. Take one on first indication of an attack—it will ward it off. They are a pleasant little tablet, sold by druggists everywhere, 25 doses 25 cents; never sold in bulk.

"I was subject to constant headaches for a period of four years. At times I was almost unfitted for the work in which I am engaged, that of station agent. Through the advice of a friend I tried Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and the result has been that, I have entirely eradicated my system of those continuous headaches that follow a continual mental strain. They have done for me all that is claimed for them." O. L. RUSSELL, Agt. C. & N. W. Ry., Battle Creek, Ia.

"I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for a year now for neuralgia and find there is nothing like them. They surely have been a blessing to me." MRS. M. J. HAMILTON, Upper Alton, Ills.

Your druggist sells Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills, and we authorize him to return the price of first package (only) if it fails to benefit you.

KILLS FAMILY AND SELF.

Cadillac Woman Commits Terrible Deed While Mentally Deranged.

Cadillac, Mich., June 15.—With all the details for their murder carefully planned, Mrs. Daniel Cooper chloroformed her children and her husband and shot them while they were asleep. Believing every member of her family dead, Mrs. Cooper turned her revolver upon herself and fired.

The slain are:

DANIEL COOPER, forty-eight years old.

MRS. COOPER, forty-five years old.

LARRY, fourteen years old.

INEZ, eleven years old.

SAMUEL, ten years old.

GEORGIANA, five years old.

FLORENCE, one and one-half years old.

Fred Cooper, shot in the head, is dying in Mercy hospital.

The woman had apparently premeditated the crime. She took all her children to the Alamo theater, treated them to candy and peanuts, and they marched up and down the streets after the show, all happy, and with Mrs. Cooper appearing especially cheerful. Then they went home, and the crime followed shortly afterwards.

Mr. Cooper had been in poor health for several months and was unable to work, and, though the oldest boy, Fred, worked steadily and their farm yielded them a considerable income, they were not in the best of circumstances financially. This, coupled with the fact that Mrs. Cooper was very morbid and excitable, leads to the belief that worry over her family misfortunes temporarily deranged her mind.

Boynton Returns Home.

Port Huron, Mich., June 15.—Major Boynton, past great commander of the Modern Maccabees, accompanied by his son, George, has arrived in Port Huron from Toledo, where he went to attend the twenty-first annual review of the order. The major was not as crestfallen as might be presumed, but, on the other hand, was as cheerful as could be expected. "On the whole I am pleased with the outcome of the review, but I am sorry that Mr. McIlwain did not consent to run for great commander before his arrival in Toledo," he said. "I will add that new officers have much work on their hands. I intend to take life easy now, and I am not going to do any worrying."

Narrowly Escaped Drowning.

Detroit, Mich., June 15.—Allen McClannahan, superintendent of the Wyandotte water works, and his wife had a narrow escape from drowning during a heavy wind. They were enjoying a sail on the river when a sudden gust overturned the boat, throwing them into the water. McClannahan helped his wife to climb on the bottom of the boat and then climbed to safety himself. A son of County Auditor Christian was on the river in a launch and went to their rescue.

Maddened Bull Attacked Girl.

Menominee, Mich., June 15.—With three ribs broken, several fingers fractured and terribly gored about the lower limbs and body, Alvina, the fourteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Carlson of Daggett, hovers between life and death as the result of an attack by an infuriated bull. Only through the wonderful presence of mind of the victim, who, after being tossed and rolled by the maddened animal, crawled through a fence, was her life saved.

Gives Life to Save Girl.

Detroit, Mich., June 15.—While canoeing on the Detroit river, the craft which Myron Larzelere and Clara Bertram were paddling was tipped over in a squall near the Detroit Boat club, and, after a desperate struggle in the water, the man gave up his life to save that of the girl. Joe Snay, boatman at the boat club, put out to the rescue just in time, and, as he lifted the girl from the arms of her companion, the latter drowned.

Lives in Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., June 15.—Alleging that he was hounded out of Pittsburg by the friends of Stanford White, whom his brother-in-law slew, and that they are hampering him in getting employment even in Detroit, Howard Nesbit, brother of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, is seeking a quiet livelihood in this city. Nesbit is at present employed as solicitor for an outdoor advertising concern.

Plague in Caracas.

Caracas, Venezuela, June 15.—Several cases of bubonic plague have occurred here within the last few days, indicating that the city has been widely contaminated with the disease. Great alarm is felt because no measures have been taken as yet to fight the plague in this city, and there are no serums on hand. No action has been taken as yet by the diplomatic representatives of the foreign powers, although a meeting has been held by these officials to consider the situation. President Castro and his wife remain in the interior.

Riflemen to Compete.

Owosso, Mich., June 15.—The national guardsmen of the state who have access to outdoor rifle ranges will compete for prizes for individual excellence this week. On Saturday teams of six from each company in the state will compete for the first prize. It is expected that fully two-thirds of the military forces of the state will take part in one or the other of the matches.

A NEW AWAKENING.

Angell Says Age Is One of Quickened Conscience.

GIVES WARNING TO STUDENTS

President of University of Michigan Delivers Baccalaurate Sermon—Hs Labor and Capital Need Closer Understanding.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 15.—In University hall, Sunday night, President Angell delivered his baccalaureate sermon to the graduating class of Michigan of 1908. President Angell spoke on "The Age of Quickened Conscience." He said in part:

"If any proof be needed to show that men are made with an instinct for associated life, not for individual isolation, it is furnished by the frequent spectacle of the rapid spread through a whole region or a whole people of some taste or passion. It may be a fancy for some game, as croquet or tennis or baseball, and in the space of a few months a whole nation is devoting all its leisure hours to it, or to rise to higher objects the passion for revolution in a few months seizes on the citizens of France and overturns the throne which has stood unshaken for centuries.

"Since this imitative spirit, the social instinct, the sympathetic impulse, have so led mankind to act together in masses towards some common end, we need not regard it as astonishing that to our great delight we are witnessing a new awakening of conscience all over the nation. How or why it appeared at exactly this time it may not be easy to say. And for the purpose of this discussion it may not be important to decide. But this awakening manifests itself in a great variety of ways.

"Its reaction in our own country against intemperance in drinking has been so sudden and has spread over so wide a territory and among communities where it was unlooked for that the movement has seemed almost incredible. Even in Germany and France and England silence is beginning to warn the public that reform in drinking habit is essential to the preservation of national vigor, and that a higher morality is essential to the protection of public health.

"But especially has indignation been excited at malfeasance in the management of great corporations, in the discharge of the duties of public office, in the betrayal of fudiciary trusts.

"So the halls of legislation, both state and federal, have been for month resounding with discussions of the most effective legislation to prevent misdeeds of the kind referred to. The courts have been busy trying persons accused of them, and the president, with his accustomed vigor of utterance, has been appealing to congress and to the people in stimulation of a sound public sentiment in the maintenance of honesty.

"I need not say to you who have been here for the last two or three years that among the students there has been a wholesome revolt against certain abuses in what we call college politics and that this has done not a little to purify the atmosphere of college life.

"If we look beyond our own neighborhood, and even beyond our own country, we find that throughut the civilized world there is a deep feeling that a readjustment is needed in the relations of the employer and the employed, that there is a dangerous chasm between labor and capital, that somehow in many cases the workingman is not receiving his share of the products which his industry is instrumental in creating. Never was there a time when the Christian thinkers of the world were so earnestly seeking to find what remedy the gospels of Christ have for the ailments of the social and economic organizations of manking.

"Now, this new condition of things, this widespread quickening of conscience is a great, palpable fact which deeply concerns all of you who are just going out into active life. You cannot, if you would, utterly disregard it. It it a grave warning not to try for success by failing to reckon with the state of the public conscience.

"I will not dwell on the lesson of warning, for I trust you do not need it. The American students as a rule leave their studies with high ideals of character and conduct. But it is well for you to have a clear perception of the environments in which you will find yourselves."

Again Hit by Storm.

Port Huron, Mich., June 15.—A severe thunder and rain storm has passed over Port Huron and the Thumb. At Bad Axe the storm did considerable damage, especially to small buildings in the vicinity of the town. Trees were blown down and the farmers will suffer some loss of crops.

At Lexington and Croswell, the storm was felt by the residents, but no great damage has been reported. Telephone and telegraph service was interrupted.

Sultan's Troops Revolt.

Tangier, Morocco, June 15.—Four thousand of the troops of Abd ela Aziz, the sultan, have revolted and taken prisoner a French commander and three other officers.

NOMINATIONS NEXT.

Final Great Day of National Convention Reached.

SPEECHES ARE CURTAILED.

Allow Only One Nominating and One Seconding Speech for Each Candidate—Burton of Ohio to Nominate Taft—Knight of California Will Second.

Chicago, June 13.—The final great day of the National Republican convention has arrived. This is the day of nominations and the adoption of a declaration of principles. What will be the summing up at the day's end?

The session began at 10 o'clock instead of at noon as on previous days. The usual animated scenes prevailed. Practically the first thing to be brought before the gathering is the platform. The convention is in possession of all committee reports, and the reports on credentials and rules and order of business have already been adopted.

An agreement has been reached by representatives of all the candidates, by which the nominating and seconding speeches for president will be materially curtailed. This agreement is that only one nominating and one seconding speech shall be made for each candidate, and that the long list of seconding speeches which have been heretofore announced will be abandoned. The speeches for Secretary Taft will be by Theodore E. Burton of Cleveland, placing the secretary in nomination, and George A. Knight of California, seconding the nomination.

United States Senator J. B. Foraker of Ohio will be placed in nomination for president by C. B. McCoy of Coshocton, Ohio, and the nomination will be seconded by W. O. Emory of Macon, Georgia.

INJUNCTION PLANK GOES.

Committee Withheld Indorsing It Until the Last Minute.

The biggest probem before the resolutions committee, that of the proposed plank in the platform dealing with the question of the limitation of the use of court injunctions in labor controversies, was not disposed of until early this morning, when, by a vote of 35 to 16, with one state (South Carolina), not recorded, the full committee agreed to the plank.

The platform vigorously indorsing the Roosevelt administration contains these features, not already brought to public notice, by the proceedings of the resolutions committee:

"With the gratitude of God's bounty, with pride in the splendid productiveness of the past and with confidence in the prosperity of the future the Republican party declares for the principle that in the development and enjoyment of wealth so great and blessings so benign there shall be equal opportunity for all.

"We congratulate the people upon this renewed evidence of American supremacy, and hail with confidence the signs now manifest of a complete restoration of business prosperity in all lines of trade, commerce and manufacturing.

"We aprove the emergency measures adopted by the government during the recent financial disturbance.

"In line with the purpose here declared to secure by every wise means greater safety and stability in the banking and currency system, we favor the establishment of a postal savings bank for the people, upon principles embodied in the measure now pending in congress and set for a vote on ecember 14 next.

"We commend the appropriation of $350,000 by the present congress in order to enable the Interstate Commerce Commission thoroughly to investigate and to give publicity to the accounts of interstate railroads.

"The Republican party has been for more than 50 years the consistent friend of the American negro. We demand equal justice for all men, without regard to race or color; we approve the efforts of President Roosevelt and the vote of the Republican majority in congress, over a solid Democratic opposition, to secure equal accommodations on railroads and other public carriers for all citizens, whither white or black.

"We reaffirm former declarations that the civil service laws, enacted, extended and enforced by the Republican party, shall continue to be maintained and obeyed. We indorse the movement inaugurated by the president for the co-operative conservation of natural resources.

"We declare our unalterable devotion to a policy that will keep this republic ready at all times to defend her traditional doctrines, protect her citizens at home and abroad and assure her appropriate part in promoting permanent tranquility among nations.

"We adhere to the Republican doctrine of encouragement of American shipping and urge such legislation as will revive the merchant marine prestige of the country, so essential to national defense, the enlargement of foreign trade and the industrial prosperity of our own people.

"We commend the increase in the widows' pension made by the last congress and declare for a liberal administration of all pension laws, to the end that the people's gratitude may grow deeper as the memories of heroic sacrifice grow more sacred with the passing years."

CHEER FOR NEARLY HOUR.

Pandemonium Reigned in the Convention When Lodge Mentioned Roosevelt's Name.

The address of Permanent Chairman Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts brought with it the long expected Roosevelt yell, a whirlwind of enthusiasm which raged within the vast amphitheatre of the Coliseum for full 45 minutes and for a time presented to the timid the spectre of a Roosevelt stampede.

Senator Burrows yielded his place as temporary chairman and escorted to the platform the permanent chairman of the convention, Senator Lodge. Mr. Lodge, trim and business like, looked as from a later generation than the white-haired retiring chairman. His voice, too, had that resonant New England twang which made it ring out to the distant corners of the galleries, carrying metaphor and sarcasm which started the listeners to attention and applause.

"The fevered fancy of an uneasy dream," was his indictment hurled against the visionary policies of opposition parties.

The applause had hardly died away when Mr. Lodge launched his sentence which electrified the assemblage into its first real demonstration of wild enthusiasm.

"The president," exclaimed Mr. Lodge, "is the best abused and most popular man in the United States today."

This was the long awaited signal. Instantly a shout broke from the galleries and was echoed back from the floor, at first only a tempest of detached yells and cat-calls and shouts of "Teddy," but gradually gathering force and volume until it swelled to a whirlwind of sound and motion, as delegates and spectators rose en masse, mounting chairs, waving banners, hats, handkerchiefs, flags, newspapers, anything which could be seized upon to add turbulence to the scene. Amid the tumult the band struck up, but the crash of the brass and drums was completely lost in the babel of sound which welled up from 14,000 throats.

For the first minute, Senator Lodge stood waiting to proceed, occasionally raising his hand for silence, only to awaken a defiant yell twice louder than before.

Five minutes passed and instead of abating the uproar was increasing. The sergeant-at-arms moved up a chair for the presiding officer, and Senator Lodge sank back to await a lull in the storm.

Five minutes—ten minutes—fifteen minutes.

There was no lull, no abatement. A hoarse roar had taken the place of the detached yells.

"Four, four, four years more," came in a deafening chorus from the full sweep of the gallery, as if preconcerted, each "four, four," exploding like the boom of heavy artillery.

Fifteen minutes—twenty minutes—twenty-five minutes—

Now delegations were joining in the outbreak. Some had mounted chairs—Texas, Kentucky, Tennessee—and were gesticulating madly. One delegate far to the left had torn off his coat and was whipping it wildly above his head. Texas and Kentucky appeared to be the center of the agitation on the floor. New York viewed the storm with calm, and so did Ohio, except, strangely, one of the lonesome Foraker delegates, Judge Marcus Stoup, who, mounted on a chair, kept both arms in motion with a waving flag and a newspaper, and his voice joining in the general pandemonium.

Thirty minutes—thirty-five minutes—forty minutes—forty-five minutes.

A full three-quarters of an hour had passed in this bewildering confusion of sight and sound. For a time fear was felt by some that a stampede was imminent. But the political generals were glad to give the pent-up enthusiasm of the multitude this outlet of expression, and at no time was there the slightest apprehension among them that the well-devised plans would miscarry by some overpowering movement.

It is said that President Roosevelt himself was an actual listener to the wild demonstration of enthusiasm which greeted his name. Remarkable as this may seem, it is accounted for by the following circumstances: Hanging 10 feet above the heads of the delegates and immediately in front of the platform are four black discs, looped by wires and joined by a small central cable leading from the hall.

Many have wondered at these discs, believing them to be a part of the system for electrical display. As a matter of fact, they are a combination of telephone and phonograph, taking up the proceedings as they occur and transmitting each swell of oratory and each throb of enthusiastic applause. According to the reports one of the wires was put into the White House and the president in person, with the receivers to his ear, caught the words of Lodge as he electrified the vast assemblage and the echoing shouts which ebbed and flowed for full forty-five minutes. It is said, moreover, that the president, pleased with the demonstration, made his feelings known to some of the leaders here.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

There are no tomorrows on the calendar of the man who does things.

A Grand Family Medicine.

"It gives me pleasure to speak a good word for Electric Bitters," writes Mr Frank Conlan of No 435 Houston st., New York. "It's a grand family medicine for dyspepsia and liver complications; while for lame back and weak kidneys it cannot be too highly recommended." Electric Bitters regulate the digestive functions, purify the blood, and impart renewed vigor and vitality to the weak and debilitated of both sexes. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 50c.

Some peopledispense sympathy because it doesn't cost anything.

A manwfody dayrperfect health, so can do an honest day's work when necessary, has much for which he should be thankful. Mr L C. Rodgers, of Branchton, Pa., writes that he was not only unable to work, but he couldn't stoop over to tie his own shoes. Six bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made a new man of him. He says, "Success to Foley's Kidney Cure."

The actor is like a flaming chimney and the critic often makes him draw.

If you will make inquiry it will be a revelation to you how many succumb to kiddey or bladder troubles in one form or another. If the patient is not beyond medical aid, Foley's Kidney Cure will cure. It never disappoints.

Ma says some women are busy in the present making a past for the future.

W. R. Ward, of Dyersburg, Tenn., writes: "This is to certify that I have used Orina Laxative Fruit Syrup for chronic constipation, and it has proven, without a doubt, to be a thorough, practical remedy for this trouble, and it is with pleasure I offer my conscientious reference."

Some women will spend fifty cents on a cab to save two cents on a spool of thread

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a ballet. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes.

A man doesn't have to go to Nevada to be in a terrible state.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup is the one that children like so well to take as it tastes nearly as good as maple sugar. It is different from the others as it does not constipate, but on the other hand it acts gently yet freely on the bowels and thereby it drives the cold out of the system. It is sold by all druggists.

Stomach troubles are very common in the summer time and you should not only be very careful about what you eat just now, but more than this, you should be careful not to allow your stomach to become disordered, and when the stomach goes wrong take Kodol. This is the best known preparation that is offered the people today for dyspepsia or indigestion or any stomach trouble. Kodol digests all foods. It is pleasant to take. It is sold here by all druggists.

Tact is the ability not to look solemn when a rich relative gets off an alleged

Nature has provided the stomach with certain natural fluids known as the digestive juices, and it is through these juices that the food we eat is acted upon in such a way as to produce the rich, red blood that flows through the veins of our body and thereby makes us strong, healthy and robust, and it is the weakening of these digestive juices destroys health. It is our own fault if we destroy our own health, and yet it is so easy for any one to put the stomach out of order. When you need to take something take it promptly but take something you know is reliable—something like Kodol for Dyspepsia and Indigestion. Kodol is pleasant to take, it is reliable and is guaranteed to give relief. It is sold by all druggists.

The ladies of the church will shortly put on sale a cook-book.

There will be a meeting of the session at the pastors study tonight to transact important business and review the monthly reports.

At the prayer meeting next week the subject will be "City Missions"—the need and the answer. Stereopticon pictures of the slum districts and missions of New York City will be shown.

The musical program given last Sunday evening was unusually fine and was attended by an audience that filled the church.

Foundations are laid for the new kitchen on the rear of the church when completed the church will have the best appointed kitchen possible.

John Wirt Davning, minister—morning worship 10 o'clock, sermon subject, "Who Are God's Children." Bible school with men's class at 11:15. Young people's meeting at 6 p. m. Subject, "How to Choose a Life Work" In the evening the pastor will preach on "Immortal Youth"

One week from Sunday coming, it being the Sunday before the Fourth, the pastor will give a lecture sermon, "God in the Rocks"—illustrated by stereopticon pictures of the Grand Canyan of the Colorado. The sermon is the result of a two weeks visit to the canyan several years ago.

Our church was represented in the graduating class this year by thirteen of its young people. Mildred Boyce, Leota Aten, Seymour Boyd, Dwight Clarkson, Wade Frost, Florence Keyser, Elizabeth Scarlett, Jay Kenyon, Roger Waring, Theo Higbee, Mary Kohler, Margaret Waldron and Mabel Waring. Five of the boys and one of the girls will attend Alma college in the fall.

In spite of rain there was a large attendance at the Children's day exercises last Sunday morning. A fine program was given by the Primary and Junior department, assisted by the choir An offering of $30 was made to Sunday school mission work Six of the babies of the cradle roll were christened: John Edwin Owens, Harry Jerome Chase, Dorthy Jennie Schussler, Eugene Harold Keyser, Helen Elizabeth Nyland and Albert Christian Herring.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

Mr and Mrs. Starrett spent Sunday in Clinton.

Dr. and Mrs North returned from their Chicago trip Monday evening.

Mrs Hattie Shelmire is spending sometime with Mrs. Harvey Morse of Dundee

Miss Effie Yawger went to Tipton today to spend two weeks with her aunt and other relatives

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. McIntyre and sons were spending the last of the week with Mrs. Jay Morse.

Mrs. E E Kinter and two children of Painseville, Ohio are visiting her mother Mrs. Ben Lamkin.

O. B. Finch returned Wednesday evening from Kalamazoo where he has attending commencement exercises.

Prof. Forbes B. Wiley and wife of Des Moines, Iowa, are also coming today to remain during the summer.

Mrs. Spier and Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Heath and grandson Clinton Trotter, who have been spending the week with C. H. Bramble and family, have returned to their homes.

Vernor Finch graduated Wednesday from Kalamazoo college. He will attend Chicago Institute during the summer, going from there to Mt. Pleasant, Ia., to teach in the same school where his brother Delmar Finch is now teaching.

Last Thursday occurred the marriage of Miss Hazel Calkins of Traverse City to Fordyce Wiley of Kalamazoo. They will spend the summer with Mr. Wiley's sister Mrs. Albert Howard and in the fall will go to Cheboygan where he has a position in the public schools.

Children's day was a decided success and great credit should be given Miss Marie Bramble who had charge of the program: mite boxes had been given out to the little children and a good many of them earned the money put into them and on opening they were found to contain $4.25, this with the general collection from the others in the S. S. made the whole amount $9.56.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Services next Sunday in the usual order.

A pleasant feature of the Children's day exercises was the promotions from the several classes.

From the Primary, the following were advanced—Earl Eberly, Robert Brotherton, Graydon Beardsley, Otto Ruwoldt, Emmett Hall, Harld Cheney, Ethel McIntyre, Virgiline Simmons, Esther Pratt, Alnora VanGulider, Doris Marsh, Marian Hoag, Thelma Rauch and Ella Bennett.

From Class No. 9—Ruth Ward, Edna Page, Veneta Pillsbury and Mildred Sowles.

From Class No. 10—Herman Lockwood.

Under the new constitution promotions will occur only at or near Children's day and the promotion is made by the S. S. board acting on each case.

FRIEND'S CHURCH.

The monthly missionary meeting met with Mrs. Wollam yesterday afternoon.

Mr Wollam has been visiting his son and wife, Rev. and Mrs. Wollam. He occupied the pulpit Sunday evening.

The men's Thursday evening class will meet at the home of Mr. Reuben VanWinkle next Thursday evening at 7:30.

Preaching at the Friend's church Sunday at 10 a. m. with Sunday school immediately following. Junior at 4 p. m. Young people's meeting at 6. Regular evangelistic service at 7 p. m. All are welcome

Children's day was observed last Sunday and the program was carried out as planned. The church was prettily decorated and a bouquet of flowers was given the members of the cradle roll as the mothers took them to the front of the church for the pleasing and impressive reception service. The pastor gave a short talk to the children after which the superintendent of the Sunday school granted promotion certificates to those passing to a higher class in the school.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

There was a meeting of the Vestry last Sunday after church.

In the absence of Mr. Codling, superintendent of the Sunday school, his assistant took charge of the service.

C. C. Kemp rector—Service Sunday at 10 a. m. Sunday school at 11:30. Choir practice Friday night at 7:30 p.m.

Rev. C. C. Kemp came down from Clinton and attended the Tecumseh-Flint ball game on Tuesday afternoon.

Rural Gaslight for Country Homes.

This means that while it has in it all the colors of the rain-bow they are so perfectly balanced that no one color over-powers the others, or discolors objects which it falls on.

That's why Acetylene Light seems white—as Sunlight does.

That's why you can see pale blue, pale pink, or pale yellow, as clearly by Acetylene Light at night as by Sunlight during the day.

And, that's why Plants grow as fast, and as naturally under Acetylene Gaslight at night as they do by true Sunlight by day.

Moreover, that's why Acetylene Light has the same cheering, antiseptic, tonic, influence on Human Beings as Sunlight,—the same wholesome effect upon Eyesight.

It is the cleanest, purest, coolest, safest, most brilliant and diffusive of all Home Lights.

When once installed it will give you the same candle-power as you now secure from ordinary Kerosene Lamps for a third less cost.

It can be completely installed, in about two days time, without the slightest damage to walls, ceilings, or floors.

No more dirty lamp-cleaning, filling, wick-snuffing, nor chimney-wiping. No more disagreeable smell of stale, Kerosene, no more soot, on lace curtains, draperies, or walls, no more danger from the carrying around of lighted hand lamps.

You merely turn a tap on a wall bracket or hanging chandelier, and thus light up brilliantly or softly, according to how much you turn it.

Once a month you fill the Generator with Carbide.

That takes about 15 to 30 minutes time, per month to do.

Then you have true Sunlight-at-Night, cool, soft, odorless, eye-saving, wide-spreading, and brilliant as burning diamonds.

Let me tell you how little it need cost to equip a home, hotel, or store, with that glorifying Acetylene Gaslight.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

ENDS FATALLY

Thos. R. Rainey, who was poisoned by a big boulder a few weeks ago while attempting to sink it and expected by his friends to survive the accident, died Sunday night from internal injuries. This came as a suprise to many who looked for ultimate recovery, but attending physicians have at no time held optimist opinions. Mr. Rainey was one of Homer's progressive farmers and estimable citizens and his loss is mourned by the entire community. He was 50 years old and had always lived in this vicinty.

The funeral was held from the late home Wednesday, the Rev. Taggart of Litchfield officiating. Burial was at Fairview cemetery.

Mr. Rainey was a brother of Mrs. James Elliott of this place. Mrs. Elliott attended the funeral.

Tecumseh lost the second game of the series to Flint Tuesday afternoon. It was a pitchers battle from start to finish with Bishop and Krapp as the opposing box men. The game went 10 innings without a score, both pitchers pulling out of several bad holes. In the 11th inning Bowser's double, Fulton's sacrifice and a squeeze play, when McCrea bunted, scored the only run, as the Indians were unable to even up in their half. Score:

Tecumseh lost the third game to Flint Wednesday, making it three straight games, all of them being fast and close. O'Connell was in the box for the visitors, and Holmquist for the locals, both doing excellent work. O'Connell received the better support. Flint began scoring in the third, when Sullivan singled and O'Connell bunted, the ball landing at the home plate. Mitchell lost track of it long enough for O'Connell to make first base Hadley reached first on fielders choice, Sullivan retiring. Hamilton tripled scoring O'Connell and Hadley. Two more runs came their way in the ninth, on Vorpagel's error, Hildebrand's single, two stolen bases and an error by Holmquist, after two men had been retired. The Indians lonesome score came in the fifth on singles by Streeter, Mitchell and Shippy. Score:

MURDERED

E. S. MORRISON, FORMER RESIDENT OF TECUMSEH.

Brother of Mrs. Elmer Crego of Toledo Whose Husband was Killed 2 Months Ago.

Still sorrow stricken because of the accidental death of her husband, by a fall from a Terminal engine at the upper Terminal bridge, Toledo, two months ago, Mrs. Elmer Crego, residing in the Olga flats, 225 Superior street Toledo, O., last Tuesday went to Detroit and claimed the body of her brother, E. S. Morrison. He was the assistant keeper of the north light on Grand Island, Lake Superior, and it was he who was probably brutally murdered last Friday night and his body set adrift in a small boat, in which it was found by the life saving crew of Point Au Sable.

Mrs. Crego was formerly Miss Kate Morrison, and with her brother, E. S. Morrison and family at one time resided in Tecumseh. Her husband, Elmer Crego, was a resident of Adrian.

Greenfield-Hunt

Miss Leo Greenfield of Tecumseh, and Clarence Hunt of Tipton, were married at the brides home on Wednesday by Rev. Hall. Merl Greenfield and Bessie Carmer attended them.

Mr. and Mrs Hunt left on the afternoon train for a trip to Niagara Fall's. They have the best wishes of a host of friends.

The Best Pills Ever Sold.

"After doctoring 15 years for chronic indigestion, and spending over two hundred dollars, nothing has done me as much good as Dr. King's New Life Pills. I consider them the best pills ever sold." writes B. F. Aysenue, of Ingleside, N. C. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 25c.

Thinks It Saved his Life.

Lester M Nelson, of Naples, Maine, says in a recent letter: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery many years, for coughs and colds, and I think it saved my life. I have found it a reliable remedy for throat and lung complaints, and would no more be without a bottle and I would be without food." For nearly forty years New Discovery has stood at the head of throat and lung remedies. As a preventive of pneumonia, and healer of weak lungs it has no equal. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store, 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free

BEWARE OF PHYSIC.

Only aggravates stomach trouble and never cures.

The trouble with most people who have stomach trouble is that they do not like to take the time to get cured; they over-eat and then take physic, which simply upsets the stomach.

While you can get relief from one or two doses of Mi-o-na stomach tablets, it cannot be expected that a trouble which has been coming on for years can be cured in a day. Chronic and long-standing cases of stomach trouble need at least two or three weeks' treatment before the sick headaches, dizzy spells, bloating, heart-burn, constipation, nervousness and other symptoms that directly result from indigestion, are banished, never to return.

Mi-o-na is far different from the usual digestives which have been used in treating stomach troubles. It is taken before each meal, stimulating the secretion of the digestive juices and strengthening the whole system, so that the stomach itself does the work of taking care of the food which is eaten, without distress or suffering.

No discovery in medicine in recent years has been of greater value than the prescription of Mi-o-na stomach tablets. It is to-day the acknowledged specific for the treatment of stomach diseases, and is relied upon as a certainty in relieving the worst cases of indigestion and malassimilation, and making a complete cure.

The strongest proof that can be given in support of the claim that Mi-o-na will cure the worst form of stomach trouble, cancer excepted, and relieve the worst case of acute indigestion, is the guarantee C. A. Wright and Son give with every 50 cent box of Mi-o-na, to refund the money unless Mi-o-na, cures.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are prompt and thorough and will in a very short time strengthen the weakened kidneys and allay troubles arising from inflammation of the bladder. They are recommended everywhere. Sold by all druggists.

Do babies know the truth about you when they stare so impudently at you?

There is much that is evil in mediaval poetry.

Big cuts or little cuts, small scratches or bruises or big ones are healed quickly by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It is especially good for piles. Be sure to get DeWitt's. Sold by all druggists.

Healthy kidneys filter the impurities from the blood, and unless they do this good health is impossible. Foley's Kidney Cure makes sound kidneys and will positively cure all forms of kidney and bladder disease. It strengthens the whole system.

"I have been somewhat costive, but Doan's Regulets gave just the results desired. They act mildly and regulat the bowels perfectly."—George B. Krause, 306 Walnut Ave., Altoona, Pa

A GOOD REASON.

Tecumseh people can tell you Why it is so.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease. That is why the cures are always [illegible]. This remedy strengthens and [illegible] up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Tecumseh people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. Geo. Teachout, living on Oneida street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "some years ago I began to have a great deal of trouble from my kidneys. There were intense pains in the small of my back extending to my shoulder blades, and at times when I stooped, sharp stitches of pain would catch me and I would be unable to straighten for a few seconds. At night, I could not rest well on account of the frequent action of the kidneys, and though I doctored no benefit. I had heard a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a box at Wright and Son,s drug store and began using them. I soon noticed the good effects and continued taking them until entirely cured. I cheerfully recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to any one afflicted with kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Marriage is like a cucumber—it doubles you up.

The best way to make your opinions respected is to keep them to yourself.

The usual idea of whether a man is respectable or not depends on how he is dressed.

A cranky bachelor says that heaven is probably so called because there are no marriages there.

ANY remedy that benefits digestion strengthens the nerves.

In other words, Peruna goes to the bottom of the whole difficulty, when the disagreeable symptoms disappear.

Mrs. J. C. Jamison, 61 Marchant street, Watsonville, Cal., writes:

"I was troubled with my stomach for six years. I tried many kinds of medicine, also was treated by three doctors.

"They said that I had nervous dyspepsia. I was put on a liquid diet for three months.

"I improved under the treatment, but as soon as I stopped taking the medicine, I got bad again.

"I took the medicine for two years, then I got sick again and gave up all hopes of getting cured.

"I saw a testimonial of a man whose case was similar to mine being cured by Peruna, so I thought I would give it a trial.

"I procured a bottle at once and commenced taking it. I have taken several bottles and am entirely cured.

"I have gained in strength and feel like a different person. I believe Peruna is all that is claimed for it."

Nervines, such as coal tar preparations, are doing a great deal of harm. Sleep medicines and headache powders are all alike,—heart depressants, and should not be used. The nerves would be all right, if the digestion were good. Peruna corrects the digestion.

letter was addressed to Mr. Fairbanks' manager, Joseph B. Kealing, and the full text follows:

"Indianapolis, June 16, 1908.

"MY DEAR MR. KEALING:

"I appreciate fully the compliment paid me by my friends in their insistence that I should accept a renomination for vice president, yet my determination not to be a candidate again, as announced before the close of the last session of congress through you, is absolutely irrevocable. My conclusion does not grow out of any want of appreciation of the honor, for the vice presidency is an honor which any man may well covet. No one is obliged to step down to it.

"I have enjoyed the great honor which came to me unsought and by the undivided voice of my party, for all of which I am profoundly grateful.

"This renewed expression of confidence of my friends touches me most deeply. They need no assurance that I have come to the conclusion I have reached deliberately, and I trust that the personal considerations which I have advanced will commend themselves to their approval.

"I am the more confirmed in the wisdom of my conclusion because of the fact that there is no party or public exigency which would seem to suggest a contrary course.

"Accept for yourself and other friends my grateful appreciation of your generous, unfailing and loyal support. I remain

"Faithfully your friend,

"CHARLES W. FAIRBANKS."

A similar letter was written by the vice president to Senator Hemenway.

The vice president's letter is not different from various expressions made in a less formal manner by him in the past few days, and while it was accepted seriously and he was given full credit for sincerity, it did not have much effect in changing the determination of his admirers to press his nomination in the event of the naming of Secretary Taft for the first position.

Accordingly there have been many prophecies after the promulgation of the letter as before that the vice president would in the end be called upon to succeed himself. It was confidently asserted that he would not decline a unanimous nomination.

While this is the general sentiment of those who have been supporting the vice president, largely outside of Indiana, yet it remains a fact that his close friends who have been managing his campaign for the presidency, openly declare that the letter must be accepted as final, and definite in removing him from consideration for second place.

La Fayette Young, delegate at large from Iowa, received a telegram from Secretary Loeb, which stated that President Roosevelt had not expressed a desire to see Governor Cummins' name on the ticket or that of any other particular person. Secretary Loeb's telegram was a response to a telegram from Mr. Young in which the latter asked for an explanation of the president's attitude on the vice presidential nomination. Following is the text of Mr. Loeb's message:

"The president has not expressed any opinion for or against any candidate for the vice presidency and will no more express an opinion against Governor Cummins than he would against Senator Dolliver."

Mr. Young, who has heretofore been classed among the opponents of Governor Cummins, said that he would do nothing to prevent the latter's nomination.

Late developments do not materially alter the vice presidential situation, and the opinion is as it was that the nomination will go either to Vice President Fairbanks or to Governor Cummins.

The failure by New York to caucus on the vice presidential situation is regarded as practically eliminating that state from the contest.

New York was in a position where, if her delegation could have gotten together on the proposition, they might have named the candidate, but they could not get together.

The only possibility of New York's getting the second place on the ticket laid in a unanimous movement for some man. The latter possibility of such unanimity having apparently vanished. Chairman Woodruff announced that the delegation would not caucus at all.

It is said that a telegram to Edward Glines, who is regarded as Governor Guild's personal representative in the Massachusetts delegation, expressed the governor's intention to stand by his vice presidential boom until the last gun was fired. The lines having been drawn substantially between East and West in the situation, and New York being practically out of it, it has become an interesting question whether the East will unite upon any man who can rally also support from West and South. In this connection the names of Governor Guild and ex-Governor Murphy of New Jersey are most frequently mentioned.

The steady tendency has been, however, plainly toward the selection of a western man, and the names in the forefront are those of Fairbanks of Indiana and Cummins of Iowa, with Fairbanks apparently in the lead.

The California delegation, in executive session, decided by unanimous vote to cast its vote for George A. Knight of San Francisco for vice president. Other states are expected to line up for Mr. Knight.

"ALLIES" GIVE UP.

Make No Effort to Carry Contests Before Convention.

Probably the most important report, and the one having greatest significance on the final result of the convention, was that of the committee on credentials, seating the Taft delegations practically in toto. If there had been any lingering doubt of the Taft strength it disappeared. The report was adopted. This in effect placed upwards of 700 delegates in the Taft column. Equally important, and even more remarkable was the final acceptance of this result by the "allies" without the formality of a dissenting minority report, and without carrying the question to the floor of the convention for the open fight which had been long threatened. Instead of this all further opposition seemed to crumble; those who had promised trouble quietly accepted the inevitable, and thus the path was cleared for the fulfilment of plans already well matured for the nomination of the head of the ticket. The "favorite sons" still have, however, their bands of steadfast supporters, who will show their loyalty when the first ballot is taken.

The committee on rules and order of business brought a majority report against a resolution offered by James Francis Burke of Pennsylvania reducing the representation of states to a basis of the Republican vote cast by those states. Mr. Burke presented a minority report in which seventeen of the states concurred.

A sharp contest occurred on this question, bringing for the first time before the convention some of its best known orators, including Burke of Pennsylvania, Governor Willson of Kentucky, the veteran Kiefer of Ohio, ex-Governor Herrick of Ohio, Remmel of Arkansas, Buckingham of Illinois and Wadsworth of New York.

The resolution was finally defeated by the close vote of 506 against 471, a margin of 17 votes in a total of 977, three delegates being absent.

TAFT AT NEW HAVEN.

There to Attend Commencement of Alma Mater.

CHAIRMAN IS NOT CHOSEN.

Cincinnati Meeting Adjourns Until July 1—No Necessity of Undue Haste—Hitchcock Desires Not to Serve—Declares He Needs Rest.

New Haven, Conn., June 22.—Secretary of War William H. Taft arrived here today from Cincinnati, accompanied by James T. Williams, Jr., of his political staff. He will remain at New Haven throughout the commencement exercises of Yale—his alma mater. On Tuesday he will be present at the class day exercises and at the reunion of his own class of '78. On Wednesday he will attend the graduation exercises of the university, and he expects also to witness the Yale-Harvard boat race at New London on Thursday.

Mr. Taft will not reach the national capital before next Saturday. He will remain in Washington until after the session of the sub committee of the Republican national committee, which is to be held there on the first of July. It is not improbable he may remain there a few days longer, as he has some matters to attend to which he desires to dispose of before going on his summer vacation.

Summer Plans Tentative.

Only tentative plans thus far have been made for the summer months. He probably will go, accompanied by Mrs. Taft, to Hot Springs, Va., for three or four weeks, beginning early in July.

He says he would enjoy, above all else, going to Murray bay, Canada, where, for the last sixteen years, he has spent his summers; but as the location is out of the way and not easily accessible, objection has been made by some of his personal and political friends to his going there even for so brief a period as he expects to utilize this year as vacation time.

It will be necessary for him, too, to be in Cincinnati about July 20 to receive formal notification of his nomination for the presidency. He will return to Hot Springs for the remainder of his summer outing.

Plans have been practically completed by which, after Sept. 1, Taft will be continuously in Cincinnati.

Practically no new facts have developed regarding the sub committee's inaction on the question of the national chairman, who was not chosen. While the discussion at the conference took a wide range, it can be stated authoritatively that few names of possible appointees were considered. It was the consensus of opinion among Taft's advisers that the selection of a chairman should be postponed at least for a time in order that so momentous a matter might receive thorough consideration.

Advised Against Haste.

Mr. Taft has received telegrams from party leaders throughout the country urging him not to be hasty in deciding the chairmanship question. One of these messages came from Secretary of State Root, who pointed out the undesirability of undue haste and suggested the advisability of postponing action until the political atmosphere had cleared.

With this view Taft was in cordial agreement, and it was on his suggestion that the committee determined to defer definite action until July 1. It can be said that the proceedings of the committee in Cincinnati constituted in no sense an eliminaton of any man who has been considered in connection with the chairmanship. Frank H. Hitchcock, Taft's manager, is said to be as distinctly a factor in the chairmanship equation as he was prior to the meeting. Mr. Hitchcock sent a telegram requesting that he be not considered in connection with the chairmanship on account of his health. Secretary Taft at once telegraphed Mr. Hitchcock, inquiring solicitously about his condition. Mr. Taft received a reply from him, saying that he felt better, but he was seriously in need of a rest.

Mr. Taft spoke in the highest terms of the services which Mr. Hitchcock has rendered him.

Terrific Storm.

Prairie du Chien, Wis., June 22.—A terrific rain, hail and wind storm, lasting forty minutes, has literally ruined crops in a wide territory about here, unroofed building, demolished trees and put the city light plant out of commission. Hail four inches deep was piled up on the walks, and trees two feet in diameter were twisted off. Washouts on the railroad are numerous, and indications are that the storm covered a swath from Cassville to Lynxville, forty-five miles wide, and worked from the west to east.

Santo Domingo's President.

San Domingo, Republic of Santo Domingo, June 22.—The national congress has proclaimed General Ramon Caceres re-elected president of the republic for a term of six years. The ceremony was carrid out with great solemnity, and at its conclusion a salute of twenty-one guns was fired. The people spent the day in celebrating the proclamation.

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

The supreme council, Independent Order of Foresters, has decided upon an advance in insurance rates of from 40 to 100 per cent.

Reports from western Pennsylvania, eastern Ohio and West Virginia show that damage from severe storms will amount to over $200,000. About ten persons were injured, none fatally.

Doneison Caffery Jenkins, in the fifties and sixties one of the best known newspaper editors in the country, being owner and chief editor of the New Orleans Delta, and later of the Picayune, is dead at Sierra Madre, Cal., aged eighty-three.

WOMEN OUT IN FORCE

English Suffragettes Make Big Demonstration.

UNUSUAL SCENE IN LONDON.

Five Hundred Thousand People Assemble in and Around Hyde Park. Twenty Speakers Harangue People on Rights of Women.

London, June 22.—Favored by fine weather and again displaying a totally unexpected genius for organization, the Suffragette demonstration in Hyde park Sunday was an unparalleled success. Encouraged by previous successes, the Suffragettes planned the demonstration as a climax of the year's fight for women's suffrage. It is hardly too much to say that never before was such a political demonstration seen in London.

Fully 500,000 people assembled in and around Hyde park as active or passive participants in the great meeting, while for two or three hours in the middle of the day the whole center of the city was in a ferment. Various processions appeared, each about a mile in length, and the routes through which these passed were densely crowded with spectators.

The Suffragettes from the provinces were met at the various railroad stations by delegations for the London organization, and these, forming in line, marched from different points of the compass to Hyde park. After arriving there, the leaders and speakers for the various sections had literally to fight their way to the platforms. Probably there were about twenty speakers in all, and these harangued the masses on the rights of women to vote and the necessity of force in parliament to adopt a resolution on the question.

These women's demonstrations are far more attractive from a spectacular point of view than those held by men. Almost all of the Suffragettes wore white dresses, with sashes of their colors, green, white and purple, inscribed "Vote for Women," and the scene as viewed from the platforms was quite a feast of color. There was much good humored chaffing and the singing of songs in the vicinity of the platforms, and on this account the speeches practically were inaudible.

The attitude of the onlookers was one of amused tolerance. Ambulances were kept busy dealing with cases of fainting and minor injuries owing to the great pressure of the crowds, but no serious accidents occurred.

Burns to Fight Lang.

Melbourne, Australia, June 22.—A syndicate has arranged a match between Bill Lang, the champion of Australia, and Tommy Burns, the American heavyweight champion, during the week the American fleet is here.

ROOSEVELTS AT CHURCH.

President Objects to Being Photographed.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 22.—Clad in a suit of white duck, wearing tan shoes and a panama hat, and looking extremely well and happy on the second day of his vacation, President Roosevelt drove Sunday with Mrs. Roosevelt to the village from Sagamore Hill and attended the morning service at Christ church, of which Mrs. Roosevelt is a member. Rev. Henry Homer Washburn, the rector, discoursed on the rite of confirmation of the Episcopal church, preparing his congregation for the confirmation services next Sunday, over which Rt. Rev. Fred Burgess, bishop of Long Island, will preside.

No mention of the president or national affairs was made.

Less than 150 persons were at the service. When the president and Mrs. Roosevelt drove away from the church a large crowd was assembled. Mr. Roosevelt bowed and raised his hat. He carefully watched newspaper photographers, and as they snapped their cameras he raised his hand and hat, covering his face.

Thus far the secret service men guarding the president have had nothing of importance to do. The president's yacht, Sylph, has arrived in Oyster Bay harbor, ready to take the president or his family on pleasure trips.

Secretary Loeb, on being interviewed regarding the reports from Washington that he might be asked to accept the position of chairman of the Republican national committee, said, "I have heard nothing about the appointment."

It is not known definitely here just what day Secretary of War Taft will come to see the president, though he is expected during the week. He will be accompanied by General Luke E. Wright, who has been chosen by the president to succeed Mr. Taft as secretary of war when Mr. Taft's resignation becomes effective on June 30.

Mme. Gould's Marriage Banns Posted.

Paris, June 22.—The marriage banns of Madame Anna Gould, formerly the Countess de Castellane, and Prince Helie de Sagan, a cousin of Madame Gould's first husband, have been posted on the walls of the offices of the mayors of the Sixteenth and Seventh arrondissements of Paris, in accordance with the law that requires the publication of a marriage in the arrondissements of each contracting party. Neither Madame Gould nor the Prince de Sagan appeared personally in the mayors' offices, friends in each case acting for them.

Addison Swoyer of Boyertown, Pa., swore out a warrant against Dr. T. J. B. Rhoades, the owner of the opera house in which 171 lives were lost last January, charging him with violating the factory laws and maintaining a building dangerous to public safety.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

When people dispense sympathy because it doesn't cost anything.

A man with body in perfect health, so he can do an honest day's work when necessary, has much for which he should be thankful. Mr. L. C. Some women will spend fifty cents on a cab to save two cents on a spool of thread.

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a ballet. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes.

Pengreave's Helping Hand.

By W. F. BRYAN.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Homer Sprague.

Pengreave, coming slowly down the street, gave no heed to his surroundings. For twenty years he had been coming down the same street, sometimes a little earlier, sometimes very much later, but always he passed along with unseeing eyes, his thoughts fixed upon his business and his home.

At fifteen he had first turned into the side street from the main thoroughfare. Horse cars had run unevenly over the badly set rails, and flickering gas lamps had lighted all save the business streets. Now there were trolleys everywhere, and even the alleyways were lighted by electricity, but Richard Pengreave gave no heed to these changes.

It had been a good locality once. When Pengreave, in the glory of his first long trousers and his first "real" job, had sought a boarding place Mrs. Beldin's had been recommended as being in a "nice residential neighborhood."

It had been a well swept street then, lined with rows of three story brick houses and here and there a "brownstone front" to break the monotony. Now the homes had given way to five and six story tenements. Mud heaps and garbage barrels littered the unkempt pavement and the broken flagstones.

The Beldin house, too, had changed. Mrs. Beldin's daughter had assumed charge at her mother's death and had changed it to a furnished room house, declaring that the cares of a large kitchen weighed too heavily upon her. Then she married and had moved uptown, and some one else had taken over the shabby house, with its shabby furniture.

The change had annoyed Pengreave, and he had promptly purchased the place, for he was errand boy no longer, but the proprietor of a business. He had retained the first floor for his own use, and a real estate agent had rented the other floors. He handed Pengreave quarterly checks, and Pengreave worried no more.

He was sure of a home, the only home he had known. He sat at his window in the summer evenings and looked across the square opposite and gave no heed to the children swarming in the street.

There had been few children when he had first come to Barrow street, and those were well dressed and orderly. Now the policeman on the beat had his hands full, and only Pengreave remained serene and unworried.

Once for nearly a year he had worried. It was when he was nineteen and he had fancied himself in love. But Lena had married a junk dealer on the corner below, and, after an unquiet month, during which he drank seidlers instead of the smaller glasses at the Bierhalle, Pengreave had recovered his placidity.

Since then it had pleased him to believe that his life had been wrecked, and so he kept Lena's faded photograph on the mantelpiece, and at times he took it down and sighed over it; also he avoided all feminine society.

At his uncle's death the latter's business had passed to him, and under his even administration it had grown greatly. He lunched at better places, and he also dined downtown. He bought a new suit of clothes whenever his old cashier discreetly hinted that one was needed.

The woman who acted as janitress for the house attended also to his rooms, and he found them always orderly. He asked nothing more.

But tonight a surprise waited for him at his very door. As he let himself in a voice from the darkness of the floor above roused him. It was a musical voice with the indefinable accent of good breeding, and it gave to the simple question the melody of a song.

"I am not the doctor," was his reply as he kept on up the stairs instead of turning into his own apartments on the first floor. "Is there need of a doctor? Some one is ill?"

"Mrs. Brady," explained the voice. "She scalded her hand, and I sent a little girl for a doctor."

Pengreave turned up the tiny flicker of gas. The increased flame revealed a dainty feminine form in a simple tailored gown. Pengreave was conscious only that the girl was well dressed. It was the face that held him fascinated. The features were well cut and regular; the eyes were calm and unafraid and of a deep tender blue that moved Pengreave strangely.

"Where do you live?" he demanded. The girl smiled.

"I don't live here," she explained. "I am a visitor from the Helping Hand society."

Pengreave was puzzled.

"They need charity here?" he demanded. "I thought that was only with the very poor."

"These are the very poor," she said simply. "Don't you know?"

Pengreave shook his head in bewilderment. Twenty years he had lived there, and poverty had come to be his neighbor, but he did not know it.

"Had I known I should have given aid," he said quietly. "If there is need, come to me. The doctor—I will pay him. Send me his bill. I am sorry for Mrs—Mrs"—

"Brady," supplied the girl. "You are very good."

Then the physician hustled in, and Pengreave went downstairs to his rooms. In a little while there was a tapping at the door, and he opened it to discover the girl.

"Mrs. Brady asked me to thank you for your kindness," she said. "It pleased her so much that she almost forgot the hurt of her burn."

Pengreave smiled. He could not recall ever having been thanked before. He had never done anything to call for thanks because he did not know how.

"You must come again when you need help," he said warmly. "I am here always in the evenings. You have but to ask."

"I shall hold you to your promise," she said. "There is much good that you can do. We are so handicapped by lack of money, and there is so much that we want to do. You must see for yourself the misery about you. Good night."

She hurried down the hall, and Pengreave waited until the street door closed behind her before he shut his own.

He went back into the room, his head in a whirl. Dimly he was conscious that the street was not the same as it had been in his boyhood. The girl must be right. He was willing to see with her eyes, those eyes of the glorious blue.

Those eyes gave him much to think about. He was not yet forty, and more than half of his years had been given to the unwavering pursuit of business. True, there had been Lena, but now Pengreave knew how little Lena had really meant to him.

For the first time that he could remember he had met a woman of his own kind, and he felt the need of knowing more of the life he had missed. He remembered that he was still a comparatively young man, and those blue eyes had loosened something within his breast—his repressed boyhood, his unrealized need of the society of his fellows.

He was as one born again and, being born, saw the world in a new light. Methodically he removed the picture of Lena from its tawdry frame and tossed it upon the coals glowing in the open fire. He was rather well pleased with the reflection in the mirror above the mantel as he stood there.

"I must get some new clothes tomorrow," he said to the reflection; "also I must find a place where it is well to live, a house such as she will like. I, too, need a helping hand." And the reflection in the mirror smiled back at him. Now that Pengreave was awakened he knew it was well. The rest would follow in due course.

BRYAN MAKES ATTACK.

Vigorously Assails Anti Injunction Plank of Republicans.

Lincoln, Neb., June 22.—In a criticism of the Republican national platform in general, William J. Bryan has given out a statement in which he assails in particular the anti injunction plank of the Chicago declaration, characterizing it as a "transparent fraud." The statement says:

"The anti injunction plank of the Republican platform as finally adopted is a transparent fraud. The plank reads as follows:

"'The Republican party will uphold at all times the authority and integrity of the courts, state and federal, and will ever insist that their power to enforce their processes and to protect life, liberty and property shall be preserved inviolate. We believe, however, the rules of proceedure in federal courts with respect to the issuance of a writ of injunction should be more accurately defined by the statute; that no injunction or temporary restraining order should be issued without notice, except where irreparable injury would result from delay, in which case a speedy hearing thereafter should be granted.'

"The plank assumes that somebody is attacking the courts and that the courts are in danger of losing support or of having their powers weakened. There is no attack upon the courts. This part of the plank was written to give assurance to the people who are opposed to the laboring man's plea. And now let us proceed to that part of the plank which was intended as sop to the laboring man. It says, 'We believe, however, that the rules of procedure in the federal court with respect to the issuance of a writ of injunction should be more accurately defined by the statute.'

"Just what that definition shall be is not stated."

"'that no injunction or temporary restraining order should be issued without notice, except where irreparable injury would result from delay, in which case a speedy hearing thereafter should be granted.'

"Note the words 'except where irreparable injury would result from delay' and compare this with the federal statute on the subject, and you will find that under the law as it now exists the court is not empowered to grant a temporary restraining order except there appears to be danger of irreparable injury from delay. It will be seen that the man who wrote the injunction plank copied the statute almost word for word and made the exception as broad as the statute. If the convention had been frank in the statement of its position, it would have quoted the present statute and said that it was in favor of enforcing the law just as it is.

"The men who are responsible for the language of the injunction plank may have fooled the rest of the committee, and they may have fooled the convention, but they cannot fool the laboring men or the voters in general. The injunction plank has not even the value of a gold plated brick, for the plating is brass, as well as the interior of the brick."

Farmers Forced to Flee.

St. Charles, Mo., June 18.—Four hundred feet of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railway embankment, which served as a levee protecting St. Charles county farms from the Missouri river, gave way Wednesday and 4,000 acres of farm land were inundated. A wall of water 11 feet high swept through the crevasse and frightened families of farmers fled for their lives to high ground.

Aged Man Dies of Hydrophobia.

Danville, Pa., June 18.—Joseph Gerst, aged 79 years, is dead here from hydrophobia. Gerst was bitten by a dog two months ago and the wound had apparently healed when the disease broke out.

The death of Gerst follows a series of mad dog scares in Danville, which have extended over a year. Several of the mad dogs have bitten other dogs, a number of horses and persons.

Sherman in Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., June 22.—Representative James S. Sherman of Utica, N. Y., Republican candidate for vice president on the ticket with William H. Taft, is a visitor in Cleveland, the guest of former Governor Myron T. Herrick. Mr. Sherman, it is stated, will leave Cleveland tonight for Utica.

VERNOR FINCH

A TECUMSEH BOY GRADUATED FROM KALAMAZOO COLLEGE LAST WEDNESDAY MORNING.

One of Eight of the Class of 22 Who Delivered Orations.

Also Won L. C. Lull Prize for Commencement Oration.

The fifty-fourth annual commencement exercises of the Kalamazoo college took place last Wednesday morning, June 17, when a class of 22 received their diplomas.

Among the teachers' certificates granted there was one granted to Vernor C. Finch of Tecumseh, who was one of the eight from the class of 22 students, who delivered orations. Mr. Finch also won the L. C. Lull prize for commencement oration.

The subject of Mr. Finch's oration was, "A Master Force of Government," and in part he said:

"The problem of government continues to be of paramount interest in the world. Notwithstanding the long existence of the moral and civil laws and the voice of the public, men still tread upon the rights of others. Yet each of these governing forces is necessary and each is inadequate.

"Early in the history of mankind came the civil law. Moses grasped its importance and Charlemagne used its power to subject his peoples. The barbarous nations of Europe replaced their rude systems with the formalities of the court and one by one erected the great edifice of social order in which the cornerstone is law.

"But the law is somewhat at fault, it cannot be applied to every case. In every community men openly violate the spirit of the law while keeping the letter. Such are the liquor dealers and those who wrongfully employ child labor.

"Evidently some greater force is needed and we find it in the voice of the people as they cry in protest at such open violation of their rights. Public opinion is powerful, it made France a republic, freed America, cured municipal ills and in time will banish the liquor traffic. Many who dare defy the law cannot brave the scorn of their fellow men.

"But like the law public opinion is not all sufficient. When people take the administration of justice upon themselves and do violence to person or property they too, are doing criminal deeds. Behind such shelter the 'lynch law' and and the 'unwritten law' hide. The dictates of the unrestrained people are momentary, passionate, untrustworthy.

"If then, law is insufficient as a governing force and public opinion is not to be relied upon we must seek farther for an ideal. Where shall we find it but in the union of these two forces? Public opinion must act through the law. The one is erratic, the other untrustworthy but united they are a force that none dare defy.

"Down through the ages these two have come together, the law calling for perfection, the public for enlightenment. Today the cry is the same. The law has its champions but the corruptions of society lead the masses of people whither they will, and they cry for better direction. It is for the educated young man to shoulder this burden, to teach the world the meaning of law and the value of their own opinions, to give them examples of righteous conduct in trying circumstances and to teach them the fundamental doctrines of Christian civilization. So doing they will hasten the day when the cry of the masses shall be answered and when the people, operating through the law, shall be the master force in government."

At the close of the exercises Mr. Finch left at once for Chicago, where he will take a special course at the university. From there he goes to Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, where his older brother Delmar is teaching manual training, and where he will teach the sciences in the public schools.

PAPER

WRITTEN AND READ BY MISS MARY WHITELOCK, SUNDAY, JUNE 14th.

Origin and Purpose of Children's Day.

Saint's days in the ancient church calendar, as is well known, were marked with red letters and were called red letter days. Among our own Universalist church red letter days and the most brilliantly red of all is our June Children's Sunday.

Children's day seemed to spring spontaneously and naturally from the heart of the church's love for the children. The religious "Feast of the Children" is a manifestation of the divine affection of the church for its little ones. The honor, if it may be so called, of being the first church to observe and institute a June "Children's day" belongs to the Universalist church.

Rev. Charles H. Leonard, now the honored Dean of Crane divinity school (Universalist) at Tuft's College, Boston, as early as 1857 in his church at Chelsea, Mass., began in a humble, yet real way, to devote a Sunday in June to the dedication of children to the Christian life and to the cognate object of impressing on christian parents their duty by precept and example, to nurture their children in the Christian life to which they were thus publicly pledged. It was soon afterward quite generally observed in our churches and was often spoken of in allusion to the profusion of roses in the floral decorations, as "Rose Sunday."

In 1867 the day was formally adopted by our national convention at Baltimore and designated by the name "Children's Sunday" in the following resolution:—"Resolved that we recommend the practice of those churches in our order that set apart one Sunday in June, each year, as Children's day when parents bring to the altar their most precious treasures and give them to the Lord by appropriate and sacred rites."

The next action was by the M. E. General Conference in 1868:—"Resolved that the second Sabbath in June be annually observed as "Children's Day," and that in all Sunday schools we attempt the collection of five cents for each child enrolled, and by that same body in a subsequent meeting, in 1872 it became a law with that church.

In 1883 the Presbyterian body established the day by a hearty vote, saying, "The general assembly hereby designates the second Sunday in June as "Childrens Day" on which special services for the children shall be held, and the vital topics of christian nurture and the conversion of the young shall be pressed upon the thoughts of the entire congregation. During the same year the congregationalist in national council assembled and took steps toward the institution of a "Children's Day" service in June in their churches, and in 1886 the council approved and adopted the institution.

It was also in 1883 that the Baptist Publication Society provided for a children's day the second Sunday of June. Now "Children's Day is observed by more people than any church festival in America, and the Protestant church which does not participate in this festival is a conspicuous exception. At the Universalist church at Charlestown, Mass., in June 1867, the pastor, Rev. Oscar Safford, dedicated one hundred and eleven children and Dr Leonard dedicated the pastor's child, making one hundred and twelve children dedicated at one service.

Rev. Fred A. Dillingham, D. D., says, "This day has profound significance, the institution of children's Sunday was no accident, it was not invented as a spectacle to please the fancy of a thoughtless and undevout beholder, it was not an expedient to annually fill deserted pews, it came out of a profound conviction of a christian shepherd's heart that the lambs belong to the flock and should be so considered. It was a true prophatic vision that saw in it the germ of a christian that must grow as the spirit of the master should increase in the administration of the church.

In establishing children's Sunday Dr. Leonard never demanded of authorship, but only of decipleship. He was not bent on making an institution so much as making souls fit for the kingdom of God on this earth. He could not have imagined the bright day, then fifty years away, when he would be hailed as "Founder, and saluted by an appreciative church as "Father Leonard". He could not have imagined the splendid recognition and wide observance in his own church which marks its half century's life, nor the glad adoption of it and glory in it that is seen in its nearly universal observance in Protestant churches, but he did see the importance of this public emphasis of the church upon the recognition by the family and the church of a common responsibility and a common hope.

This day emphasizes the wish and effort that the child may grow up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, under the influences of the Christian church, looking forward to the day of consecration when in maturer years, the hope of the parent, the ministrations of the church, and his own ripened convictions shall lead him to present himself for full membership in the Christian church.

So today we can heartily rejoice in the glory and beauty of the service. Rein the extent of the observance of children's Sunday. Rejoice in the abundant fruits in the Universalist church and the church universal; rejoice that the Universalist church has been enabled to make so blessed a contribution to Christian culture; rejoice in the life of the church that created this institution; rejoice in the honors that have come to Father Leonard. Let us heartily rejoice that he has been spared to see and share our joy in the work of his heart and hands. And so as each year comes round let us enter into the spirit of the day, resolved to realize its possibilities in larger and larger measures.

Those who believe that matches are made in heaven have faith to burn.

NOTICE.

AN ORDINANCE RELATING TO DOGS.

(361) Section 1. Be it ordained by the Common Council of the village of Tecumseh: That no dog shall be permitted to run at large in any street or place in said village, away from the premises of the owner, at any time from the 15th day of June to the 15th day of September, in any year, unless so thoroughly and securely muzzled that no bite or harm can result therefrom to any living creature.

(362) Sec. 2. That the owner or person having possession or custody of, or harboring any dog, who shall allow such dog to continue within, pass through, or come within the bounds of this corporation, off the premises of such owner, excepting such dog be so muzzled, shall be punished by a fine of not less than five dollars and not exceeding ten dollars, on conviction thereof before any justice of the peace of the township of Tecumseh, or by imprisonment in the jail of Lenawee county not exceeding ten days for each offense, or by both fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court.

(363) Sec. 3. It shall be the duty of the village marshal and street commissioner, and of each of them, to kill forthwith any dog running at large contrary to the provisions of this ordinance.

AN ORDINANCE RELATING TO AUTOMOBILES AND MACHINE VEHICLES.

(326) Section 1. The Village of Tecumseh ordains: That no person shall run or propel any automobile or other machine vehicle through or upon the streets of this village faster than eight miles an hour.

(327) Sec. 2. Any person convicted of a violation of this ordinance shall be punished by a fine of not more than five dollars, or by imprisonment in the common jail of Lenawee county not exceeding thirty days, or both such fine and imprisonment.

The Famous Basilisk.

According to the ancient writers, the basilisk—sometimes called cockatrice—was a monster to be greatly dreaded. Its breath filled the air with a deadly poison and burned up vegetation, and the glance of its eye was fatal to both man and beast. The only creature that could face it and live, they said, was the cock, and travelers were advised to take loud crowing cocks with them as a protection against the monster. So much for superstition. As a matter of fact the basilisk is a harmless lizard, living a quiet life in the woods and feeding on insects. Its appearance, however, is formidable, and it is this perhaps that gave it a bad name. It grows to a length of from twenty-five to thirty inches, including its tail, which is much longer than its body. Rising from its head and inclining backward is a broad, winglike expansion, which gives it some resemblance to the flying lizard. The crest of this expansion is formed somewhat like a crown, and that gave the basilisk its name, which is from the Greek word meaning "king."

Find Gold at Ann Arbor.

Ann Arbor, Mich., June 18.—Two students, who were looking over the gravel that is being taken out of the excavation for the cellar of a new building, came across two gold nuggets as big as plum pits and worth several dollars apiece. When the gravel on the lot was tested, previous to excavating, it was found that there was some gold deposit there, but that the percent was so small it would not pay to do anything about it. These are the first nuggets found there.

Mrs. Hartje Gets Big Alimony.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 18.—Mrs. Mary Scott Hartje, wife of Augustus Hartje, the millionaire paper manufacturer, whose unsuccessful divorce litigation against his wife has been widely published, has won another victory. By a decision of Judge Fraser she has been awarded $50,000 a year alimony, $26,750 for court expenses and $7,000 for attorneys fees. Her claim for expences and counsel fees were but slightly reduced by the court.

THIRTY SIXTH

ANNUAL REUNION OF THE OLD FOURTH

Michigan at Tecumseh Last Friday.

The thirty sixth annual reunion of of the old fourth Michigan Infantry was held at Tecumseh, Friday, June 19, with about 45 of the old soldiers in attendance.

The streets were beautifully decorated with flags, and nearly all the business men showed their patriotism by adorning their stores with flags and bunting.

Every train brought several of the old boys with their familes and after the greetings were over, they were invited to the G. A. R ball where a delightful dinner was served.

At 1:30 a program at the Opera house was given with music by the Tecumseh band. At the close of the program, the members of the Old Fourth, formed in line, headed by the band, and marched through the main street of the city.

HUNT FAMILY REUNION.

The fifth reunion of the Hunt family was held last Thursday at the home of Mrs. Mary Hunt in Bridgewater with 68 in attendance. A picnic dinner was served, after which a program consisting of music and recitations was enjoyed.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year. Pres.—Roy Matthew; Vice Pres.—Howard Matthew; Sec.—John Hunt.

Refreshments of ice cream and cake brought the delightful afternoon to a close. Those from Tecumseh who attended were Mrs. Chas. Matthew and son, Howard, O. G. Hunt, wife and two sons, and Mrs. Ida Freeman.

NOTICE.

RESOLVED: That the Common Council of the Village of Tecumseh deems it advisable that all that portion of Ottawa street included in C. IT SAVED MY LIFE—WRITES ECZEMA PATIENT.

Bed-ridden sufferer completely cured by use of D. D. D. external wash.

Mrs. E. Hegg, 1550 West Madison St. under date of Dec. 9, 1907, writes as follows:

"I suffered three years with weeping Eczema. It started with a little spot on my knees and spread fast over my whole body I spent hundreds of dollars and went to every good doctor I heard of but kept getting worse. nothing would stop the awful itch and burning.

"I had to stay indoors from the middle of May to the middle of July. Then I tried D. D. D. Prescription. This is the 9th of December and I am entirely free from the terrible disease. D. D. D saved my life.

"When I began this treatment, people were afraid of me I looked so terrible. My husband was the only one who would take care of me. D. D. D. stopped the itching at once so I could sleep, which I had not done before. Then I began to get better fast and now my skin is clear and white, not a spot anywhere.

Just a few drops of D. D. D Prescription applied to the skin brings relief nothing to swallow or drink. We vouch for D. D. D. Prescription, also the cleans- D. D. D. Soap (name and address of druggist.) Get a bottle today if you have any skin disease. Begin your cure at once.

ELECTROCUTED

Party Returning From Lakes, Drive Into a Live Wire.

When Misses Nettie Kaiser, Edna Smith and Messers Roy Codling and Henry Smith were returning from the lakes Sunday evening where they had been spending the day, at the corner of Oneida and main streets, they drove into a live wire killing the team instantly.

Had it not been for Henry Smith, who is an electrician undoubtedly the entire party would have been electrocuted. It was found that the street light had broken, the lamp dropping upon the ground and it was the current from this that killed the horses. The horses belonged to the Guerdon Garlinghouse livery.

Rev. J. W. Dunning Writes Concerning Municipal Affairs.

To the readers of the Herald and all whom it may concern:

Occasionally it becomes necessary for a preacher to enlarge his audience and his influence thru the use of the public prints. The Herald has kindly consented to allow me a little space for this purpose, whereby I may reach the reading public.

This week we are to have presented to us the spectacle of our beautiful streets blocked by hideous canvases that house cheap shows of an inferior quality, which masquerade under the name of "Carnival." I have seen a dozen such carnivals in as many towns and have yet to learn of an instance where they ever proved a benefit to any community. On the other hand they prove alike a serious menace to business and morals wherever they go. People who have long standing accounts on our merchants books will squander money here which ought to go to pay for last years school books and groceries. The paltry license of $50 which is paid can never reimburse the village for the damage done to streets and the expense of jail and police the week demands. The attractions claims to be "moral." I cannot see how anyone can believe that a travelling company of this grade can possibly have any moral attractions. On the contrary, nothing but immorality and vice follows in the wake of such attrations It is bad enough to have the streets owned for a week by foreigners who have no interest here save a momentary one. It is far worse to have placed before our boys and girls the unwholesome associations of such a carnival crowd.

We pride ourselves on having the "biggest little town on earth" A few of us are trying to make it the "best little town on earth." But a weeks drunk such as this promises to be will undo the work of years. It is the height of folly to pay in support of churches, schools and Y. M. C. A.'s and then allow a gang of travelling showmen, to undo all the good these agencies may accomplish.

Who will reap any benefit from this weeks carnival? Only the saloons, who are responsible for its presence here. It is a shame upon our village when its affairs are so largely dictated by the saloons. Tecumseh is too good a town for that. If we are going to spend money for amusements why not spend it on our own ball team, or our own theatres, instead of giving it to saloons and travelling shows that to say the most are cheap and stale.

As a result of this week not one dollar extra will go into the tills of any legitimate business, but many will be diverted, and the saloons and cheap entertainments will get it all.

I think the Tecumseh public knows me well enough to know that I am not a crank. But I do want to see a clean village. Its too bad we can't have a sewer this summer but must have a carnival instead.

I want to publicly urge Christian people to do all they can to show this carnival in its true light.

I want to urge all mothers and fathers who care at all for the moral welfare of their children, to keep them off the streets this week, and to know where they are evenings. For nothing can come to them from this carnival but immorality and evil.

I am proud of our village its beauty, its culture, its refinements and its industry. I bow with her in her shame.

Schippacasse of Tecumseh is really the big hitter of the players in the league, who have been playing steadily. Somerlott has a big run of sacrifice hitting. Among the three hundred hitters of the league are: Schippacasse and McDonald of Tecumseh.

Last Friday Tecumseh lost their fifth game to Flint, by the score of 6 to 1. Krapp was in fine form but one hit was secured off his delivery, until the ninth inning, when he weakened a little, giving Streeter and Lagoe singles. McDonald was fined $3 and sent to the bench for disputing a decision of the umpires. Score by innings:

In one of the greatest games seem on the Flint diamond this season, Tecumseh went down to their 6th defeat at the hands of the Flint team The game went for 13 innings, Flint finally winning out. Somerlott made a home run. Holmquist pitched great ball, allowing but 9 hits, while O'Connell was touched for 11 hits. Score:

Sunday the Indians were shut out by the Prison City lads, the score standing 6 to 0. Norcabbage was invincible, holding them to four scattered hits. Brilliant fielding by Jackson featured the game. Doty was found for 10 hits. Score by innings:

Jackson won in an overtime game yesterday with Tecumseh, handing the latter team their eighth defeat. Tecumseh has been playing in hard luck the past two weeks, and are in hopes to break their hoodoo here today with Saginaw. Bishop pitched for Tecumseh, allowing but 3 hits until the ninth inning, when Jackson tied the score The game went on until the 12th inning when Jackson scored the winning run. Score by innings:

NO MORE CATARRH

C. A. Wright & Son Will Not Allow It to Exist in Tecumseh.

"There will be no more catarrh in Tecumseh," say C. A. Wright & Son, "unless people fail to follow the law of common sence."

C. A. Wright & Son make this statement because of the great success that has followed the use of Hyomei in the treatment of catarrhal troubles. So postive is this treatment in quick relief and permanent cure that C. A. Wright & Son sell it under an absolute guarantee to refund the money if it does not do all that is claimed for it.

There is no other treatment or medicine for catarrhal troubles that is at all like Hyomei. It follows nature's plan in curing disease of the throat and lungs by bringing healing medication right to the very spot where the disease germs exist. With this treatment, health-giving oils and balsams are breathed through a neat pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, so that every breath you take while using Hyomei is a breath of healing air. It kills all catarrhal germs and prevents their growth, so that the cure is thorough and permanent.

Remember that Hyomei is sold under a guarantee to cost nothing unless it cures. If you have any catarrhal trouble, you should take advantage of C. A. Wright & Son liberal offer.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physicians, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease undermines the system.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

Home of Swamp-Root.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are prompt and thorough and will in a very short time strengthen the weakened kidneys and allay troubles arising from inflammation of the bladder. They are recommended everywhere. Sold by all druggists.

Healthy kidneys filter the impurities from the blood, and unless they do this good health is impossible. Foley's Kidney Cure makes sound kidneys and will positively cure all forms of kidney and bladder disease. It strengthens the whole system.

"I have been somewhat costive, but Doan's Regulets gave just the results desired. They act mildly and regulat the bowels perfectly."—George B. Krause, 306 Walnut Ave., Altoona, Pa.

A GOOD REASON.

Tecumseh people can tell you Why it is so.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid pois on that cause backache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Tecumseh people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. Geo. Teachout, living on Oneida street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "Some years ago I began to have a great deal of trouble from my kidneys. There were intense pains in the small of my back extending to my shoulder blades, and at times when I stooped, sharp stitches of pain would catch me and I would be unableto straighten for a few seconds. At night, I could not rest well on account of the frequent action of the kidneys, and though I doctored no benefit. I had heard a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a box at Wright and Son,s drug store and began using them. I soon noticed the good effects and continued taking them until entirely cured. I cheerfully recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to any one afflicted with kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

WOOD PRESERVATION.

Steps Taken by Railroad Men to Conserve Diminishing Timber Supply.

The recent action by the board of directors of the American Railway Engineering and Maintenance of Way association in appointing a committee of seventeen to investigate and report upon the subject of wood preservation has shown that the practical railroad men of the country recognize the importance of taking steps to conserve the rapidly diminishing timber supply of the United States.

Timber is one of the principal materials purchased by the railroads, and its economical use is a subject of far-reaching importance. More than 100,000,000 cross ties are used annually by the different railroad companies, and their average life in this country is not more than six or seven years. From a study of European methods and the knowledge of wood preservation under conditions in this country timber testing engineers say it is reasonably certain that an average life of from fifteen to twenty years may be secured by treating the tie with a good preservative and the use of improved devices for the prevention of mechanical abrasion, thus to a large degree diminishing the drain upon the timber supply.

While the quantity of timber used for ties is very great and the problem of a future supply is a serious one, yet this class of timber is not the only one which should receive consideration. A greater length of service from timber now used by railroads for bridges, trestles, piles, fences and transmission poles is greatly to be desired.

A. L. Kuehn, engineer of track and roadway of the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis railway, is chairman of this special wood preservation committee, and C. G. Crawford, specialist in wood preservation of the United States forest service, is its vice chairman. The first meeting was recently held in Chicago for the purpose of organizing and deciding upon a plan of work. The committee was divided into four subcommittees to take up the following lines of work:

Preservatives and specifications, H. von Schrenk, consulting timber engineer, St. Louis, chairman.

Adaptability of woods and their preparation, W. K. Hatt, civil engineer, forest service, Lafayette, Ind., chairman.

Treating processes, C. G. Crawford, specialist in wood preservation, forest service, Washington, chairman.

This American Railway Engineering and Maintenance of Way association now consists of about 900 members representing 200,000 miles of railroad track and including among its membership the leading railroad engineers of the country. The object of the association is the advancement of knowledge pertaining to the scientific and economical construction, operation and maintenance of railroads. The method employed to obtain this information is through standing committees appointed by a board of directors. Each committee is appointed to investigate a special subject and to report at each annual meeting, presenting the results of its investigation, followed by recommendations which are published in the Manual of Recommended Practice after they have been adopted by the association.

Representatives of retail, wholesale and manufacturing lumbermen, in session in Minneapolis, adopted a code of ethics for the trade and formed a new association to be known as the Lumber Trade congress. The code of ethics consists of seventeen clauses, governing the question of orders, failure to deliver or damage claims, term of sale and arbitration of difficulties between buyer and seller.

Heart Troubles

The heart may be weak just the same as the eyes, stomach or other organs: It often happens that a person is born with a weak heart. Then again disease, fevers, over-exertion, anxiety, nervousness, rheumatism, etc. weaken the heart. The result is shortness of breath, palpitation, pain in the heart, or in some of the nerves of the chest or abdomen. The heart should be strengthened with a tonic, and for this nothing equals Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

"I had LaGrippe last fall as I thought in a mild form. I was weak, tired feeling, and short of breath; could hardly go about, and a good deal of the time sort of an asthmatic breathing and extremely nervous." I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine and now I feel so much better in every way. I am so thankful that I began taking this medicine, and shall not hesitate to tell others how much good it has done me."

MURDER OF THE SEAL.

The Way the Animals Are Slaughtered by the Hunters.

The ice echoes no footfalls, so the murder of the seal is a stealthy act. Yes, it seems like murder. On the pan lies a whitecoat alone. Up to it hurries one of the hunters. Lifting his bat above his head, he measures the distance; then, swinging downward the iron shod point, he strikes the skull of the seal such a blow that it is crushed in as if of pasteboard. Tossing aside the bat and whipping out the scalping knife, while the creature is still quivering, with a swift undercut and two or three side strokes the keen blade has severed the hide and the layers of fat beneath so they can be rolled into a pelt, the hide holding the fat in its folds. The next whitecoat is with its parents. Their hide is coarser, but worth having, so the gunner takes a quick aim, lodging a charge of shot in the head of the growling mate just at the base of the brain. Here the skull is thinnest. One of the batters stands guard over the blowhole to prevent the mother from escaping, while another hats the cub. Then the female, who would desert her offspring to save her own life, is clubbed on the head. A few strokes of the knives and three more bloody carcasses crimson the ice. The pelt of the first seal is piled with the other three in a pan. The flagman sticks a flag by its side, and the hunters hurry forward, leaving the pelts to be towed back to the ship when the hunt is ended.

Thus the slaughter continues hour after hour until nightfall only ends the stroke of the bat and thrust of the knife. If it began at daybreak the field may be strewn with thousands of dead seals, for if the pan of ice is thronged with them, as is sometimes the case, a hundred men will kill ten times their number in a day, since most of the seals are harps, which seldom try to protect their young, and are slain without attempting to defend themselves.—Day Allen Willey in Metropolitan.

BOLIVIAN INDIANS.

The Majority Are Semi-intoxicated From the Cradle to the Grave.

The Indian women of Bolivia are usually superior to their lords in actual intelligence; also in age, as a rule.

They earn the larger share of their mutual "living" and take the lead in most things.

As recognized head of the house the Bolivian Indian wife is much more likely to thrash her comparatively timid spouse than he is to ill use her.

In the markets, when produce has to be disposed of, she can drive a far better bargain than he could; she can carry as heavy burdens, endure as much privation and physical toil, labor, chew as much coca and drink as much strong drink.

Little or no money passes among the Bolivian Indians, their mediums of exchange being whatever they may raise or the labor of their hands. They will eat when not hungry, drink when not thirsty, sleep when not sleepy, anywhere and any time when opportunity offers, "against the time of need," as they say. The majority are in a state of semi-intoxication from babyhood to the grave, alcohol being used on every pretext, freely as their means will allow, on occasions of births, deaths and feast days—the last named being remarkably frequent.—Boston Globe.

Whales.

The largest of all mammals are not the elephants, but the whales. A large elephant weighs about six tons, but the largest whale reaches the immense weight of 150 tons and would furnish four carloads of flesh and blubber. About forty different kinds of whales and dolphins are known, and, although they live in the open sea and look like fish, they are not fish at all, but are true mammals, breathing air and feeding their young on milk, like cows and horses.

PANIC ON STEAMER.

Rams Another Vessel Which Crossed Her Bow in Detroit River.

Detroit, Mich., June 22.—A frightful disaster was narrowly averted on the Detroit river when the steamers Britannia and City of Alpena collided off the foot of First street. As it was, a panic occurred among the several thousands of women and children aboard the Britannia, which was crowded to the rails. Many fainted, several were trampled and had their clothes torn, and not a few were barely restrained by the crew and other passengers from jumping overboard in their terror.

The Britannia had just left the Third street dock and was proceeding up the river to the Woodward avenue stop, when the City of Alpena, which had no passengers, shot out into the river from the D. & C. docks at the foot of Wayne street, blowing two whistles, signifying that Captain Lightbody intended to put his craft across the bow of the Britannia and pass down the river on her starboard side. Captain Ferguson of the Britannia immediately gave the signal to back with all power, and gave two frantic toots of his whistle.

The Britannia rammed the Alpena on the latter's starboard quarter, several yards from the bow, and smashed considerable woodwork, but did not seriously injure the D. & C. boat.

The latter proceeded down the river, while the Britannia, which had been carried far out into the river and had been turned almostly completely around, pointed up the river, stopped at the Woodward avenue dock to ascertain its damage, and, finding nothing serious, it proceeded on its route to the island.

The commotion on the Britannia was fearful. Frenzied women and children screamed and fainted. Several men aboard tried to calm them, but they were thrown aside.

Killed Going to Circus.

Gaylord, Mich., June 22.—Bent on seeing a circus in this village, Peter Belinde, sixteen years old, and Burton Ward, fourteen years old, sons of farmers, lost their lives in jumping from some flat cars on which they had been riding, at Waters, a station eight miles south of here. The boys fell directly in front of a switch engine on another track and were run over by it.

Probably Bomb Was Exploded.

Philadelphia, June 22.—Investigation into the cause of an explosion on board the Hamburg-American line steamer Arcadia, in which three persons were killed and a number injured, on Saturday, strongly tend to substantiate the theory that the bursting of a bomb caused the damage. The explosion occurred in hold No. 4, in which the officers and agents of the vessel declare there were neither explosives nor chemicals. An examination of the bulkhead of 3-8 inch steel, separating No. 4 hold from the coal hold, shows that it is covered with small indentures, as though volleys of bullets had been fired against it. The steel partition was torn loose by the explosion and rolled up like paper, and some of the fire inspectors say that an ordinary gas explosion would not have caused such a condition. Even the ship's officers, who at first declared the assumption that there was a bomb on board was absurd, now admit the possibility of such a thing. The theory of the bomb is also the only one that explains the fact that two of those who met death in the explosion were riddled with small holes, apparently made by flying bits of steel and broken nails. A handful of such scrap was gathered up from the torn clothing and around the bodies of the dead men.

Attacks Wife; Attempts Suicide.

Cleveland, O., June 22.—John Kelly, seventy-five years old, a retired contractor and real estate dealer, fatally wounded his wife, Margaret, seventy-three years of age, the police assert, and then tried to commit suicide by beating out his brains with a hatchet, the weapon used upon his wife. Mrs. Kelly is at a hospital with a fractured skull. Kelly, although severely hurt, will recover. Within a few days the couple would have celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. They were preparing to go to church, and the quarrel came when Kelly accused his wife, it is alleged, of drawing upon their savings account without his knowledge. Kelly, the police state, seized the hatchet and beat his helpmate fiercely with it. A daughter, returning from church, found her father battering himself, and she went for assistance. Both the aged people were unconscious when the neighbors arrived, and the couple were taken to a hospital.

Aerodrome Makes Long Flight.

Hammondsport, N. Y., June 22.—Three successful flights, one of which is said to be the longest ever made in public by a flying machine in America, was accomplished by the new aerodrome No. 3, known as the Curtiss June Bug, which has just made its maiden ascent here under the auspices of the Aerial Experiment association. The aerodrome, which was designed by S. H. Curtiss, in its long flight rose smartly from the ground and covered a distance of 1,266 feet at the rate of 34½ miles an hour. The flight was regarded as a particularly successful feat of aviation. The performance was witnessed by Dr. Graham Bell and other members of the association.

I hate to hear so many husbands call their wives "dear." It sounds like an insinuation.

DAY OF DROWNINGS.

Series of Accidents Occur In Michigan Streams.

FOUR LIVES ARE LOST.

Boys at Freeland Fall From Logs. Ypsilanti Young Man Sucked Under by Current—Menominee Boy Seized With Cramps.

Freeland, Mich., June 22.—While fishing on a raft of logs on the Titabawassee river, Benjamin H. Foster, nineteen years old, and Solomon Foster, his brother, seventeen years old, were drowned. Their bodies were recovered.

The young men lived at Auburn, at the home of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Margarson, and were visiting at the home of George Austin, at Freeland. With Austin's hired man, they went to the river to fish. Benjamin rolled off the logs into the water, and when his brother attempted to rescue him, he, too, was drowned.

Ypsilanti, Mich., June 22.—Sucked beneath the surface of the Huron river by the swift current near the Woolen mill dam, Ira Lawrence, nineteen years old, son of John Lawrence, was drowned in the presence of his two brothers, whith whom he was swimming. The other lads succeeded in reaching the shore safely.

The three lads swam to the center of the stream, and Ira was seen to suddenly disappear. The other boys realized that they, too, were being pulled down and struck madly for shore. When they turned to see where Ira was, he had gone down.

The police were notified, and Chief Gage hurried to the scene. He allowed the water to flow out of one dam and the mill race, considerably lowering it, and then succeeded in finding the body.

Menominee, Mich., June 22.—While swimming in the Menominee river, Fred Suhr, aged sixteen years, was seized with cramps and drowned before his companions could rescue him. His body was recovered.

VILLAGES BURN.

Forest Fires Destroy Property in the Northern Peninsula.

Millersburg, Mich., June 22.—The little village of Case, three miles west of here, has been destroyed by forest fires. The villagers were all taken to Onaway on a special train. Case at one time was a thriving town, but since the decline of the lumber industry it has lost many of its inhabitants. It is doubtful if the town will be rebuilt.

Wolverine, Mich., June 22.—Legrande, a village of 200 population, on the Haakwood branch, northeast of here, has been destroyed by fire. Most of the women and children had left the village and gone to Indian River, and the men who remained were unable to successfully combat the fire. The loss to property is heavy. Great quantities of lumber and timber were in the village ready for shipment. All was burned.

Rondo, Mich., June 22.—Fire has caused loss of here of $15,000. A. Park's hotel was destroyed, as well as his store, its stock and his personal property, all valued at $10,000. The Galbraith dwelling and barn and the Shearer residence were also destroyed, as well as the Michigan Central railroad station. Several bridges were also burned.

Boyne City, Mich., June 22.—Forest fires southeast of this city are causing great loss. The village of Kentucky has been wiped out. Several big skidways of logs and much standing timber has been burned. The loss will reach thousands of dollars.

Fire Wipes Out Canadian Town.

Toronto, Ont., June 22.—The town of Burk Falls, Parry sound district, on the north branch of the Grand Trunk railroad, has been almost completely wiped out by fire, involving a loss of $100,000.

Fulton Again Scorched.

Fulton, Mich., June 22.—For the second time within six months this village has suffered from a disastrous fire, when, at an early hour, property estimated worth $50,000 on Main street was destroyed. The fire started in the building occupied by F. J. Martin, hardware, and by the Maccabees, from some unknown cause, and before it was gotten under control destroyed two large business buildings and contents and two dwellings. Just six months ago the opposite side of Main street was swept by flames.

Accidentally Shoots Chum.

Cadillac, Mich., June 22.—While loading his gun, Roy Spencer accidentally shot his chum, Arthur Kirby. The bullet entered his left arm near the wrist, passing out near the elbow. Both boys claim it was an accident. Kirby's life was probably saved by the bullet glancing off after striking the bone of the arm. Surgeons, however, believe the young man will suffer a permanent injury to his arm.

THE NATION MOURNS.

Death Suddenly Claims Former President Cleveland.

HEART FAILURE THE CAUSE.

Induced by Stomach Trouble of Long Standing—Will Be Buried Friday. Messages of Condolence Pour in on Widow.

Princeton, N. J., June 25.—Grover Cleveland, twice president of the United States, died at 8:40 o'clock Wednesday morning at his home, Westland, in this quiet college town, where he had lived since his retirement as the nation's chief executive, almost twelve years ago. When death came, which was sudden, there was in the death chamber, on the second floor of the Cleveland residence, Mrs. Cleveland, Dr. Joseph D. Bryant of New York, Mr. Cleveland's family physician and personal friend; Dr. George B. Lockwood, also of New York, and Dr. John M. Carnochan of Princeton.

An official statement given out and signed by the three physicians gave heart trouble, superinduced by stomach and kidney ailments of long standing, as the cause of death.

In Poor Health Long Time.

While Mr. Cleveland had been in poor health for the last two years and had lost a hundred pounds in weight, his death came unexpectedly. Some three weeks ago he was brought home from Lakewood, where his condition for a time was such that the hotel at which he was staying was kept open after its regular season, because he was too ill to be moved. But when Mr. Cleveland was brought back to Princeton, he showed signs of improvement and actually gained five pounds in weight.

Although confined to his room continuously after his return to Princeton, it was not until Tuesday that Mr. Cleveland's condition aroused uneasiness on the part of Mrs. Cleveland. Undoubtedly affected by the heat, Mr. Cleveland showed signs of failure, and Mrs. Cleveland telephoned to Dr. Bryant, who came over from New York on the train arriving here at 4:24 p. m. Dr. Lockwood followed Dr. Bryant from New York, and when they reached here Dr. Carnochan, who had been Mr. Cleveland's local physician since the former president came to Princeton, was also called in. During the evening Mr. Cleveland seemed to rally, and Mrs. Cleveland, who always has been optimistic about her husband's health, felt assured that it was merely another of the many attacks Mr. Cleveland had suffered, and she informed those who inquired that Mr. Cleveland's condition was not serious.

Death Was Peaceful.

Mr. Cleveland became worse during the night, and Mrs. Cleveland was called to the bedside of her husband. The distinguished patient sank into unconsciousness, from which he recovered at times only to suffer a relapse. This continued throughout the night and early morning. The last time he became unconscious was about two hours before he died. Death was peaceful. Just before he died, Mr. Cleveland sought to say something, but his words were inaudible.

The text of the official statement, given out a short time after Mr. Cleveland's death, was as follows:

"Mr. Cleveland for many years had suffered from repeated attacks of gastric intestinal origin. Also, he had a long standing organic disease of the heart and kidneys. Heart failure, complicated with pulmonary thombosis and oedema, were the immediate causes of his death."

The news of Mr. Cleveland's death came as a sudden shock to the people of Princeton, as it did to the people of the rest of the world. As the news spread about, the university flags were placed at half staff, and everybody was disposed to stop and talk and express regrets and extol Mr. Cleveland's virtues. Many of the intimate friends of the family and many others not so close called at the Cleveland home. Few were able to see Mrs. Cleveland, and all of them left cards. The visitors, newspaper men, photographers and others, became so numerous that the police authorities placed a policeman on guard at the Cleveland home, and no one but intimate friends and those in charge of the funeral arrangements were permitted to approach the house.

Later in the day messages of condolence began to come in from all parts of the world to Mrs. Cleveland. One of the first was from President Roosevelt, who will attend the funeral, which will be held on Friday afternoon and which, in deference to Mrs. Cleveland's wishes, will be as private as possible.

Mr. Cleveland's body will be buried in Princeton cemetery, in the family plot, where lies the remains of Ruth, the eldest of the Cleveland children, whose death was a sad blow to her father.

Children Were Away.

So unexpectedly did Mr. Cleveland's death occur that no one of his four children were at home. The children are at the Cleveland summer home at Tamaworth, N. H., under the care of Mrs. Perrine, Mrs. Cleveland's mother. Word was sent to them of their father's death, and they are now on their way home. The children are: Ester, aged fourteen; Marion, aged twelve; Richard, aged ten, and Francis Grover, aged five.

ROOSEVELT SHOCKED.

He Will Attend Cleveland's Funeral. Orders Flags Half Masted.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., June 25.—News of the death of ex-President Grover Cleveland was communicated to President Roosevelt at his summer home here and caused radical changes in the president's plans for the immediate future. Mr. Roosevelt was visibly deeply shocked at the tiding and immediately telegraphed to Mrs. Cleveland at Princeton, N. J., tendering his sympathy and that of Mrs. Roosevelt. Announcement was made that President and Mrs. Roosevelt would attend the funeral services at Princeton Friday.

Mr. Roosevelt made it known immediately on receipt of the news of Mr. Cleveland's death that he would abandon his proposed trip to New London, Conn., to witness the Harvard-Yale boat races. He also at once prepared and subsequently caused to be issued a proclamation to the people of the country eulogizing the dead statesman, ordering all government flags half masted for thirty days and directing that military and naval honors be accorded the late president on the day of the funeral.

The president and Mrs. Roosevelt, accompanied by Secretary Loeb, will leave Oyster Bay on a special train on Friday for Princeton to attend the funeral. When they reach Long Island City, a tug will be in readiness to transfer them to Jersey City, from where another special train on the Pennsylvania railroad will convey them to Princeton. They will return over the same route to Oyster Bay immediately after the funeral services.

Washington, June 25.—Appropriate honors will be paid to the memory of ex-President Cleveland by all branches of the government. Immediately upon the receipt of the president's proclamation formally announcing Mr. Cleveland's death, steps were taken to carry out the provisions of the executive proclamation.

All departments, army posts and stations, all commanders in chief of fleets in the navy, captains of detached ships and navy yards and naval stations were ordered to fly the national colors at half staff for thirty days. In the army and navy orders will be followed later by more formal orders directing what shall be done on the day of the funeral, prescribing the number of guns to be fired, etc.

GREAT MAN.

Secretary Taft Thus Speaks of Grover Cleveland.

New Haven, Conn., June 25.—News of the death of ex-President Grover Cleveland threw a shadow of genuine sorrow into commencement festivities at Yale.

Secretary William H. Taft was informed of the demise of Mr. Cleveland as the procession of the officials of the university, the faculty and the graduates was forming to march to Woolsey hall, where the commencement exercises were held. He expressed his deep regret at Mr. Cleveland's death and said:

"President Cleveland was one of the very great men of the country. His death is a distinct loss to the American people." In speaking at the commencement dinner the secretary paid a tribute to the memory of the dead ex-president. At the conclusion of the commencement exercises, Secretary Taft announced that on account of the continued illness of Representative James S. Sherman, his running mate on the Republican national ticket, he had decided to postpone for one week the meeting of the sub committee of the national committee, which was appointed to meet him in conference to select a national chairman. It will not be held until Wednesday, July 8, in Washington.

Bryan's Tribute to Cleveland.

Lincoln, Neb., June 25.—The following tribute to former President Grover Cleveland has been written by W. J. Bryan, and it will appear in next week's issue of his paper: "The death of ex-President Grover Cleveland brings to a sudden end the phenomenal career of one of the strongest characters known to the political world during the present generation. Like every commanding figure, he had zealous supporters and earnest opponents, but those who differed from him were as ready as his warmest friends to concede to him the possession of elements of leadership to an extraordinary degree. He was deliberate in action, firm in conviction, and he was ever ready to accept responsibility for what he did. Few men have exerted a more positive influence upon those associated with them. We are not far enough from the period in which his work was done to measure accurately his place in history, but the qualities which made him great are a part of the nation's heritage, and universal sorrow is felt at his death."

Insane Convicts Removed to Ionia.

Jackson, Mich., June 25.—As a result of the killing of Keeper George Ferris by Convict Archie Woodin, two weeks ago, four prisoners have been taken from the state penitentiary to the Asylum for Criminal Insane at Ionia by Deputy Warden Wenger. The prison authorities have determined to take no more chances with convicts who are suspected of being deranged. All four of the men who were transferred were declared dangerous by Dr. Pray, the prison physician. They are: Archie Woodin, Paul Johnson, Fred Clark, Joseph Blunt.

Clyde Wanted to Die.

Kalamazoo, Mich., June 25.—In the presence of his sweetheart, Clyde White drank a quantity of laudanum while they were standing on Main street in front of a drug store. The couple had trouble. White claimed his tooth was aching and went into a drug store after something to stop the alleged pain. He returned to the street, said "Good-bye," drank the potion and soon fell over. It is believed that he will live.

Slashes Throat With Razor.

Kalamazoo, Mich., June 25.—Peter Damlik, as the result of heat prostration and ultimate brain trouble, attempted to commit suicide by slashing his throat with a razor. The wound was a horrible one. Doctors hope to save his life. He is a well known resident of the city.

Millionaire Rescues Her.

St. Joseph, Mich., June 25.—Caught in the treacherous undertow of Lake Little, Mabel Perlick, eight years old, was being dragged down to certain death when Andrew Crawford, millionaire clubman of this city, rescued her.

Fireman Brown Dies.

Battle Creek, Mich., June 25.—Fireman William Brown, injured in the explosion of a locomotive boiler at Imlay City, is dead in Nichol's hospital. He was not married, but was engaged to Miss Susie Cummings of Port Huron, the wedding being set for next month.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

Some people dispense sympathy because it doesn't cost anything.

A man who is in perfect health, so can do an honest day's work when necessary, has much for which he should be thankful. Mr. L. C. Rodgers, of Branchton, Pa., writes that he was not only unable to work, but he couldn't stoop over to tie his own shoes. Six bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made a new man of him. He says, "Success to Foley's Kidney Cure."

The actor is like a flaming chimney and the critic often makes him draw.

If you will make inquiry it will be a revelation to you how many succumb to kidney or bladder troubles in one form or another. If the patient is not beyond medical aid, Foley's Kidney Cure will cure. It never disappoints.

Ma says some women are busy in the present making a past for the future.

W. R. Ward, of Dyersburg, Tenn., writes: "This is to certify that I have used Orina Laxative Fruit Syrup for chronic constipation, and it has proven, without a doubt, to be a thorough, practical remedy for this trouble, and it is with pleasure I offer my conscientious reference."

Some women will spend fifty cents on a cab to save two cents on a spool of thread.

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a bullet. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes.

It is sold here by all druggists.

Tact is the ability not to look solemn when a rich relative gets off an alleged

Nature has provided the stomach with certain natural fluids known as the digestive juices, and it is through these juices that the food we eat is acted upon in such a way as to produce the rich, red blood that flows through the veins of our body and thereby makes us strong, healthy and robust, and it is the weakening of these digestive juices destroys health. It is our own fault if we destroy our own health, and yet it is so easy for any one to put the stomach out of order. Misses May and Winnifred DeWolf are expected here next Monday, they will spend the summer at the old house and their many friends will be glad to see them.

Mrs. Alfred Fisher of Oberlin, O., is expected tomorrow to visit her sister Mrs. O. B. Finch and her daughter Miss Helen, who has been attending school here, will return home with her.

On Sunday next Rev. Kamm will exchange pulpits with Rev. Mr. Frazier of Medina. Many will remember his visit here a year ago and will be glad to have him spend another Sunday with us

The ladies mission circle will meet with Mrs Harry Moore next Thursday evening: the program will be under the leadership of Mr. Howard and the subject is Japan Mr. Howard will be assisted by her sister-in-law Mrs. Wiley, who was born in Japan.

At the midweek prayer meeting Prof. Lagerquiest of Adrian conducted the exercises which was an evening of song: Prof. Lagerquiest gave an interesting account of how each of the songs sung, came to be written and then led in the singing of them. He was accompanied by his daughter Miss Marjoie whom the young people were very glad to meet.

METHODIST CHURCH.

The church tendered a reception to Mesdames Lanning and Brotherton and families on the occasion of their soon leaving us, Lanning to Ypsilanti, Brotherton to Carterville, Ind. They have both been active in church work and will be greatly missed. As a token of good will Lanning was given a silver jelly spoon and Brotherton a silver meat fork. A very pleasant evening was spent. We sincerely regret their leaving, it will be a loss positive to the church.

The Carnival on Sunday—A union service will be held on the street, if the weather premits, east of the Methodist church on Sunday evening, at which addresses will be given as follows:

The Carnival—Rev. E. A. Woolam.

A voice from the Church—Rev. W. M. Ward.

The services will be presided over by Rev. J. W. Dunning.

Rev. A. H. Fraser will be recognized on the program in place of Rev. F. W. Kamm who will be unavoidably detained.

Music will be furnished by the several choirs.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

The Woman's Mission society meets tonight with Miss Kyle. A fine program has been arranged.

At the morning service Sunday Miss Ruth Waring, one of Prof. Sills, Chicago pupils, will sing.

A number of our Bible school scholars has left for their homes for the summer, but we welcome back a number of familiar faces.

Mr. and Mrs. Herring have been received into the church. Their church letters were received by the session at its meeting last Friday.

At the men's class Sunday, the men will take up the discussion "What men have said about Hell and what the Bible says." All men are invited.

J. W. Dunning, minister—Sunday morning service 10 o'clock. Subject of sermon "Incomplete Discipleship." Bible school at 11:15. Young people's service at 5:30.

The Messenger Boys will take their annual outing at Sand lake Monday. Meet at the church at 8 o'clock a. m. A ball game will be played with Hudson at the lake.

At the midweek service Wednesday the pastor gave a talk on the slum life and mission work of the cities, illustrating with stereopticon pictures, some of which were taken by himself. About 100 were present.

Sunday evening at 5:30 there will be held in the lecture room of the church a service for young people. The pastor will preach a sermon on "God In the Rocks," and will illustrate it with stereopticon pictures of the Grand Canyon, telling of a two weeks stay at this great natural wonder.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

Rev. Blanche Young, minister—All friends of the church are cordially invited to join with us in the services of "Closing Day," next Sunday, after which the pastor will enter upon her two months vacation, not resuming regular preaching services until the first Sunday in September. However the church will be open every Sunday for Sunday school and for Young People's meeting, at the usual hours.

The following is the program of "Closing Day," services. In the morning at 10, subject of the sermon "The Goal of Life," after which, the memorial of the Lord's supper will be observed. Sunday school at noon.

Evening at 7: A special musical program comprised of anthems, duets and solo by the choir: Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harding, the Misses Gaston and McKinney and Mr. Tansley with a short talk by the pastor on progress of the year.

Y. M. C. A. Camp at Sand Lake.

The boys' camp of the Lenawee county Y. M. C. A. is in session at Sand lake for ten days. There are 40 boys from 8 different towns in the county under the leadership of eight men. The boys sleep in tents in groups of nine including the leader. One of the features of the camp is the nightly camp fire. Here stunts are performed every evening, songs, stories, and recitations being the popular forms of entertainment. Mr. Dunning of Tecumseh has charge of the camp fire and with two boys as assistants, publishes a daily paper which is read at this time.

Thursday morning the boys took a hike to Wampler's lake. Next Sunday afternoon there will be a meeting under the trees in front of the camp to which all are invited to attend. Philo N. Brooks of the Toledo Y. M. C. A. will deliver an address at this meeting.

Those from Tecumseh are: Leon McLaughlin, Glenn Kemp and Charley Teachout. In the contest for membership on the life saving crew, Charley Teachout was one of the successful contestants.

Got 30 Days.

BOYD-CAMBURN

Last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robt. M. Boyd was solemnized the marriage of their daughter, Leora Jane, to Sherman M. Camburn of Tipton in the presence of nearly 100 invited relatives and immediate friends.

At the appointed hour half after 8 o'clock Miss Ruth Waring of Evanston, Ill., a cousin of the bride, sweetly sang "Calm as the night" with Miss Mayme Kaiser as accompanist As the first strains of the Lohengrin wedding march sounded fourth Misses Mabel Hollister, Lula Aylesworth, Messers Roger Waring and Wade Frost with daisy chains formed an aisle from the foot of the stair case at a bower made of similax, ferns, and June lillies, where the marriage vows were exchanged.

The first to pass through the aisle was Rev. John Wirt Dunning, pastor of the Presbyterian church, followed by the groom with his best man, Seymour R. Boyd, brother of the bride. Next came the bride accompanied by her brides maid, Miss Leona Beebe of Tipton, a cousin of the grooms. The impressive ring service was used after which the happy couple were introduced to the many relatives and friends present.

After the extending of congratulations the guests were served to a dainty two course lunch by the Misses Bess Babcock, Nora Mitchell, Alice Bradley, Nettie Kaiser, Alice Combs, and Pearl Beebe. Green and white were the colors used in the graceful decoration for the several rooms. Smilax effectively combined with other greenery and lusters of white blossoms gave a striking contrast of color scheme was carried out in the bridal table in the dinning room. The center piece was a large bouquet of June lillies and the silver candelabra lighted with green candles.

The bride was becomely gowned in white elysee net over Suesine silk daintly trimmed with bebe irih lace and carried white sweet peas Miss Beebe wore light green iola silk, carrying a cluster of white sweet peas. Miss Hollister was attired in tan foulard silk Miss Aylesworth wore a gown of pink suesine with lace trimmings.

The bride has always lived in or about the city and by her womanly ways and cheery manner has endeared herself to a large circle of friends. The groom needs no introduction to Tecumseh people, having attended our public schools, graduating in 1904 and now holds a lucrative position in his home village. Mr. and Mrs. Camburn were the recipients of many gifts including mahogany, solid silver, cut glass china and linen as a testimony of the high esteem in which they are held.

The bride's gifts to those who assisted her were solid silver spoons with the date engraved and the grooms gift to his best man, Mr. Waring and Mr. Frost were gold locket tooth picks

Among the guests from out of town were Mrs Sarah Brown and daughter, Mrs. E M. Christopher, Oklahoma City, Okla., Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Boyd and daughter, Gertrude, Warsaw, Ind., Dr. and Mrs. R. B. House, Springfield, O., Miss Ruth Waring, Evanston, Ill., Mrs. Clyde Barber, Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Will Camburn, Tipton, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Boyd and family of Rome Center, Mr. and Mrs Geo. Knight, Mrs Shoffstall, Mr. and Mrs Carroll Boyd of Adrian and relatives from Holloway and Tipton.

CARNIVAL WEEK.

A great deal of discussion and criticism concerning the Carnival Co., which adorns our beautiful streets, has been going around this week, and reverts back to the signers of the petition. The Carnival Co., were coming to Tecumseh anyway, and had rented a lot east of town for show grounds. They had even had them wired for electric lights. Several of the merchants deemed it better to have the company on the streets, if they were coming here any way, hence the petition. There is no one but that makes a mistake some time in their life and the merchants no doubt, see now that they have made a mistake in signing the petition.

The HERALD asks its readers to be lenient and not pass judgement too quickly, for you may be the next one to err.

SIMPLE WASH CURES ECZEMA.

Great inventors often have been praised for surrendering the secrets of their discoveries. Practically the same thing happened in the medical world n the case of Dr. Decatur D. Dennis. the eminent skin specialist of Chicago.

Dr. Dennis, in his own office practice, discovered that pure vegetable oil of wintergreen, properly mixed with other simple redmedies was practically a sure specific for Eczema, psoriasis, barber's itch salt rheum and other itching skin diseases. But the oil of wintergreen alone was found ineffective. It required other mild ingredients such as glycerine and thymol compounded with the wintergreen to produce the real eczema cure.

BASE BALL

Gough and Holmquest were the opposing pitchers. both doing excellent work, and receiving good support. In the second inning, Harris retired with a broken finger Mitchell replacing. Shippy's one handed catch of Wenger's drive in the 8th inning retiring the side was a feature.

The Indians runs came in the 6th inning on singles by Somerlott, Shippy and Wagner. Saginaw's run came in the seventh, when Shippy overthrew to first, and Thomas was safe when the ball slipped through Somerlots hands allowing Dillon to score. Score as follows:

DIRECT UPON STOMACH

Possibility of administering local treatment to that organ.

After a series of experiments covering a period of many years, a well-known specialist in stomach disorders discovered that to administer local treatment to the stomach was a possibility.

As a result of his study of the diseases of digestion and nutrition, he prepared a prescription called Mi-o na stomach tablets that acts directly upon the stomach and bowels, increasing their strength and power to digest whatever food is eaten and quickly restoring health to these important organs.

Headaches, giddiness, palpitations, heart-burn, sleeplessness, flatulence, bad taste in the mouth, irritability, drowsiness, coated tongue and full feeling after eating, are but a few of the many distressing results of indigestion. Mi-o-na never fails to dispel all these troubles, and all disorders of the stomach soon disappear when the remedy is used.

If you ever have the slightest symptom of indigestion or weak stomach, check its progress at once with Mi-o-na. The remedy is scientific, yet simple, and is fully guaranteed to be harmless under serial No. 1418 of the United States Pure Food and Drugs Law.

C. A. Wright & Son believe so strongly in the curative powers of Mi o-na in all diseases of the digestive organs that they give a guarantee with every 50-cent box to refund the money if the remedy does not do all that is claimed of it. They take all the risk and you lose nothing but your indigestion when you buy Mi-o-na, and that is a good loss.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physicians, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease undermines the system.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

Home of Swamp-Root.

DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are prompt and thorough and will in a very short time strengthen the weakened kidneys and allay troubles arising from inflammation of the bladder. They are recommended everywhere. Sold by all druggists.

Do babies know the truth about you when they stare so impudently at you?

There is much that is evil in mediaval poetry.

Big cuts or little cuts, small scratches or bruises or big ones are healed quickly by DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It is especially good for piles. Be sure to get DeWitt's. Sold by all druggists.

The bigger fool you make out of a fool, the better he likes it.

Healthy kidneys filter the impurities from the blood, and unless they do this good health is impossible. Foley's Kidney Cure makes sound kidneys and will positively cure all forms of kidney and bladder disease. It strengthens the whole system.

Dyspepia is our national ailment. Burdock Blood Bitters is the national cure for it. It strengthens stomach membranes, promotes flow of digestive juices, purfies the blood, builds you up.

"I have been somewhat costive, but Doan's Regulets gave just the results desired. They act mildly and regulat the bowels perfectly."—George B. Krause, 306 Walnut Ave., Altoona, Pa

A GOOD REASON.

Tecumseh people can tell you Why it is so.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poison that cause backache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Tecumseh people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. Geo. Teachout, living on Oneida street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "Some years ago I began to have a great deal of trouble from my kidneys. There were intuse pains in the small of my back extending to my shoulder blades, and at times when I stooped, sharp stitches of pain would catch me and I would be unableto straighten for a few seconds. At night, I could not rest well on account of the frequent action of the kidneys, and though I doctored no benefit. I had heard a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a box at Wright and Son,s drug store and began using them. I soon noticed the good effects and continued taking them until entirely cured. I cheerfully recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to any one afflicted with kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Marriage is like a cucumber—it doules you up.

The best way to make your opinions respected is to keep them to yourself.

The usual idea of whether a man is respectable or not depends on how he is dressed.

A cranky bachelor says that heaven is probably so called because there are no marriages there.

Culture, said Prof. Shailer Mathews, is going to hum in Chicago, and then retired when George Ade read one of his fables in slang, thus giving culture a running start.

MEMBER 54TH CONGRESS, U. S. Recommends Pe-ru-na.

HON. W. E. ANDREWS.

Nebraska has furnished to our National Congress some of the brightest minds that have ever adorned that great national legislature. Men of push and fire, men of great oratorical and intellectual resources, men who have done much to shape the destinies of the great western section of our country.

Among these modern statesmen of that versatile, American type, is Hon. W. E. Andrews, of Hastings, Nebraska. Hon. Andrews was formerly Vice President of Hastings College, and established an excellent record as a promulgator of public education before he became a member of Congress. Speaking of Peruna, he says:

"I cheerfully recommend the preparation, Peruna, as a healthful tonic and a successful remedy for catarrh in its various forms."--Hon. W. E. Andrews.

Hon. Thomas Cale, who was elected to Congress from Alaska, is well known on the Pacific slope, where he has resided. His Washington address is 1312 Ninth street, N. W., Washington, D. C. Congressman Cale writes of Peruna:

"I can cheerfully recommend Peruna as a very efficient remedy for coughs and colds."

Some people prefer to take tablets rather than to take medicine in a fluid form. Such people can obtain Peruna tablets, which represent the medicinal ingredients of Peruna. Each tablet is equivalent to one average dose of Peruna.

Hon. C. Slemp, Congressman from Virginia, whose home address is Big Stone Gap, Va., writes:

"I can cheerfully say that I have used your valuable remedy, Peruna, with beneficial results, and can unhesitatingly recommend your remedy to my friends as an invigorating tonic and an effective and permanent cure for catarrh."

Mr. Boss Craig, Fork Vale, Tenn., had catarrh of the head for two years and had abandoned all hope of being cured, but to his surprise Peruna cured him sound and well.

"Please come and help up," is the burden of Cheboygan's cry to the game wardens. It is claimed the game laws are being violated nightly in Burt and Mullet lakes, and that a colony of beavers was blown up with dynamite recently.

Through a short circuit in the power house in Geddes, the transformer houses caught fire, and the plant was put out of commission for two hours, leaving Ann Arbor and Saline in darkness for that length of time. The loss is several hundred dollars.

Pinconning will celebrate the glorious Fourth in fine style this year.

In a suit at Tawas City to recover over $500 for the care of W. M. Gregory, a smallpox patient, several years ago, the county was defeated, but will take the case to the supreme court.

August Bredsick, the nineteen-year-old rural financier of Owosso, who was arrested only after several shrewd deals that netted him $500, was sentenced to from six months to one year in the Detroit house of correction by Judge Miner. The boy had pleaded guilty and was let down easy on account of his youth and former good record.

SAYS HE ISN'T CRAZY.

Thaw Gives Out Statement—His Case Before Supreme Court.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 29.—Harry K. Thaw left Poughkeepsie this morning in the custody of Under Sheriff John Townsend, who will produce him in the supreme court at White Plains in obedience to a writ of habeas corpus.

Thaw was accompanied by his new attorney, Charles Morschauser of this city, who will ask Judge Mills to grant a jury trial and to order him detained in any place other than the Matteawan asylum until the question of his sanity has been adjudicated by a jury.

As the question of Thaw's right to a jury trial was not raised in the first habeas corpus proceedings before Justice Morschauser, who decided that Thaw was insane and ordered him recommitted to Matteawan, it leaves a new issue to be presented to Judge Mills.

Thaw gave out a statement in which he says:

"Before the last writ was served, we knew from our alienists that my sanity was perfect and, therefore, made no adequate preparation for the hearing before Judge Morschauser. The doctor at Matteawan told my lawyers and me, and told Dr. Pilgrim the middle of April, after I had been there ten weeks, that he and Dr. Lamb had watched me carefully, and that they were positive that I had not the slightest symptom of paranoia. After what he had stated to all these gentlemen, we were not prepared for the way he testified.

"In consequence of this, although Mr. Jerome did not prove that I was not sane, we did not prove my sanity as thoroughly as we should have, and my short testimony late the last night did not improve our case.

"All the doctors who have seen and examined me have no doubt of my sanity whatever except Dr. Baker, and until the writ was served and he visited New York, no one could be more positive than he was that I had no delusions of any kind and was absolutely free from paranoia.

"My counsel do not wish me to return to Matteawan, nor do I. After the confinement to which I have been subjected the association with criminal lunatics might ruin my health.

"The fact that I am well, mentally and physically, after two long trials and nineteen months in the Tombs and three months at Matteawan in itself practically proves that my condition is normal in every way."

NO DISORDERS IN PANAMA.

General Obaldia Apparently Has Piled Up Big Majority.

Panama, June 29.—Balloting in the municipal elections throughout the isthmus was concluded at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon. There were no disorders here.

A big majority was given the ticket supported by General Obaldia, a candidate for the presidency of the republic in the election that will take place next month in Panama city. Returns from Arraijan, Taboga and Chame, the only points from which advices have been received, show that the ticket of Obaldia also won there. Reports from several of the provinces say that disturbances occurred, but that they were not serious.

Though the municipal elections were unimportant, Obaldia's triumph in the capital is regarded as evidence of his popularity, as the supporters of the candidates favored by the government made strenuous efforts to win.

Colon, Panama, June 29.—General Obaldia's candidates carried the municipal elections here by a majority of 94 votes. The total vote cast was 582. Throughout the day order prevailed. The government party is downcast by the result. The result of the vote in neighboring districts is not known. United States marines are ashore in the canal zone to protect property of the Amercan government, but no trouble is expected to ensue.

Roosevelt Eulogized Cleveland.

Cincinnati, O., June 29.—Judson Harmon, attorney general in the late President Cleveland's cabinet, relates an incident at the Cleveland funeral which seems to have escaped general observation. President Roosevelt, before the funeral, summoned the members of the dead president's two cabinets into the chamber of death and delivered to them, with is characteristic energy and force, an exquisite eulogy on the life and death of Cleveland. It was probably the only eulogy at the funeral, and even this was delivered behind closed doors to men who once were much in the public eye.

New River Boat Blown Up.

Allegan, Mich., June 29.—Believed the work of an enemy, Gardiner Broad's new $5,000 river boat was badly damaged at night by the explosion of dynamite on board as the boat lay moored where she was launched, six miles down the river. The boat was nearly ready to start on regular service between Allegan and Saugatuck.

MEET AT HOT SPRINGS

Republican Sub Committee Is Likely to Do So.

TAFT TO SOON GO THERE.

Will Spend Summer Vacation at Virginia Resort—He Denies Having Offered Loeb Chairmanship—Secretary Is Deluged With Letters.

Washington, June 29.—Secretary William H. Taft is enjoying a brief respite from duties following his nomination for the presidency at his K street home. He feels much refreshed. His brother, Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, has joined the war secretary at his home.

Neither Secretary Taft nor his brother cared to discuss for publication the question of the selection of a national chairman except in the most general terms. It is very probable—indeed, it is almost a certainty—that the sub committee's meeting with Secretary Taft and Representative James S. Sherman, candidate for the vice presidency, which was fixed for July 8 in Washington, will be held at Hot Springs, Va., where the secretary expects to spend the greater part of the summer.

"I have not determined the matter definitely," said Secretary Taft, "but my inclination now is to have the conference at Hot Springs. Mrs. Taft and I hope to leave Washington for Hot Springs next Friday."

Mrs. Taft already has made arrangements for the breaking up of housekeeping in Washington. The resort selected for their summer outing is in the very heart of the Virginia mountains, on a spur of the Chesapeake & Ohio railway. Accommodations have been reserved at the Homestead hotel. While in Hot Springs, Secretary Taft expects that his recreation will consist chiefly in riding, driving and playing golf.

Receives Much Advice.

The deepest interest now centers around the choice of a national chairman. It is known that the matter is giving the secretary the gravest concern. He is receiving advice and counsel from every conceivable source. He is being deluged with letters and telegrams on the subject, and personal interviews with him are being sought by those who are particularly interested in the appointment.

"I wish you would say," said he, to a representative of the press, "that the report that I offered the chairmanship to Secretary Loeb is not quite accurate. What I did say to him was I should be glad, in the event of my election, to have him identified in an important capacity with my administration. I am fond of him and sincerely appreciate what he has done for me personally. He told me, however, that he expected to retire from politics at the conclusion of President Roosevelt's administration to enter upon a business career, arrangements for which he has already made."

One queer letter, which came from a man in New York state, to the secretary read, in part, as follows:

"I have been confined in an asylum for the insane and want to assure you there is no pleasure for a sane man to be imprisoned with a lot of crazy persons. I am enclosing a note for $2,500 which I wish you would endorse and return to me. That money will make it much easier for me.'

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

Being taunted because he had joined the church, Roy Liggett of Terre Haute, Ind., shot and killed his companion, Fred Koch. The young men were on their way home from church. Liggett surrendered to the police.

Fire in Windsor, Conn., has destroyed the tobacco warehouse of the American Tobacco company, the tobacco warehouse of W. S. Wrisley and Son and the lumber yard of William Stinson. The loss will amount to about $50,000.

The little town of Pukawana in Brule county, S. D., has been almost wiped out by a tornado. No one was injured. Between twelve and fifteen stores and homes were totally destroyed, and there was not a house in the town that was not damaged.

DEAD ON WIFE'S GRAVE.

Man Is Found in Cemetery in Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 29.—With a smile of perfect contentment on his face, the dead body of Fred B. Terry was found on the grave of his wife in Garfield Park cemetery. The man, broken hearted over the death of his wife and tired of living without her, had swallowed a draught of laudanum and died on her grave.

That the deed had been long premeditated was shown by letters found on his body directing the funeral arrangements and even including a check for the undertaker.

"A casket for $65 or $75 is good enough for me," said the letter to Undertaker Springs, "and five or six hacks will do for the funeral. Do not care particularly for a minister."

In a letter to John Barrett, a relative, the unhappy man made a disposition of his property, showing that the act was long premeditated and the deed of a sane man.

The wife died some time ago, and the man was deserted by his daughter, Ines, recently. In business he was successful, being the proprietor of a theater in Saugatuck.

Church Dedicated at Calumet.

Calumet, Mich., June 29.—Prominent Catholics of the northwest, with many thousands of Michigan Catholics, witnessed the dedication of St. Joseph's Austrian church Sunday. It is the finest Austrian edifice in America. Bishop Eis of Marquette was in charge, and Bishop Bajec of St. Paul delivered the dedicatory sermon.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

Clarence Gardner, seven years old, a son of John W. Gardner of Detroit, was run over and killed by a heavy repair wagon of the Michigan Telephone company.

Stricken with apoplexy as he was mounting the stone steps of his home to go to dinner, Henry Hulbert, aged sixty-seven years, of Armada, died suddenly. He was a prosperous farmer.

Elvin Manny, thirteen years old, of Traverse City, denied the use of firecrackers, began thinking about George Washington, so he took a hatchet and attacked a cherry tree. The hatchet slipped, and the boy's right foot was cut in two, almost half its length.

John Hokala, the Hancock man who shot and probably fatally wounded his wife, attempted the life of his little daughter and then shot himself, is dead. Mrs. Hokala's wound is a very dangerous one, and the physicians regard her chances of recovery as very slight.

The Pontiac Brewing company of Pontiac will manufacture temperance beer. Brewer Clemens has adopted a system of alcoholic extraction by which beer becomes a soft drink, entirely within the provisions of the prohibition law.

Wading, hand in hand, along the shore of Macatawa bay, Georgia Sullivan, seven-year-old daughter of Contractor Harvey S. Sullivan of Holland, and Nellie Tubbergen, about the same age, of Grand Rapids, fell into a deep hole, and the Sullivan child was drowned before assistance could reach her.

Walter Manzleman, thirteen years old; Edward Denbeck, thirteen years old, and John Matjaszek, eleven years old, three youngsters of Detroit, who haven't been good boys, broke their juvenile court paroles until Judge Rohnert was obliged to adopt stern measures for their reformation. They were committed to the Industrial School for Boys at Lansing.

Many Battleships at 'Frisco.

San Francisco, June 29.—Twelve of the sixteen battleships of the Atlantic fleet, which is to start on July 7 on the voyage from San Francisco to Hampton Roads, are now in San Francisco harbor. The other four are expected to arrive from Northern waters duing the coming week. The battleships now here are the Connecticut, Vermont, Georgia, Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, New Jersey, Ohio, Kentucky, Lousiana, Kansas and Minnesota. Those expected during the week are the Nebraska, Rhode Island, Virginia and Karsarge. On Tuesday the Panther and Yankton, auxiliaries, will sail from Honolulu, to be followed on Wednesday by the Culgoa and Relef and on Monday, July 6, by the Glacier and Ajax.

May Pension Mrs. Cleveland.

Washington, June 29.—It is thought probable that congress will provide a pension of $5,000 a year for Mrs. Grover Cleveland, following precedent. Mrs. Garfield has received a pension of $5,000 a year since 1882. Mrs. Harrison, the only other president's widow now living, was not pensioned, but she was Mr. Harrison's second wife and married him several years after his term as president expired.

Ludington, Mich., June 29.—The fourth annual meeting of the Michigan State Nurses' association will be held at Epworth Heights hotel Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

BIG FIRE IN IONIA.

Entire City For Time Threatened by Flames.

STARTED FROM CIGAR STUB.

Grand Trunk and Pere Marquette Depots and Sheds Destroyed—Presbyterian Church Also Burns—Appeal to Neighboring Towns For Aid.

Ionia, Mich., June 29.—A disastrous fire, which for several hours threatened the entire city of Ionia, swept over the district occupied by the Grand Trunk and Pere Marquette depots and freight sheds Sunday morning, completely destroying those buildings, with thirty-two freight cars and passenger coaches, the Presbyterian church, the Koppitz-Melchers cold storage plant and damaged between twenty and thirty residences. The damage is estimated at about $60,000.

The flames originated in the Grand Trunk depot shortly before 10 o'clock, from a cigar stub thrown on the station platform. Fanned by a heavy southwest wind, they soon spread to the Pere Marquette depot and freight sheds, wiping out those buildings completely, together with twenty box cars, three cabooses, two refrigerator cars and three passenger coaches. Four box cars in the Grand Trunk yards were also burned.

When the flames were first discovered an alarm was sounded, and the volunteer department quickly responded, but such headway had been made that the conflagration was beyond control, and flying embers were soaring through the air, endangering houses and buildings in that vicinity. The volunteers soon had several lines of hose on the flames, but were unable to check their spread.

The Presbyterian church, a block away, was soon in flames, and shortly after the Koppitz-Melchers cold storage plant was found to be burning, and blazing embers dropped on the roofs of houses blocks distant.

Assistance Summoned.

The fire had assumed such alarming proportions within an hour, and so many small fires were starting up, that assistance was summoned from Grand Rapids and Lansing. A steamer with 3,000 feet of hose was despatched with all possible speed on a special from Grand Rapids. Mayor Ellis accompanied the men, but by the time they arrived the fire was so greatly subdued that their services were not needed.

The Lansing firefighters were intercepted at Grand Ledge and ordered to return, but alarms from all over the city were still coming in from residences. Members of the volunteers whose homes were either burning or threatened turned their attention to their personal property, and bucket brigades were formed, thus quenching the small fires.

By 3 o'clock the fire was under control, but still burned fiercely up till a late hour Sunday night.

Officials of the Grand Trunk railroad place their loss at between $25,000 and $30,000. The Pere Marquette suffered to the extent of $20,000; the Presbyterian church, $20,000; the Koppitz-Melchers company, between $5,000 and $6,000, while many smaller places suffered minor losses. The railroads are covered by a blanket insurance, while the church carried about $6,000.

Two membes of the volunteer fire department were slightly injured. Edward Slowinski was struck on the head by a falling crossarm from a telegraph pole, receiving a severe gash. Charles Weatherwax sustained a dislocated knee.

Veteran Will Not Get Office.

Lansing, Mich., June 29.—Mayor Boron of St. Johns cannot be compelled to appoint Henry J. Patterson city attorney of St. Johns simply because Patterson is a veteran of the civil war. This is the substance of an opinion handed down by the supreme court. Boron refused to appoint Patterson, on the ground that he was not qualified to fulfill the duties. Patterson asked for a writ of mandamus in the circuit court to compel Boron to appoint him, alleging that the statute which says vetersn should be recognized was operative. The application for a writ was denied by the circuit court, and this denial is affirmed by the supreme court.

Candidate For Supreme Bench.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 29.—Judge Perkins has made formal announcement of his candidacy for a place on the supreme court bench. It is believed he will not be a candidate against Judge Brooke of Detroit for the vacancy to be made Sept. 1 by the resignation of Justice Carpenter, but will go after one of the places to be made vacant next spring, when the terms of Justices Grant and Blair expire.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give one hundred dollars for any case of deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

A Grand Family Medicine.

"It gives me pleasure to speak a good word for Electric Bitters," writes Mr Frank Conlan of No 435 Houston st., New York. "It's a grand family medicine for dyspepsia and liver complications; while for lame back and weak kidneys it cannot be too highly recommended." Electric Bitters regulate the digestive functions, purify the blood, and impart renewed vigor and vitality to the weak and debilitated of both sexes. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 50c.

Sometimes people dispense sympathy because it doesn't cost anything.

A man who body and perfect health, so can do an honest day's work when necessary, has much for which he should be thankful. Mr L C Rodgers, of Branchton, Pa., writes that he was not only unable to work, but he couldn't stoop over to tie his own shoes. Six bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure made a new man of him He says, "Success to Foley's Kidney Cure."

The actor is like a flaming chimney and the critic often makes him draw.

If you will make inquiry it will be a revelation to you how many succumb to kidney or bladder troubles in one form or another. If the patient is not beyond medical aid, Foley's Kidney Cure will cure. It never disappoints.

Ma says some women are busy in the present making a past for the future.

W. R. Ward, of Dyersburg, Tenn., writes: "This is to certify that I have used Orina Laxative Fruit Syrup for chronic constipation, and it has proven, without a doubt, to be a thorough, practical remedy for this trouble, and it is with pleasure I offer my conscientious reference."

Some women will spend fifty cents on a cab to save two cents on a spool of thread.

Cured Hemorrhages of the Lungs

"Several years since my lungs were so badly affected that I had many hemorrhages," writes A. M. Ake, of Wood, Ind. "I took treatment with several physicians without any benefit. I then started to take Foley's Honey and Tar, and my lungs are now as sound as a bullet. I recommend it in advanced stages of lung trouble." Foley's Honey and Tar stops the cough and heals the lungs, and prevents serious results from a cold. Refuse substitutes.

A man doesn't have to go to Nevada to be in a terrible state

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup is the one that children like so well to take as it tastes nearly as good as maple sugar. It is different from the others as it does not constipate, but on the other hand it acts gently yet freely on the bowels and thereby it drives the cold out of the system. It is sold by all druggists.

Stomach troubles are very common in the summer time and you should not only be very careful about what you eat just now, but more than this, you should be careful not to allow your stomach to become disordered, and when the stomach goes wrong take Kodol. This is the best known preparation that is offered the people today for dyspepsia or indigestion or any stomach trouble. Kodol digests all foods. It is pleasant to take. It is sold here by all druggists.

Tact is the ability not to look solemn when a rich relative gets off an alleged

Nature has provided the stomach with certain natural fluids known as the digestive juices, and it is through these juices that the food we eat is acted upon in such a way as to produce the rich, red blood that flows through the veins of our body and thereby makes us strong, healthy and robust, and it is the weakening of these digestive juices destroys health. It is our own fault if we destroy our own health, and yet it is so easy for any one to put the stomach out of order. When you need to take something take it promptly but take something you know is reliable—something like Kodol for Dyspepsia and Indigestion. Kodol is pleasant to take, it is reliable and is guaranteed to give relief. It is sold by all druggists.

You may say what you please if you are not anxious to please others.

Helping a Revolutionist.

[Original.]

While at St. Petersburg the American minister secured an invitation for me to a state dinner at which the emperor and empress were present. I didn't care to go to another one. Any enjoyment in court society in Russia in these days is like smoking while sitting on a barrel of gunpowder.

Opposite me sat an important government functionary, a man about forty years old, and his dinner companion was a girl of twenty. I was struck with her appearance the moment I placed my eyes upon her, and yet I could not explain why. All I can say is that she was noticeable. I concluded that she would not have been there had she not been noble.

She chatted affably all through the dinner with her companion till the end, when I noticed that she suddenly became agitated. She was eating nuts and raisins at the time and bent low over the plate containing them, using a nut pick as though she were nearsighted. When she raised her eyes they met mine, and I thought I saw in them a mute appeal.

Naturally the girl absorbed all my interest. Indeed, when we all rose at the departure of the emperor and empress, instead of craning my neck to get a glimpse of them I kept my eyes fixed upon her. When we seated ourselves again she seemed to be annoyed at something under the table and put a hand under it, apparently, at least, to feel what it was. She had no sooner done this than I saw her again look at me with that same mysterious something in her eyes. Whatever it was it was more like an appeal for help than anything else. I returned it with a questioning glance, as if to say, "What do you want me to do?" But there is a limit to what one can say simply by an expression, and she seemed to be able to help me no further.

Meanwhile I was racking my brain for a solution. I am a believer in transference of thought, and I am sure the girl assisted my mental effort by exerting her will power to guide me. I put my hand under the table. The girl turned ashy pale. I felt about in front of me till my fingers came in contact with some little pointed article sticking into the bottom of the table. I withdrew it and found it to be a nut pick. It was stuck through a bit of paper folded in the form of a rectangle. This I knew without taking my find out into the light, working with one hand while with the other I held the stem of my wineglass.

Now, it did not occur to me just then that I was in imminent danger of being whisked off to Siberia before daylight the next morning. I knew, however, that the girl was playing some desperate game, and all my faculties were exerted in her behalf. It did not require deep penetration to surmise that she wished to get rid of the rectangular folded paper or something in it. The nut pick must be unimportant and only a means to an end. I contrived with one hand to open the paper. I thought I could feel a powder in it, and, withdrawing my hand far enough to look at it, I saw that the thumb and finger were covered with something white. If there was any more of the contents it must have been scattered on the floor.

For a time I thought my work done, but presently it occurred to me that enough of the powder or whatever it was would cling to the paper to identify the former substance. A happy thought occurred to me. Taking a cigarette from my pocket and a match, I struck the match. I had crumpled the paper and instead of lighting my cigarette at once chatted with my next neighbor, and then, pretending to notice that the match was nearly burned, I touched it to the paper and lit the cigarette from the latter.

The moment the paper began to burn a waiter on the opposite side of the table hurried around to where I was. I knew surely that he was coming to me for a purpose, but he was too late. When he reached me the paper had become ashes.

I cannot to this day forget the look of the girl opposite. It was the quintessence of relief and gratitude.

On leaving the palace I was taken in charge by Cossacks, driven to police quarters and searched. They found only in my vest pocket a nut pick, which I have at the present day. I had my passport with me, and my captors knew that I had been invited to the dinner at the request of the American minister. This, considering that they had no evidence of political or other crime against me, gained me my liberty, but I was ordered to leave Russia at once. Having seen all I wanted of a society living on dynamite, I departed by the first train.

The episode remained unexplained till more than a year afterward, when I had returned to America. One day I received a call from a Russian. He told me that he was a member of an American branch of a Russian secret political society whose object was to aid the revolution. His circle had been ordered to find me and to thank me for saving the daughter of a Russian noble high in favor with the emperor from death or Siberia. Her dinner companion was a man hated by the revolutionists. She had gone to the palace prepared to poison him, but discovered that she was watched by a government official in the dress of a waiter. I asked him what had become of the girl, but on this subject I received no information whatever. The chances are that she is in a Siberian prison, but I do not like to think of that.

SULLIVAN KING.

The Lancer Snake.

There is a snake called the lancer, which lives in South America and is very ready with its fangs. It is a small, brown, insignificant beast, but its bite induces a sort of imaginary swelling all over the victim's body. He feels as if every inch of him were being strained to breaking point, and the agony which results is too awful for words. Generally, however, the excess of pain drives the bitten man mad before very long, and in four hours he dies—a senseless imbecile.

Her Objection.

Mrs. Binks—Would you like to come to church with me this morning? You may sit in my pew if you like. Mrs. Jinks—Sorry, my dear, but my hat isn't trimmed for that side of the church.—Judge.

A Contradiction.

"That young doctor is a queer contradiction."

"In what way?"

"He has an exceedingly good temper, and yet he is lacking in patients."—Baltimore American.

IDLE NOTES.

Taken During a Trip to the Poohontas Coalfields.

We all admire "Mother Nature," but especially so when she dons such an attractive garb, as she does in this bit of the Cumberland mountains. After taking the Norfolk and Western at Columbus, O. and being whirled around curves so sharp that one's dress suit case took a flying leap in the aisle from the berth, also giving us a touch of mal de mer. At 7 a. m. the train stopped at Claren my destination. If I might only describe to you this charming valley.

The Bungalow where I am visiting is 117 feet long with the porch which extends the entire length and sides, the living rooms opening off the porch all having a most magnificent view of the mountains. The house is lighted with electricity steam heated, hot and cold water bath room, everything modern and is built right on the side of the mountain. About 20 feet below is the Norfolk and Western; paralell to this is the Tug River, then rising almost perpendicular to a hight of 1,000 or 1,500 are the most beautiful mountains covered thickly with many different kinds of trees. The trees from 20 to 40 feet high shimmering and swaying in the breese present a most attractive appearance and at night with the fire-flies flickering in and out is like an enchanted fairy land. The rhododendrons are in blossom, and the Virginia creeper winding its self around the dead trunks of the trees have the appearance of exquisite green pillars set here and there in the mountain side. Then in the morning when the mists commence to rise the mountain looks as if it were enjoying a "smoker," from the top of each tree curls wreaths of smoke up wards until all at once the sun bursts forth and the mountain is disclosed.

I did not expect quite as warm a welcome as I received on this my first visit to the coalfields. The Germans have a proverb "With hat in hand one gets on in the world" but in order to be applicable here it should read "With pistol in hand, one gets on in the world."

The night I arrived at the Marytown mine, in a fight between the blacks and whites six men were shot and the doctor told us he picked out 40 shot from one man. Over at the Big Sandy mine Sunday, two women quarreling over a dog (everyone owns a dog), one woman shot another because she would not keep her dog at home, we saw her carried past to the Miners Hospital at Welch.

Monday thinking to take a walk down the track (the only place there is to walk) I arrived just in time to see a man colored, knock a woman down with a shovel and cut her head open.

Tuesday I went to the Twin Branch mine with my brother found a boy had been shot there by one of the people in a moving picture show. The name of this valley is "Mournful Valley" and it does not seem to belie its name

The J. B. B. Colliers Co. owned by Jewett, Bigelow & Brooks of Detroit comprises eight mines lying from 1½ to 2 or 3 miles apart. Each mine has its general store, church, school house, public bath house and is surrounded with the homes of the miners. The big power house is at Twin Branch mine all the other mines are operated from this central power. The coal is mined by machinery, electricity and compressed air being the power used to operate the machinery, the coal is hauled from the interior of the mine by electricity; also the ventilating fans are operated by this power. Riding on one of these trains with a wire of 600 voltage about one inch from the top of your head gives you the shivers, at least it did me. They have never had but one man killed by electricity and that was last week when a life insurance man got after a miner and the man trying to get a way from him, backed right into this live wire and was killed, "A great moral lesson was here illustrated." It is at Maher lying next to Twin Branch that the "A. J. Bigelow Memorial Church" is built. It was with great pleasure that I with my two brothers entered this pretty church, there found father's picture hanging on the wall. I am sure his spirit was with us and that it gave him great pleasure to have his son build this church and dedicate it to his memory, but never were children blessed with a better father, and the peace of his gentle spirit seemed to decend upon us. The superintendent of all the mines lives here. I wish you might see and hear him with his softly drawling southern voice and fine physiqui, reminds one of the Virginian described by Owen Wister, a man absolutely fearless. Their customs here are a little unique, in the colored church pined on the front of the pulpit is a sign printed with a blue pencil on brown paper "Do not spit on the floor" both men and women use tobacco here. Instead of saying their youngest child, they say their "least child." The miner is an interesting and picturesque character with his light, that looks like a toy tin coffee pot on the front of his cap the cap set rakishly on one side and riding a mule or walking. You long for a snap shot of him. He can make between $4 and $5 per day if he wishes to work but he does not care too so they have about three times as many men on the pay roll as they require. Where they speak of a miner being a fast worker they say "he is the digeness miner on the plant and a man, who is a fast worker and works out side, he is the workenest man on the plant."

I could not conclude my sketch without speaking of the "haunts" (ghosts) that posesses such a fascination for the people. I wish you might see and hear our cook as she tells these stories with her bright good natured face big black eyes and soft low voiced dialect. She said one day she was all alone in the house, and all at once three destinct knocks were given on the door, she looked all around but not anyone was there, she know it was a "hant" she told her husband she would have bad news from home and her mother and brother died within four days. They have a "hant" over at Twin Branch, that can be seen any night at twilight. A very high mountain over looks the track, a woman can be seen floating gently down from the top then walks up and down the track for a while and softly fades away. The cook said two lovers one night just at twilight were walking up and down, when the girl was killed and ever since at dusk she wanders up and down the track. One of the tunnels has a "hant" and you cannot get a black or white to enter it. The watchman one night saw a girl parting from her lover, she was crying and wringing her hands, after he left her, she took a bottle from her pocket and drank laudanum lay down on a couch of stone and died. Any night her hant may be seen lying here.

One can hardly tare themselves away there are so many attraction, here of a unique character. Fancy having your cook tell you she wanted a gallon of lettuce.

The houseman said you sure will visit massa again for my old missuss use to tell me "That anyone who drank Tug River water" was sure to come again.

MRS G. N. STACY.

SUPRISED.

Mr. and Mrs. John Griswold Celebrate Their 50th Wedding Anniversary.

On Friday, June 26, about forty of the friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. John Griswold of London, met at the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. M. Smeltzer, to commemorate the 50th year of their married life.

The event was a complete surprise to them, as was intended but judging by actions and words, it was also an enjoyable one.

After a bountiful three course dinner, to which all did full justice, the company adjourned to the parlors where a short program of music recitations and a poem was given.

Later Mr. Thactfield of Addison in behalf of the company presented the happy couple with a sum of money and various other gifts suitable to the occasion.

Friends were present from Adrian, Manchester, Hudson, Azalia, Addison and London.

Mr. and Mrs. Griswold were for many years residents of Tecumseh and vicinity but of late years have made other home in London. Though very feeble from recent illness, they both seemed to enter into the spirit of the occasion and we trust that they may celebrate many more of their happy occasions.

Everyone present seemed in sympathy with the beautiful day and expressed themselves as glad to be there.

Much credit is due Mr and Mrs. Smeltzer for the success of the day. And we all hope to be with them, when they shall reach the 50th milestone of their journey of married life

SIX O'CLOCK DINNER.

Honoring Mr. and Mrs. John Hardman of Eustis, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Pocklington entertained at a 6 o'clock dinner last Wednesday at their pleasant home in Holloway, honoring Mr. and Mrs. John Hardman, a bride and groom of last week. Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Hardman, Mrs. Frank E. Pocklington and daughter Francis, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Pocklington and Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Pocklington.

Mr. and Mrs. Hardman will make their future home in Eustis, Fla. Mrs. Hardman is to be congratulated upon her choice of a life companion. Although a perfect stranger to many here, he has won the love and respect of every lady and gentlemen, he has met during the short time he has been here. Their many friends wish them a long and happy life.

Young America and the glorious Fourth is well depicted on the handsome colored front cover of the July American Boy, and the contents of the magazine will surely satisfy every reader, in variety, interesting, and instructive reading.

Margaret E. Sangster, in her monthly page in Woman's Home Companion for July, says that the American woman and the simple life are getting too far apart, and she urges the serious-minded woman to strive against the luxury-loving tendencies of the age.

The July Atlantic opens with a timely discussion of the wasteful and illogical method the government employs in dealing with the question of public lands Seth K Humphrey asks and answers the pertinent question, "What is the Matter with our Land Laws?" Proffessor A. S. Isaacs of the New York University writes a telling paper on "The Jew and the Currents of his Age." He vigorously combats the common impression that the Jew is intellectually out of sympathy with modern thought.

Three striking and powerful discussions of great questions make the July McClure's an especially important number. Samuel Hopkins Adams treats, in the opening article, of the appalling loss of life due to the lack of sane methods for the protection of the health of the American public. Judge McKenzie Cleland in a statement of his judicial experience in Chicago, shows the extraordinary success of a new plan for dealing with city criminals, which he inaugurated in that city. And Will C. Barnes gives a fresh and vigorous character sketch of Gifford Pinchot and his fight to preserve one of our chief national assets.

Honeymoons can't last always, and who would have them? says a writer in the July Designer. A wife may miss the endearing terms and constant attention of honeymoon days. But happiness changes. One drifts from one kind of happiness into another. Sometimes the new kind is a deal more wholesome and splendid. Often with a man business cares are heavy. He has little time for thinking of the small devotions. Don't nag him; don't expect him to settle the servant question for you; or in any event, when talking about home affairs make them amusing rather than tragic. A woman can get out of many tearful situations by the aid of a good laugh.

The frontispiece of the July Century is the first reproduction of Carl Melchers's portrait from life of President Roosevelt, showing the President in riding dress. The canvas was painted for the Freer collection of the National Gallery, Smithsonian Institute, at Washington, and is considered a notably virile portrait. The July Century gives much of its space to articles pertaining to the business interests of the country, that of special timeliness being Mr. Edmond Kelly's discussion of "Employment for the Unemployed," in which he describes in some detail the results achieved in the Swiss farm colonies.

OBITUARY

WAS SULTANA SURVIVOR.

Civil War Veteran Dies in Soldiers' Home.

Commodore Thomas Smith, one of the survivors of the ill-fated steamer Sultana, which blew up on the Mississippi river, April 27, 1865, as she was steaming to St. Louis with several hundred exchanged Union prisoners aboard, is dead at the Soldiers' home, Grand Rapids. He was 65 years old and a former member of the Eighteenth Michigan infantry.

Mr. Smith is a brother of William Smith of this place.

Mr. Harrison leaves a wife and three son, Vern Harrison, to mourn his loss.

Mrs. Marr.

Mrs. Marr, mother of Mrs. A. Newton of this place, died at the daughter's home, at an early hour this morning. She had been sick since last April, and was taken suddenly worse Sunday. Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed.

SOUVENIR FANATICS.

Nothing is Safe From Those Afflicted With the Craze.

In these enlightened days anything from the limb of a tree to a table napkin is liable to be carried away as a souvenir.

A western girl with a well defined case of the souvenir habit, sojourning in New York, was dining at a fashionable cafe and, being prepossessed in favor of the cunning pewter cream pots with which the tables were supplied, calmly carried one away in her muff. Can you imagine her self valuation when upon examining her prize later on she discovered carved across the bottom, "Stolen from M.'s?"

A Pittsburg bachelor, wandering into a restaurant, came upon a friend just seating himself with two ladies. The bachelor was invited to join the party, did so, and at the end of the luncheon insisted upon paying the costs. The bill being wrong, he went to the cashier's desk to personally adjust the discrepancy, where he was informed that the extra charges were for spoons which the ladies had put in their hand bags. And that was the first time he had ever met them!

Upon the occasion of the presentation of a handsome silver service by one of the United States to a battleship which was being christened in her honor an elaborate banquet was served aboard ship, at which the service was used. Society came en masse from the town near which they were anchored, and after the function was over there were not enough forks and spoons with which to lay the tables. And yet these souvenir fanatics would draw their moral skirts aside for fear of contamination with a real thief.—Bertha Reynolds MacDonald in Bohemian Magazine.

EXPLOSIVES.

How They Are "Set Off" and How They May Be Handled.

There are two ways in which an explosive may be set off—by burning and by detonation. The burning process is progressive from one particle to another, as of fire in a grate, only infinitely more rapid. This process is adapted to gunpowder, requiring, as it does, a very short time for the burning up of the explosive body. The other form of explosion, the detonative, being at once throughout the mass, is unfitted for use in guns, which would be smashed to pieces, but is adapted to shattering or breaking purposes, such as blasting rocks in mining operations and bursting charges in shells, torpedoes and submarine mines. Substances of the latter sort are termed high explosives. Some examples may be given of the safety with which the most dangerous explosives may ordinarily be handled. For instance, a considerable quantity of gun cotton, such as pure cotton treated with nitric acid, may be set afire and will burn quietly, but if a sufficient mass be set afire the heat and pressure on the surface of the burning body will cause the whole to be exploded. A torpedo filled with wet compressed gun cotton will not explode if a shell from a cannon should penetrate it and burst in the mass of gun cotton. Even nitroglycerin will burn like oil in small quantities, and a stick of nitroglycerin may be set on fire without danger of harm.—St. Nicholas.

Anthony Fence Company Closed Loom Department.

The Anthony Fence Co. closed its loom department Saturday night, June 27th. This is due partially to the late season interfering with the mid summer fence trade, also giving an opportunity for inventory and repairs necessary after a most successful and busy year.

The Adrian fence companies are all doing likewise, in fact a number of them have been closed down for some time.

The Anthony Fence Co. can certainly be congratulated on running full time and full pay during the period of depression of the last six months, in fact they were the only fence company operating continuously, a large portion of the time a night force being necessary to fill orders.

Closed July 4th.

Believing in showing the right Patriotic spirit for our grand National holiday—We, the undersigned merchants of Tecumseh, will close our respective places of business—Saturday, July 4th and remain closed all day.

The merchants will remain open Friday night, July 3rd about the same as for Saturday night or as long as there is any trade, giving you the opportunity to do your trading same as Saturday night:

NOTICE.

RESOLVED: That the Common Council of the Village of Tecumseh deems it advisable that all that portion of Ottawa street included in C. R. Miller's addition to the Village of Tecumseh, County of Lenawee, State of Michigan, shall hereafter be of a uniform width of fifty-eight (58) feet thruout its entire length, and, in order that this may be accomplished, all of certain strips of land eight (8) feet in width, measured east and west, extending along the east line of lots numbered one (1), two (2), three (3), four (4), five (5) and ninety-three (93) of said addition, be vacated and discontinued for street purposes, and all the right of the Public and of the said Village of Tecumseh in and to said portions of Ottawa street is released, conveyed and surrendered to said C. R. Miller, his heirs and assigns:

That this Council will hear objections to such vacating at its regular meeting at eight (8) o'clock, p. m., on the sixth (6th) day of July, 1908; and that notice of the hearing of such objections shall be given by publication of a copy of this Resolution in each of the Village newspapers once each week during the last two weeks before said sixth (6th) day of July, 1908. Carried.
W. L. JONES, Clerk.

Thinks It Saved his Life.

Lester M Nelson, of Naples, Maine, says in a recent letter: "I have used Dr. King's New Discovery many years, for coughs and colds, and I think it saved my life. I have found it a reliable remedy for throat and lung complaints, and would no more be without a bottle and I would be without food." For nearly forty years New Discovery has stood at the head of throat and lung remedies. As a preventive of pneumonia, and healer of weak lungs it has no equal. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store, 50c. and 1.00 Trial bottle free.

BRADISH REUNION.

The annual reunion of the decendants of Col. John and Mary Warner Bradish was held at the home of Geo S Tiffany in Tecumseh last Saturday. There were fifty-seven present and many of them came quite a distance Miss Julia Garrett of New York City, sent with her regrets, a fine tribute of esteem for the character of Chloe Bradish Robinson to whose honor the day was especially devoted. One sentiment at least is worth repeating. It was said of the village at her home, Palmyra, N. Y., "That few came into the world or went out of it without the kindly services of Chloe Bradish Robinson."

In the absence of Pres. Conklin on account of sickness, Mr. Geo. B. Horton acted as chairman and after the reading of the essay made some thoughtful and interesting remarks. He questioned whether the civilization of the present day would develope such noble characters, proffessional nurses and undertakers, that the greater number of physicians may have rendered their services uneccessary; but surely this example of loving service and self sacrifice has left a profound and abiding influence.

Their characters were developed by sympathy for sorrow and suffering. The same experiences would develope the same characters at the present time. Developement seems to fail when comfort and luxury prevail. They would not shriek at the sight of a mouse nor faint at the sight of blood.

But I am wandering from my subject. Many things were said in praise of our beautiful village although not one of the guests lived in it. All of them appeared to be very happy, but I am sure not one of them was more so than their much honored host. The Bradishes, "may their tribe increase," will meet next year at the home of Mrs. Amanda Carter Mason of Adrian. It is a matter of personal pride, but not of public interest that Chloe Bradish Robinson was my grandmother, my mother's mother.
GEO. S. TIFFANY.

SPALDING REUNION.

The Spalding family held their ninth family reunion at the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. Mangus in Tecumseh on Saturday, June 20th. This date was also the fifty first anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Spalding, parents and grandparents of those present at the reunion.

The following officers were elected:
President—Ed Spalding.
Vice president—Hoyt Whelan.
Secretary and treasurer—Fern DePuy.
Chairman of refreshment committee—Mrs. Ralph Cummings.
Chairman of program committee—W. E. Spalding.
Corresponding secretary—Mrs Lynne Butrick.

The following program was then rendered:
Recitation—Leo. Smith.
Recitation—Deta Spalding.
Select reading—Fern DePuy.
Music—McKinley Spalding.
History of the Spalding family—W. E Spalding.
Select reading—Mrs. Myra Mangus.
Recitation—Mrs. Ralph Cummings.
Music—Nearer My God to Thee, completed the program, after which all dispersed for their several homes, feeling that the day had been well spent.

A novel with a delightfully "horsy" flavor, entitled, "The Mistress of Hounds," by Jay Hasdy, is the feature of thu July Smart Set, and no better story could be found for Summer reading. The author knows intimately all the types of which he writes, and the whole novel canters along at a brisk and lively gait. A delightful love story is woven around the heroine, who is the central figure in a smart Summer colony.

TO CATARRH SUFFERERS.

C. A. Wright & Son have been advising all who suffer from any of the symptoms of catarrh, such as offensive breath, dryness of the nose, pain across the eyes, stoppage of the nose, discharges and droppings in the throat, coughing spasms and general weakness and debility, to use Hyomei. They go so far as to offer to refund the money to any user of Hyomei who is not perfectly satisfied with the results.

Quick relief follows the use of the Hyomei treatment; the stoppage of the nose is removed, the dropping ceases, the breath becomes pure and sweet, and the catarrhal germs are destroyed and their growth prevented.

Hyomei is the surest, simplest, quickest, easiest and cheapest way to cure catarrh. It does not drug and derange the stomach; it goes right to the seat of the trouble, destroying the catarrhal germs and healing and vitalizing the tissues.

Go to C. A. Wright & Son to-day and buy a complete Hyomei outfit for $1.00 with the understanding that if it does not give satisfaction, your money will be refunded. All you have to do is to inhale a little occasionally in the air you breathe, using the pocket inhaler that comes with every outfit, when the symptoms of catarrh will quickly disappear. Try it, you will be surprised and pleased at the results.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince anyone.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Healthy kidneys filter the impurities from the blood, and unless they do this good health is impossible. Foley's Kidney Cure makes sound kidneys and will positively cure all forms of kidney and bladder disease. It strengthens the whole system.

A GOOD REASON.

Tecumseh people can tell you Why it is so.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poison that cause backache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints Tecumseh people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. Geo. Teachout, living on Oneida street, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "Some years ago I began to have a great deal of trouble from my kidneys. There were intnse pains in the small of my back extending to my shoulder blades, and at times when I stooped, sharp stitches of pain would catch me and I would be unableto straighten for a few seconds. At night, I could not rest well on account of the frequent action of the kidneys, and though I doctored no benefit. I had heard a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills. I got a box at Wright and Son,s drug store and began using them. I soon noticed the good effects and continued taking them until entirely cured. I cheerfully recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to any one afflicted with kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

STEAMER WENT DOWN

Many May Have Drowned Off Coast of Spain,

VESSEL STRUCK A ROCK.

Carried Ninety-Seven Passengers—One Report Declares Only Forty-Seven Reached Safety—Vessel Was on Way to Muros From Cadiz.

Paris, June 25.—A special dispatch received here from Corunna, Spain, says the Spanish steamer La Rache went on the rocks in a fog, near Muros, where the cruiser Cardinal Cisneros was wrecked in 1905. The La Rache sank rapidly, and a panic followed. There were ninety-seven passengers and fifty-four of a crew on board. These took to the boats, but up to the filing of one dispatch only forty-seven had landed. Defective communications make it impossible to obtain complete details.

Still later reports state that seventeen women were drowned. It is known that forty-seven survivors were landed at Muros, but that two of them have since died. Fifteen others were landed at Lon. According to the official lists, the La Rache carried ninety-eight of a crew, including stewards, waiters, etc., and ninety-seven passengers.

The La Rache came from Cadiz, where she had landed part of her passengers. She was on her way to Muros when, on account of the fog, she headed for Corunna. Suddenly she ran upon a rock, but the captain, who knew the coast well, got his vessel off. Almost immediately she ran upon another rock which was uncharted.

The steamer, according to a survivor of the crew, sank within a few minutes. The heavy sea which was running at the time destroyed two of the lifeboats.

Boats from the neighboring fishing villages went to the rescue, but were able to do but little for a time owing to the weather conditions. They succeeded eventually in picking up a large number of men and women who were floating on pieces of wreckage.

Will Representative Sherman Be Able to Leave Hospital.

Cleveland, O., June 25.—Congressman James S. Sherman of Utica, N. Y., Republican candidate for vice president, who was taken ill here with a passage of gall stones while on his way home from the Chicago convention, has rested most comfortably.

Drs. Edward P. Carter, Dudley P. Allen and C. W. Stone are much pleased with the progress he has made and are of the opinion that the necessity for an immediate operation has been passed. However, they advised Mr. Sherman to have the trouble removed as soon as he shall gain his normal health. His temperature has shown a general lowering. The physicians consider this a hopeful sign.

It is not expected that Mr. Sherman will be able to leave the hospital before next Sunday. He has attended to his correspondence.

The "Richest Girl" Weds.

Dowagiac, Mich., June 25.—In the Rookery, the handsome F. E. Lee mansion on High street, at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening, occurred the wedding of Miss Mary B. Lee and Dickenson Bishop. It was in many ways the most noteworthy event of its kind ever held in this city. Miss Lee, who has just attained her majority, is generally spoken of as the "richest girl" in her own right in Michigan. She is the granddaughter of the late P. D. Beckwith, millionaire, who founded the stove works here. Her mother is dead, and a large portion of the Beckwith estate was willed to her. The groom is the son of a hardware dealer here and was a school friend of Miss Lee in their youthful days.

Lonely Homesteader Ends Life.

Marquette, Mich., June 25.—Driven to desperation by the solitude and loneliness of the northern forest, George Anderson, aged fifty years and unmarried, a homesteader living in Laird township, shot and killed himself in his isolated cabin. His dead body, with the top of the head blown off, was found by a chance passerby. The man had been dead several days. When he was last seen alive, recently, he spoke of the terrible loneliness of the northern woods, and he said that he could not endure it much longer.

ACTIVITY IN DENVER.

Advance Guard of the Democratic Convention Arriving.

NAME TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN

Bell of California Will Preside—Bryan Men Elated—Many Possible Candidates For Vice Presidency—Auditorium is Completed.

Denver, Colo., June 29.—The advance guard of the state delegations for the national Democratic convention are already arriving here or are on their way, and from now on there will be an ever increasing activity until the red fire has flickered out and the curtain has been rung down on the final scene of the convention.

Bryan's Wishes Observed.

Theodore A. Bell of California has been chosen temporary chairman of the convention by the committee on convention arrangements.

The temporary chairman was selected unanimously.

No selection was made for the permanent chairmanship, this matter going over until the meeting of the full committee can be held. The names most prominently mentioned in this connection at present are Representative Henry D. Clayton of Alabama and Judson Harmon of Ohio. Governor Joseph Folk of Missouri and Senator Joseph W. Bailey of Texas are also strongly favored. Other appointments made by the committee on convention arrangements, and which will probably be made permanent, are as follows:

General secretary, Urey Woodson of Kentucky; assistant general secretary, Edwin Sefton of Washington, D. C.; sergeant at arms, John I. Martin of Missouri; chief assistant sergeant at arms, J. C. Fenn of Indiana; chief doorkeeper, Eugene W. Sullivan of Illinois; parliamentarian, W. D. Crutchfield of Kentucky; chaplain for opening day, James J. Keane, archbishop of Wyoming; official stenographer, M. W. Blumberg of Washington, D. C.

The out-and-out Bryan men were highly pleased over the easy manner in which Bell was named for chairman. The wishes of Mr. Bryan regarding Mr. Bell were carried out without a sign or sound of dissent. This fact was taken by the Bryan men to mean that all opposition to the wishes of their leader had disappeared, or at least will be only of comparatively slight influence throughout the convention. They are now counting confidently upon the selection of Henry D. Clayton of Alabama for permanent chairman, claiming that it will be brought about as easily and with no more opposition that was that of Mr. Bell. No particular opposition has been made to Mr. Clayton, and there are no present signs of any fight against him.

Very little talk has so far been heard concerning the platform, but it is generally believed among the recognized leaders now here that the fight over the injunction plank in the Republican resolutions committee may find a parallel when the Democratic platform builders are fairly at work. It is generally understood that in the event of the Bryan people securing control of the resolutions committee the declaration of principles will follow closely the planks of the Lincoln platform.

Not a single headquarters has been opened as yet, and it will probably be Thursday before any of them are in full swing.

The vice presidential situation, from the present outlook, offers the greatest encouragement to that class of delegates which is looking always for excitement at a political convention. Unless the nominee for the first place on the ticket should demand of his friends the selection of a running-mate on whom he may have set his heart, the indications would seem to point to numerous ballots in the completion of a ticket.

Five New Yorkers Mentioned.

Two of the names now heard are Governor Johnson of Minnesota and Judge Grey of Deleware, both of whom will figure in the ballot for the presidential nomination. The names of five New York men are looming up conspicuously in the pre convention gossip over the vice presidential situation. These are: Morgan O'Brien, former chief justice of the New York supreme court; Herman L. Metz, city comptroller of Brooklyn; former Representative Charles A. Towne, Lewis S. Chanler and Representative Francis Burton Harrison.

National Chairman Thomas Taggart has announced to his colleagues that if an Indiana man is placed on the ticket his state will go Democratic in November. He is pushing the candidacy of John W. Kern. Another man from Indiana mentioned in connection with the place is former Representative Benjamin F. Shivley.

All things considered, the coming convention promises to be better handled and more comfortably conducted than the majority of similar gatherings in recent years. The Auditorium is completed, and only the settlement of a few details, for which there is an abundance of time, remain to be considered. The city itself is making every possible preparation to entertain its visitors in the most hospitable manner.

I hate to hear so many husbands call their wives "dear." It sounds like an insinuation.

EUGENE ARAM'S LIFE.

The Remarkable Career of This Famous Murderer.

A SCHOLAR AND A SCOUNDREL

The Hero of Bulwer's Novel and Hood's Poem Was Really a Vile Criminal Who Abandoned Wife and Children and Knew No Remorse.

Eugene Aram, the scholar and murderer who inspired two of the masterpieces of English literature—Hood's poem and Bulwer's novel—was hanged on Aug. 6, 1759.

Aram was born in 1704 in Yorkshire. By the time he was fourteen years old he was regarded in the neighborhood as a prodigy of learning. His fame for piety and gentleness as a scholar spread, and as a result he was invited to Knaresborough to open a school in 1734. There a strange development took place in Aram's character. He formed an association with a drinking, turbulent crowd of men, the opposite of himself, among them Daniel Clark, who kept a little cobbler's shop, and Richard Houseman, a flax dresser.

In 1745 Clark married a woman with a small fortune of $1,000. Immediately he and his companions devised a scheme to rob her and her friends. Clark was to obtain all the goods he could on credit and hand them over to Aram and Houseman, who were to deposit them in a safe place. Then after securing the plunder Clark was to decamp, leaving his wife to shift for herself, and the property was to be sold and divided among the three men.

Clark went about procuring a wide variety of articles on credit. He pretended he was about to give a great wedding feast and borrowed silver tankards, salvers, spoons, etc., from whoever would lend them. As fast as the different articles were obtained Clark, accompanied by Aram and Houseman, carried them to a place called St. Robert's cave.

When Clark had "borrowed" about everything valuable his acquaintances had to lend, the plotters decided it was time for him to disappear. So in the early morning of Feb. 8, 1745, he, Aram and Houseman went to the cave to divide the spoils before Clark left. Aram and Clark had quarreled a good deal during the progress of predatory operations. At the entrance to the cave the quarrel was renewed, and Aram pushed Clark away and rained down tremendous blows on his head and chest. Clark fell dead.

Houseman, terrified at the sight and, as he said, afraid of meeting the same fate, turned and ran away. Aram did not show a particle of remorse or fear. He gathered up the booty and carried it to his house, where he buried part of it in the garden. He buried Clark's body and heaped stones over the grave. In the afternoon he went for Houseman and threatened him if he disclosed the murder and made him believe he was equally guilty in law.

Clark's disappearance was not noticed for a day or two. Then the people from whom he had "borrowed" jewelry and plate began to make inquiries. Suspicion was directed to Aram in some way. The village authorities searched his house and found a bundle containing battered plate and clothing stained with blood. Notwithstanding this, no action seems to have been taken by the authorities, nor was it suspected that Clark had been murdered. The neighbors began to jeer at the learned schoolmaster, however, and Aram suddenly left his wife and children and walked to London.

For fourteen years his family heard nothing of him. He spent the greater part of the time wandering about from place to place, at last finding a situation as usher in a school at Lynn. In June, 1758, a horse dealer who had known him in Knaresborough met him in the Lynn market. Aram denied his identity. By a singular coincidence, almost the day the horse dealer accosted the now gray haired schoolteacher, a skeleton was found by some workmen digging a pit in Thistle hill, in Knaresborough.

A country town has a keen recollection of everything that has occurred to disturb it, and immediately the disappearance of Clark fourteen years before was remembered. Houseman still alive, got drunk first and then joined the crowd of villagers looking at the exhumed skeleton. "Clark," he said with drunken gravity, "was never buried here."

The latter, still too drunk to realize the gravity of his position, muttered that Clark's body would be found in St. Robert's cave. The crowd made a rush for that place, and soon a skeleton was exhumed.

"I did not kill him!" gasped Houseman, now thoroughly sober and terrified. "It was Aram. I had no part."

Houseman was taken to the village jail, and a warrant was sworn out for Aram. When the officers took him away from the school the pupils cried. The government used Houseman as a witness to convict Aram. The latter's speech in his own defense has come down complete—a masterly attack on circumstantial evidence, showing the intellectual power of the man. Aram made a half confession the night before his execution, followed by an attempt at suicide. According to the custom of the time, his body was hanged in chains, and it swung in Knaresborough forest until 1778. Years later, when the details of his crime were dim, his remarkable career attracted Hood and Bulwer, and thus the obscure, talented, perverted man became a part of English literature.—Exchange.

GREAT DRY GOODS SALE

THE EVENT OF THE YEAR

WE NEED THE MONEY

Read Every Word of This Circular

Spring business has been slow. We bought too many goods. Our stock is more complete than ever before, but we must turn it into money quickly. For that reason, we will on inaugurate one of the greatest MIDSUMMER SALES ever known in this vicinity. Everyone knows what a sale at this store means. We believe it is better business to sell, even at a big sacrifice, than to carry over the goods, and we must sell quickly. You all know we never indulge in "Bunco" or "Fake" sales. We always tell the plain, unvarnished facts. Let our prices and our splendid stock speak for themselves. It will be a long time before you duplicate either.

G. B. Burhans testifies after four years.

G. B. Burhans, of Carlisle Center, N. Y., writes: "About four years ago I wrote you stating that I had been entirely cured of a severe kidney trouble by using less than two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure. It entirely stopped the brick dust sediment, and pain and symptoms of kidney disease disappeared. I am glad to say that I have never had a return of any of those symptoms during the four years that have elapsed and I am evidently cured to stay cured, heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Cure to any one suffering from kidney or bladder trouble." Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

He who fears the storms spends many idle days in port.

IT CAN'T BE BEAT.

The best of all teachers is experience. C. M. Harden, of Silver City, North Carolina, says: "I find Electric Bitters does all that's claimed for it. For Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles it can't be beat. I have tried it and find it a most excellent medicine." Mr. Harden is right; it's the best of all medicines also for weakness, lame back, all run down conditions. Best too for chills and malaria. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 50c.

Hot? Yes, but it's good weather for corn. So cheer up.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts gently upon the bowels and thereby drives the cold out of the system and at the same time it allays inflammation and stops irritation. Children like it. Sold by all druggists.

During the summer kidney irregularities are often caused by excessive drinking or being overheated. Attend to the kidneys at once by using Foley's Kidney Cure. Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Shorten the row by grinding the hoe.

There is one preparation known to pay that will promptly help the stomach. This is Kodol. Kodol digests all classes of food, and it does it throughly, so that the use of Kodol for a time will without doubt help any one who has stomach disorders or stomach trouble. Take Kodol to day and continue it for the short time that is necessary to give you complete relief. Kodol is sold by all druggists.

This is what Hon. Jake Moore, State Warden of Georgia, says of Kodol for Dyspepsia: "E. O. DeWitt & Co. Chicago, Ill.,—Dear Sirs—I have suffered more than twenty years with indigestion. About eighteen months ago I had grown so much worse that I could not digest a crust of dry bread and could not retain anything on my stomach. I lost 25 lbs; in fact I made up my mind that I could not live but a short time, when a friend of mine recommended Kodol. I consented to try it to please him and was better in one day. I now weigh more than I ever did in my life and am in better health than for many years. Kodol did it. I keep a bottle constantly, and write this hoping humanity may be benefited. Yours very truly, Jake C. Moore, Atlanta, Aug. 10, 1904." Sold by all druggists.

Men who pay as they go, usually do not go very often.

Bert Barber, of Elton, Wis., says: "I have only taken four doses of your Kidney and Bladder Pills and they have done for me more than any other medicine has ever done. I am still taking the pills as I want a perfect cure." Mr. Barber refers to DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. Sold by all druggists.

"My child was burned terribly about the face, neck and chest. I applied Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The pain ceased and the child sank into a restful sleep." Mrs. Nancy M. Hanson, Hamburg N. Y.

TO EAT MACARONI.

First Swallow a Reel and Then Take Chances With the Strings.

Didst ever eat macaroni Italian style? Say, it is great! They serve it on a platter that would be two feet square if it wasn't round. It greatly resembles Medusa's head on a platter. It looks like snakes, but it isn't. You eat it with fork, spoon, knife, fingers, face, chopsticks or scissors, as you prefer.

In the real Italian style it comes in strings. Macaroni originally was invented to be fed through a keyhole. The strings are of indeterminate length. Any good Italian could start masticating a piece the other end of which was on top of the Masonic temple and finish within seventy-three seconds. A boa constrictor could eat a string of macaroni—if he were long enough.

It's an art. That's all there is to it. But that isn't all there is to it. Some people say it is an acquired art. Others insist that you must be to the manner born. Some say the Italians have reels inside, and there may be something in this, for they eat as though feeding a machine by machinery.

No one has ever dared to measure the length of a single strip of macaroni. Like the population and circumference of the world, it has to be estimated. Estimates differ, but all admit that it is long enough, except the dyed in the wool Italians.

A dish of macaroni, Italian style, consists of one of these strings festooned in imitation of the Gordian knot. Some cut the Gordian knot; others absorb it. The absorption process may not be the most elegant, but it surely is the most general.

Gentle reader, if you are ever led up to a platter of macaroni, Italian style, and find all the exits closed, grit your teeth and go at the thing with firm determination and a timber fork. Gently decoy the left end of the string on your fork and begin to wind. Rotate the fork vigorously for some four minutes in the right hand and then transfer to the left. Then when the wad has assumed the size of a ten cent spool of darning cotton open your mouth with your fingers and punch it in.

A convenient way for the amateur to consume the dish is to get some kind friend to find the end of the string. Once having discovered this, distinguish it with a bit of red silk ribbon. Then look for the other end. If not found within fifteen minutes ask the waiter's assistance.

When the end is reached your pace of engulfing the string will have increased, so that probably the end will slip into you unnoticed. But do not let this worry you. You have found the end even if you have lost it. Look at your plate! It is empty! Aha! At last you have accomplished the gentle art of absorbing macaroni.—Chicago Record-Herald.

A Courtroom Anecdote.

Here is a courtroom story which a southern correspondent sends us about a southern judge:

The Jedge—Is yo' name Immanuel Baxter?

Immanuel—Yassah.

The Jedge—Well, you are charged by Officer Tucker with stealing a side of bacon at Walters' store last night.

Immanuel—Ah wants ter file a alibi.

The Jedge—What for?

Immanuel—Ah don't know, sah; Mistah Reg'nald James—he's a col'd lawyeh—he done tol' me ter say dat.

The Jedge—Oh, I see. But why didn't you steal a ham? They're better than sides.

Immanuel—They wasn't no hams down dah.

The Jedge—Thirty days.—Cleveland Leader.

A DISCARDED THRONE.

Louis Napoleon's State Chair, Which Was Not Used.

On the eve of the Franco-German war when the Emperor Louis Napoleon entered upon the conflict which ended so disastrously to himself and his countrymen a couple of strangers appeared at a German town. They brought with them a large packing case, which on their arrival was carried to a hotel. Here the unknown visitors remained some time and eventually disappeared without paying their bill, which amounted to a considerable sum.

The landlord, whose curiosity had often been aroused with reference to the possible contents of the case, at last determined to open it, and on doing so found a handsomely designed and richly upholstered state chair. This was adorned with the French imperial arms, eagle and Louis Napoleon's monogram, and beneath it was a musical box which played when the cushion was sat upon.

It is supposed that the throne—for such it is believed to have been—in the event of success attending the French army was to have been used by the emperor at Berlin after the capture of the German metropolis. Fate, however, spoiled the imperial plans; hence the sudden and precipitate flight of the custodians of the chair. The widow of the hotel keeper a few years later sent it to England, where it eventually found a purchaser.—Stray Stories.

SPIRIT LAND MESSAGES.

Do They All Really Come From Minds of the Living?

Perhaps all the so called messages from the dead come from living minds. I mean the minds of those about us. Dr. Reed, a friend of mine, once arranged to go with a patient to have a test sitting with a very celebrated psychic who claimed to be able to read sealed letters. Just before the appointed day Reed's patient died suddenly of heart disease, leaving a sealed letter on his desk.

The doctor, fully alive to the singular opportunity, put the letter in his pocket and hastened to the medium. The magician took it in his hand and pondered. At last he said: "This was written by a man now in the spirit world. I cannot read it. There isn't a medium in the world who can read it, but if you will send it to any person anywhere on the planet and have it read and resealed I will tell you what is in it. I cannot get the words unless some mind in the earth plane has absorbed them."

That would seem to prove a sort of universal mind reservoir, wouldn't it? Isn't that a staggering hypothesis?—Hamlin Garland in Everybody's Magazine.

Something Gained.

Mrs. Gramercy—I hear the customs authorities seized all the finery you brought over from Paris. Will it be a total loss? Mrs. Park—Why, no, dear; I got my name in the papers.—Puck.

Silence and blushing are the eloquence of women.—Chinese.

CHURCH AFFAIRS

WORK BEING DONE IN OUR CHURCHES.

What is accomplished through the Social Life.

BAPTIST CHURCH.

Miss Effie Yawyer has returned from a visit at Tipton.

Paul Munn of Toledo is visiting his aunt Mrs. Robert Moore.

Miss Florance Bryan goes to Sand lake today to remain over Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Weir of Bridgewater were guests of Mrs. A. C. Bryan.

Mrs. Alfred James and daughters Helen and Winnifred, of Detroit are spending a couple of weeks at the DeWolf home.

FRIEND'S CHURCH.

Miss Alice Satterthwaite is home from Hillsdale college for the summer.

Miss Beth Satterthwaite has been spending two weeks at South Lyon, Mich.

Lowa Howe and Anna Young conducted the Junior Christian Endeavor last Sunday afternoon.

Esther Stevens of Detroit and Mead Hageman of Portland, Mich., were guests in Sunday school.

Miss Merle Kenyon was home from Ypsilanti Normal over Sunday, returning the next day for summer school.

Miss Simms of Detroit, who represents a Salvation Army Home in that city, spoke briefly before the sermon Sunday morning.

METHODIST CHURCH.

Services will be conducted in the absence of the pastor on the 12th by Rev. G. W. Hoffman of Tipton and on the 19th by Rev. W. L. B. Collins of Addison.

There will be the usual services next Sunday, save that there will be no preaching in the church in the evening. We invite all our people to join in the street service on Chicago street.

The Bay View Camp meeting will open next Wednesday Mr. Ward as chairman of the committee having it in charge, will leave for Bay View on Monday next. Mrs. Ward and Leslie will accompany him. They will be one between two and three weeks.

The King's Heralds under the direction of Mesdames Forrestall, Simmons, Will Coller and Miss Florence Linton gave a very fine entertainment in the church last Tuesday evening. The proceeds are to be devoted to the erection of a Mission Industrial Home for homeless boys and girls in the City of Mexico.

EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

Mr. Dickenson sang during the offeratory last Sunday afternoon.

Miss Magers, the Misses Kriedler and Mr. Slater were absent from the choir Sunday.

Miss Edna Smith has been absent from the choir for the past two weeks on account of illness.

C. C. Kemp, rector—Service Sunday at 10 a. m. Sunday school at 11:30. Choir practice Friday night at 7:30.

Sunday being the first Sunday in the month there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion at morning service.

The senior classes of the Sunday school combined last Sunday and enjoyed a talk from the Supt., Mr. Codling.

It was with sadness that the Parish learned of the death of Mrs. A. Newton's mother Mrs Marr Tuesday morning. Mrs. Marr has been in poor health since last winter when she suffered from a stroke of paralysis. The members of the church extend sympathy to the breaved family.

UNIVERSALIST CHURCH.

Vacation in preaching services at our church during the months of July and August.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. McNeil spent Sunday in Clinton with their daughter Mrs. Chas. Silvers.

Mrs. Cora Sisson arrived at the parsonage last evening from Blissfield and will call among her many friends for a few days this week.

All, who love the church, will be faithful to attend and participate in, the meetings of Y. P. C. U. which will be held every Sunday evening at 6 p. m.

Mrs. Caroline Mabee returned from Plymouth, where she has been in attendance at the sick bed of her sister, who is much improved and her recovery assured.

Next Sunday Miss Young will be in Onsted for Communion Sunday at the People's church. After which she and her mother expect to leave town for two months of much needed change and rest.

Closing Day was appropriately observed last Sunday, with the communion service in the morning and in the evening the choir rendered a most beautiful program of anthems and quartettes, with a fine solo by Miss Gaston.

The church friends will be saddened to learn that Miss Young's cousin, Mrs. Kelly of Saginaw, whom many of you met last May when visiting here, lost her husband last Friday. Funeral Monday. But the word reached here too late for Miss Young to attend the funeral, she expects to go later.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

At the men's class Sunday, the subject will be "What America has done for the world and What She may do."

One week from Sunday morning will be held our communion service. It is desired that all members be present on that occasion.

In spite of rain the messenger boys to the number of 25 spent an enjoyable day at the lake Monday. The ball game with Hudson had to be called off.

Miss Edith Wilson will sing at the opening exercises of the Bible school Sunday. The pastor will also begin a series of short sermons to the school.

The ladies society held a meeting at the church to sew, for the Fair in the fall. At the business meeting arrangements were planned for the new kitchen, which is rapidly nearing completion.

At the prayer meeting Wednesday evening the subject was "America, A Christian Nation." Mr. Look read a very interesting and inspiring paper on that theme. Miss Magers sang the "Recessional."

Sunday services as usual; a patriotic service in the morning. The church will be decorated in keeping with the service and the pastor will preach on "The Glory of a Christian State. Bible school and men's class at 11:15. C. E at 6 p. m. Union service in evening.

Mr. and Mrs. A. B. MacLachlin and children spent last Sunday at the Y. M. C. A. Camp, Sand lake. They spent a very pleasant day with the young men and found that the camp is conducted in a satisfactory manner and think that it would be a help to any boy who is able to spend his vacation in this way.

Y.M.C.A., Putman, Mich., June 28.

The Boys' Camp of the Lenawee County Y. M. C. A. will close Wednesday after a ten days' outing of forty boys. The camp is the best in the history of the county Y. M. C. A. in many respects. The spirit of the camp has been of the best, the friendly rivalry in athletics, and other sides of camp life forming strong friendship among all the boys. Sunday afternoon the boys met under the trees and listened to an inspiring address by P. R. Brook of Toledo. There were several visitors at the meeting. Monday Rev. J. W. Dunning took his messenger boys for a picnic at the lake and played a game of ball with the Hudson boys at the camp.

Sunday there were several visitors at the camp, among them Messrs. C. A. Slayton, Maddox, A. B. McLachlin and F. D. Teachout and their wives.

F. R. HURST.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to thank our neighbors and friends, and the Pythian Sisters of Tipton, for their kindness and sympathy extended to us during the illness and death of our loved father, also for the beautiful floral offerings.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES ATEN AND DAUGHTER.
MR. AND MRS. JOE PLATT.
MISS SARAH PLATT.

MRS. FRANCIS MARR.

Services over the remains of Mrs. Marr, mother of Mrs. Newton, who died last Tuesday morning at the daughter's home, were held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. Kemp of Clinton, officiating. The remains were taken to Medina, Michigan, this morning where the burial occurs to-day.

BIRTHDAY PARTY.

Eugene Keyser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Keyser celebrates his first birthday.

Eugene Keyser, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milburn Keyser, was one year old Wednesday, and in honor of the occasion a number of little people were invited in for the afternoon to help him celebrate. He received a number of pretty gifts. A supper was served at 5 o'clock. During the afternoon, the little ones were grouped and a picture made.

Those enjoying the happy occasion were, Madaline Boyce, daughter of Albert Boyce of Detroit, George and Teresa Deery, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Deery, Josephine Daisher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Daisher, Mary Ellen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newsome, Mary Alice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Barber of Detroit, Raymond, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Austin, Francis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Gillespie, Mills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Crittenden of Grand Rapids, Baby Temple, son of Leon Temple and wife, Dolores and Dorothy Keyser, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Keyser of Clinton, Bernard Williamson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Williamson, John D., son of Albert Deming and wife, and Albert, son of John Herring and wife. All but four of the little ones were less than one year old.

NEW MEN ON ST. PAUL TEAM LOOK GOOD.

Teal, One of the Men, Who Pleases the Fans.

That Pitcher Harvey Teal is a favorite with the fans at St. Paul will be seen in the following clipping from one of the papers of that city.

"Teal has shown on two occasions that he has all the goods a pitcher needs. His underhand delivery is a puzzling thing. When he fanned three of the heavy-hitting Toledo batters in one inning on Tuesday, he showed what he can do under pressure. Few pitchers have this underhand delivery and fewer still have it so they can use it effectively. Teal has it down perfect and mixes up his speed in a most tantalizing manner. He pitches his head off, too, when he works and he fields his position with lots of speed and activity. He is awake and a pitcher who will stay awake, nine innings is one worth hanging to."

SIMPLE WASH CURES ECZEMA.

Great inventors often have been praised for surrendering the secrets of their discoveries. Practically the same thing happened in the medical world in the case of Dr. Decatur D. Dennis, the eminent skin specialist of Chicago.

Dr. Dennis, in his own office practice, discovered that pure vegetable oil of wintergreen, properly mixed with other simple redmedies was practically a sure specific for Eczema, psoriasis, barber's itch salt rheum and other itching skin diseases. But the oil of wintergreen alone was found ineffective. It required other mild ingredients such as glycerine and thymol compounded with the wintergreen to produce the real eczema cure.

THE HIPPOCRATIAN OATH.

What Every Conscientious Physician Undertakes to Do.

"First and last, day and night, he who has given himself to the cause of medicine sees the most sordid, the most terrifying, the most pitiful, side of humanity," says a writer in Appleton's Magazine. "His training is in the slums, where the elements of life may touch even the lowest and basest. His service is demanded in sickness and pain, and his final act, as irrevocably as the rising of the sun, is to close the eyes forever of others, even perhaps those whom he brought into the world. He is the possessor of secrets, the repository of sorrow.

"'Into whatever house I enter I will go for the benefit of the sick. With purity and holiness I will pass my life and practice my art.' So ran the oath administered by Hippocrates to his students almost five centuries before Christ, and so still stands today the physician's ideal. Medicine then partook of a character of holiness, for the student, too, swore to reckon him who taught me this art equally dear to me as my parents, to look upon his offspring in the same footing as my own brothers and to teach them this art if they shall wish it without fee or stipulation.

"Can any one today with an inkling of the life of the disciple of medicine doubt that the spirit of this ancient oath is rigidly observed in its practice, or that, as Hippocrates dictated 2,500 years ago, 'Whatever in connection with my professional practice or not in connection with it I see or hear in the life of men which ought not to be spoken abroad I will not divulge, as reckoning all that should be kept secret?'"

BUENOS AIRES.

An Orderly City In Which Affairs Are Well Conducted.

Things are done well in the City of Good Airs. There are good things to eat, comfortable rooms to live in, places where a man can get his exercise and outdoor sport. After the tropics the gringo feels like a man who has been hopping from foothold to foothold in a swamp and steps at last on solid ground. The creature comforts of a capable, wide awake, well arranged city soothingly envelop him. The cochero knows where he wants to go, the waiter knows what he wants to eat. The mounted policeman, in breastplate and horsetail helmet, rides him back with the rest of the crowd and does it so quietly and with such sophisticated nonchalance that he promptly conceives a passionate admiration for that policeman and his beautiful horse, falls into the communistic pride common to all city dwellers and is ready to declare that there is no other policeman so fine in the world. The streets are clean and well kept, and the buildings which line them, however gingerbready their architecture, are held within decorous maximum and minimum limits of height. Everything is near at hand. The hotel, club, bank, drive, the restaurants and theaters are all within, so to say, feeling distance. And this physical compactness and neatness, this continental glitter and activity, set here oasis-like, combine to give the whole a certain diminutiveness and cozy intimacy. There's a "little old Buenos Aires" too.—Arthur Ruhl in Scribner's Magazine.

Accomplices.

A rival to the celebrated Mrs. Malaprop is to be found in a certain New York street car conductor. The other day a party of several women boarded his car. They were not able to find seats together, and two sat on the opposite side from the others. The woman who paid the fares for the group offered the conductor a half dollar, neglecting to mention how many fares were to be taken from it.

"You're paying for these four here," he said, indicating those who sat in line with her of the purse, "and," waving his hand in the direction of the two on the opposite side, "are those ladies implicated?"—New York Times.

The Grave of Adam.

April 1 was marked on old calendars as the "Memorial of Adam." The orientals relate that Adam, when dying, charged his children to bury his body, embalmed with myrrh, incense and cassia, in the cave of Al-Kanus, near paradise. When they quitted the place they were to convey his body to the center of the earth, whence would come salvation to his posterity. This is said to have been done by Noah and Melchizedek, who reburied him on the sacred hill of Calvary.—Chicago News.

Moonlight.

Many readers may not be aware of the fact that the full moon gives several times more than twice the light of the half moon. They may be still more surprised to learn that the ratio is approximately as nine to one. Professor Joel Stebbins and F. C. Brown, taking advantage of the extreme sensitiveness to light of a selenium cell, measured the amount of light coming from the moon at different phases with the result above mentioned. The reason for the remarkable difference shown is to be found in the varying angles of reflection presented by the roughened surface of our satellite to the sun. The moon is brighter between first quarter and full than between full and last quarter. The cause of this is evident in the more highly reflective character of that part of the moon which lies west of its meridian.

An American Scholar's Work.

It should be humiliating for Englishmen to reflect that it was left to an American, Francis James Child, to compile the five thick volumes of "English and Scottish Popular Ballads" which are familiar and invaluable to all students of this subject. But self reproach is forgotten in admiration of his work. Child himself unfortunately did not live to finish his task. However, he was more than a scholar and an editor. He was the founder of a school and he had the gift of being able to transmit to others both his learning and his zeal.—London Saturday Review.

His Fair Proposition.

"Are you able to support my daughter?" asked the old gentleman. "You know she has pretty expensive tastes, and I don't mind saying that the burden has been pretty hard for me at times."

"That's just the point," exclaimed the prospective benedict. "If I marry her we can divide the expense."

A Doubt.

Madam (to the nursemaid, who has just brought home her four children from a walk)—Dear me, Anna, how changed the children look since I last saw them! Are you quite sure they are the right ones?—Fliegende Blatter.

MAN-A-LIN

Copyright 1904, by The Manalin Co.

MAN-A-LIN Is An Excellent Remedy for Constipation.

There are many ailments directly dependent upon constipation, such as biliousness, discolored and pimpled skin, inactive liver, dyspepsia, overworked kidneys and headache.

MAN-A-LIN can be relied upon to produce a gentle action of the bowels, making pills and drastic cathartics entirely unnecessary.

A dose of two of Man-a-lin is advisable in slight febrile attacks, la grippe, colds and influenza.

Those who prefer can obtain Man-a-lin in tablet form.

A CHARMED KEY.

Its Refusal to Work and What Might Have Happened.

You may be interested to hear of a thing which happened to me in Brittany last summer. I had to sign some railway transfers before the nearest British consul, who was at Brest. I locked up the papers and railway stock in a Breton cupboard as high as the ceiling and very solid. I kept the key in my pocket.

When my cousin and I were ready to start, I took out the key, and it would not open its own cupboard. The servants came in turn and tried in vain. We had to miss our train to Quimper, which was our first stage to Brest. Now, our village locksmith was very rough and ready, so the next morning I said I would try the key myself once more before he perhaps ruined my lock.

The key fitted perfectly, the cupboard opened easily, we got the papers, and we went. But, imagine, we found at the station placards posted up telling of the awful wreck of the Brest train the day before, and it was the train in which we should have been but for the obstinacy of the key. We saw the carriages all fallen into the river, and the dead and dying were in the hospital at Quimper. We feel this to be a preservation wrought from the next world that is so near.—Mrs. Hodgson Pratt in Light.

Pleasant.

The two men talked for a time in the train.

"Are you going to hear Barkins' lecture tonight?" said one.

"Yes," returned the other.

"Take my advice and don't. I hear he is an awful bore."

"I must go," said the other. "I'm Barkins."

Positive Proof.

Patron—How can you tell whether a couple are married or not? Hotel Keeper—If he orders two whole portions, they are not; if he orders one portion for two, they are.—Judge.

Her Sweet Answer.

Tom—And when you proposed she gave you a sweet answer? Dick—She did, indeed. Tom—Ah, she said, "Yes?" Dick—No, she said "Fudge."—Chicago News.

"FRESH FISH"

Wednesday evidently was fine weather for fish, Ed Newburn and Newberry Satterthwaite left early in the morning for Evans lake, both equiped for the day. The heavy rain Tuesday must have been good dope for the pair, for their catch was something remarkable, Mr. Newburn catching 115 fine blue gills, sun fish, interspersed with several large perch. Mr. Satterthwaite finished with a catch of 134 of like variety, with one exception, among his catch had two fine pike and a large bass, the pike weighing 11 lbs. 8 ounces together, and the bass tipped the scales at 4 lbs. 15 ounces, these were captured while rowing from one place to another on the lake, casting.

Mr. Toland stated they were as fine as any he had seen taken from the lake this season, arrangements are being made by Mr. Newburn and Satterthwaite for a three days trip there next week, weather premitting.

There has never been a period in American history when the public was more eager to learn the attitude of its leaders than in the present election year. In the July Everybody's Lincoln Steffen holds up for the inspection of the voter the views of Mr. Bryan and Govenor Johnson, the most prominent of the Democratic leaders. To Mr. Steffen's searching questions have come definite, clear-cut answer there could be no evasion, no misinterpretation of the meaning of each question. The article was as strong as its predecessor in the June number, where the Republican leaders gave their views upon "What the matter is in America and what to do about it.

Young lady of Clinton injured while driving home.

HORSE STUMBLED AND FELL OVER GRAVEL IN ROAD.

Notice to the Township of Tecumseh.

Phyllis H. Bowen of the village of Clinton, has sued the township of Tecumseh for injuries received from the negligence of the Highway officers, agents or employees of this township.

On the evening of the 19th day of May, 1908, at about 9 o'clock p. m. at or near Waldron's farm, in the township of Tecumseh, said Miss Bowen was thrown from the carriage, caused by the horse falling where an entire load of fresh gravel had been dumped in the center of the beaten track of said highway and had not been spread out or beaten down in any manner whatsoever, and constituted an obstruction in the highway. Miss Bowen's limb became entangled in the wheel in some manner and both bones of her leg were broken above the ankle, the ankle seriously bruised, and received other injuries whereby she became sick, maimed and disordered and has so remained until the present time and is in great danger of remaining permanently injured.

Her attorney, Mr. Watters of Manchester, asks the township for damages for her injuries as aforesaid in sum of $1,000.

LEON R. ROSACRANS.

FIRE

AT 2:30 THIS MORNING AN ALARM WAS TURNED IN.

Entire Stock and Furnishings Completely Ruined.

About 2:30 this morning fire works at the bowling alley attracted the attention of nightwatchman Bennett, and upon investigation it was found that the fire works that Fred Miller the proprietor had on display in the front show windows were on fire.

The explosions broke the glass of the window, pieces of which were found across the street. An alarm was turned in at once, but the entire stock, interior of the store, and furnishings are completely ruined. The origin of the fire is not known. There is a slight insurance on the building and contents.

This renowned cough and cold remedy and throat and lung healer is sold at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

CUBE ROOT.

Do You Know the Method of Extracting It Without Pain?

Think of the inestimable value of knowing how to extract cube root! Ah, there is the priceless boon! Knowing that has saved us money many and many a time, to say nothing of the social blunders it has assisted us to avoid. Do I know yet how it was done? Certainly. I know it just as well as if it were yesterday that I studied it. You take the number whose cube root is paining it so that nothing but extraction can relieve it, put it down on a piece of paper or on your slate and divide it off into periods of three figures each. Write 4-11-44 to the left, multiply that by 300, divide it by something, then pour some red ink on your handkerchief, tell teacher you have the nosebleed and go home.

That's the way I usually did it. No doubt it is done much the same way by the ingenious youth of the present generation.

Is there a successful man living today and holding up his head among other successful men who cannot painlessly extract the cube root without giving the number an anaesthetic? If so, he should be ashamed of himself. He is a freak, and he attained distinction by a fluke. Some day the muck rakers will get to probing around, and when they discover that he can't extract the cube root of anything his career will be ended and his gray hairs will sink in sorrow to a dishonored, jimson grown grave. The jails and asylums are filled with vacant faced and craven hearted wretches who never learned the way to remove a cube root, no matter if the number containing it was threatened with blood poison. They don't know whether to run a horsehair loop down its throat, as in the case of gapes, or whether to use tweezers.

Let us try to impress upon our children—by precept—the importance of cube root extraction, but let us have business elsewhere in case they ask us to show them how.—Strickland W. Gillilan in Chicago News.

A Genuine Grouch.

A certain farmer noted for constant complaining was met by a friend one morning.

"Fine weather, James," said the latter.

"For them as ain't got to work," was the response.

"Your farm looks in fine condition."

"To them's as ain't got to dig in it."

"Well, James, I'm glad your wife's better."

"Them as don't have to live with her may be!"—London Family Herald.

The Rubicon.

The Rubicon was the small stream separating ancient Italy from Cisalpine Gaul, the province which had been allotted to Caesar. When Caesar crossed this stream at the head of an armed force he passed beyond the limits of his own province and legally became an invader of Italy.

The Ladies' World for July, which has just come, contains a very interesting collection of general reading matter, in addition to the seasonable information on a large variety of subjects given in its departments. The present method of celebrating our great national holiday is negatively condemned by showing us how much more sensibly it is observed in some of the New England towns, where the parents plan to give the children a good time without fear of bodily mutilation. A novel Fourth of July Entertainment is also in the number.

OUR NATIONAL DANGER.

Time to Cry a Halt Before a Panic Comes.

The business spirit is crushing out the sweeter element of home life We are in danger of a great commerical decline, because men, as a whole, think only of getting wealth.

There are thousands, both men and women, who do not take time to eat properly. They rush through life, and as a result we have an age of indigestion, nervousness, irritability, sleepless nights, and morose disposition. There is not much difference between downright suicide and the way some people disregard unmistakable signs of stomach trouble.

With the great advance in the knowledge of digestion and nutrition, resulting in the discovery of Mi-o-na tablets, there is no longer any excuse for one to have ill health from stomach weakness.

Mi-o-na strengthens the walls of the stomach, stimulates secretion of the digestive juices, regulates the liver and restores muscular contraction to the intestines and bowels, so no laxative is needed.

Sick headaches, palpitation, bad taste in the mouth, yellow skin, irritability, coated tongue and melancholy are a few of the many distressing results of indigestion. Mi-o-na never fails to dispel all these troubles. It is a scientific preparation guaranteed under the Pure Food Law by No. 1418.

C. A. Wright & Son's drug store, sell Mi-o-na in 50 cent boxes, and guarantee to refund the money if the remedy does not give complete satisfaction.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince any one.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

War Against Consumption.

All nations are endeavoring to check the ravages of consumption, the "white plague" that claims so many victims each year. Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs and colds perfectly and you are in no danger of consumption. Do not risk your health by taking some unknown preparation when Foley's Honey and Tar is safe and certain in results. The genuine is in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

The best way to make your opinions respected is to keep them to yourself.

The usual idea of whether a man is respectable or not depends on how he is dressed.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is good for cuts, burns, and bruises and scratches. It is especially good for piles. Recommended and sold by all druggists

GIVING OUT.

The struggle discourages many a citizen of Tecumseh.

Around all day with an aching back;
Can't rest at night;
Enough to make any one "give out."
Doan's Kidney Pills will give renewed life.
They will cure the backache;
Cure every kidney ill.

John B. Smith, debuty sheriff, living on East Chicago Avenue, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I experienced a great deal of suffering from pains in the small of my back, through the loins and about the kidneys and when an attack was present it was hard for me to do my work. On bending over, I would be seized with dizzy spells, when spots of fire would flash before my eyes. I was restless at night, and in the morning would get up feeling tired and unrefreshed. I doctored a great deal, also used a number of remedies, but received no permanent benefit. Finally I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and the statements made concerning them were so convincing that I was induced to procure a box at Wright and Son's drug store. I felt great benefit after taking the contents of the first box, and thus encouraged I continued until they effected a complete cure. I will always recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone I hear complaining of kidney trouble."

For Sale by all Dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States.

THE SINUOUS EEL.

Will Bite Long After It Has Been Decapitated.

Eels are peculiar even among fishes. A strange and mysterious race, the difficulty of killing them is not the least of their peculiarities. Very many of us have been annoyed by the ordinary eel that has seized our worm and then tangled up our line in its slimy coils. You may cut off the head of an eel in the manner recommended by the S. P. C. A. and leave its body full of squirms and wriggles, for the eel is a hateful and uncanny creature. I have been told that the true method is first to cut off the eel's tail and that after this the severance of the head brings all life and movement to an end. As to this I cannot say, for I only heard this recently and have not since had to deal with a sinuous eel. A correspondent has cited an instance of a conger left apparently dead for twenty-four hours on the beach, which then bit three fingers from the hand of a small boy who came to handle it. I can well believe this. I shall not easily forget the eerie shock which I had on a certain occasion in Wales. I had caught a large eel on a night line set for pike. We had severed his head and left him for some hours on the bank, leaving a good hook in his gullet. In the evening he was presented to a small boy, who bore him off in triumph as a supper dish. Half an hour later the boy's mother appeared, with some concern and indignation, to relate that the head had bitten the boy severely when he tried to remove the excellent hook. And this was no conger! The occurrence seemed to me like the horror in one of Kipling's most weird stories of uncanny horror. Whether these posthumous wounds by eels betoken the remnants of life in their severed portions or a mere mechanical flicker of the nervous system only the biologist could say. And perhaps he would be only making a guess.—St. James' Gazette.

LOST THE CASE.

A Simple Test to Which the Defendant Objected.

An English solicitor was defending a fruit broker in an action brought in a London court for the recovery of $100, the price paid for a consignment of figs which the plaintiff declared to be unfit for human food. The defense alleged that, although moderately discolored by salt water, as the plaintiff knew when he bought them, the figs were perfectly wholesome. The figs were in court.

The plaintiff, a coster, who conducted his own case, was skillfully cross examined. The trial was obviously going against him, and once or twice he retorted so hotly that the judge threatened to commit him for contempt.

At length the coster grew desperate and, turning to the opposing counsel, hoarse and perspiring, he said:

"Look here, guv'nor, you say them figs are good to eat, and I say they ain't. That's all there is between us, ain't it? Now, s'elp me, if you'll eat two of them figs and you ain't sick immediately afterward I'll lose my case."

The judge at once saw the propriety of this suggestion and asked the lawyer what he proposed to do.

"Your honor is trying this case, not I," was the reply.

"No, no! The offer is made to you," said the judge.

A hurried consultation took place. Counsel suggested that it was the solicitor's duty to submit to the experiment. The solicitor refused. The broker himself was then asked if he would risk it.

"What will happen to me if I don't?" said he.

"You'll lose the case," replied both his legal advisers.

"Then," said he hurriedly, "lose the case, lose the case!" And so he did.

There Was a Difference.

When Dr. Randall Davidson, archbishop of Canterbury, was a curate, one day at Dartford he took a Sunday school class in a neighboring parish. The subject was King Solomon, and after the lesson he proceeded to catechise the children.

"Tell me, boys," he said, "what was the difference between Solomon and other men?" No answer. "Come, come!" said the future archbishop. "Was there any difference, for instance, between King Solomon and myself?"

A tiny hand went up and a tiny voice replied, "Please, sir, Solomon was wise!"—London M. A. P.

Queer Plants.

The searcher for curiosities among plants finds much to interest him in Kew gardens. There are primroses which blister the hand if stroked, leaves divided into two sections which snap together and imprison any insect which alights upon them, plants which live absolutely on air, without any root in the ground; walking plants, sleeping plants and plants which grow whiskers. And all these marvels can be seen by any visitor for nothing.—London Graphic.

Peculiar Qualifications.

"In choosing his men," said the Sabbath school superintendent, "Gideon did not select those who laid aside their arms and threw themselves down to drink. He took those who watched with one eye and drank with the other."—Herald and Presbyter.

PROGRESS OF DEATH.

Sensations of One Overtaken by the "Sleep of Snow."

Pastor Bertrand was climbing a mountain with a party of students. Feeling tired, he lay down to rest while the others proceeded and was overtaken by the "sleep of snow." He felt himself as if struck by apoplexy. His head was perfectly clear, but his body was powerless. He tells his story thus:

"A kind of prayer was sent up, and then I resolved to study quietly the progress of death. The sensation was not painful, but at last my head became unbearably cold, and it seemed to me that concave pinchers squeezed my heart so as to extract my life. I never felt such pain, but it lasted only for a minute, and my life went out. 'Well,' thought I, 'I am what they call a dead man, and here I am, a captive balloon attached to the earth by a kind of elastic spring and going up and always up! When my companions return they will say, "The professor's dead." They do not know I never was so alive as I am! The proof is I see them now—the guide is stealing a leg of my chicken. "Go on, old fellow! Eat the whole if you choose, for I hope my corpse will never eat again." Hello! There is my wife going to Lucerne. "Well, wife, goodby!" I confess I did not call dear the one that has always been very dear to me. I felt neither regret nor joy at leaving her. My only regret was that I could not cut the string. Suddenly a shock stopped my ascension. I felt that somebody was pulling the balloon down. My grief was measureless. When I reached my body I had a last hope. The balloon seemed much too big for the mouth. Suddenly I uttered the awful roar of a wild beast. The corpse swallowed the balloon—and Bertrand was Bertrand again!'

In other words, the exertions of his friends were successful in resuscitating him.—Leon Landsberg in Boston Post.

AN ISLAND OF MASSACRES.

Over Five Million People Have Been Assassinated in Haiti.

Haiti has been the scene of more massacres than any other place on earth.

They began with the coming of Columbus and the rabble rout that followed him. In a few years its 3,000,000 gentle, brown skinned inhabitants had perished utterly, exterminated by fire and sword and by forced labor in the mines, to which they were utterly unsuited. In all history is no tragedy more colossal and more pitiful than this one.

Next the buccaneers seized the unhappy island and wreaked vengeance on the Spaniards in such a manner that even the old chroniclers tell of the worst of the atrocities only in the Latin tongue.

Presently came the French, and for a brief space there was some semblance of peace. But in 1793 the negroes revolted and murdered practically all the whites, the scenes enacted resembling those that took place at Cawnpore and elsewhere during the Indian mutiny, but magnified a thousandfold.

On account of these atrocities frightful reprisals took place when France in due course reconquered the island. But the negroes hided their time and presently rose again under a ruffian named Dessalimes.

This time they did the thing thoroughly. Not only were all the Europeans put to death, but all having any admixture of white blood in their veins suffered a like fate. Many of the victims were burned alive after having been first tortured.

In all it is computed that over 5,000,000 men, women and children have met with violent deaths on this island of massacres since the intruding white man first set foot on its palm fringed strand.—Pearson's Weekly.

Sleep Talkers.

It is a curious fact that people when talking in their sleep are always truthful and never evasive, but if their feelings are played upon by their questioner they will betray great anger. Their eyes are always tightly closed, and the intonation of the voice is very different from the tones used when the person is fully awake. Sleep talkers may by conversation be brought to remember a dream within a dream, and they will recollect what happened in preceding dreams. Very often mental anxiety will make people talk in their sleep when under other conditions they would never do it.

Breaking It Gently.

A man who had literary aspirations, but lacked the literary instinct, once wrote a story and took it to the editor of a magazine. "I want you to read it over carefully," he said. "It's intended for a satire, and, if I do say it myself, I think it's pretty clever."

The editor took the manuscript and began to read it. A page or two sufficed to show him its utter hopelessness for purposes of publication, but he hesitated to crush a budding author and proceeded to temporize.

"Why, Mr.—er—Simmons," he said, "your story has some crudities, of course, and—er"—

"It's better as you get into it," interrupted the other complacently. "It's like some of Thackeray's stories."

"Ah, yes, Mr. Simmons; you do remind me somewhat of Thackeray."

"Do I?" inquired the caller.

"Yes," rejoined the editor, handing him the manuscript. "You have a nose just like his."—Youth's Companion.

The Payment For Stuart's Portrait of George Washington.

The Columbian Historical society recently has come into possession of the papers relating to the negotiations between one of the Carroll family and the government of the United States for the payment of the money due for the famous portrait of Washington by Gilbert Stuart. This was the portrait which in the war of 1812 was rescued from the burning White House by the intrepid Dolly Madison. Stuart painted this portrait in Philadelphia in 1795, when in the height of his glory. He but recently had returned from London, where he had counted among his subjects King George IV., the Prince of Wales, Mrs. Siddons and many other celebrities, and he had the temerity to ask congress for $800 for his painting of the first patriot.

The solons were aghast at such a price, promptly refused to pay it and intimated that any one so unpatriotic might as well go back and paint kings, for he was not suited to paint patriots. But Daniel Carroll of Duddington threw himself in the breach, urged the claim of the artist and put before the congress what a figure they would cut before the eyes of the world if they failed to meet an obligation incurred. Carroll offered to pay the money himself if the government gave him promise of remuneration. After much quibbling a promissory note was given at 8 per cent, and it was twenty years before the Carroll heirs received the whole of the $800 which Stuart received for the finest portrait ever painted of the Father of His Country. During the hasty cutting of the picture from its frame when the victorious British were marching on the capital the signature of Stuart was destroyed. The picture lay in obscurity for a dozen years, and there was some doubt thrown on its authenticity when it was rehung in the White House. It now adorns the blue room with Martha Washington by the same artist, and the two form the sole decoration of the throne room, as the dainty blue room is dubbed by those who like court phrases. For over seventy-five years it hung in the east room.—New York Press.

THE CREATIVE POWER.

"Science," Said Lord Kelvin, "Affirms the Existence of a God."

I cannot at all accept the view of those who assert that ether is atomic, since all my own investigations have clearly demonstrated to me that its structure is totally nonatomic. In fact, it has no structure in the accepted meaning of the term. Neither can I accept the view of those who assert that science neither affirms nor denies the existence of a Creator. On the contrary, science most positively asserts the existence of a creative power. We cannot escape from this conclusion when we study the physique and the dynamic of living beings and "dead" nature which we see around us.

Modern physiologists again firmly declare that there is something else outside gravitation and the physical and chemical forces. This something is a vital principle. Science places before us an unknown. In thinking of this unknown we all become agnostics. We only know God in his works, but we are forced by science to believe with perfect confidence in other than physical, dynamic or electrical forces. There is no middle term between absolute scientific belief in a creative power and the acceptance of the theory of a haphazard coming together of atoms. Here scientific thought is forced to accept the notion of a creative power. Forty years ago I asked the great Liebig during a walk in the country if he believed that grass and flowers grew solely as the result of chemical force.

He replied, "Not any more than I believe that chemical force can translate a book upon botany describing the phenomena of vegetation." Every act of the will is a stupendous miracle for chemical, physical and mathematical science. If your intellect is strong enough you will be forced to believe in God, the foundation of all religion, and you will see that science is not at all hostile to religion. Far from that, it must be looked upon as its auxiliary.—Lord Kelvin.

Wanted His Tip.

"In Astoria," said a Washington state official, "there used to be an old fisherman who brought me the first of every month a present of a splendid salmon from his master. I always gave the old fisherman a tip.

"But one morning I was very busy, and when the old boy brought the fish I thanked him hurriedly and, forgetting his tip, bent over my desk again. He hesitated a moment, then cleared his throat and said:

"'Senator, would ye be so kind as to put it in writin' that ye didn't give me no tip this time, or my wife'll think I've went and spent it on rum.'"—Los Angeles Times.

Fresh Water Fish in Germany.

German law does not permit of fresh water fish being sold except when alive. Therefore it is common to see tanks of such fish in the restaurant windows, and they are hauled in this way considerable distances over Prussian railways, and shipments are made to Berlin from Lyons, in France, and from as far south as Roumania.

BRINGS BACK ALDRICH

Jackson's Alleged Embezzler Has Aged Greatly.

HE WAS CAUGHT IN MOBILE.

Crowds of Curious Ones and Jerring Urchins Greet Return of Former City Official Whom, It is Alleged, Embezzled $14,000.

Jackson, Mich., July 9.—To few men has the old scriptural admonition, "The way of the transgressor is hard," been brought home with more force than to Charles E. Aldrich.

The former city recorder of Jackson and alleged embezzler of $14,000 of the funds of the Excelsior Building & Loan association, of which he was treasurer, came home Wednesday after an absence of three years. A curious crowd had assembled at the Union station when the Wolverine Flyer pulled in. Handcuffed to Sheriff Bean, the prisoner meekly followed that official as he shouldered his way through the crowd, which struggled, tiptoed and almost fought in their anxiety to catch a glimpse of Aldrich. Not once did he lift his downcast head or glance at the gaping spectators.

Many of those who had been well acquainted with Aldrich before his flight were almost inclined to believe that Sheriff Bean had made a mistake.

Shaved Off Moustache.

The accused man has aged fearfully since he fled from Jackson with Chloe Burns three years ago. His face is seamed with lines of care and worry. To prevent being recognized, he had shaved off his moustache, and this only seemed to have added to the drawn and haggard expression of his face. His hair is liberally sprinkled with gray.

The sheriff hustled his prisoner on a street car, and they rode to the jail through the streets where the prisoner had once walked as a city official, a crowd of hooting, jeering urchins following as long as they could keep up with the car.

Aldrich positively refused to talk to anyone and was locked up in his cell with little ceremony. Sheriff Bean said that the man had very little to say on the return trip from Mobile.

"Well, I guess I'm up against it," he remarked once to Sheriff Bean, but that was all he had to say concerning his affairs.

The sheriff, in telling his experience, said:

"At the jail, in Mobile, Aldrich asked to be allowed to go to his house to see the Burns girl. I refused this, but sent word to her that she might come and see Aldrich. She seemed to feel pretty badly. She declared that she never had the least idea that he was an embezzler. When Aldrich was arrested he had just one solitary nickel. However, he had one month's pay, amounting to $60, coming from the company. I understand that the Burns girl intended to remain behind, draw this money, sell their household goods and then go to her brother's home in Cleveland."

Bankers Take Slap at Congress.

Marquette, Mich., July 9.—The Michigan Bankers' association Wednesday unanimously voted its approval of the credit currency system formulated and advocated by the American Bankers' association. This, in effect, is a slap at congress for its passage of the Aldrich-Vreeland bill, which the bankers term a "makeshift," and not at all adequate to meet such conditions as the country recently experienced. This action of the Michigan bankers came at the conclusion of an able address by August Blum of the First National bank of Chicago, in which he importuned the bankers of the country not to cease in their advocacy of the American bankers' bill. The visitors are being given royal entertainment.

Tragic Affair on Train.

Bluefield, W. Va., July 9.—Suddenly going insane on a train at Bondtown, Va., Dan Cloves of Bigstone Gap, Va., reached over to the seat in front of him and cut James Sturgill's throat from ear to ear. Then he turned the razor on himself and made two severe wounds in his own throat. Cloves had never seen Sturgill before. Sturgill will probably die.

Buried Unidentified.

Dowagiac, Mich., July 9.—The body of the young man found beside the Michigan Central railroad tracks Sunday morning was buried unclaimed. So far, no one has been found who had ever seen the man before. He was apparently about twenty-five years old, well dressed and appeared refined.

OUST CONTESTANTS.

Anti Bryan Pennsylvania Men Are Not Seated.

LIVELY SESSIONS TAKE PLACE

Two Sessions Wednesday—Gore Addressed Gathering in Afternoon. Delegates Cheered Over Hour at Mention of Bryan's Name.

Denver, July 9.—The Democratic national convention is marking time, so far as the nomination of candidates and the adoption of a platform is concerned, and is passing through the stages of organization and the throes of frenzied demonstrations. Wednesday was marked chiefly by turbulent enthusiasm and the bitter strife of party leaders, the essential developments of the day being these:

Two sessions of the convention were held, the first, at noon, producing a Bryan demonstration breaking all records in duration; the second, at 8 o'clock last night, being the culmination of the struggle over the credentials of the Pennsylvania delegation and the supremacy of the Pennsylvania leader, Colonel Guffey, who has been denounced by Mr. Bryan. The Pennsylvania delegates were ousted.

Outside of the convention, the committees have proceeded with the serious work of preparing the way for convention action. The credentials committee unseated eight of Colonel

SENATOR GORE.

Of the platform, its essential features are agreed upon, and little remains but the details of phraseology.

The early meeting of the convention Wednesday was productive of little practical progress, as the principal committees were not ready to report. But it had the effect of exploding the long pent up Bryan enthusiasm. The convention took the signal from Senator Gore's eloquent reference to the Nebraska leader and burst into a whirlwind of enthusiastic tribute lasting 1 hour and 19 minutes, with 7 minutes more of the expiring echoes of clamor, establishing the convention record of 1 hour and 26 minutes, or fully 39 minutes in excess of Roosevelt's demonstration at Chicago, which held the record until now. It was a decisive exhibition of overmastering strength of the Bryan column, one of the most dramatic convention pictures ever presented, as the standards of states were torn from their moorings and borne through the hall until they stood together on the platform, like an army of banners, proclaiming their united allegiance to Bryan.

Six Standards Not There.

Amid this storm of Bryan demonstration, the six standards of New York, New Jersey, Delaware, Georgia, Minnesota and Connecticut stood rooted on their places, the rallying points of little groups unmoved by the wild, frenzied scenes about them. Throughout the 1 hour and 19 minutes, the deafening uproar continued, ebbing and flowing in intensity, women joining the men in bearing the Bryan standards aloft, while the whole assemblage of 12,000 people joined in the tumultuous demonstration. The early session lasted three hours, and then, worn out with exertion and lacking the material to proceed with business, the convention recessed until last night.

At the night session, the galleries were well filled long before the first delegates and alternates began to make their appearance.

The officers of the convention and the members of the credentials committee were in a panic as the time approachd for opening the convention because the majority report of the committee was missing. The precious document was in the possession of the stenographer, and he could not be found.

The convention officials, after a short conference, decided that no work should be undertaken by the convention last night except to consider the report of the credentials committee. Debate on the majority and minority reports, it was agreed, should be limited.

At 8:10 the report of the committee on credentials was brought to the hall, but Chairman Bell had wandered off and could not be located. Chairman Bell was finally brought back and once more called the gathering to order.

Hobson Spoke.

Mr. Ormonde of Florida was recognized to move that Representative R. P. Hobson of Alabama be invited to address the convention. Hobson spoke for fifteen minutes. He finally closed with a plea that when the Democrats accede to power they prepare to ward off war by enlarging the navy.

At 9:30 o'clock Chairman Bell announced that the committee on credentials was ready to report. In the matter of two lists of committee appointments from Pennsylvania Chairman Callaghan reported that the credentials committee recommended that in view of the contest decisions the lists be referred back to the delegation for further action. Mr. Callaghan concluded by moving the adoption of the report.

Mr. I. L. Straus of Maryland, who read the minority report, which recommended that the contestees in the Pennsylvania cases be seated. A vigorous debate ensued. A roll call was demanded and votes cast.

"Upon this question," announced Chairman Bell, "the ayes have 387 votes and the noes 615."

The announcement was greeted with great cheering.

A majority report then was adopted by a viva voce vote.

Great confusion followed the announcement of the result of the roll call, but through the uproar filtered a motion to adjourn. It was seconded in a flash and carried with a shout, and the delegates made for the doors.

AGREES WITH BRYAN.

Committee on Resolutions Inclined to Accept All He Has to Offer.

The working sub committee of the Democratic convention committee on resolution decided that in order to make progress it would be necessary to divide the work, and consequently sub committees of the sub committees were appointed on various subjects, including injunctions, trusts, railroads, resources of the country, tariff, ect. These minor sub committees consisted in all cases of three members, and their time has been largely spent in consultations over the various subjects.

There were, however, some questions upon which the full sub committee found it possible to pass, and these included the publicity of campaign contributions, relative to which a strong plank was adopted. The committee also adopted various other suggestions, among them being planks demanding the enactment of an income tax law, providing for the restriction of oriental immigration, denouncing what the committee termed President Roosevelt's "perpetuation of his dynasty," etc.

The injunction sub committee was the first to be appointed. This sub committee consisted of Messrs. Williams of Massachusetts, Parker of New York and Sullivan of Iowa. Its deliberations were based upon a draft of the proposed plank made by Mr. Williams. Owing to the care which it was found necessary to give to this plank, it has not yet reported.

The sub committee on tariff found less difficulty in reaching a conclusion. This committee consisted of Messrs. Pettigrew of South Dakota, Brown of Nebraska and Aldrich of Illinois, and it reported to the full sub committee by 5 o'clock. That committee recommended the adoption of a comprehensive plank on the tariff, including, among others, a provision for free print paper, free wood pulp, lumber, logs, etc. No definite announcement on the question of the Philippine tariff relative to sugar was made by the sub committee.

The full sub committee gave considerable attention to the subject of a preamble for the platform, and there was for a time a good deal of rivalry between the preamble of the New York platform and that of the Nebraska platform, the former being championed by Judge Parker and the latter by former Senator Pettigrew and others. Ultimately the Nebraska language was accepted because of its brevity.

Among other questions discussed at length were those relative to the writ of injunction, the expression of confidence in the courts, the physical value of railroads and the guarantee of bank deposits. There was a sharp division of sentiment upon many of these, but as the hours wore on it became evident that a large majority of the full sub committee was completely committed to all of Bryan's policies, and, while he members did not manifest the willingness to accept the language even of Mr. Bryan in a majority of instances, there was one or two opposing expressions with reference to his policies. So nearly unanimous was the sub committee that one of the members facetiously declared that it stood "sixteen to one" on all propositions, Judge Parker generally being the one odd member.

Atwood Cited For Chairmanship.

A strongly supported movement, having the backing of a number of the most intimate personal friends of W. J. Bryan, including several members of the national committee, has been launched in the interest of John H. Atwood of Leavenworth, Kas., member of the Democratic national committee from that state, for the chairmanship of the new national committee. It is stated on good authority that the selection of Mr. Atwood would be gratifying to Mr. Bryan.

BIG FIRE IN BOSTON.

Nearly Quarter of Mile of Harbor Front Swept by Flames.

Boston, July 9.—A fire believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion or a locomotive spark, and fanned by a brisk northwest wind, has swept nearly a quarter of a mile of the harbor front of East Boston, causing a property loss estimated at nearly $1,500,000. Much of the loss falls upon the Boston & Albany railroad. Two persons were reported missing, and it is thought that both perished in the flames. One of them was Daniel Sullivan, a watchman at the Cunard line pier, and the other was Miss Sadie Arnold, a clerk employed by the Cunard Steamship company.

The fire was the biggest and most destructive that has broken out along the harbor front for many years. The flames spread with remarkable rapidity, and, by the time the fire fighting apparatus arrived on the scene, they were beyond control and leaping from pier to pier.

Within half an hour of the time the fire was discovered, four piers, three warehouses, a grain elevator, containing 30,000 bushels of grain, and many loaded freight cars had been destroyed.

Several vessels and lighters narrowly escaped destruction.

The burned area includes Piers 1 and 2 of the Grand Junction docks and the pier on which stood the big grain elevator, all owned by the Boston & Albany Railroad company, and used by the steamers of the Cunard line, and Pier 6, owned by the Leyland line. This property extends along the water front to the wharf of the Massachusetts Coal Wharf company, which adjoins the East Boston ferry slip of the Boston, Revere Beach and Lynn railroad, commonly known as the "Narrow Gauge." The piers destroyed were each about 800 feet long and from 200 to 300 feet wide. Piers 1, 2 and 6 were each covered by a large warehouse.

The fire started in the warehouse of Pier 1, Grand Junction docks. In this building was stored an immense quantity of combustible material, including wool, Egyptian cotton, grease and oil.

In each of the warehouses destroyed there were many cars loaded with freight for export. All of these cars and their contents were destroyed.

A Rabbit and a Whistle.

Did you know that a short, sharp whistle from the mouth would stop a rabbit? It surely does. Next time you see little Molly Cottontail leap from her burrow and make off don't shoot; just whistle. Whether from fear or curiosity I cannot tell, but she will stop still in her tracks. An antelope has been known to do likewise. An African hunter once said that the elephant is the most timid of all animals and can be frightened into a cold sweat by a mysterious noise.—New York Press.

G. B. Burhans, of Carlisle Center, N. Y., writes: "About four years ago I wrote you stating that I had been entirely cured of a severe kidney trouble by taking less than two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure. It entirely stopped the brick dust sediment, and pain and symptoms of kidney disease disappeared. I am glad to say that I have never had a return of any of those symptoms during the four years that have elapsed and I am evidently cured to stay cured, heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Cure to any one suffering from kidney or bladder trouble." Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

He who fears the storms spends many idle days in port.

IT CAN'T BE BEAT.

The best of all teachers is experience. C. M. Harden, of Silver City, North Carolina, says: "I find Electric Bitters does all that's claimed for it. For Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles it can't be beat. I have tried it and find it a most excellent medicine." Mr. Harden is right; it's the best of all medicines also for weakness, lame back, all run down conditions. Best too for chills and malaria. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 50c.

Hot! Yes, but it's good weather for corn. So cheer up.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts gently upon the bowels and thereby drives the cold out of the system and at the same time it allays inflammation and stops irritation. Children like it. Sold by all druggists.

During the summer kidney irregularities are often caused by excessive drinking or being overheated. Attend to the kidneys at once by using Foley's Kidney Cure. Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Shorten the row by grinding the hoe.

There is one preparation known to pay that will promptly help the stomach. This is Kodol. Kodol digests all classes of food, and it does it throughly, so that the use of Kodol for a time will without doubt help any one who has stomach disorders or stomach trouble. Take Kodol to day and continue it for the short time that is necessary to give you complete relief. Kodol is sold by all druggists.

Rainbows can never be seen in bungholes.

This is what Hon. Jake Moore, State Warden of Georgia, says of Kodol for Dyspepsia: "E. O. DeWitt & Co. Chicago, Ill.,—Dear Sirs—I have suffered more than twenty years with indigestion. About eighteen months ago I had grown so much worse that I could not digest a crust of dry bread and could not retain anything on my stomach. I lost 25 lbs; in fact I made up my mind that I could not live but a short time, when a friend of mine recommended Kodol. I consented to try it to please him and was better in one day. I now weigh more than I ever did in my life and am in better health than for many years. Kodol did it. I keep a bottle constantly, and write this hoping humanity may be benefited. Yours very truly, Jake C. Moore, Atlanta, Aug. 10, 1904." Sold by all druggists.

Bert Barber, of Elton, Wis., says: "I have only taken four doses of your Kidney and Bladder Pills and they have done for me more than any other medicine has ever done. I am still taking the pills as I want a perfect cure." Mr. Barber refers to DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. Sold by all druggists.

"My child was burned terribly about the face, neck and chest. I applied Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The pain ceased and the child sank into a restful sleep." Mrs. Nancy M. Hanson, Hamburg N. Y.

MAYFLOWER TEAPOTS.

A Warning That May Prove of Value to Relic Hunters.

It may be trusted that no lineal descendent of the pilgrims would and no other person foolishly should ever claim to have or to have seen a teapot that had come over on the Mayflower. Whatever other articles in whatever number may be treasured as parts of the sacred cargo that was landed at Plymouth rock in 1620, relic hunters may rest in the assurance that no rival owns a teapot of Mayflower descent.

The explanation is simple. When the Mayflower sailed for America an ounce of tea was rare enough to have made up a fitting gift for royalty. Yet forty years later the wealthy and fashionable people of England were fairly familiar with tea which the East India company had first brought into the country, and four years later it was on sale in the coffee houses, at which time a pound might be purchased for the moderate sum of 60 shillings.

Only twenty-five years later tea was on sale in Boston, and soon after there were two tea houses besides those kept by Daniel Vernon and Benjamin Harris. In the first decade of the eighteenth century it could be bought from Zabdill Bolton at his apothecary shop.

Today the coffee houses of a hundred years ago in London are in reality tea houses. In England were made the first teapots of pottery. Later the most delicate creations in porcelain appeared, but as tea became popular the art of the teapot maker was less exclusively refined.—Boston Globe.

DARING BELL RINGERS.

Pranks of the Athletic Young Spaniards of Seville.

There is a curious custom among the young Spaniards of the city of Seville. On certain fete days, related a tourist, the young men of the place have permission to ring the bells in the clock towers of the cathedral. They have an ingenious and original way of ringing them. While the regular bell ringers repose these amateurs climb up on to the bells, throw them forward with all their force and ride upon the bells in their furious swinging to and fro. We may imagine what an uproar is produced when all the bells of a cathedral are being treated in this manner. Any man who is able may exercise his skill, and the duration of the ringing depends upon the caprice or the strength and patience of the ringers.

The spectacle is very strange of the great bells swinging, with one, two or more bold ringers hanging from them in any attitude which seems to them best adapted to pushing out the most noise. In the Giralda, at Seville, the first time I witnessed this, the clamor was frightful. When I looked up I thought at first some unfortunate was entangled in the bell rope, but I soon found it was a matter of sport. Another ringer appeared suspended in the air, holding the bell by the ears or the rim or the wooden framework and following it in all its movements, sometimes feet, sometimes head, downward. Such are the daring bell ringers of Seville.

The Egyptian Mummy.

Egyptologists have discovered that among the ancient Egyptians the inviolate preservation of the body was deemed absolutely essential to the corporeal resurrection of the dead. According to the teaching of the Egyptian priests, the living man consisted of a body, a soul, an intelligence and an appearance called "Ka." Death separated these four parts, which must ultimately be reunited for all eternity. Between death on earth and life everlasting there intervened a period of several thousand years, during which season the soul performed a painful probationary pilgrimage through the underworld. The body in order that it should await intact the return of the soul must meanwhile be guarded from all corruption; hence the custom of embalming.

Man and His Tailor.

A man can be measured to the best advantage, tailors say, away from a glass. Standing before a mirror he is almost certain to throw out his chest, if he does not habitually carry it so, and take an attitude that he would like to have rather than the one he commonly holds, whereas the tailor wants him, as the portrait painter wants his subject, in his natural pose and manner. With the man in that attitude the tailor can bring his art to bear, if that is required, in the overcoming of any physical defect and produce clothes that will give the best attainable effect upon the figure as they will be actually worn.—New York Sun.

Buckingham's Pranks.

After the defeat and flight of Charles I. the daredevil Duke of Buckingham disguised himself as a mountebank, set up a stage in the heart of London and for days laughed in the faces of the stern Puritans, who were thirsting for his life. One day when his own sister, the beautiful Duchess of Richmond, was passing the jocular duke set the mob on to drag her from her carriage. They forced her to witness the pranks of her brother, whom she recognized, but could not betray.

After putting up gilt edged ball for seven innings, and putting up the fastest and best baseball ever seen here, the Indians went up in the air in the eighth inning Tuesday, and lost the game to Saginaw by a score of 8 and 1.

In the eighth inning with two men gone Derringer drove one down the first base foul line, that the umpire called a hit. Then three errors on easy chances allowed the visitors to score two men. Smith of Saginaw hurt his foot in the 8th. Gough replacing him. They also scored in the ninth. Score as follows:

The Indians took the last game with Saginaw Wednesday the score standing 2 and 1. Lagoe for the locals had the better of Cummings on the firing line, and his support was errorless.

Tecumseh scored in the first inning on singles by Shippy, Wagner and Vorpagel, and an error, and again in the fourth on a pass to Lagoe, a steal and Sommerlott's two-base hit. Saginaw only score came in the seventh on singles by Dillon and Cadman, Gough's sacrifice and an outfield fly. Shippy and Vorpagel featured in two fast double plays. Score as follows:

The Indians played with Bay City yesterday in their first game on local grounds, and handed them a shut out score 6 and 0.

Doty was invincible, but three hits made off his delivery during the game, one of these being very scratchy. Weeder pitched a good game, and worked hard, but his support was ragged. There were no bases on balls given.

Tecumseh scored three in the second on Streeter's single, Wagner's sacrifice, who was safe at first on Weeder's fumble. Lagoe singled, Streeter scored, Wagner stole and came home on an infield out. Lagoe stole, went to third on an infield out and scored on a wild pitch.

In the sixth Somerlott and Shippy doubled, Somerlott scoring. Streeter bunted, was safe at first, with Shippy at third, then stole second. Wagner's single scored Shippy and Streeter scored on an infield out. Score as follows:

MRS. FRANK STROEBE

I was a nervous wreck, I felt no desire to live.

REMARKABLE RECOVERY, THANKS TO PE-RU-NA.

Mrs. Frank Stroebe, R. F. D. 1, Appleton, Wis., writes:

"I began using Peruna a few months ago when my health and strength were all gone, and I was nothing but a nervous wreck, could not sleep, eat or rest properly, and felt no desire to live.

"Three bottles of Peruna made me look at life in a different light, as I began to regain my lost strength. While my recovery took nearly four months, at the end of that time I was better than I ever had been before. I had a splendid color and never weighed more in my life.

"I certainly think Peruna is without a rival as a tonic and strength builder, and it has my endorsement."

This lady entirely recovered from a nervous breakdown. She did not go away to a sanitarium, and spend hundreds of dollars for a cure. She just staid at home, took Peruna, and in four months weighed more than ever in her life, had a splendid color, life looked bright to her. Peruna did all this for her. What more could be expected of any remedy?

Man-a-lin the Ideal Laxative.

PSYCHIC FORCES.

Their Existence Proved, Yet Scientists Cannot Grasp Them.

I have seen enough to make me believe in Zollner's fourth dimension, but I don't. My mind is so constructed that such wonders as we meet in seances produce very little effect on me. They are as normal to me now as the popping of corn or the roasting of potatoes. But as for belief—well, that is not a matter of the will, but of evidence, and the evidence is not yet sufficient to bring me to any definite conclusion. In fact, in the broad day and especially the second day after I have been through one of these experiences I begin to doubt my senses. Richet speaks of this curious recession of belief and admits his own inability to retain the conviction that at the moment of the phenomenon was complete. "No sooner is the sitting over than my doubts come swarming back upon me," he says. "The real world which surrounds us, with its prejudices, its scheme of habitual opinions, holds us in so strong a grasp that we can scarcely free ourselves completely. Certainty does not follow on demonstration, but on habit."

Maxwell says: "I believe in these phenomena, but I see no need to attribute them to any supernatural intervention. I am inclined to think they are produced by some force within ourselves." Just what he means by that I can't precisely explain. It's harder to understand than the spirit hypothesis. He goes on to say that, while he is certain that we are in the presence of an unknown force, he is convinced that the phenomena will ultimately be found orderly, like all other facts of nature. "Some future Newton will discover a more complete formula than ours," he prophesies. "Every natural fact should be studied and, if it be real, incorporated in the patrimony of knowledge." He then adds, with the true scientist's humble acknowledgment of the infinite reach of the undiscovered universe, "Our knowledge is very limited and our experience young."—Hamlin Garland in Everybody's Magazine.

The Dangers of Riches.

More men have been ruined by affluence and its consequent temptations than have ever been wrecked on the rock of poverty. To the rich man duty often loses its imperative voice, and he tampers with its claims and neglects its fulfillment, while all the time he is breeding greed and selfishness in his heart, to the defilement of his whole life. Against all this and much more the man of relative poverty is defended and kept.—Strand Magazine.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy. It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

War Against Consumption.

All nations are endeavoring to check the ravages of consumption, the "white plague" that claims so many victims each year. Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs and colds perfectly and you are in no danger of consumption. Do not risk your health by taking some unknown preparation when Foley's Honey and Tar is safe and certain in results. The genuine is in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

The best way to make your opinions respected is to keep them to yourself.

The usual idea of whether a man is respectable or not depends on how he is dressed.

If as many people grab Father Time by the forelock as one would be led to suspect from the price of beef, coal, etc., father must have an awful sore head.

GIVING OUT.

Around all day with an aching back;
Can't rest at night;
Enough to make any one "give out."

Doan's Kidney Pills will give renewed life.

They will cure the backache;
Cure every kidney ill.

John B. Smith, debuty sheriff, living on East Chicago Avenue, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I experienced a great deal of suffering from pains in the small of my back, through the loins and about the kidneys and when an attack was present it was hard for me to do my work. On bending over, I would be seized with dizzy spells, when spots of fire would flash before my eyes. I was restless at night, and in the morning would get up feeling tired and unrefreshed. I doctored a great deal, also used a number of remedies, but received no permanent benefit. Finally I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and the statements made concerning them were so convincing that I was induced to procure a box at Wright and Son's drug store. I felt great benefit after taking the contents of the first box, and thus encouraged I continued until they effected a complete cure. I will always recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone I hear complaining of kidney trouble."

The Fourth was celebrated in this place in rather a quiet way, a ball game furnished the amusement for the afternoon. In the evening the ladies of the Presbyterian society served ice cream, on the lawn of A. D. Macham, the proceeds of which netted them a neat little sum. A fine display of fireworks, added much to the enjoyment of the evening.

A little daughter of Mr. Kinney, section foreman, while seated on a fence merely to watch the ball game Saturday was accidentally struck in the left side by a ball, she climbed down off the fence and then fell to the ground. Dr. Lusty was summoned from Britton and it is to be hoped that the child is not seriously injured.

FRANKLIN.

We left Adrian on the morning of the 13th enroute for the "Windy City." It is some years since we passed over the Lake Shore and we looked with interest for changes. Few changes however are noticible. East of White Pigeon the train comes to a stand still at a cross road. A party of men and women leave the train and start off on "foot and walkers line" for a beautiful sheet of water in the distance Clear lake, which we are told is a summer resort.

At Laport which has been so much in the public eye of late we asked the conductor if the road approached the Gunness farm and was told that it run a mile and a half from that place.

Rain much needed now began falling. As we approached Lake Michigan the fog and cloud obscured its waters. June 14 we took the children to Washington Park, many others with children are there before us and out on the open a ball game has attracted a large crowd. This park furnishes fine facilities for the student of botany. Each shrub and tree and they are of every botanical name. We pass on into the rose garden, only the pen of an artist can paint a rose garden, we stand entranced by sight and odor.

In the afternoon we enter the 43rd street station and board an M.C. car for Jackson park our final destination being Fields museum, we have little time to devote to it to day so hasten to see the splendid exhibit recently brought from Africa by the expedition sent out especially for that purpose, these are magnificent specimens of lions, tigers, ect. arranged in family groups.

We pause before a great ostrich one who fully makes good the dreams of my childhood, dreams I dreamt before I saw a live ostrich. Its egg is beside it. I am always disposed to look with contempt at the egg of the ostrich it seems so altogather small as compared with the immense size of the bird. The old Plymouth Rock hen has the ostrich beaten a long ways in the beauty of proportion between her egg and herself.

In the Alaskan exhibit there are many curiously carved totem poles, some of them are very lofty and some of them represent unthinkable four footed animals or lizards or what? They are horribly ugly yet so wonderfully carved so many different figures that you stand and look and wonder at the mysterious things.

WAS IN POOR HEALTH FOR YEARS.

Ira W. Kelly, of Mansfield, Pa., writes: "I was in poor health for two years suffering from kidney and bladder trouble, and spent considerable money consulting physicians without obtaining any marked benefit, but was cured by Foley's Kidney Cure, and I desire to add my testimony that it may be the cause of restoring the health of others." Refuse substitutes. Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

HOW VOUCHERS WERE MADE

House Clerk Pierce Testifies in Bunting Case at Mason.

Mason, Mich., July 9.—The bulwark of technicalities and law points which had been built up by his attorneys having been knocked over by Judge Wiest, the first witnesses were sworn, and the trial of Representative A. F. Bunting commenced in earnest Wednesday afternoon.

Charles F. Pierce, who was clerk of the house at that session, then went on the stand. He explained the practice of the house relative to vouchers for expenses incurred by members on junket trips, saying that while there is no law or rule, it has been the custom for many years for the chairmen of committees making such junkets to certify that the claims presented by members for such expenses were actually incurred, speaker and clerk relying on such information in approving the vouchers, as they have no direct knowledge whether or not the members actually make the trip. This was the plan followed, Pierce said, in the voucher in question.

Bunting, as chairman of the committee, signed Jerry Anderson's voucher for $102 for expenses on the fish junket, and Pierce said that Bunting's signature was considered a guarantee that he made the trip and was entitled to the expense money.

Both Anderson and his wife are here as witnesses for the people, and as Anderson is also under indictment there is some speculation as to whether he will testify in this case, as he is charged with having drawn the money on the voucher in question.

Pierce was on the stand when the court adjourned for the day.

Race War Feared.

Havana, July 9.—The town of Alacranes, in the province of Matanzas, where a white child, Luisa Valdes, recently was murdered by Brujos, or negro wizards, for the purpose of using her blood for voodoo incantations, now fears a serious race war. Three negroes have been arrested for chanting scurrilous verses in front of the home of the child's parents. They were arraigned in court and sentenced to a term of imprisonment. Rival bodies of armed whites and blacks assembled about the courthouse, and a clash was prevented only by the arrival of a company of rural guards. The police are now patrolling the town and guarding the jail, fearing an attempt to rescue the prisoners.

Peary Leaves New York.

New York, July 9.—Confident that his quest for the north pole will be successful, Commander Robert E. Peary left last night for Sydney, C. B., where he will join his Arctic steamer, the Roosevelt, which left here Monday on the long journey to the northern ice fields. Commander Peary will spend a day at his home in Portland, Me., and will then go on to Sydney, where he expects to arrive either next Monday or Tuesday. Before his departure, the Arctic explorer thanked the press for its aid and support in his efforts to reach 90 degrees north.

Investigate Indian Uprising.

Guthrie, Okla., July 9.—Adjutant General F. M. Canton, under direction of acting Governor Bellamy, has left for Henrietta to investigate the threatened outbreak of the Snake Indians. Before starting, General Canton stated that several national guard companies in the state had already offered their services by telegraph should an occasion arise that would warrant a calling out of the state troops. He said that no action would be taken in the matter until the situation could be thoroughly looked into.

Actor Robert Edeson Weds.

Boston, July 9.—Robert Edeson, the actor, and Miss George Eliot Porter, daughter of Linn Boyd Porter, the author, and former wife of Actor Charles Mackay, are married. The wedding occurred at the home of the bride, in Brookline. The ceremony was performed by Rev. O. P. Gifford. The couple will make their home at Sag Harbor L. I.

Dayton to Retire From Navy.

Washington, July 9.—Rear Admiral James H. Dayton, commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, according to orders issued by the navy department, will be relieved of duty on the 31st inst. and ordered home to await his retirement on the 26th of October. Rear Admiral William T. Swinburne, commanding the second squadron, succeeds him in chief command.

Safe Blowers Get $25,000.

New York, July 9.—Loot valued at $25,000 was secured by safe blowers who drilled their way through a 20 inch brick wall into the offices of the Diamond Point Pen company, in Peekman street, and then shattered the safes with dynamite. The police have no clue.

War in Central America.

Washington, July 9.—Nicaragua has taken up arms in support of Honduras, which has a revolutionary movement on its hands, according to a dispatch to the state department. An army is being recruited by Nicaragua and troops hurried forward with Maxim batteries.

ARTISTIC TASTE.

In This the French Are First and the Irish Come Next.

Artistic taste is due to temperament, and where this exists the simplest materials lend themselves to artistic combinations and beautiful effects.

The French excel in dainty, graceful designs because of their volatile, mirth loving temperaments. The Germans can never reach these heights because their temperaments are just the reverse, while it has been proved in several workrooms that, next to the French, the Irish temperament is the most artistic.

The more artistic the general training of a person the more ready are they to appreciate and profit by the fine productions of others; hence we are glad to see and grateful for the privilege of studying the "models" brought from Paris each season by the enterprising importers.

Twenty-five years ago in Paris and London, the houses, that catered to America and the colonies put aside for this trade any designs that were too extreme or "screaming" for the fastidious home buyers, says the Millinery Trade Review. But times have changed, and the American woman is now considered the best dressed in the world, and the leaders of American society are the women who dictate quite as much as the elite of France.

MINE TIMBERS.

They Add Eight Cents to the Cost of Each Ton of Anthracite.

The cost of every ton of anthracite is increased 8 cents by the expense of the mine timbers. To supply these timbers, says the Vegetarian Magazine, requires each year the product of approximately 150,000 acres of forest.

Timber is used for cross ties for tram roads in the main haulage ways, as wooden rollers and as props. A set of gangway timber consists of two legs, commonly nine or ten feet long and about thirteen inches in diameter, and a collar six or seven feet long. These sets are placed on an average at intervals of five feet. One gangway frequently contains 1,000 sets, and ten gangways to a colliery is not an unusual number.

The average life of the timber is hardly above two years. Forty-five per cent of the timbers are destroyed by decay, while breakage, wear and insects destroy the remainder. By peeling the timbers and properly seasoning them and especially by giving them a treatment in oils or chemical salts their length of service is materially increased.

The Marble and the Pencil.

The marble trick is as old as the days of Aristotle. Cross the middle and fore fingers and roll a marble between them. The marble will feel like two, because it is being felt in an unaccustomed way. If a pencil is drawn between the crossed fingers the one pencil will feel like parallel bars. The same illusion may be worked by placing the pencil between the lips and then moving the under lip to one side, causing the pencil to feel like two. More curious than any of these is the one where the forefinger is crossed over the little finger behind the other, two and then applied to the end of the nose. Not only can you feel two noses, but one of them seems to be about an inch longer than the other. This last sensation is caused by the fact that we do not ordinarily feel the edge of any object with these two fingers at the same time unless the part felt with the little finger projects beyond the part felt by the forefinger.—St. Louis Republic.

She Said So Anyway.

The young man who was endeavoring to win the favor of Bobby's pretty sister met the boy on the street one morning and greeted him with much cordiality.

"Er—do you think your sister was pleased to know I had called the other day?" he was at last forced to ask, bluntly, after several efforts to guide Bobby's conversation in that direction.

"Sure!" said Bobby, with gratifying promptness. "I know she was. I heard her say so.

Ink on Leather.

For ink spots on leather chairs wash the spots with milk, renewing the milk till it is no longer stained and the spot on the leather has disappeared. Then wash the leather with warm water, and when dry polish it with a very little linseed oil and vinegar mixed in equal parts. The ink stain should be removed as quickly as possible, for if allowed to dry and harden it is doubtful whether you will ever be able to entirely remove it.

MEET IN COLUMBUS

Prohibition National Convention Takes Place This Week.

BIG CROWD IS EXPECTED.

Four Former Presidential Candidates to Be Present—Detroit Man May Be Nominated For Presidency—Dickie Cited For Chairmanship.

Columbus, O., July 13.—Delegates are arriving today for the Prohibition national convention, which will be held on Wednesday and Thursday, and for the state Prohibition convention, which opened today. The two conventions will bring to the city several thousand persons, including delegates and visitors. Most of the state delegations to the national convention are expected by Thursday, and they will escorted to their hotels by a brass band seated upon a big water wagon. There will be a parade of all the convention hosts on Wednesday at noon.

Beginning tonight, there will be mass meetings every night at Memorial hall, where the conventions will assemble, addressed by leading Prohibition orators. Four former candidates for president will be heard Wednesday night. Former Governor J. P. St. John of Kansas, Joshua Levering of Maryland, John G. Woolley of Chicago and Dr. Silas C. Swallow of Pennsylvania.

Dickie's Name Mentioned.

The national executive and the general committees will meet on Thursday, at which time temporary officers will be chosen, subject to ratification by the convention. For temporary chairman there are under consideration President Samuel Dickie of Albion college, Mich.; Robert H. Patton, Springfield, Ill.; Colonel Frank Sibley of Arizona and Homer Castle of Pennsylvania.

Indications now point to an open fight for the nomination for president. There is on foot a movement among some of the leaders of the party to place a southern Democrat and a northern Republican on the ticket. Seaborn Wright of Georgia and Judge Samuel R. Artman of Indiana were consulted on the subject, but it is stated by National Chairman Charles R. Jones of Chicago that assurances have not been received from either that a nomination would be accepted.

Presidential Candidates.

Among the candidates for president who have been prominently mentioned are: Fred F. Wheeler, Los Angeles, Cal.; Daniel P. Sheen, Peoria, Ill.; Joseph P. Tracey, Detroit; Rev. W. P. Palmer, editor St. Louis Christian Advocate; Alfred L. Mannierre, New York, and J. B. Greenfill of Dallas, Tex., a former candidate for vice president.

"The platform will be brief and direct," said Chairman Jones. "The platform will denounce the Republican and the Democratic parties because of the failure of congress to put a stop to the shipment of liquor into Prohibition states. In the convention there will be about twenty-five platform makers, and each probably will have a draft of a platform. More planks will be offered than will be adopted by the resolutions committee, and fewer will be debated on the floor of the convention. I do not think any delegate will offer a resolution to indorse the Anti Saloon league."

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

General Esramus Blakeslee, soldier, minister, author and editor, and prominent in the Sunday school world as the author, editor and publisher of graded Sunday school lessons, is dead at his home in Brookline, Mass., after a brief illness.

August Hammer, twenty years of age, and Henry Rodku, twenty-two years of age, were drowned in the Ohio canal, at Cleveland, while in bathing. Rodku was taken with cramps. Hammer attempted to rescue him. Clasped in each other's arms, they drowned together.

Because Mrs. Roy Plum, nineteen years old, white, an attache of a carnival company, at Joplin Mo., resented his advances, Will Wilson, a negro, struck her a terrific blow over the left temple, killing her, tied a rope around the neck and dragged the body 300 feet along a railroad track. He was discovered just thirty minutes after the crime was committed.

With a series of dangerous forest fires scattered all along the Maine coast and raging, also, at various inland points, the situation is regarded as somewhat alarming. There have been no rains for more than a month, and under the scorching heat of the last two weeks the undergrowth in the Maine forests has become dry as tinder.

LAUNCH BLEW UP.

Four Men Drown Off Coast of Massachusetts.

TWO OF THE PARTY RESCUED

Were In Water Twelve Hours Before Picked Up by Fisherman—Severe Storm Caused Five Drownings In Harbor at Baltimore.

Marion, Mass., July 13.—Four prominent summer residents of this town and Falmouth met death through an explosion on board a forty-five foot launch off here at night. Two survivors were picked up after having been in the water for twelve hours.

The dead:

ROLAND WORTHINGTON, Boston, Mass.

JOHN T. TRULL, Woburn, Mass.

JOSEPH S. BEAL, Milton, Mass.

GEORGE SAVORY, Marblehead, captain of the launch.

The saved:

A. P. TARBELL, Marblehead, Mass.

EDWARD TUCKER, Boston, Mass.

Tucker, who was clinging to an oar, and Tarbell, who was supported by a life preserver, were able to swim, and they remained together until picked up by a lobster fisherman going out in the early morning to haul in his pots.

Neither of the survivors was able to give the cause of the explosion. Mr. Tarbell, who owned the launch, said that the boat started out from Marion on a short pleasure cruise and was well out in the middle of Buzzard's bay when the explosion occurred. Savory, the engineer, was suddenly blown into the air and was probably dead when he struck the water. The boat caught fire immediately, and Tarbell called to his comrades to leap overboard. He strapped a life preserver about himself before he leaped, and Mr. Tucker, who is connected with the Boston banking firm of Rollins & Son, seized an oar and followed. So far as they knew, none of the others in the party jumped. Either they could not swim and preferred to cling to the disabled launch until help came, or else they were stunned by the explosion.

Baltimore, July 13.—Five men are known to have been drowned, and three women and a man are believed to have met a like fate when a very severe wind and rain storm passed over the harbor of this city. Eight men in a rowboat were endeavoring to reach Fort McHenry when one of them, Peter Dietrich, terrified by the storm, while attempting to leap overboard, upset the boat. He, William Delacour, Joseph Lohmiller and Edward Simmons were drowned. The others righted the boat and reached the fort safely.

The overturning of a boat in the Spring Gardens brought death by drowning to John Harrington.

The finding of an overturned rowboat in the Patapsco river in which three women and a man were seen shortly before the storm leads to the belief that all four were drowned. A woman's hat was found in this boat, with another floating nearby. None of the bodies have been recovered.

Reports are coming from various points in Maryland, showing damage by lightning and rain during the storm.

Bankers' Convention Over.

Detroit, Mich., July 13.—The members of the Michigan Bankers' association and their wives and daughters have arrived home from the twenty-second annual convention at Marquette. The final business session was held en route. Leon Chichester, president of the First National bank of Petoskey, was elected president of the association, and next year's convention will go to his home.

Falls on Knife; Death Results.

Detroit, Mich., July 13.—Walter J. Pennington, eleven years old, the son of James Pennington, 247 Sandwich street, Windsor, met his death in a peculiar manner at his father's summer home, Cedar Beach, Kingsville, Ont. The lad was out a mile from the house with a small brother and sister. While whittling a stick, he mounted a slippery log to get some berries and almost immediately fell to the ground, landing on his knife, the point of which penetrated his heart. Death was instantaneous.

Paper Is Hundred Years Old.

St. Louis, July 13.—In commemoration of 100 years of continuous publication, the St. Louis Republic Sunday issued a special number of 192 pages, including a reproduction of the first number. The Republic is said to be the only paper in west of the Mississippi river that has completed 100 years.

BIG FIRE AT THE SOO

Flames Threatened Business Section For Time.

LOSSES MAY TOTAL $100,000.

Originated in Department Store and Began With Terrific Explosion. Union Depot and Freight Sheds at Carleton Completely Destroyed.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., July 13.—The city has experienced a disastrous fire. For a time the business section was threatened. The fire originated in the department store of Blumrosen & Co. The city was first startled by a terrific explosion, and a few seconds later flames shot through the roof and windows of the store. A fire alarm was sounded, but before the department arrived the place was a mass of flames.

The fire assumed such proportions that help was summoned from the Canadian Soo and Fort Brady, and the combined efforts of the three departments were centered on the business section, which was threatened. After two hours' hard struggle the flames were placed under control.

The Miller building, next to Blumrosen's, containing the Martins millinery store and Maloney & Sons liquor dealers, was also destroyed. The Haller building and Price Harrison block were also damaged by the fire.

Sparks soaring through the air set fire to the residence of M. J. Weaver, more than two blocks distant, and the house was almost destroyed. The exact amount of the damage cannot be estimated, but it is expected it will reach $100,000. Several firemen were injured, but none fatally.

Carleton, Mich., July 13.—Sparks from a passing train are believed to have caused a fire which has completely destroyed the Union depot and freight sheds here. The structure, a frame affair, together with all the freight stored in it, and owned by the Pere Marquette and Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroads, was wiped out by the flames. The loss is estimated at between $3,000 and $4,000, although it is possible that the amount will be much larger, as the contents of the freight sheds are not definitely known as to value.

The volunteer fire department was inadequate. Some difficulty was experienced by the fire fighters in checking the spread to adjoining buildings, but citizens of the town enlisted with the volunteers, and the loss was confined to the depot.

IN JEALOUS RAGE

Flint Man Attacks People in Cleveland, Then Shoots Self.

Cleveland, July 13.—Anthony Hassler, twenty-eight years of age, of Flint, Mich., shot and wounded his wife, fatally wounded her sister, cursed his mother-in-law to be injured, shot at his father-in-law and two unknown men and then attempted to end his own life here.

Hassler and his wife were separated, and the police say, inflamed with jealousy over a report that his wife was about to seek a divorce, he went to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Kilger and, meeting in the front door, fired upon her. She was shot through the left shoulder. Hassler, the police say, then shot her sister, Mrs. Rose Herrman, through the breast, fatally wounding her. As Kilger, the father-in-law, and the two unknown men callers at the home attempted to escape through a side door, Hassler fired on them, but missed. While Mrs. Kilger was running to get away she fell and struck her head against a table, sustaining a severe injury. The police say Hassler then went to the street and fired a bullet into his right temple. As he lay bleeding upon the pavement, Hassler again put the revolver to his head and fired. He is not expected to live and is under police guard at a hospital.

Spoiled Musicians.

Rubinstein disapproved of marriage for musicians. Just before his death he spoke sadly of his Russian lady pupils. "What have I wasted all my time on them for?" he asked irritably. "Every one married! It's too provoking! Here they are, married forever for art life! What did they study for?"

The London Musical World remarks that "those who ask why we have no great lady composers may be left to think on these things."

Among life's ups and downs the most annoying are keeping expenses down and appearances up.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

BIG RELAY RACE.

Y. M. C. A. Boys Will Carry Message From New York to Chicago.

New York, July 13.—Over a course nearly a thousand miles long, 2,000 boy athletes, members of the Young Men's Christian association, will race against time this week in an effort to break all records between New York and Chicago. The boys are to carry a message from the mayor of New York to the mayor of Chicago.

A relay race so extensive as this has probably never before been attempted, and interest in the affair is great, especially in athletic circles. Each of the runners will carry the message half a mile, and the average time for each half mile will be about 2 minutes 38 seconds, according to the tests that have been made.

At 10 a. m. next Wednesday the first boy will be sent away from the starting point at the city hall here. He will be handed a silver tube, containing the mayor's message, and then a pistol shot will start him on the first stage of the journey, the course from the city hall being up Broadway.

How enthusiastically the members of the Young Men's Christian association have entered into the contest is evidenced by the large number who made application to participate. More than 100,000 were received. Each branch of the association in the cities along the course have furnished the runners for its district.

The course has been carefully laid out from government survey maps, the easiest and straightest highways between here and Chicago being selected.

OBALDIA ELECTED.

Panama Election Passes Off Without Trouble.

Panama City, Panama, July 13.—The presidential election throughout the Isthmus of Panama passed off Sunday without disturbance. Senor Don Jose Domingo de Obaldia, formerly minister to the United States, and acting president during the absence of Dr. Amador, was elected president. The supporters of Richardo Arias, who recently withdrew his candidacy, decided not to vote, and as a consequence no opponent to Senor Obaldia was placed in nomination.

Notwithstanding this, a large number of voters registered their choice and demonstrated the overwhelming majority of Senor Obaldia's supporters. From all parts of the republic news had reached here that the elections were carried on in an orderly manner and that Senor Obaldia received all the votes cast.

At the conclusion of the balloting, enthusiastic crowds, headed by a band of music, paraded the streets of Panama, cheering continuously for the newly elected president. There appeared to be an absolute absence of ill feeling between the former supporters of Senor Arias and the adherents of Senor Obaldia. Never before has such a friendly spirit been shown so quickly after an election.

RIDDER FOR BRYAN.

Staats Zeitung Editor Will Support Nebraskan's Campaign.

Lincoln, Neb., July 13.—"You may rely on the sincere and earnest support of the New York Staats Zeitung.

"HERMAN RIDDER."

This telegram, sent by the New York editor from some Kansas town, the name of which could not be deciphered, has been received by W. J. Bryan at Fairview, and, although Mr. Bryan made no comment, his pleasure was evident in the buoyant tone in which he read the statement.

Mr. Ridder, before the Denver convention, called here with the announced intention of asking Bryan to withdraw from the field, on the grounds, in Mr. Ridder's opinion, that Mr. Bryan could not win in November. Lincoln Democrats declare that Ridder did not press this point, however, on visiting Fairview. He left Lincoln in a happy frame of mind, with Mr. Bryan's "O. K." on his free wood pulp plank.

Dr. P. L. Hall, Nebraska's new member of the national committee, has been discussing with Mr. Bryan arrangements for Mr. Bryan's meeting with the committee here on Tuesday. The qualifications of a number of men for the position of chairman of the committee were talked over informally, but their names could not be learned, either from Mr. Bryan or Dr. Hall.

Mr. Bryan has been urged by some of his friends to spend the remainder of the summer at some resort, where he could eat and gather strength for the fall campaign, but he much prefers to remain near his chickens and orchards.

Bishop Curtis Is Dead.

Baltimore, July 13.—Right Rev. A. A. Curtis, formerly Roman Catholic bishop of Wilmington, Del., and for many years vicar general of Baltimore, is dead at St. Agnes sanitarium here. He has been under treatment at that sanitarium for cancer of the stomach, and his death has been for some days momentarily expected. Bishop Curtis was born in Maryland in 1831.

G. B. Burhans testifies after four years.

G. B. Burhans, of Carlisle Center, N. Y., writes: "About four years ago I wrote you stating that I had been entirely cured of a severe kidney trouble by taking less than two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure. It entirely stopped the brick dust sediment, and pain and symptoms of kidney disease disappeared. I am glad to say that I have never had a return of any of those symptoms during the four years that have elapsed and I am evidently cured to stay cured, heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Cure to any one suffering from kidney or bladder trouble." Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

"A repeating rifle—Robbing the same place twice.

IT CAN'T BE BEAT.

The best of all teachers is experience. C. M. Harden, of Silver City, North Carolina, says: "I find Electric Bitters does all that's claimed for it. For Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles it can't be beat. I have tried it and find it a most excellent medicine." Mr. Harden is right; it's the best of all medicines also for weakness, lame back, all run down conditions. Best too for chills and malaria. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 50c.

Ideals of character are the conscience of society.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup acts gently upon the bowels and thereby drives the cold out of the system and at the same time it allays inflammation and stops irritation. Children like it. Sold by all druggists.

During the summer kidney irregularities are often caused by excessive drinking or being overheated. Attend to the kidneys at once by using Foley's Kidney Cure. Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

No man finds fame by hunting it.

There is one preparation known to pay that will promptly help the stomach. This is Kodol. Kodol digests all classes of food, and it does it throughly, so that the use of Kodol for a time will without doubt help any one who has stomach disorders or stomach trouble. Take Kodol to day and continue it for the short time that is necessary to give you complete relief. Kodol is sold by all druggists.

This is what Hon. Jake Moore, State Warden of Georgia, says of Kodol for Dyspepsia: "E. O. DeWitt & Co. Chicago, Ill.,—Dear Sirs—I have suffered more than twenty years with indigestion. About eighteen months ago I had grown so much worse that I could not digest a crust of dry bread and could not retain anything on my stomach. I lost 25 lbs. in fact I made up my mind that I could not live but a short time, when a friend of mine recommended Kodol. I consented to try it to please him and was better in one day. I now weigh more than I ever did in my life and am in better health than for many years. Kodol did it. I keep a bottle constantly, and write this hoping humanity may be benefited. Yours very truly, Jake C. Moore, Atlanta, Aug. 10, 1904." Sold by all druggists.

Slight of hand—Refusing a marriage proposal.

Bert Barber, of Elton, Wis., says: "I have only taken four doses of your Kidney and Bladder Pills and they have done for me more than any other medicine has ever done. I am still taking the pills as I want a perfect cure." Mr. Barber refers to DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. Sold by all druggists.

"My child was burned terribly about the face, neck and chest. I applied Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The pain ceased and the child sank into a restful sleep." Mrs. Nancy M. Hanson, Hamburg N. Y.

Saving the Company.

By CARLETON HAZZARD.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press

After a long line of incompetent stenographers Bradley congratulated himself when Alice Fuller took her place at the typewriter desk, and at though by magic the crooked places were made straight.

So quietly did the girl slip into the routine of the office and so unostentatiously did she accomplish results that Arthur Bradley did not realize all that she was doing. He had only the pleasant feeling that at last the office was running straight, and, manlike, he took the credit to himself.

It had been a struggle to get the office going at all, for the firm was in opposition to the trust, and everything possible was done to break up the newly established branch office.

More than once Bradley had narrowly escaped some trap laid for him, but for every blow struck at him he gave back as good. The letters from the home office were encouraging and intimated that if he would round out the first year there would be an increase of salary as well as the present of a block of stock.

The biggest feather in his cap was when the home office turned over to him the task of securing a contract for some $2,000,000 worth of material.

"Such big contracts are usually handled from the home office," he explained to Alice Fuller as he gave her the letter with instructions to place it in the private letter file in the safe. "If they turn this matter over to me it is a sign that they have faith in my judgment. It's going to be a ticklish matter to figure on all that material at a price that will be low enough to capture the contract and still give us as much of a profit as possible."

"They probably realize that you are close to the contract, and they know that they can trust you," answered Alice. "It shows that this branch is becoming important."

She went quietly about her work, but there was a happy light in her eyes, for she was as much pleased at this sign of confidence as was Bradley himself.

Alice was not a girl of impulses, but she had come to have more than a liking for Bradley, and she took a pride in his success.

The week that followed was a busy one. Bradley figured far into the night on the problems of cost, and each morning he gave to Alice the results of his work, to be tabulated on the machine and filed in the safe until the figures should be complete. It was weary work with all the specifications and blanks, but at last the estimate was complete, and Bradley took it on to New York in person for the approval of the home office.

He was jubilant on his return. The president of the company had congratulated him on the excellence of his work and had hinted that the new London office might be opened soon with Bradley in charge.

But the jubilation was short lived, for two days later a long letter came from the New York office instructing the branch to alter the estimates in accordance with a set of figures some 10 per cent in advance of the original estimate.

"Here's a job for you," growled Bradley as he took the paper to Alice's desk. "I'll have to do as the home office says, but it's throwing away the contract and my chance of promotion."

"Are you certain that it is the order of the New York office?" asked Alice as she took up the sheets. "You know that this contract will mean a great deal to the trust if they are able to take it away from us. It means a great deal more to us to retain it."

"That's just it," complained Bradley. "They know that if we lose this contract we lose our fight for an independent existence and shall have to sell out to the trust at their own price. If we get it, it will mean that we can beat them and hold our own. Yet they raise my figures."

"And it would be worth a great effort to beat us," went on Alice. "Suppose that the trust people had some one planted in the home office who could copy the figures and send them to the trust officers. Suppose, too, that they supplied the people with our letter heads and envelopes. We would be unsuspicious and change the bid in accordance with instructions, only to find out that we had been duped after the bids had been opened and the contract awarded to the trust. I think you will find that they have bid only slightly lower than this, but much higher than your original figures."

"That's possible," admitted Bradley. "I'll wire the home office and find out."

"And warn the traitor in the office that his plans have been discovered?" reminded Alice. "They will then bid below your figures and get the contract anyway. It would be best to hold on and take chances by yourself. It will be the only way to hold the contract."

"If I only could be sure," exclaimed Bradley. "But I can't act on mere guesswork."

"This is something more than guesswork," insisted Alice. "In the first place, this letter is mailed from the Madison square station. That is in the building in which the trust has its main office. Our letters all come from the Wall street station, four or five miles away and nearest our office. They are using the same make of typewriter President Hammond's stenographer uses, but it is not the same machine. On the letters from our office there is a piece broken from the cross of every 't.'"

"I think you are right!" cried Bradley as he compared two letters. "We'll pop in the original estimate, and when they come to open the bids out our trust friends will have a dozen fits."

"But answer this letter and say that changes have been made in the bid in accordance with instructions and that the bid has been submitted," directed Alice. "Then the traitor will not become alarmed and notify the trust to put in the lower bid."

"You're the general," cried Bradley admiringly. "I am only the second in command until this is straightened out. Do just as you please."

That evening a letter went to the home office reporting that the changes had been made as directed, but Bradley personally took to the office of the contracting company the original bid.

Two days later a long telegram arrived from the head office demanding the explanation of the changes to which Bradley made reference. It was Alice who wrote the telegram in reply, explaining what those changes were, and who wrote the second message declaring it to be impossible to alter the bid to the old figures, as they directed by wire.

The next morning President Hammond stamped into the office shortly after Bradley had come in.

"I came out on the fast train to see what it all means," he cried. "You have ruined the company by letting yourself be fooled in this fashion."

For reply Bradley brought out the letter he had received. It startled Hammond, for beyond question it was on the paper of the company and not on a cheap imitation. He sighed as he laid it down.

"I suppose that you cannot be blamed," he said dispiritedly, "but it means that the company is smashed by a trick of the trust."

"Not yet," declared Bradley, with a laugh. "Miss Fuller's quick eyes saw through the trick. We took a chance and put in the original bid. I think you will find that we are the lowest bidders, for the trust felt safe in keeping up their bid."

"If we win, you can have the London office next month," declared Hammond.

"Excuse me a moment," said Bradley as he slipped out to the outer office.

"It's a go," he announced beamingly. "Miss Fuller says that she will come—as Mrs. Bradley."

"Rather sudden?" asked Hammond.

"It's sudden only in the recent realization that I have loved her ever since she came into the office," explained Bradley. "It took this crisis to force the fact home."

Alice looked in at the doorway.

"The Wallington people telephone that your estimate has won the contract," she reported demurely, and to her great embarrassment Bradley kissed her under the approving eyes of the president of the company.

"We've tricked the tricky trust," he cried, "and we're going to London on our honeymoon."

"On my yacht," added the president. "We can't do too much for the girl whose clever brain saved the company. You're a lucky man, Bradley."

"Don't I know it?" cried Bradley. "I knew it first."

Lungs and Long Life.

One of the most remarkable cases of longevity on record was that of an Englishman born in 1483, whose delicate appearance made all the doctors give him up when he was in the cradle. His chest was so narrow, says the report, that he seemed to have difficulty in breathing. Well, this young moribund, condemned by the doctors to die in short order, died in 1651 at the age of 169. He saw the reign of ten kings. Secundi Hango, consul of Venice at Smyrna, measured only fifty-seven centimeters around the chest, and one of his lungs was diseased. Nevertheless he lived to the age of 115 years. He was married five times and had forty-nine children. When he was 100 years old he got his wisdom teeth. When he was 110 his hair turned black again. At 112 his eyebrows and his beard turned black.

Lucky In One Way.

"The late Valerian Gribayedoff," said a Chicago art editor, "was one of the first American newspaper sketch artists. On that account he leaves behind him a famous name. As Gribayedoff said himself the last time I visited him in Paris, his fame was due not to his great artistic skill, but to his luck in coming first. And he added, with a laugh, that it was always lucky to come early and avoid the rush, instancing the case of a restaurant on the Boule Mich, in the Latin quarter, where a young poet had a large tureen of soup spilled over his coat one evening. The waiter, in response to the savage outcries of the poet, said good naturedly:

"'Oh, well, you needn't alarm yourself, sir. There's no harm done. Our soup never stains after half past 7.'"

All In Red.

The playwrights over their supper of lobster boasted. "I," said the greatest of them, with a complacent glance at the two pure pearls in his shirt front, "decree the color of every actress' frock."

"That is carrying the regard for detail too far," said a playwright who had failed.

"Not a bit of it," said the other. "If I didn't decide on the color of the dresses the stage manager would. Why, that must always be done. Otherwise, in their overmastering desire to draw all eyes to themselves, every actress would wear bright red. In my first play the frocks were forgotten in the general excitement, and at the first dress rehearsal all six actresses came on in the discovery scene in scarlet gowns."—New York Press.

A Problem In Numbers.

No one is known to have succeeded in finding two integral numbers such that the sum of their cubes would produce the cube of a whole number. The cubes of the first ten numbers give the following series: 1-8-27-64-125-216-343-512-729-1,000. This series may be prolonged indefinitely. The problem would then be to find two members of the series such that their sum is just equal to another member. Adding 125 and 216, we get 341, which is certainly pretty close to 343. Again, adding 216 and 512, we obtain 728, which is within a single unit of 729, another member of the series. Another example of being very close, but not exact, is that 729 plus 1,000 gives 1,729, which is but a single unit more than 1,728, the cube of 12. It will thus be seen that the first twelve cubes yield two cases where the approximation is but a unit out of the way. As the possible cubes are infinite in number, it may seem worth while to prosecute the search.—Scientific American.

Trapped by Its Portrait.

If an old English writer be true in his observations, the pheasant must be a very simple bird, for he declares that it puts its head in the ground and thinks that all its body is then hidden. The same author says that it was also captured by another curious plan. A picture of the bird was painted on cloth and then placed in a spot where it was sure of being seen. By and by a silly pheasant coming along catches sight of the portrait and goes up to have a close view of the new neighbor. While engaged in inspecting the canvas the fowler draws near from behind and throws his net over the unwary art student.

Men Are So Unreasonable.

The young wife cannot understand why, if she only has a vase of fresh flowers on the table at breakfast, her husband should find fault just because the steak is burned.—Somerville Journal.

REPORT

of School Meeting Held Last Evening at Library.

THREE TRUSTEES RE-ELECTED FOR THE ENSUING YEAR.

The Matter of Fire Escapes Was Brought Before the Board.

TECUMSEH, MICH., July 13, '08.

The Board of Education of Tecumseh wish to report that contracts have been made for the ensuing year with an exceptionally strong corps of teachers and take pleasure in being able to make the statement that the school year just passed has been one of the most successful in the history of the Tecumseh public schools. The board looks with much pleasure and satisfaction to the splendid results achieved by our superintendent and entire force of teachers, and we have reason to believe that the patrons have been more than satisfied with the work accomplished. It might be well to mention the fact that the graduating class of thirty-three members is by far the largest number ever graduated from our public schools, many of whom will enter higher institutions of learning. We might add that during the past year the public schools of Tecumseh have again been placed upon the university list of approved schools for a term of three years, showing how well we stand at our Michigan university.

An attendance of seventy-five non-resident or foreign pupils from the surrounding towns not only speaks well for the reputation of our schools but also brings in a large and substantial revenue from tuition, amounting to $1,112.13, which is the largest amount ever received from foreign pupils in one year since the schools were organized.

Another fact which might be mentioned, is, it will be noticed from the report to follow, that our taxes for the support of our schools have been the smallest ever known since they were established.

The large sum of money received from the state primary school fund and railroad tax during the past year and money on hand enabled the board to pay $7,825 teachers, wages and the entire running expense of the schools, where usually about $9,000 is raised, during the past year only $1,650 was raised by tax, which amount was used for library expenses and janitors' salaries. Therefore, practically no money was raised by tax for school purposes. Now, for the coming year the board, realizing the importance of keeping our taxes to the lowest possible limit and maintain the schools at the highest possible standard, have made careful estimates for expenditures for the ensuing year and respectfully submit the same, also the reports for the past year, for your careful consideration.

The school census just taken according to the law shows that we now have of school age in district No. 7, males 282, females 244, total 526; number one year ago 531, a loss of 5.

The trustees whose terms of office expire tonight are S. W. Anderson, J. H. Smith, Frank Hammond for two years.

The statement of receipts and expenditures for the past year are as follows:

J. H. SMITH
School Dis't. Treas.

The trustees whose terms of office expired were S. W. Anderson, J. H. Smith and Frank Hammond; they were re-elected. The board have been notified by the committee appointed by the village council, to erect at once two fire escapes, upon the central building. As there is no money on hand for this purpose it was necessary to vote a specific sum for this purpose. After a full discussion a motion was made by Dr. North that the matter be referred to the board of trustees with power to act in case they find that the same must be erected and the district hereby authorizes the trustees to borrow money in the name of the district, to pay for the same, the amount not exceeding $1,000. Motion was carried.

The attention was called to the fact that last year $300.00 was paid for insurance, which had been overlooked in the estimates, and as the bill for last winter's coal supply came in after the annual meeting and they had $600.00 extra coal bills to meet making $900.00 for coal and insurance more than was estimated. This has all been paid and they have on hand next winter's supply of coal all paid for.

writes P. S. Baxter, Kyneville, Fla.

Tecumseh won the second game from Bay City today by a score of 3 to 4. The game was exciting throughout but grew more so after the sixth inning when the score was tied. Wagner featured with a fine one handed catch. Vorpagel also made a good running catch which put Newcombe out. Play was interrupted many times by disputes with the umpire.

In the sixth inning Bishop was replaced by Lagoe, who allowed but one hit during the remainder of the game. The umpire threw away a ball which he alleged was soft. Wagner disputed this and threw the ball back at which the umpire tossed it to the bench. At this, Bishop threw it at the umpire and was put out of the game for his misconduct. The game proceeded again, but something appeared to amuse the fans. Finally someone called out, that if Joe Yorke would remove the balls from his blouse, they would not become soft.

Bay City did not score until the third inning when Lovett scored on Newcombe's sacrifice and single by Wood and McNutt; in the fourth Bensley scored on doubles by himself and Lovett. Again in the eighth, Blair scored on a pass, a fielder's choice and McKean's two bagger.

The Indians got one in the first when McDonald scored on a single, Webster's error, a sacrifice and an infield out; one in the sixth by Somerlot on a single and Wagner's double and two in the seventh by Lagoe and Mitchell. Miller was safe on first on an error by Webster, Mitchell singled, Lagoe sacrificed, but was safe on an error. Miller was out between third and the home plate, but McDonald's two-bagger saved Mitchell and Lagoe. Score as follows:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Tecumseh	1	0	0	0	0	1	2	0	*	4	6	1

Batteries—Wood and Newcombe; Bishop, Lagoe and Mitchell. Two-base hits—McKean, Lovett, Bensley, Wagner, McDonald. Sacrifice hits—Newcombe, Reddick, Somerlot, Lagoe. Hits—Off Bishop, 5 in 5; Lagoe, 1 in 4. Left on bases—Bay City 6; Tecumseh 4. Struck out—By Wood 6; Bishop 2; Lagoe 3. Time—1:50. Umpire—Yorke.

Last Saturday the Tecumseh Indians played against the Bay City aggregation for the third game, losing to them by a score of 2 and 1. Maire of the Boston Americans pitched the game for Bay City, allowing but 4 hits. The game has been protested on account of Maire playing with them, as he has not signed, with that team.

Lagoe for Tecumseh pitched an excellent game.

Tecumseh scored in the seventh inning, when Somerlot singled and scored when Streeter singled and McNutt made a poor throw from center field. Twice after that the Indians were prevented from scoring by the umpires rank decisions.

That Yorke was playing against Tecumseh can quite plainly be seen, as he received a telegram from Reynolds in the forenoon telling him not to allow Maire to play with Bay City.

Bay City scored in the fifth on singles by Lovett and Newcombe, a fielder's choice and an error and in the eighth when Blair was safe on Vorpagel's error, advanced on an infield out and reached third on Bensley's single and scored on Mitchell's throw to second to called Bensley. Score as follows:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Tecumseh	0	0	0	0	0	0	1	0	0	1	4	3

Batteries—Maire and Newcombe; Lagoe and Mitchell. Two-base hits—Maire Sacrifice hits Webster. Left on bases—Bay City 9; Tecumseh 2. Struck out—By Maire 5; Lagoe 3. Time—1:50. Umpire—Yorke.

Tecumseh won the game from Bay City on Sunday easily, with Doty in the box for the Indians. Dailey for Bay City was driven out of the box, Wedder replacing him. The game was characterized with numerous hits and many errors. Score as follows:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Bay City	0	2	0	0	0	0	3	0	0	5	10	7

Batteries—Doty and Mitchell; Dailey, Weeder and Newcombe.

Tecumseh took the second game at Bay City yesterday by hitting Woods in bunches. The Indians made many brilliant field plays, having no errors. Score:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Bay City	0	0	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	2	8	3

Batteries—Holmquist and Mitchell; Woods and Newcombe.

The Tecumseh Independent team crossed bats with the Manchester at Manchester last Saturday, and defeated them with the score of 9 and 10 a rather loosely played game Manchester having 12 errors and Tecumseh 4. Charles Hanna pitched for Tecumseh striking out 13 men and was well supported and Tecumseh won easily, they featured with one fast double from Boland to Collier. Score as follows;

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Manchester	0	0	0	1	0	0	0	4	0	2	9	12

A Prescription for Constipation

Eminent medical authorities agree that ninety per cent of their patients suffer from ailments due to clogged bowels (Constipation).

The bowels become clogged with impurities and body poisons, causing biliousness, colds, stomach trouble, headache, rheumatism, deranged liver and kidneys, etc.

A Tonic Laxative is prescribed in nearly every case. Those who need a laxative may use this prescripton with the assurance that no harmful results will follow its use. It has been given to the Public in tablet form and is known as Iron-ox (Laxative Iron-ox Tablets) and are put up in aluminum pocket cases.

The formula is wrapped around the case. The action of each ingredient is explained, that you may understand why Laxative Iron-ox Tablets are the safest Laxative to use; they strengthen the bowels, aid digestion, and keep the liver and kidneys healthy and active. We have secured the selling agency for Laxative Iron-ox Tablets and recommend them to our customers.

LETTER

Received From B. A. Garlinghouse of Jackson.

THANKING THE FIRE DEPARTMENT FOR THEIR WORK ON HIS BUILDING.

President Combs' Answers.

Pres. John Combs & Councilmen;
Tecumseh, Mich.

Gentlemen:

I desire to congratulate you for maintaining so competent and efficient fire department, and at the same time wish to express my appreciation to the Chief and aides, and all who so earnestly worked to control the fire which was caused by combustion of fire works, and thereby rendered it dangerous for each and every one fighting the flames. The successful way in which this fire was handled saved my property with but slight damage. I can only repeat what has been said at different times, that, "Tecumseh people never do things by halves."

Thanking each and every one of you who assisted, I beg to remain,

Yours very truly,
B. A. GARLINGHOUSE.

B. A. Garlinghouse, Gen. Mgr.,
Jackson Fence Co.,
Jackson, Mich.

Dear sir:—Yours of the 9th inst. at hand, and I am pleased to acknowledge your kind expressions concerning the Tecumseh Fire Department. It will afford me pleasure to convey to this Department your hearty appreciation of the services rendered during the recent fire in your building on Evans street. Because of the fire works contained therein, it was a dangerous and stubborn fire to control, and our Fire Department may well feel proud of the manner in which it was handled and subdued. If you will pardon an expression from myself concerning this matter, I am glad to say to you that in my judgement few towns have a better volunteer department than our village. They have done most efficient work, have responded with wonderful promptness, and have made remarkably quick runs at all fires. We have been very fortunate and free from disasterous fires for several years, which in my judgement has been largely due to the efficiency of our Fire Department, and their promptness in responding to every call.

I thank you in behalf of our Fire Department, and our Council for your very kind expressions and appreciation. Wishing you continued success, I beg to remain

Yours truly,
JOHN H. COMBS,
President of Village.

Blue Ribbon Races at Detroit.

The arrival at the state fair grounds of W. L. Snow and his stable of trotters and pacers is of much interest to those who are awaiting the annual Blue Ribbon meeting, July 27 to 31. Mr. Snow has about twenty horses in all and the one that is being watched particularly is Handy J., now an equal favorite with the Geers pair in the M. & M. As a three-year-old in 1906, Handy J., trotted close to 2:10. They let up on him so that he might develop in full strength and power, and this year he is one of the grandest of the green trotters. At Cleveland, where Handy J., has done most of his work, they look for him to win the $10,000 stake at Detroit.

W. J. Andrews will be in Detroit in a few days with his wonderful lot of fast ones. The queen is Sweet Marie, 2:02, and Mr. Andrews is trying to have a special event made for her so that she can give the state fair grounds track a fast trotting record. Another one, Sonoma Girl, 2:05¼, is the winner of last year's M. & M. and considered by many as fast as any trotter in the land. She will start against Highball in the 2:06 trot at Detroit.

Herald Office Open.

The HERALD office will be open every Saturday night at 7 o'clock for the remainder of the evening to accommodate those who desire to pay for the HERALD. All accounts must be paid at once. Those who are in arrears kindly call and settle.

THE REMEDY THAT DOES.

"Dr. King's New Discovery is the remedy that does the healing others promise but fail to perform," says Mrs. E. R. Pierson, of Auburn Centre, Pa." It is curing me of throat and lung trouble of long standing, that other treatments relieved only temporarily. New Discovery is doing me so much good that I feel confident its continued use for a reasonable length of time will restore me to perfect health." This renowned cough and cold remedy and throat and lung healer is sold at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

ROUND ABOUT US.

Farmers are constantly being urged to put their name in a conspicuous place on their farm so that passers-by may know whose place it is. No stranger ever passes a well kept farm but that he wonders who lives there. A nice idea is to give the farm an appropriate name. It shows the owner is not ashamed of his property.—Ex.

Samuel Seizert, who lives about 4½ miles northeast of town, had quite an accident Saturday morning. He was mowing and the horses, a young team, after stirring up a bumble bees' nest, became unmanageable and Mr. Seizert was thrown to the ground, rendering him unconscious. At first it was thought that he was only slightly hurt, but when Dr. Lamley was called it was found that Mr. Seizert was injured internally. At present he is doing as well as can be expected.—Blissfield Advance.

Robert Burgess of Bankers was the victim of a painful accident on the Fourth. He had mounted an old breech-loading shotgun on a block of wood and was using it for a cannon to show his children how to celebrate the Fourth in a good old style. After putting in an extra charge of powder he stooped over to fire the gun when it exploded and he received the charge in his face. It is thought that the breech-pin came loose. The charge just missed his eyes and filled the lower part of his face with the powder, badly burning it and making a serious and painful wound. Had the charge been directed an inch higher he would undoubtedly have lost his eyesight, and he was fortunate to have escaped that danger.—Hillsdale Standard.

TWO RUNAWAYS.

A man from the country had untied his horse that had been hitched in front of Orr's, yesterday morning, when the animal became frightened at an automobile and started to run. In front of Hick's store it ran into a hitching post, smashing one of the back wheels.

J. R. Keeney's horse became frightened at a baby carriage Saturday evening, when he was driving home from the farm, and ran against a tree in front of the Stacyhome, throwing Mr. Keeny's son, John, out. No one was hurt, and the carriage was but slightly broken.

HERE'S THE PROOF

BUT BESIDES CATARRH, HYOMEI CURES GRIP, COUGHS AND COLDS, CROUP AND ASTHMA

Read: If You are a Sufferer from Catarrh, Reason and Reflect.

"My wife and I will swear that Hyomei cured me of the worst case of catarrh that ever existed. I used to cough constantly at night, and had a dropping in the throat, which kept me awake a great deal. I raised thick phlegm, and was in a horrible condition. However, I am entirely cured solely through the use of Hyomei."

Dr. Philip Z. Hart, Laconia, N. H.

Reader, this is one of thousands of testimonials praising the marvelous curative power of Hyomei. If you are a sufferer, why not try it? C. A. Wright & Son guarantees it, and will refund your money if it fails to cure. Hyomei is not a stomach nostrum; it is dry antiseptic and medicated air, and all you have to do to cure any disease of the nose, throat or lungs, is to breathe it in through the Hyomei inhaler. A Hyomei outfit, including a scientific inhaler, only costs $1.00. Get one today. Subsequent treatment is only 50 cents a bottle. Get one now C. A. Wright & Son's drug store, takes all the risk. They guarantee it.

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

War Against Consumption.

All nations are endeavoring to check the ravages of consumption, the "white plague" that claims so many victims each year. Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs and colds perfectly and you are in no danger of consumption. Do not risk your health by taking some unknown preparation when Foley's Honey and Tar is safe and certain in results. The genuine is in a yellow package Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

A man may deceive himself, but he never fools destiny.

The older a man grows, the longer he looks at a contract before signing it.

Can't look well, eat well or feel well with impure blood feeding your body. Keep the blood pure with Burdock Bitters. Eat simple, take exercise, keep clean and you will have long life.

The most becoming tie for young ladies—Modesty.

We wonder if there is anyone who would accept a million dollars with the agreement that he would give up his life at the end of a year?

Hives, eczema, itch or salt rheum sets you crazy. Can't bear the touch of your clothing. Doan's Ointment cures the most obstinate cases. Why suffer. All druggists sell it.

Trying times—Going to the dressmaker's.

Quick relief for Asthma Sufferers.

Foley's Honey and Tar affords immediate relief to asthma sufferers in the worst stages and if taken in time will effect a cure. Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Where to recover yourself—At the tailor's.

The older a man grows, the fewer adjectives he uses.

Don't use harsh physics. The reaction weakens the bowels, leads to chronic constipation. Get Doan's Regulets. They operate easily, tone the stomach cure constipation.

No man can be satisfactory. If he is accommodating, others will say he expects a whole lot of accommodation in return.

GIVING OUT.

Around all day with an aching back;
Can't rest at night;
Enough to make any one "give out."
Doan's Kidney Pills will give renewed life.
They will cure the backache;
Cure every kidney ill.
Here is Tecumseh proof that this is so.

John B. Smith, debuty sheriff, living on East Chicago Avenue, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I experienced a great deal of suffering from pains in the small of my back, through the loins and about the kidneys and when an attack was present it was hard for me to do my work. On bending over, I would be seized with dizzy spells, when spots of fire would flash before my eyes. I was restless at night, and in the morning would get up feeling tired and unrefreshed. I doctored a great deal, also used a number of remedies, but received no permanent benefit. Finally I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and the statements made concerning them were so convincing that I was induced to procure a box at Wright and Son's drug store. I felt great benefit after taking the contents of the first box, and thus encouraged I continued until they effected a complete cure. I will always recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone I hear complaining of kidney trouble."

For Sale by all Dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Our roughest experiences often arise from our smoothest tricks.

PATRICK HENRY.

A Saint in Religious Matters, but Different in Politics.

The Virginia Magazine of History and Biography has a number of letters by Roger Atkinson, a Virginia planter, who came from Cumberland, England, about 1750 and settled near Petersburg. To his brother-in-law, Samuel Pleasant of Philadelphia, he writes in October, 1774, concerning Virginia's recently appointed seven delegates to the first Philadelphia congress. The spirit of the man is shrewd, but obviously not reverential:

"Ye 3d gentleman, Col'o Washington, was bred a soldier—a warrior, & distinguished himself in early life before & at ye Death of ye unfortunate but intrepid Braddock. He is a modest man, but sensible & speaks little—in action cool, like a Bishop at his prayer.

"The 4th a real half Quaker, Patrick Henry, your Brother's man—moderate & mild & in religious matter a Saint but ye very Devil in Politicks—a son of Thunder—Boah-Erges—the Patriotic Farmer will explain this—I know it is above your Thumbs. He will shake ye Senate & Some years ago had like to have talked Treason in ye House, in those times a very useful man, a notable American, very stern & steady in his country's cause & at ye same time such a fool that I verily believe it w'd puzzle even a king to buy him off—he's a second Shippen—oh, that he had the handling of some of our Courtiers—for instance, was it North or South—Scotch English or Welsh (ye poor Irish have enough of it in their own country) our Patrick w'd certainly be very uncivil—he is no Macaroni."

FLOATING IN THE AIR.

The Impression on Ascending in a Free Balloon.

One of the first questions which I am usually asked by persons seeking information about balloons is, "What is the sensation of going up in a balloon?" writes Captain C. DeF. Chandler, U. S. A. I will anticipate this same inquiry of the readers of this article and state for their information that in a free balloon I have not noticed any peculiar physical sensation which can be described. It would be like trying to describe standing still as a sensation. The impression on ascending in a free balloon is more an optical illusion. The ascent is so slow and gentle that it cannot be felt, and one has the impression that the balloon is motionless and the earth gradually dropping away. All the noises and shouts of the people become fainter and die out. As the altitude increases hills and valleys are not apparent, and the earth seems flat, like a beautiful colored map, showing cultivated fields, forests, etc.

The greater part of the time a balloon is moving either up or down, but the motion is not apparent, and it requires a statoscope to indicate whether the balloon is ascending or descending. If a considerable change of altitude is made in a short time, the difference in air pressure may be felt on the ear drums. In descending even quite rapidly I have never had any sensation of falling.—Journal of Military Service.

The Bath of the Future.

"The bath of the next century," says T. Baron Russell in his book, "A Hundred Years Hence," "will lave the body speedily with oxygenated water delivered with a force that will render rubbing unnecessary, and beside it will stand the drying cupboard, lined with some quickly moving arrangement of soft brushes and fed with a highly desiccated air, from which, almost in a moment, the bather will emerge dried and with a skin gently stimulated and perhaps electrified, to clothe himself quickly and pass down the lift to his breakfast, which he will eat to the accompaniment of a summary of the morning's news read out for the benefit of the family or whispered into his ears by a talking machine."

Wholesome Advice For Boys.

Now, you lads who want to leave school, don't be in such a hurry to be earning something. Think of the future prospect rather than the present advantage. The man who can do something really well, whether it be the making of a table, the building of a house or the writing of a book, will very seldom be unemployed. It is the boys in a hurry who are "little millionaires" on 8 shillings a week at fourteen and "big loafers" on nothing at eighteen, with no trade in their fingers and no prospect but the life of a day laborer. Go slowly, boys—you'll go farther. Hurry is a dog that often goes off on a wrong scent. Patience and foresight are two dogs which hunt together. They are slow at "finding," but they are always "in at the death."—London Scholars' Own.

JUST EXACTLY RIGHT.

"I have used Dr. King's New Life Pills for several years, and find them just exactly right," says Mr. A. A. Felton, of Harrisville, N. Y. New Life Pills relieve without the least discomfort. Best remedy for constipation, biliousness and malaria. 25c. at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

Neuralgia Pains

Are the result of an abnormal condition of the more prominent nerve branches, caused by congestion, irritation, or disease. If you want to relieve the pain try Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills. They often relieve when everything else fails. They leave no disagreeable after-effects. Just a pleasurable sense of relief. Try them.

"I have neuralgia headache right over my eyes, and I am really afraid that my eyes will burst. I also have neuralgia pain around my heart. I have been taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills recently and find they relieve these troubles quickly. I seldom find it necessary to take more than two tablets for complete relief."
MRS. KATHERINE BARTON
1117 Valley St, Carthage, Mo.

"I have awful spells of neuralgia and have doctored a great deal without getting much benefit. For the last two years I have been taking Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills and they always relieve me. I have been so bad with neuralgia that I sometimes thought I would go crazy. Sometimes it is necessary to take two of them, but never more and they are sure to relieve me." MRS. FERRIER,

OLYMPIC GAMES.

International Contests Begin in London in Great Stadium.

London, July 13.—Athletes from twenty countries are gathered in and near London for the Olympic games, which began today, and which, it is believed, will prove the greatest games of modern times. The competitors from the four corners of the globe constitute a small army in themselves, almost every country, following the example of American and Great Britain, having entered in the various events the full quota of men allowed by the rules, in most cases a round dozen. As there are twenty-five events on the program, the number of athletes taking part will total nearly 2,000, many of the men, of course, representing their respective countries in more than one event.

The preparations are on a gigantic scale. The Stadium will seat 53,000 spectators, and there is room for 23,000 more, but no seats. By making use of land surrounding the grounds, standing room also can be found for 50,000 additional, but this probably will not be necessary. The grounds within the Stadium provide three athletic tracks, a swimming bath and dressing rooms for 2,000 competitors.

Died in Grand Stand.

Columbus, O., July 13.—Thomas J. Bryce, known to sportsmen as president of the Columbus American association baseball company, died suddenly here, in the grand stand at Neil park, where he had gone, along with thousands of people, to witness the last game of the scheduled series between the Columbus and the Toledo clubs. Heart disease was the cause. The game was postponed because of the death.

Section Hand Killed.

Sturgis, Mich., July 13.—William Lens, fifty years old, a section hand employed on the Lake Shore branch, was instantly killed by a passenger train, southbound. Lens, who was accompanied by another workman, was riding on a hand car, and as they saw the train coming they thought they would have time to clear the car from the track. They were run down, and Lens was instantly killed. His companion escaped.

FOUGHT UNDER WATER.

Last of the Spanish Fleet at the Battle of Manila Bay.

"What was it like, that battle of Manila Bay, do you ask?"

The thunders of heaven would have been lost in its din. It was fierce and fast, like the rolling of all the drums in the world or like bolts of heavy sailcloth torn into shreds by the wind.

What a picture it would make—that battle, the last of the Spanish fleet, the Don Antonio de Ulloa. She fought, sinking a foot a minute! Gun after gun went under, and when the last onset was made, only her bow gun remained. Its crew, waist deep in water, fought as though victory was crowning them. It was theirs to fire the last gun upon that eventful day, and we cheered them as they sank.

These are the things men will write about, but memory alone can paint a picture so terrible that the moon, that old night watch of the universe, hid behind friendly vapors that she might not see the embers of war as they glared through the portholes and sponsons of half sunken ships, while ever and anon exploding magazines would tear the waters, and flames of yellow and red flaunt above all that was left of Spain's wreckage.

Surely, Wellington was a Solomon when he wrote, "Nothing except a battle lost can be half so melancholy as a battle won."—St. Nicholas.

AN AFRICAN RESCUE.

Saved From a Great Army of Ravenous Driver Ants.

In her "West African Studies" Miss Kingsley tells this story about the famous "driver" ants: "I was in a little village, and out of a hut came the owner and his family and all the household parasites pellmell, leaving the drivers in possession, but the mother and father of the family, when they recovered from this unwonted burst of activity, showed such a lively concern and such unmistakable signs of anguish at having left something behind them in the hut that I thought it must be the baby. 'In him far corner for floor!' shrieked the distracted parents, and into that hut I charged.

"Too true! There in the corner lay the poor little thing, a mere inert black mass, with hundreds of cruel drivers already swarming upon it. To seize it and give it to the distracted mother was, as the reporter would say, 'the work of an instant.' She gave a cry of joy and dropped it instantly into a water barrel, where her husband held it down with a hoe, chuckling contentedly. Shiver not, my friend, at the callousness of the Ethiopian. That there thing wasn't an infant. It was a ham!"

A Nice, Polite Man.

There's some good things in town this week," said the girl who was hinting for an invitation to the theater.

"Well," responded Mr. Grouch, "I ain't one of 'em."—Kansas City Newsbook.

They Noticed.

"Maude was afraid the girls wouldn't notice her engagement ring."

"Did they?"

"Did they! Six of them recognized it at once."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

DEATHS IN WATER.

Several Fatalities Are Recorded in Michigan.

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 13.—Paul Richtor, nineteen years old, was drowned at Murray's lake, Superior township. Richtor, with three companions, went to the lake to spend the day. While in the center of the lake, the three boys rocked the boat, which filled with water and turned over. The lads started to swim for shore, but Richtor sank before he could reach the land. The body was recovered several hours later. Richtor was the eldest of ten children.

Holland, Mich., July 13.—Frank Woodyard, sixteen years old, of Lebanon, Ind., employed on a small yacht at Macatawa park, was drowned while trying to recover a small rowboat which had become loosened from the larger boat and was drifting away. The body was not recovered.

Detroit, Mich., July 13.—Felix Gordon, fourteen years old, was drowned Sunday while bathing in Proctor's pond, a clay bottomed pool of about four acres. This is the second life the pond has claimed within four months, a young man being drowned there in April. The boy was an excellent swimmer.

Mystery surrounds the identity of a man's body found floating in the river at the foot of Twelfth street Sunday morning at 7:30 o'clock by William Blore, a boy living at 800 Jefferson avenue, west. "It is impossible to say at this time whether or not the man met with foul play. The circumstances are such, however, that I believe a thorough investigation is necessary," said Coroner Parker, who took charge of the corpse.

The body had apparently been in the water for at least six days. A letter "H," marked on a handkerchief, was the only means of identification found on the man's person besides a physician's prescription drawn on J. H. Voller, a druggist at Evart, Mich. The prescription was signed by Dr. W. J. Conover.

Charged With Killing Wife.

Calumet, Mich., July 13.—Tom Williams, fifty-six years old, has been arrested, charged with murdering his wife, who three weeks ago gave him $3,500 for a liquor license, but which he instead spent on a trip to Philadelphia. He returned penniless, and his wife spurned him, whereupon he is alleged to have shot her dead with bullets in the neck and temple. Mrs. Williams was forty-three years old and leaves twelve children, the youngest only ten months old.

Cannon Visits Mackinac Island.

Mackinac Island, Mich., July 13.—Speaker Cannon, accompanied by Senator McKinley of Illinois, arrived Sunday on the Northland to be the guest of A. T. Hert at "Anne cottage." An ovation was given him on the dock.

Fire Escapes For Schools.

Battle Creek, Mich., July 13.—Battle Creek's board of education ordered fire escapes for the largest buildings about the city. They are of the spiral type, separate from the building.

Stricken While in Bathing.

Alpena, Mich., July 13.—William Spens, son of Supervisor E. C. Spens, is dead from sunstroke received while in bathing.

Pope Receives Them.

Rome, July 13.—The pope Sunday received in private audience the students of the American college, headed by the rector, Mgr. Kennedy, for the presentation of their felicitations on the occasion of he papal jubilee. Mgr. Kennedy delivered an address. The pope imparted his benediction to all American Catholics and to the institution represented by Mgr. Kennedy and others of the clergy and the American students, and then he said: "The American college comes up to the ideal of what a college should be. It is a model both for study and for discipline." Mgr. Kennedy presented an offering of $1,000 from the students and also a painting of the pope by A. Muller Ury of New York under the belief that the picture would remain at the Vatican. The pope, however, after expressions of admiration for the portrait, said that he preferred that it should be the property of the American college as a memento of Sunday's audience.

Elks at Dallas, Tex.

Dallas, Tex., July 13.—Ten thousand Elks are in Dallas attending the convention of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks that opened here today. It is expected 25,000 will be here by tonight. All of the grand lodge officers are in the city. The program opened today with a monster dinner of 1,500 plates, served to the grand lodge members and their ladies. The convention ceremonies proper will open tonight.

Fleet Nears Honolulu.

Honolulu, July 13.—The Atlantic battleship fleet, under command of Rear Admiral Sperry, is nearing Honolulu. Wireless communication has been established with the Connecticut. From now until the ships drop anchor on July 16, an interchange of wireless messages will be continuous.

Still Hope For Potter.

Cooperstown, N. Y., July 13.—Bishop Henry Codman Potter is resting comfortably, and a degree of hopefulness is expressed for his recovery

It is said that the most trying moment in a girl's life is when her young man's kin call on her to pass judgment.

BURIED IN ONE GRAVE

Bodies of August and Fred Gross Laid to Rest.

KILLED BY SHERIFF'S POSSE

People Censure Officers—Some Declare Fred Did Not Kill Himself. Coroner's Jury is Making Thorough Investigation.

Benton Harbor, Mich., July 16.—Farmers for ten miles around drove and walked to the Gross home in Pipestone township to attend the funeral of Fred and August Gross, slain in a duel between a sheriff's and farmers' posse after August Gross, the older of the two boys, had shot down James Kirk, the aged meat peddler.

In the little parlor of the Gross home two black caskets were placed, containing the remains of the last male members of the Gross family, leaving alone in the world the aged mother and a sister, the latter a woman of twenty-eight.

Pitiful was the grief of the mother and sister as the pastor said a brief prayer and endeavored to soothe the distracted women by a few comforting words.

A choir rendered two selection, and then two hearses backed up to the door and received the caskets. Led by the hearses and followed by a carriage containing Mrs. Gross and her daughter, the funeral procession slowly wended its way to the cemetery.

The most peculiar feature of interment was the burial of both bodies in one grave. Slowly, pallbearers lowered the casket containing the body of August into the grave. On top of it was let down the coffin containing the remains of the dead brother, Fred.

Sympathizers of the family, wrought up by the pitiful grief of the mother, cost severe censure on the officers over the death of Fred, and it was openly talked by some that it was believed the younger of the two boys did not kill himself, but was shot by some member of the posse which battled with the boys.

The coroner's jury, which meets this afternoon, is probing deep as to the death of the two Grosses, particularly that of Fred. Sensational developments are expected in this connection.

It is possible that the aged mother will take the stand and tell of what she saw as she stood in the doorway of her home and watched her demented sons fighting with the officers.

While there is a general feeling of relief among the neighbors of the Gross family that August Gross is out of the way, some of the witnesses of the bloody battle say that the taking of the life of Fred Gross was unnecessary.

James Kirk, the aged meat peddler who fell a victim to August Gross' gun, is still in a critical condition, and his death is hourly expected.

Hill and Warner Again.

Lansing, Mich., July 16.—At the office of State Treasurer Rich, has been received a letter from Arthur Hill. Mr. Hill has been "investigating" the "Farmington Exchange bank" of Farmington, Warner's home town, and of which bank the governor's foster father, P. D. Warner, is president. Mr. Hill has discovered, he says, that there is on the bank a sign which does not comply with the law, as he declares, because the names of the bank's owners do not appear. Governor Warner's attention was called by telephone to the complaint made to the state treasurer by Arthur Hill. "The public will, I think," said Governor Warner, "be able to judge correctly Mr. Hill's theories in this matter, and they will doubtless conclude that political rather than patriotic consideration moved him to act just at this particular time."

Shriners Choose Louisville.

St. Paul, Minn., July 16.—The imperial council of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine Wednesday elected officers and decided to hold the conclave of 1909 in Louisville, Ky. In accorance with precedent, Frank G. Roundy, imperial potentate, was not a candidate for re-election, and the officers below him were each advanced a step, leaving only the lowest officer, router imperial guard, open to contest. Four candidates were voted on for this office, namely: Charles E. Ovenshiers of Minneapolis, J. Benton Leggat, Butte, Mont.; George W. Fowle, Detroit, and W. F. Kendrick, Philadelphia. Charles F. Ovenshiers was elected. The council granted a dispensation to Masons of Seattle, Wash., to organize a shrine in that city.

WRIGHT IS FAVORED.

Prohibitionists Have Centered on the Georgian.

TRACY IS VERY ENERGETIC.

Michigan Man Stands Chance of Being Nominated For President—Professor Charles Scanlon of Pittsburg Made Permanent Chairman.

Columbus, O., July 16.—The first session of the national Prohibition convention today began at 9 o'clock. The convention was occupied for an hour with miscellaneous business, including the report of the committee on permanent organization.

The committee named Professor Charles Scanlon of Pittsburg permanent chairman. Professor Scanlon, in taking over the convention, made only a short address.

The presidential nomination is still open, and there has been no marked concentration in favor of any candidate. It has been agreed that the nomination could be had by Seaborn Wright of Georgia if he would express a willingness to accept it. Before the convention met, it was said by Charles R. Jones, chairman of the national committee, that the nomination would be the result of an open struggle.

The name of Joshua Levering of Maryland, who was the nominee in 1896, was strongly favored by many, but the friends of Mr. Levering were not disposed to push his candidacy unless he was assured in advance of the nomination. They said that inasmuch as he had once been the standard bearer of his party, a refusal by the present convention to place him again in that position might be construed as a repudiation of his former efforts in behalf of the party.

James P. Tracy of Detroit is making an energetic canvass, and sentiment is steadily growing in favor of his nomination. The Illinois delegates are pushing Daniel Sheen of Peoria.

The friends of Robert H. Patton of Springfield, Ill., temporary chairman of the convention, are rapidly increasing, and a movement in his behalf took tangible shape when he concluded his address at the first session of the convention. Mr. Patton's speech, both in matter and in manner of delivery, made a strong impression on the delegates, and before the morning adjournment had been taken, his boom was fairly under way. The Indiana delegates led the movement in behalf of Mr. Patton.

The friends of Charles Scanlon, who is the permanent chairman, say that they feel greatly encouraged over the progress their candidate is making.

The committee on resolutions has delegated the task of writing the platform to a sub committee of five, composed of Samuel Dickie of Michigan, Quincy L. Morrill of South Dakota, Eugene Chapin of Illinois, Frank Sibley of Arizona and Silas C. Swallow of Pennsylvania. The platform has been in greater part arranged, it is expected, it will be accepted as it has been drawn, unless some fight, which is not now believed to be probable, is made on some portion of it.

The national committee met and re-elected all of its old officers as follows: Chairman, Charles R. Jones, Evanston, Ill.; vice chairman, A. G. Wolfenbarger, Lincoln, Neb.; secretary, W. G. Calderwood, Minneapolis; treasurer, Felix T. McWhirter, Indianapolis.

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

Thomas Collier Platt, United States senator from New York, is seventy-five years old, having celebrated his birthday Wednesday.

L. A. Borghols, United States consul general in Canton, China, says the Chinese government is trying to encourage the use of the Pekinese dialect, the official language of China, throughout the country.

Mrs. Minor Morris, who brought charges that she had been forcibly ejected from the White House by secret service men, escaped from the Missouri state insane asylum by lowering herself from a second story window down a rope of towels.

The will of the late William B. Leeds, tin plate magnate, bequeathing an estate of about $10,000,000, is to be contested. It is declared, by his first wife, Jeanette Leeds, living in Richmond, Ind. She was left nothing, although his son by her is given $1,000,000.

Justice Wright of the supreme court has ordered the personal bond of Secretary Garfield doubled to $164,000, in order to carry to the court of appeals the case of the disbarred attorneys whose reinstatement to practice before the interior department was recently ordered by the lower court.

TO OPEN CAMPAIGN

Republicans Hold Important Meeting in Colorado Springs.

HITCHCOCK IS ON THE WAY.

Will Be Joined by All Republican Leaders West of Missouri River. Similar Conferences to Be Held in Middle and Eastern States.

Washington, July 16.—Chairman F. H. Hitchcock of the Republican national committee will open the campaign of 1908 in the far west.

Practically the first movement in the campaign for the election of Judge Taft and James S. Sherman, respectively to presidency and vice presidency, will be made at Colorado Springs, Colo., next Monday and Tuesday, July 20 and 21. At that time, in the Antlers hotel, at Colorado Springs, Chairman Hitchcock will hold a conference with the Republican leaders of all the state and territories west of the Missouri river. Represented at the conference will be North and South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico, Idaho, Utah, Arizona, Nevada, Washington, Oregon and California. The Republican chairmen and national committee men of these states and territories have been invited by Chairman Hitchcock to attend the conference, and all of them have notified him of their intention to be present.

It is the purpose of Mr. Hitchcock, in the bringing thus together of the Republican leaders of the west, to consider plans for the campaign in that territory. It is his desire that the leaders should become acquainted with one another; that each should feel that he has a part to perform not in the campaign alone, but in the formulation of plans for it, and that there should be co-operative effort among all of them to bring about a general result.

At the Colorado Springs conference careful plans will be mapped out for the campaigns in the west; methods will be discussed and speakers for the various states will be arranged for so far as may be possible.

In the near future similar conferences will be held by Chairman Hitchcock with Republican leaders in the middle west and in the east. Mr. Hitchcock left Washington today for Colorado Springs.

Monster Sturgeon Caught.

Manistique, Mich., July 16.—A monster sturgeon, believed to be the biggest of its species ever taken from Lake Michigan, was caught off Biddle Point, Mackinac county. It was seven and one-half feet long, and it weighed 203 pounds.

Mae Wood Much Dejected.

Colon, Mich., July 16.—Sad and forlorn looking, Mae C. Wood, who lost her sensational suit against Senator T. C. Platt and was then imprisoned on a charge of perjury, has come here, her former home, for a short visit. She has no relatives here, but the family which adopted and raised her still lives in the village. It is believed that she will go back to work as a stenographer.

Four Workmen Killed.

Youngstown, O., July 16.—Four workmen, one unidentified, were killed by the cave-in of the new Grace avenue sewer. The known dead are: John Dyak, Eugen Muldedan and Tudor Bordi. All are Roumanians. A fifth man is reported to be buried under the fall of earth. Dyak met death in an effort to save his countrymen.

Murderers Are Slain.

El Paso, Tex., July 16.—The bodies of Conserio Rodrigues and Philocarpo Reyes, noted Mexican bandits, have been found in the mountains. They were accused of the murder of H. S. Jones, an American owner of the San Ignacio ranch, who was killed last May, and were shot to death by rurales, who have been in pursuit of them since the murder.

Mrs. Maggie Spurrier and Miss Flora Fox, the latter seventeen years old, were sentenced to the reformatory in Indianapolis Tuesday for horse stealing. It is declared Mrs. Spurrier's husband is now serving a year in prison for a similar offense committed by his wife, having pleaded guilty rather than make public her guilt.

Beginning next week and continuing for two months, the entries in the race to supply the United States government with a model of dirigible balloon or heavier-than-air ship will try out their machines before experts at Fort Meyer. The signal corps hope to obtain an appropriation from congress for airships if the tests are successful.

MANY GUESTS THERE.

President Entertains Twelve at Oyster Bay.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 16.—President Roosevelt entertained a dozen guests Wednesday, the largest party he has had at his home at Sagamore Hill since he began his vacation. With his guests the president discussed a wide range of topics, naval, political, labor, publishing, hunting and travel.

After his usual morning exercise, the president welcomed Henry Reuterdahl, the marine artist and writer, and John Williams, labor commissioner of the state of New York, who came up from New York.

Mr. Reuterdahl, who accompanied the Atlantic battleship fleet on its voyage from Hampton Roads to Magdalena bay, and who, in an article published last February, severely criticized the construction of the battleships of the navy, came to talk with Mr. Roosevelt about naval matters.

Mr. William, who with Mr. Reuterdahl, returned to New York, said he talked with the president on labor matters, but would not say what they were, preferring that anything more definite should come from the president. Shortly after the departure of his two morning guests, the president received a party of ten. C. F. Brooker, Republican national committeeman from Connecticut; C. A. Moore of the American Protective Tariff league, and his son, Arthur Moore, who has hunted in Africa; Percy Madeira of Philadelphia and W. F. Whitehouse, Jr., of New York, both of whom have spent some time in Africa; Charles Scribner, the New York publisher; F. D. Millet, the artist, who is a member of the American commission to the Tokio exposition; Major Edgar A. Mearns, surgeon in the United States army and a naturalist; Henry Fairfield Osborn, a geologist connected with the American museum of natural history in New York, who has had experience in Africa, and Dr. Alexander Lambert of New York.

It was a jolly party that sat around the president's table at luncheon, and Mr. Roosevelt was in the best of spirits. African hunting was the principal theme during the afternoon.

SEVEN MINERS KILLED.

Explosion Occurs in Workings at Pottsville, Pa.

Pottsville, Pa., July 16.—Seven mineworkers have been killed and ten others injured by a terrific explosion of gas in the Williamstown colliery of the Summit Branch Mining company, in the lower part of the anthracite coal fields. The mine was wrecked and set on fire. The dead are:

John Rielly, Arthur Hawk, Charles Rickert, John White, John Beverly, James Bowman and Michael Stakum.

The explosion occurred in No. 1 shaft of the colliery, and is believed to have been caused by one of the men lifting the gauze of his safety lamp just after an explosion of a shot which brought down a large body of coal.

The explosion shook the entire colliery. The work of rescue was immediately begun, and, when volunteers were called for, almost every man at the workings offered his services, which meant a hazardous trip into the burning mine.

Near the foot of the shaft the injured were found, they having rushed toward the entrance only to fall over unconscious. Four of the dead were found a short distance from the shaft, battered and burned into an almost unrecognizable mass; but the rescuers were prevented from going further into the workings on account of the bad air, and the bodies of Reilly White and Charles Rickert could, therefore, not be recovered.

Five Drown in the North.

Marquette, Mich., July 16.—Five cases of drowning in the upper peninsula waters have been reported. The victims of the fatalities were the following: William Dolin, aged seven, drowned at Republic in an effort to recover his cap, which had fallen into the water. Moses Barite, eleven years of age, fell into the Michigamme river while fishing from a railroad bridge in Republic. Harry Snow, aged twenty-one years, of Escanaba, swept over the dam of the Escanaba Pulp & Power company, in Flat Rock, while boating. Thomas Truscott, aged eleven, of Iron Mountain, drowned in Bass lake while bathing. Vital Pond, of St. Ignace, aged thirty, fell into the harbor while disembarking from a small boat.

Governor Mack of Laporte, Ind., has filed his report on the last of the ten known victims of Mrs. Belle Gunness. Mack finds that Andrew G. Helgelein, a country butcher, who brought $5,000 with him to Mrs. Gunness, came to his death from felonious homicide, the perpetrator thereof being unknown, poisoning was the direct cause of death.

The world is full of men and women who do nothing. They generally impose on some one who works too much.—Atchison Globe.

The Falling of Lucy.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

Copyrighted, 1905, by Associated Literary Press.

Elwood craned his neck as the train drew in at the little station. Yes, here was the low, red brick structure, from either end of which the road wound away between the young oaks, now showing a faint misty brown in the late April sunshine.

With a sudden impulse he arose and grasped his hat and grip. In another instant he stood before the station house, while the train screamed away through the wooded tunnel of oaks.

He looked around at the familiar scene, slightly bewildered at the result of his impulsive action. He had left New York with the intention of spending the week end with friends at Shrimp Cove, but the familiar scenes through which the train had sped and which marked milestones in his memory had roused within him depths of feeling that he thought could not now exist.

Evading the puzzled glance of the station agent, he turned down the right hand road. Ultimately it would take him to the village hostelry. Incidentally it would lead him over old paths and permit his fancy to revel in banished dreams.

He plodded through the thick yellow sand with eager eyes on the budding hedges. Gratefully he inhaled the delicate spring odors that seemed to emanate from the golden afternoon sunshine.

He paused, once beside a foaming spring where sweetflag was shooting green blades from the black, oozy mud, and again in the Honeyspot road, where arbutus clung to the steep banks and the pink pouch of the moccasin flower sprang from the lichened tree stumps. Each time he removed his hat and stood with painfully knitted brow and reflective eyes. Then he moved on.

The village hotel was under new management, and he passed unchallenged by old acquaintances. He strolled down the irregular street after the evening meal was over and in the spring twilight revisited old haunts and revived old memories until his mind was a chaos of rage with himself and grief for the unattainable.

The next morning when clamoring bells rang out from the white painted churches and the quiet streets were gay with the Easter finery of the village belles Elwood made his way to a quaint old edifice tucked away on the shore road, so that when he was seated in a familiar place he could see the white sails in the harbor and the thin drift of smoke from passing steamers on the sound.

The gathering congregation looked curiously at the dignified, middle aged stranger who sat in the old Elwood pew, but he maintained an attitude of motionless rigidity, with eyes fixed steadily on the rippling water beyond the window. He was listening with painful eagerness for a light step.

It came. He heard the swish of silk and the soft slip of her feet as she ascended the steps of the chancel and took her place among the assembled choir. In his eyes' mind he could see her, cool and pale, with flaxen hair and dark blue eyes.

There would be little change in her appearance after fifteen years. Her fair skin might have faded a little, and her slimness might have become angularity, but there would be no other visible alteration. Still, he could not look.

Two women rustled into the seat behind him and conversed in hissing whispers that reached his ear with annoying distinctness.

"Lucy Clifford's got on her blue foulard silk, ain't she?"

"Yes! I wonder if she's going to sing today?"

"I suppose so. Mr. Larkin said it would be the last year she could sing in the choir."

"Her voice is getting terrible thin, and once in awhile it gives out. She ain't sung for two or three weeks now. I guess she was saving it so's she could sing today."

"Lucy's getting to be a regular old maid. Now that she's left alone down to the old place, I guess she wishes she'd taken up with young Elwood after all."

"I hope her voice don't fail today," remarked one of the women as the low tones of the organ rumbled through the church.

Elwood turned his head. Yes; there she sat, her pale, pure profile outlined against the red and purple of the chancel window.

She looked as his memory had limned her save that she was not angular; she still retained her youthful slimness. There was a pathetic droop to her once proudly lifted head and a wistfulness in the full lidded eyes as she turned toward the congregation.

The organ ceased, the white robed minister entered and knelt in prayer, and then with a triumphant burst of music the choir arose and the notes of the anthem rang through the little church. Elwood pressed a hand across his stinging eyes as the familiar melody proceeded. It seemed but yesterday that he had stood beside Lucy Clifford in the choir and lifted his strong young voice in that same strain.

He heard the high notes of her thin soprano above the reedy tenor and the rumble of alto and bass, and there was an uncertain quality in it that caused his heart to beat a little faster in the fear that her voice might fail altogether. Anxiously he followed her through the anthem and sighed with relief when the final "Amen" died away in the rustle of the kneeling people.

The service proceeded as it had proceeded fifteen years ago. There was another minister and, save for Lucy Clifford, other voices in the choir. There were strangely familiar faces in the congregation, and his eyes eluded many a glance of recognition. It was enough for him that he could look upon Lucy Clifford's sweet face once again. In the morning he would go away.

When the long sermon was finished the organ commenced a well known prelude, two gray haired wardens creaked up the aisle and received the oaken contribution boxes, while the choir arose to sing the offertory.

"Christ the Lord is risen today. Al-le-lu-ia!"

That was Lucy's voice rising high above the other singers, and again Elwood felt that tender apprehension lest she should fail. When the second stanza was begun her tones were strained and tremulous.

"She's going to break down!" whispered one of the women in the seat behind him.

"Lo, our sun's eclipse is o'er"—

It had happened. With a discordant wail like the breaking of a violin string Lucy Clifford's voice died out. The startled choir paused for an instant, and then from the congregation burst a man's strong voice, "Al-le-lu-ia!"

To a triumphant conclusion he carried the fine old melody, his rich tenor supporting the wavering voices of the agitated choir. He had seen the white, frightened face of Lucy Clifford turned in his direction, and he threw all the vigor and force of his nature into the third stanza.

Almost unconsciously her tremulous voice took up the refrain, and once more their tones were united. It seemed as though her weak utterance rested on the assured strength of his, and he carried it up—up—to an exultant close until their voices blended in final joyous "Al-le-lu-ia!"

Lucy Clifford sank back in her seat with trembling hands and a flickering color in her pale cheeks. She did not glance at Allen Elwood. It was sufficient for her that he was present and that in the hour of her distress he had come to her rescue.

It was like him to have done that. It was strange that she had permitted that escapade of his youth to blind her to his many noble qualities. Well, it was too late now, but she could remember this day. It would be a pleasant memory to be set against a dreary future.

When the service was concluded, Lucy Clifford slipped through the side door into the churchyard and thence toward the opening in the stone wall that led to the homeward path across lots.

Elwood did not follow her. It would be of no use. He was too much of a black sheep. But when the dusk fell he walked slowly along the shore road until he came to the old Clifford place.

It was a long, low, brown house facing the harbor. Tall cherry trees overshadowed its gabled roof, and thick hedges of pungent box bordered the winding paths. A wind swept up from the bay, and a shower of blossoms fell about him. A whipporwill throbbed from the bough of an apple tree. It was like another night that was past.

There was a light step on the graveled path, a startled exclamation, and he was holding Lucy's unresisting hands in his own.

"I have come to ask your forgiveness, Lucy," he began tenderly.

"Nay," she murmured tremulously; "it is I who should ask yours for my narrow minded prejudices. But that is past—I—I tried to steel my heart and failed—and the years have been so long, Allen"— Her voice broke.

"I know," he said slowly, "but the years that are to come will be long and sweet, God willing!"

The whipporwill whirred away through the darkness, while again the cherry trees swayed in the breeze and sent a shower of bridal whiteness over the lovers at the gate.

Philosophy of Good Clothes.

Besides the sentimental and aesthetic reasons that exist for dressing well it seems there is a scientific one, if we accept the statement of a London medical man that a good suit of clothes acts as a tonic on the mind of the wearer, while the consciousness that one is not at one's best in appearance if wearing shabby or ill fitting clothes may be reckoned as one of life's real handicaps. In the moral support that smart clothing furnishes he thinks there is a source of mental strength and activity that aids one to center one's thoughts on the things that lead to success in one's trade and profession. To be shockingly attired and to be constantly conscious of the condition leads the mind into worrying ways that dissipate healthy energy.—Boston Transcript.

A Different Brand.

An eminent medical gentleman engaged a nurse, recently graduated, for a case of delirium tremens. The physician succeeded in quieting the patient and left some medicine, instructing the nurse to administer it to him if he "began to see snakes again." At the next call the physician found the patient again raving. To his puzzled inquiry the nurse replied that the man had been going on that way for several hours and that she had not given him any medicine.

"But didn't I tell you to give it to him if he began to see snakes again?" demanded the physician.

"But he didn't see snakes this time," replied the nurse confidently. "He saw red, white and blue turkeys with straw hats on."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Dad Gets Sarcastic.

"Physical culture, father, is perfectly lovely. To develop the arms I grasp this rod by one end and move it slowly from right to left."

"Well, well!" exclaimed her father. "What won't science discover? If that rod had straw at the other end you'd be sweeping."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

One of the features of the meeting was a letter read by Rev. Kemp, from the secretary of general missions asking that the church contribute a sum toward the general missionary work before the last of August. The suggestion was put to vote and carried that a certain sum should be set aside for that purpose.

DON'TS FOR CHURCHMEN.

Don't confound morality with religion.

Don't mistake self-adulation for self-respect.

Don't expect to love when reverence has departed.

Don't become selfish because selfishness is the essence of sin.

Don't close your heart to heaven if you want to dwell therein.

Don't try to get to heaven by covering up your faults.

Don't patch a lie unless you want to make a larger rent.

Don't boast your helpfulness to others if you would not be regarded as self satisfied.

Don't forget that the self satisfied soul may come far short of satisfying God.

Don't hunt for a martyr's crown unless you are sure your head will bear one up.

Don't undertake to know more about God unless you are willing to know more about your fellowmen.

An Honest Doctor Advised Peruna.

SYLVESTER E. SMITH.

Robust Health Ruined.

MR. SYLVESTER E. SMITH, Room 218, Granite Block, St. Louis, Mo., writes: "Peruna is the best friend a sick man can have.

"A few months ago I came here in a wretched condition. Exposure and dampness had ruined my once robust health. I had catarrhal affections of the bronchial tubes, and for a time there was a doubt as to my recovery.

The Sick Man's Friend.

"My good honest old doctor advised me to take Peruna, which I did and in a short time my health began to improve very rapidly, the bronchial trouble gradually disappeared, and in three months my health was fully restored.

"Accept a grateful man's thanks for his restoration to perfect health."

The Indians have won 15 out of the last 19 games.

There is talk of having to amputate Fred Merkles limb.

Some of the baseball fans are kicking because reports of the games are not in the Press Press.

The Indians lost the last game to Bay City at Bay City last Tuesday afternoon. Maire and Lagoe were the opposing box men, the former allowing but 4 hits. Eight hits were secured off Lagoe. Score as follows:

Double play—Lagoe to Schippp to Somerlot. Time—1:40. Umpire—Yorke.

Lansing played their first game here yesterday and were beaten by a score of 7 and 2. Doty pitched for the locals, and allowed no hits until the sixth when he eased up a little. The Indians errors were all on hard chances, while those of the Lansing team were rank.

Streeter cleared the bases in the first inning with a home run, the first one on local grounds this year. Score as follows:

Floyd Russell Starts Suit Against Frank McKinster & Carl Fox of Adrian.

Floyd Russell of Tecumseh, by his next friend, Thomas Russell, has started suit against Frank McKinster and Carl Fox of Adrian, for damages amounting to $500. The claim is based in the following facts, according to the plaintiff.

While at the home of William Cornelius in Franklin township, on April 27, 1908, Russell had his horse which was thoroughly road-worthy and well broken, hitched in front of the residence on the public highway, at the hitching post at the side of the road. Frank McKinster and Carl Fox of Adrian, were driving by in their auto and instead of slowing down and getting their machine under control so that it could be stopped immediately, when they saw that the animal was frightened, he claims they drove on. Russell came out to hold the horse, and the animal became so excited that it reared and plunged, knocking Russel down, trampling on him, and pulled the buggy over him. The horse afterwards ran away, smashing the vehicle and demolishing the harness. Garland Gillespie, Bird & Sampson represent the plaintiff.

LENAWEE COUNTY MEDICAL SOCIETY.

Enjoy Annual Outing at Sand Lake.

The Lenawee County Medical society held their annual picnic at Putnam's Landing, Sand Lake last Tuesday, which was attended by about 60 doctors and their wives from all over the county.

At 12:30 Landlord Elmer Putnam served an eight course banquet in the dining hall, which was an excellent repast.

The company gathered in the dance hall at the close of the dinner, where a program was rendered. A paper was read by Dr. B. C. Vaughan of Detroit, on the subject, "Serums." Drs. Betz of Toledo and Robinson of Jackson also gave addresses.

The remainder of the day was spent in the enjoyment of the beautiful lake.

Fire at the Farm at Wamplers Lake.

The Farm at Wamplers lake had a narrow escape from destruction by fire Sunday morning. Fire was discovered in the oil room, and only the hardest kind of work saved the building from complete destruction.

Landlord Geo. Nisle was terribly burned from his ankles to his waist, and while considered out of danger now is still confined to his bed. Warren Kimball of Manchester, Mrs. Nisle's brother, was quite badly burned on the arms and received two large gashes in his head, caused by running into the wood pile, when blinded by the smoke and fire. They succeeded in getting the fire out before the gasoline caused an explosion.

CARL UPDYKE.

Former Tecumseh Boy and Employee of the Tecumseh Herald.

ESTABLISHES A PAPER AT RAWHIDE NEVADA.

Buys State Rights and Erects Both Houses at Medicinal Springs.

The Rawhide Rustler, an interesting and real live newspaper comes to our desk this week from Rawhide, Nevada.

Rawhide is a new town, as last fall it consisted of only a few tents and today the population of the community has increased to 10,000. In speaking of the community, they say: "A baby community, not six months old."

The Rustler is of local interest as Carl Updyke, a former employee of the Herald, and a well known Tecumseh boy, helped to establish it in March, 1908 for the Rawhide Rustler Publishing company, with W. W. Booth as president.

They publish on Saturday charging $5.00 a year for subscription, strictly in advance. Their advertising rates are slightly higher than those of the Herald as they have $2.50 per inch for all display, and 15 cents per line for locals. The paper consists of six pages with six columns to the page, and is full of advertising, lawyers and saloon keepers, being the leading advertisers. By the startling head line, Rawhide Rustler, appears the following in quotation marks, "This Paper is different from other newspapers, and I thank the Gods of Verse and Prose that it is different." The Herald quite agrees with the editor as the paper is certainly different. The front page is mostly made up of headed articles.

In advertising a local B. P. O. E. social, they speak of the affair as a big dancefest, and if anyone misses this nights' pleasure they will have cause to remember that they "passed up" a nights' fun. The head line is, "Oh! Such a Dancing." What would the readers of the Herald think, if this paper in printing an article from a former resident of the town we headed it in this manner: "Sit up and Take Notice you old Desert Rats.

The town is without water, and it costs the natives 25 cents per gallon for for drinking water, and enough water for a bath would cost about $30.00. About 10 miles from the city are the medicinal hot springs, and Carl Updyke has purchased the state rights to these springs, and has erected bath houses. They were honored by a visit from the Govenor of the state, a short time ago, who enjoyed a bath at the Updyke Springs. The Herald wishes all success to Carl in his new venture.

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

War Against Consumption.

All nations are endeavoring to check the ravages of consumption, the "white plague" that claims so many victims each year. Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs and colds perfectly and you are in no danger of consumption. Do not risk your health by taking some unknown preparation when Foley's Honey and Tar is safe and certain in results. The genuine is in a yellow package Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

A man may deceive himself, but he never fools destiny.

The older a man grows, the longer he looks at a contract before signing it.

Torturing eczema spreads its burning area every day. Doan's Ointment quickly stops its spreading, instantly relieves the itching, cures it permanently. At any drug store.

The most becoming tie for young ladies—Modesty.

We wonder if there is anyone who would accept a million dollars with the agreement that he would give up his life at the end of a year?

There's nothing so good for a sore throat as Dr. Thomas's Eclectric Oil. Cures it in a few hours. Relieves any pain in any part.

Trying times—Going to the dressmaker's.

Quick relief for Asthma Sufferers.

Foley's Honey and Tar affords immediate relief to asthma sufferers in the worst stages and if taken in time will effect a cure. Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Where to recover yourself—At the tailor's.

The older a man grows, the fewer adjectives he uses.

GIVING OUT.

Around all day with an aching back;
Can't rest at night;
Enough to make any one "give out."
Doan's Kidney Pills will give renewed life.
They will cure the backache;
Cure every kidney ill.
Here is Tecumseh proof that this is so.

John B. Smith, debuty sheriff, living on East Chicago Avenue, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I experienced a great deal of suffering from pains in the small of my back, through the loins and about the kidneys and when an attack was present it was hard for me to do my work. On bending over, I would be seized with dizzy spells, when spots of fire would flash before my eyes. I was restless at night, and in the morning would get up feeling tired and unrefreshed. I doctored a great deal, also used a number of remedies, but received no permanent benefit. Finally I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and the statements made concerning them were so convincing that I was induced to procure a box at Wright and Son's drug store. I felt great benefit after taking the contents of the first box, and thus encouraged I continued until they effected a complete cure. I will always recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone I hear complaining of kidney trouble."

THE SORROWFUL TREE.

Its Flowers Open at Night and Close With the Dawn of Day.

There is a tree in Persia to which the name "the sorrowful tree" is given, perhaps because it blossoms only in the evening. When the first star appears in the heavens the first bud of the sorrowful tree opens, and as the shades of night advance and the stars thickly stud the sky the buds continue gradually opening until the whole tree looks like one immense white flower. On the approach of dawn, when the brilliancy of the stars gradually fades in the light of day, the sorrowful tree closes its flowers, and ere the sun is fully risen not a single blossom is visible. A sheet of flower dust as white as snow covers the ground around the foot of the tree, which seems blighted and withered during the day, while, however, it is actively preparing for the next nocturnal festival. The fragrance of the blossoms is like that of the evening primrose.

If the tree is cut down close to the roots a new plant shoots up and attains maturity in an incredibly short time.

In the vicinity of this singular tree there usually grows another which is almost an exact counterpart of the sorrowful tree, but less beautiful, and, strange to say, it blooms only in the daytime.

Strong Rooms.

The Bank of England's strong room is one of the largest in the world. The foundation, sixty-six feet below the street level, is a bed of concrete twenty feet thick. Above this is a lake seven feet deep, and above that thick plates of iron specially manufactured to resist both skill and force. Any one attempting an entrance from above would find a similar bed of concrete, a similar lake and similar plates of iron. The walls are impenetrable, while the doors are one foot thick, weigh four tons each and are made absolutely undrillable.

The Imperial Ottoman bank, Constantinople, had a marvelous steel fort built upon a water bearing rock, and on top of the rock foundation is a four foot bed of concrete. The height is over thirty-six feet, length forty-six feet and width twenty-four. The steel walls are surrounded by masonry and concrete six feet thick throughout, while the whole comprises nearly thirty tons of steel.

Circulation of the Blood.

The idea of some sort of movement of the blood in man and the lower animals was possessed by Aristotle and other Greeks and by the physicians of the Alexandrian school as well as by the doctors and surgeons of the middle ages. In fact, even the village barbers knew of such movement. But no one, not even the wisest of men, had any conception of a continuous stream returning to its source—a circulation in the true sense of the word—or of the functions of the heart as the motor power of the movement of the blood until it was demonstrated by Harvey in 1628.

The "Letters of Junius."

The vexed question of the real authorship of the "Letters of Junius" has never been positively settled. Mr. Chabot's learned work to show that Sir Philip Francis was the author of the famous letters, while a strong production, fails of absolute proof. The attempt was made to prove that Thomas Paine wrote the letters, but that, too, failed to convince. The question is still a mystery, though the balance of the evidence is in favor of Sir Philip Francis.

GLAZIER'S FINANCES,

Schedule of Assets and Liabilities Filed in United States Court.

Detroit, Mich., July 16.—A schedule of assets an liabilities of Frank P. Glazier has been filed in the United States district court. His debts as scheduled amount to almost $1,400,000 and his property and holdings, $1,560,444.37.

In the statement for the first time Glazier makes public the financial skein which he wove and then so badly tangled. Notes are secured by other notes, and nearly every member of his family was called upon at times as endorsers of this paper. Glazier still asserts that his assets offset his liabilities and that the big loans he secured are well secured. He claims that he owes nothing to the Chelsea Savings bank, as the money borrowed from it is secured by the mortgages on the Blodgett terrace in Detroit and on the office building he was erecting in Ann Arbor and also by notes given by the members of his family. He admits, however, that his son, Harold F. Glazier, secured large sums on notes before the boy was of age. The money was used by the father. He also repudiates notes for $395,000, which he claims are debts of the Chelsea Stove company. He acknowledges, however, that $75,000 borrowed in the name of Mrs. Glazier and his daughter, Vera, was for himself and that the women were merely used to make out the paper.

Glazier claims exemption of approximately $40,000, including the summer home on Cavanaugh lake, which was given to Mrs. Glazier, and the house in Chelsea in which Harold Glazier lives and which was given to the boy as a wedding present. Also two houses in Chelsea which were deeded to Vera Glazier. Then there is the Glazier homestead and the stock, carriages, etc., on the summer property.

Playing Indian Resulted Seriously.

St. Ignace, Mich., July 16.—Playing "Indian," three small boys, whose ages run from nine to twelve, attacked little William Seward, tied a rope about his neck and pulled him up on the limb of a tree. Then the thoughtless boys tied the rope around the tree trunk and from a distance watched the frantic antics of the hanging "scout." Another boy, who was not involved in the affair, realized that Seward was being strangled and rushed to his rescue just in time.

Drowns in Foot of Water.

Pontiac, Mich., July 16.—Floating face downward in one foot of water, the body of Leonard, two and one-half-year-old son of Alfred J. Stecker of Detroit, was found in front of the Stecker cottage at Pine lake half an hour after his disappearance. The child had been playing on the dock before the house and fell in, apparently being unable to recover his balance in the water. The family is spending the summer at the lake.

Woman Killed by Car.

Jackson, Mich., July 16.—While driving to the Metal Stamping company plant to get her husband, as was a daily custom, the carriage of Mrs. Herbert Buckland, aged fifty-five, living in Summit township, was struck by a trolley car. She was hurled against a trolley pole and died of internal injuries.

Admits Betting Still Goes On.

New York, July 16.—Complying with a request made by Acting District Attorney Elder of Brooklyn, Police Commissoner Bingham, Deputy Commissioner Baker, in charge of the Brooklyn office, and Sheriff Hobley of Kings county appeared before the Kings county grand jury Wednesday to testify about the charge that the police have been negligent in enforcing the anti betting law at the race tracks. District Attorney Elder said emphatically that subpoenaes had not been issued to compel the presence of the men. Upon leaving the jury room, at the end of an hour, Commissoner Bingham gave an interview in which he frankly admitted that betting still goes on at the race tracks, but that the police would not make arrests unless bets were recorded. He explained that the police are guided in their action by the advice of the corporation counsel and the decision of Justice Bishoff, and so long as oral wagers are made and not recorded no arrests will be made.

Ute Indians Will Be Good.

Rapid City, S. D., July 16.—Five hundred Ute Indians who revolted and terrorized the country after fleeing from their reservation in Utah will have a 900 mile trek back from here Friday. The Indians will return under escort of a captain and ten United States cavalrymen. The agreement to return is the outcome of a conference between the chief and President Roosevelt. The chief promised the president that the Indians would henceforth be good.

Bomb Hurls Them From Beds.

New York, July 16.—A dynamite bomb, exploding with terrific force early in the day, in the areaway of a fashionable apartment house in West One Hundred and Fortieth street, hurled scores of the occupants from their beds, shattered many windows and threw the tenants into a panic. There are forty-two families living in the apartment house. The reason for the bomb throwing is entirely a mystery.

The great trouble with the good is, that in talking of evil, they seldom tell the truth.

NEEDED THE BRUSH.

The Finishing Touch to Eli Whitney's Cotton Gin.

Eli Whitney, who so long vexed his soul over his first and mightiest invention, the cotton gin, was aided in his success by the quick wit and insight of a woman. In "Old Paths and Legends of the New England Border" Miss Katherine M. Abbott gives the story, as told by a granddaughter of General Nathaniel Greene, of the consummation of Whitney's experiment at the beautiful and hospitable Dungeness, on Cumberland island, canopied with live oaks and olive trees.

Mrs. Greene had become interested in Mr. Whitney's enterprise and invited him to spend the winter at Dungeness, "where an abundance of cotton and quiet were assured."

One morning he descended headlong into the drawing room from his workshop in the fifth story and excitedly exclaimed, "The victory is mine!" In deep sympathy guests and hostess went with him to see the model in motion by which Whitney was to change the industrial history of the world.

For a few moments the miniature saws revolved without hindrance, and the separation of the seed from the cotton wool was successfully accomplished, but after a little the saws clogged with lint, the wheel stopped, and poor Whitney was in despair.

"Here's what you need!" exclaimed Mrs. Greene. She seized a clothes-brush and held it firmly to the teeth of the saws.

"Madam," said Whitney, overcome with emotion and speaking with the exaggeration of gratitude, "you have perfected my invention."

WHITE HOUSE COURTESY.

The Way President Polk Threw Down the Barriers.

If any president of modern times were to exhibit the official indecency that John Adams exhibited when Jefferson became president he would be denounced by every reputable newspaper and intelligent citizen of the land. It was then, as it is now, the accepted duty of the retiring president to receive the incoming president at the White House and accompany him to the inauguration ceremonies, but the last official act of Adams as president was the nomination of a member of what were called "midnight judges" the night before the inauguration of Jefferson, and during the night he and his family withdrew from the White House, leaving none but the servants to receive the incoming president, writes Alexander K. McClure in the Circle.

It was President Polk who first had the courage to disregard the political passions of the times by inviting Henry Clay, who had been his competitor, to dine with him and Mrs. Polk in the White House. It was near the close of the Polk administration, during which Clay had been a senator most of the time, and it shocked the Democratic sentiment of the time when it was announced that Clay had dined with President Polk, not on a state occasion, but had been welcomed at the family dinner as a friend. Clay was the soul of chivalry, and Polk was a man of unblemished character and high attainments, and his example of courtesy to Clay has never since been broken.

Catching Deer by Hand.

"This red deer," said the keeper, "was caught by hand."

"But a red deer is the fleetest of the fleet."

"Right you are, but this fellow was caught by hand all the same. It is a feat that is often done in the winter in the still woods choked with snow. You see a deer and chase it. Getting confused, it soon deserts the firm deer paths or runnings, and then it is helpless. It flounders terribly, up to its neck in snow.

"You hurry toward it. Harder and harder it struggles; more and more tired it becomes. In a very little while it is so exhausted that you can go and take it up as though it were a baby. The swift, strong, healthy creature is as weak and helpless as a babe."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

England's Day.

April 23 is a memorable day in English history. To begin with, it is the day dedicated to the patron saint of England, St. George. It was through the crusaders that St. George was thus selected. He was born in Cappadocia, and later his bravery against the Romans became a military tradition; hence the regard for him on the part of the English warriors who engaged in the crusades. On this day also Shakespeare is reported to have been born and died. Later, in 1661, Charles II. was crowned king on April 23. Lastly, Wordsworth died on this momentous day.—London Standard.

One Gone.

"He gave his wife a toy terrier, didn't he?"

"Yes, and she gave him an English bulldog."

"So each of them has a dog now?"

"No—he has one."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

BEGINS TO CELEBRATE

Quaint Quebec Is Three Hundred Years Old.

EXPECT PRINCE OF WALES.

Coming of His Royal Highness is Proving the Thing of Greatest Interest—Fairbanks to Represent the United States.

Quebec, July 20.—This quaint old city is in a flutter of anticipation over the arrival of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, who will sail into the harbor next Wednesday aboard the new British battleship the Indomitable to inaugurate the 300th anniversary of the founding of Quebec by the French navigator, Champlain.

The coming of the future king of England is a significant event in which all Canada is deeply interested, for aside from the pageantry of a royal visit it is a notable expression of the strong bonds now existing between the imperial government and its American colony.

Great masses of troops are being assembled here to do honor to the future monarch and to take part in the Champlain exercises. The harbor already presents a stirring naval spectacle, with the British battleships Exmouth, Albemarle, Russell and Duncan and the cruisers Venus and Arrogant, the French battleships Leon Gambetta and Admiral Aube, which will soon be joined by the United States battleship New Hampshire and later by the Prince of Wales' squadron, the Indomitable, Minotour and others ships, the whole presenting an assemblage of the latest Dreadnaught types of three formest naval powers.

Notables Create Much Interest.

Although the founding of Quebec is the primary purpose of the celebration, the coming of the Prince of Wales, Field Marshal Lord Roberts, the Duke of Norfolk and many other notable personages is proving of far greater interest than the historical exercises.

The prince was in Canada once before, when a naval officer commanding the gunboat Thrush. But this is his first visit since he reached his exalted rank of Prince of Wales and future king. He will be quartered in the Citidel, a grim old fortress perched 400 feet above the St. Lawrence.

Lord Roberts is also quartered in the Citadel. The grizzled old hero of Kippling blades and South African campaigns is already the idol of the assembled soldiers. Many of them served under him in the Boer war.

Vice President Fairbanks, who is to represent the United States government, is expected to arrive Tuesday in time to be present at the welcome extended to the Prince of Wales.

The vice president will be quartered at Spencer Wood, a beautiful wooded estate on which is the official residence of the Liutenant Governor of Quebec. The American battleship New Hampshire is now down the St. Lawrence, the understanding here being that she may come up to the city Tuesday.

Among the other notable figures gathered here are the representatives and lineal descendants of Wolfe and Montcalm, the heroes of the battle on the Plains of Abraham. The former is represented by George Wolfe, a retired Englishman of means, and the latter by the young Count De Montcalm. The French warships have also brought an official embassy, headed by M. Herbette, councillor of state, and including the mayor of Brouage, France, the birthplace of Champlain.

The formal opening of the week's exercises began Sunday with a monster parade of the young French-Canadians, who assembled at the foot of Champlain's monument, heaping it with flowers and singing hymns in his praise.

Three Cent Fares Do Not Pay.

Cleveland, O., July 20.—Cleveland has had nearly three months of three cent street car fare, and two of the monthly reports have shown a deficit. A similar report is predicted for July. The operating expenses and fixed charges have been from $40,000 to over $50,000 a month in excess of the earnings. The Municipal Traction company, which is operating the local lines under a lease, also is under a promiso to give free transfers July 28. The revenue from transfers has been about $30,000 a month, a cent each having been charged. Several weeks ago President A. B. Du Pont of the operating company stated that he expected the company to lose money during the first year. One drawback the company sustained was the strike in May, when very few patronized the cars. This was followed, not only by heavy strike expenses, but inexperienced conductors, who did not collect all the fares. The officials of the company still express thet belief that the three cent fare will pay in time.

FREEDOM IN ITALY.

Italian Politician Decleres It Exceeds This Country.

SPEAKS TO DETROIT ITALIANS

Signore Palizzolo Fails to Say Anything About Charges Made Against Him in Italy While Speaking to Compatriots.

Detroit, Mich., July 20.—There was plenty of excitement at the Light Guard armory Sunday afternoon, when Signore Raffaele Palizzolo, a noted Italian politician, addressed a gathering of his compatriots.

Several of Palizzolo's countrymen were ordered to leave the armory before the speech making began. When they inquired the reason for their ejection they were informed that their opposition to the commendatore was well known. The disgruntled ones who were forced to leave the building now threaten to bring suit for damages against Detective Allen, to whom they say they vainly appealed, and Joseph Marino, chairman of the meeting.

The commendatore addressed his auditors in such select Italian phrases that only one-third of the audience fully understood the nature of his remarks.

Hold Protest Meeting.

Sunday morning a meeting was held in the hall belonging to Alfred Frankhi, 188 Russell street. It was attended by 100 Italians, who protested against Palizzolo's visit to Detroit, resolutions being drawn up declaring it was a disgrace to the local Italian colony to extend him any public reception. The opposition gave as its opinion that the visitor was associated with a dangerous secret society which would work harmful effects on the Italians gathered in this country.

Frankhi, with his wife and mother, were were present at the afternoon meeting. They were among those asked to leave.

According to Italians who were able to follow the trend of Palizzolo's remarks, there was nothing sensational in the observations he made. One of his listeners reported the address briefly as follows:

"He lauded the Italian form of government. He compared the United States to Italy and tried to impress upon his audience that the Italian method of governing affairs was superior to the arrangement of things in the United States. He thought Italians in the United States should not forget their native country, and the commendatore impressed on his auditors that there was more freedom and personal liberty in Italy than in the United States, according to his ideas."

Answers No Charges.

While it was given out that Palizzolo would answer charges made against him, he avoided mentioning anything of that kind, according to Italians who said they understood the entire speech. The visiting Italian was charged with inciting a political constituent to murder an opponent, and he was twice tried, being acquitted when he carried the case on an appeal to Rome.

It is his intention to remain in this country for some months, addressing Italians in all of the principal cities.

Sunday, July 19.

Man and Woman Arrested.

Fenton, Mich., July 20.—After an investigation into the stories of Anna Cosselman, a fourteen-year-old girl, concerning affairs at the farm house of James Blanchard, near here, Sheriff Cunningham placed Blanchard and Lilla Cosselman, his housekeeper, under arrest. An inspection of the Blanchard home was made by the officers. A strong odor of carbolic acid pervaded the house, and many newspaper clippings, telling of murders and poisonings, were found scattered about. An empty quart bottle, labeled "poison," was found. The cellar was examined, but no evidence of crime discovered.

China Sends Him to Thank Us.

Peking, July 20.—The Chinese government has decided to appoint Tang Shao Yi, governor of Mukden province, and former president of the board of foreign affairs, as high commissioner to visit Washington for the purpose of thanking the United States government for remitting a portion of what is known as the Chinese "boxer" indemnity. The decision to send a representative educated in America and conversant with American affairs, especially America's international relations, instead of a prince, as was originally intended, is due to the recognition by the conservatives, as well as by progressives l'ke Yuan Shi Kai, grand councillor, of the necessity for closer relations with America.

STARTS NEW PLAN.

Hitchcock Lays Foundation In the West,

CONFERS WITH THE LEADERS

Formulating System Whereby One State May Draw on Political Resources of Another—Hitchcock Predicts Nothing.

Colorado Springs, Colo., July 20.—Frank H. Hitchcock, chairman of the Republican national committee has arrived here and is today consulting with members of the national committee and chairmen of the western state and territorial committee. The national committeemen from California and Nevada were unable to come.

Nothing of the kind now undertaken by Mr. Hitchcock was ever attempted in the history of national campaigns in any party. He announced on his arrival that it would be his purpose to have states which are certainly Republican assist in campaigning in neighboring states which may be doubtful. To that end he is bringing the western leaders together. At this general conference the various leaders are exchanging ideas and formulating a system whereby one state may draw on the political resources of another. Mr. Hitchcock will also hold individual conferences with the representatives of each of the states and territories.

Lack of Coherence.

According to Chairman Hitchcock, there has been a lack of coherence between western leaders in past campaigns, the representatives of each state doing their best to pile up Republican majorities, but not helping other states which have more difficult political battles to fight. He said that he wanted to broaden the responsibilities of each of the western Republican leaders with a view of carrying the whole western region for Taft and Sherman.

When asked what western states he regards as safely Republican and what ones he classes as doubtful, Mr. Hitchcock said:

"I have determined not to make any predictions at any time. That will be my policy throughout the campaign. We won't neglect any territory where there is a bare chance of victory, either north, south, east or west, but I shall not indulge in forecasts."

A delegation from Denver is urging on Mr. Hitchcock the selection of that city as the place of establishing a western headquarters for the distribution of campaign material and the assignment of speakers. Salt Lake City will be considered also, but probably no decision will be made until after Mr. Hitchcock returns to the east.

Rains Quench Forest Fires.

Portland, Me., July 20.—A succession of drenching showers, very timely in their arrival, have served to put a stop to the great fires which have wrought damage amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars in the Maine woods during the last two weeks, causing, also, more than a little alarm in many instances for the safety of villages. Summer resorts along the shore have seemed at times in danger of being wiped out by the rush of flames through the timber and underbrush, and hundreds of summer visitors have packed up their belongings to seek other places.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

Hamilton A. Gilbert, eleven years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Gilbert of Sumpter township, Wayne county, is dead from lockjaw, resulting from an injury to his hand by the explosion of a blank cartridge July 4th.

Mrs. Eva M. Ormiston of Flint has begun suit in the circuit court against Mrs. Elizabeth Haddon for $10,000 damages for alleged alienation of the affections of her husband, George Y. Ormiston, by the defendant. Mrs. Ormiston has four children. Mrs. Haddon is a widow and lives near Holly.

Fred W. Stevens of Port Huron, formerly general organizer of the Knights of the Modern Maccabees, has instructed his attorney to begin suit against the order for nearly $1,000 back salary. Mr. Stevens alleges that he was removed by the executive committee of the order contrary to the provisions of his contract.

Earle Lampson of Grand Rapids, while employed at the Allendale dairy farm, near Grandville, met with a serious accident as the result of playing with a cannon made from a section of gas pipe. The lad's face was badly burned by the explosion of the cannon, and pieces of iron were imbedded in the left leg, making two serious wounds.

TOTAL A MILLION.

Estimated Liabilities of Cameron Currie & Co. Reach High Figure.

Detroit, Mich., July 20.—Cameron Currie & Co.'s affairs, now in the hands of Fred G. Austin, who was appointed receiver by Judge Mandell, are receiving careful attention. The estimated liabilities of the firm are $1,000,000. Of this about $500,000 is due the banks and trust companies with which Mr. Currie did business. These accounts are secured by ample collateral, being loans incurred in the usual course of brokerage business.

There is on the books of the firm approximately $1,045,000 due from customers. Besides these assets there are Mr. Currie's seat on the New York stock exchange, worth in the neighborhood of $75,000, and his seats on the New York produce exchange, Boston stock exchange, Chicago stock exchange and Chicago board of trade.

Should the receiver be able to collect all the sums due Cameron Currie & Co., Mr. Currie would come out of the failure with a comfortable fortune, but it is believed that not more than 50 or 60 per cent at the outside can be realized. This would protect the creditors of Mr. Currie, but would leave him penniless.

The receivership was brought about as the result of a friendly suit started against Louis H. Case, chargng Mr. Case with carelessness in handling the affairs of the firm in not requiring customers to put up sufficient cash to carry their deals, thereby creating bad accounts. This step was necessary to obtain a receivership and avoid bankruptcy proceedings.

LAID TO REST.

Ten Thousand People Attended Funeral of Judge McCurdy.

Corunna, Mich., July 20.—The funeral of Judge Hugh McCurdy Sunday afternoon was the greatest Masonic event in the history of Shiawassee county. Fully 10,000 people attended the services, which were held in McCurdy park casino, a short distance from the McCurdy home. Corunna commandery, Knights Templars, of which he was a member, had 100 swords in line. The two Detroit commanderies, No. 1 and Damascus; Flint, Fenton and St. Johns brought the number of knights in line up to 350, while there were 400 blue lodge Masons from Owosso and Corunna and Hugh McCurdy lodge of New Lathrop.

The officers of the grand commandery, Knights Templars of Michigan, grand chapter, Royal Arch Masons and the grand lodge, No. 1, F. & A. M., and a delegation of thirty from the Michigan Sovereign consistory of Detroit were also in the procession. There were fifteen thirty-third degree Masons present, the largest number ever assembled at one time

Eminent Grand Commander Coleman of Kalamazoo, head of the Knights Templar of Michigan, pronounced the eulogy, and Rev. Carlos H. Hanks pastor of the Congregational church of Owosso had charge of the religious part of the ceremony. Mr. McCurdy's remains were interred in Pine Tree cemetery, Corunna, by the side of other members of his family.

Many Visit Scene of Crime.

Troy, N. Y., July 20.—Teal pond, where Hazel Drew's body was found with its tell-tale evidence of foul murder, was visited by several thousand people Sunday. The pond is about twelve miles from Troy, and it was reached by rigs and automobiles. Hundreds of persons used the trolley cars to Averill park and then walked to the pond. Many took cameras along and snapped pictures of the various places associated with the crime. No new facts in the investigation of the crime have developed, though there is a possibility that there may be new clues developed shortly.

Back to Prison; Bride Jailed.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 20.—Noble Cummings, released from Jackson prison on parole, has been taken back to that institution. Cummings violated his parole upon being released by getting married and also intoxicated with his bride. He will now have to serve his remaining time of twenty-six months. His bride also reposes in a cell in the city jail on a charge of drunkenness.

Train Kills Farmer.

Milan, Mich., July 20.—Charles Crittendon, sixty-three years old, a farmer living four miles west of here, was struck by a Wabash passenger train running between Montpelier and Detroit and instantly killed. Crittendon was returning to his home, walking along the railroad tracks. When about a mile west of here, the train bore down on him and tossed him into the ditch.

While her mother looked on in absolute helplessness, Baby Rosie Balter of 52 Division street, in Detroit, was crushed to death by an ice wagon. The child, who was only fifteen months old, was playing with a big rubber ball, which rolled into the street, and the baby toddled after it just as the wagon rumbled along.

Ruth's Aunt Mehitable.

By ANNE HEILMAN.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Hetty Peters sat gazing out of her window across the closely cropped lawn, past the garden of many hued roses and away to the woods, all white with dogwood and purple with violets. She held a letter in her hand. Not in many a long year had Hetty's face worn such an expression of woe.

"If you please, ma'am," awakened her from the trance. She turned to the cook and gave her orders for the day. Then, with a sigh, she opened the letter and reread it:

Dear Aunt Mehitable—Papa and Jessie Miller will be married Tuesday morning and sail for Europe the same day on an extended trip. So I shall leave college and go home to look after you.

The Stirlings are here for the wedding. You know they are related to Jessie. Fred looks as old as his father. They have made a mint of money mining in Colorado and intend to buy back their estate and settle down as our nearest neighbors again. No place like the south, they declare. Papa invited them to make our house their home while negotiations are pending. Business will detain Mr. Stirling in Boston for a few weeks, but Fred will come to town with me. Expect us on Thursday. Your loving RUTH.

"Jessie's a dear soul. I hope they'll be very happy," Hetty murmured to herself, "but I never thought John would marry again. And Ruth coming back a year before I expected! This'll never seem like home to me any more."

Hetty Peters was single. She had never had a lover, had never looked for one and, incredible as it may seem, had never wished for one. She had been altogether too busy, first, in looking after a younger sister and brother, and, second, in caring for her delicate mother, to consider her matrimonial prospects. The brother and sister had grown up, married and moved north. Her mother's death had left her alone.

When her elder brother's wife died she had gone to live with him, and for several years her existence had been happy if monotonously uneventful. Now came the disquieting news of John's second marriage and of her niece's unexpected return.

Ruth had a decided predilection for managing everything and everybody she came in contact with. Her aunt had always trembled before her. Ruth was the only one who remembered her baptismal name, and Hetty detested it, but Ruth persisted in calling her Aunt Mehitable.

"Perhaps she intends to marry Fred!" Hetty reflected hopefully. "If she does, of course he'll have to give in. He was a nice looking boy when he left. I remember I kissed him goodby, he seemed such a boy, and he is a year older than I am."

On Thursday Miss Peters was at the station when the northern train arrived. While she was watching the outcoming passengers from one car a hand touched swiftly her arm, and a pleasant voice exclaimed, "Hetty, you have not changed a bit since we parted."

"I've grown fifteen years older," she answered, giving her hand to a tall, bronzed, handsome man, whose dark eyes were scrutinizing her admiringly.

"I know it," he replied. "So have I"—

"Fred, loosen that checkrein. Aunt Mehitable, how could you drive this horse in such a condition? You really need some one to look after you!"

And Hetty realized, with a pang, that Ruth had come back to her own.

"No tea for me," she commanded at the dinner table. "Aunt Mehitable, I'm surprised at you! Any doctor will tell you that tannic acid is a rank poison. It's positively criminal to use tea or coffee when one can have fresh milk."

The next morning Ruth's sway began.

"Just up?" she called out as Hetty made her appearance at 7 o'clock. "I've been up for hours. I shall move the breakfast time an hour earlier, and you must come for a walk every morning before breakfast. It will do you a world of good." And Aunt Hetty, realizing the futility of argument where Ruth was concerned, miserably acquiesced.

"Is it possible you sleep on a feather bed?" exclaimed Ruth that evening, unexpectedly invading her aunt's room. "Don't you know that feathers are not sanitary? You need some one to look after you, Aunt Mehitable."

"I'm not so old as that," protested Hetty.

"It isn't altogether a matter of age; it's temperament. You take life like a grasshopper. You really do need some one. Of course you'll have me until"—

"Until you marry?" suggested Hetty.

"I have been thinking of it," Ruth admitted complacently. "By the way, how do you like Fred?"

"I think he is in every way desirable. I don't believe any woman could ask for a better husband."

"I'm glad to hear you say so," said Ruth. "Was his father a good husband?"

"I do not remember Fred's mother. She died when I was very young. But I always understood they were very happy."

"I met Mr. Stirling frequently at Jessie's," said Ruth. "He came to Boston on business. If Fred is like his father I'm sure he'll make a good husband. We were talking about you this afternoon. He thinks you look younger than I do, and he thinks, as I do, that you need some one to take care of you. He really takes a great interest in you, Aunt Mehitable."

"He takes a great interest in you apparently, which is more to the point," ejaculated her exasperated aunt. "Do you mean to pretend that you don't want Fred to be fond of you?"

"Why, of course," asserted Ruth as she rose to leave the room. "Of course I hope Fred is going to be fond of me. I shall have that feather bed taken up to the garret tomorrow morning, Aunt Mehitable."

In the days that followed Hetty found herself taken in hand and "looked after" with a thoroughness that reduced her to the verge of melancholia. All her actions and movements were regulated by her energetic niece, who decided what she should eat, what she should drink and wherewithal she should be clothed.

"Ruth is so systematic," said Hetty loyally when Fred awkwardly attempted to condole with her. "She has such executive ability. She's really wonderful."

"She is, indeed," Fred assented. "She is a perfect example of what the higher education can do for a woman. But, joking aside, I don't think she's an awfully good sort, and I'm fonder of her than any other girl I know. This is a very pleasant day. Can't you come for a row on the river, Hetty?"

"N-no. I have some work that must be attended to," she faltered.

"You haven't given me any of your attention since I've been here," he complained. "You're not treating me right, Hetty."

"But—Ruth"— Hetty began in surprise.

Fred rose to his feet.

"Hetty," he said, "I want you to know something. When I left for the west, you kissed me goodby. Oh, I know you felt nothing but friendship for your old playfellow, and it sounds silly to say, but it's true, I've never kissed another woman. I meant to tell you some day, and now that"— He paused. "I promised not to say anything until Ruth told you, but"—

"I understand," said Hetty softly.

"Did she tell you?" he asked.

"Not in so many words, but I think she meant me to understand. I am so glad."

"It began last winter," said Fred. "I'm glad too. I think we're all going to be very happy."

"Aunt Mehitable," broke in Ruth's crisp voice, "here's a telegram from Mr. Stirling. He will arrive this evening."

The interruption was welcome to Hetty. She felt that she could not have endured another word.

Hetty spent the remainder of the day in her room. Fred and Ruth waved their hands gayly when she drove off to the station to meet Mr. Stirling. How well they looked together, she thought. Something in the sight stirred a strain of sadness in her. She seemed to realize for the first time that she had been cheated out of her girlhood.

Absorbed in her sad musings, she absentmindedly took a turning which made her drive longer by half a mile. When she reached the station Mr. Stirling had already started for the Pines.

Hetty drove back slowly. The full moon arose and the air was sweet with the scent of roses, but Hetty had no thoughts for the beauty of the night.

She threw the reins to the stable boy and took a short cut for the house. She was in no mood to join the family party and intended to go quietly to her room.

As she passed the rose garden she caught sight of Ruth's white dress in the shrubbery. Ruth's face was upturned to her companion, and—yes, he had taken her in his arms. It was Ruth's kiss Fred would remember now.

Hetty sat down on a rustic seat under a live oak. The meaning of it all swept over her. She was thirty-four, and there had never been moonlight or a rose garden for her. She had always left love out of her plans for herself, and now it was Fred, Ruth's Fred, out there in the rose garden, and she was alone with the emptiness of thirty-four unlived years—alone and old. Her eyes filled with scalding tears, and she sobbed aloud.

"Why, Hetty, what on earth are you crying about?"

Fred sat down beside her and gathered her in his arms.

"Don't cry, dearest," he implored. "Tell me what the trouble is. Don't you want dad to have Ruth? Why, I"—

"Your father!" gasped Hetty. "Is that who she's with?"

"Why, of course," said Fred. "I told you all about it."

Hetty sprang up in astonishment.

"I expected her to marry you," she cried.

He laughed softly.

"I didn't. She knew all along that I wanted to marry you. She's been doing all she could to make the match. She knew you needed some one to look after you."

The Seven Prophets.

"The late Duke of Devonshire," said a diplomat at a Washington dinner, "kept a stud and took a calm and ducal interest in the races. There was a certain sporting paper that kept a large staff of prophets and always prophesied the outcome of important races. The duke for some reason put great reliance in these prophets and their prophecies. He always read the paper, and he continually recommended it to his friends. But once at Goodwood, at the day's end, a man came up to the duke and said:

"'What of your paper now? Did you see it this morning? Six prophets prophesied that six different horses would win, and here only seven ran, and the winner was the seventh, which no prophet had selected. Well, what have you to say now?

"'All I have to say,' the duke answered calmly, 'is that there's room for another prophet on that paper.'"

Downing Street, London.

The greatest street in the world is one of the smallest. This is Downing street, a dark little alley in the west of London. Here is the real center of the British empire, for it is at 10 Downing street that the premier has his official residence. Ever since Robert Walpole was the prime minister, 200 years ago, the heads of the government have made their homes in this "alley." American tourists usually go out of their way to gaze upon the dingy, almost repellent exterior of this lodge of diplomacy and national ambition, because Sir George Downing, who laid out the street and built the house therein, was of American ancestry, his mother belonging to the Winthrops of Massachusetts Bay Colony, and stands as the second graduate on the roster of Harvard college. After getting an American education he went to England and, seizing opportunity when it offered, became Oliver Cromwell's ambassador at The Hague.—Exchange.

Feeding the Stock.

The victim of the following story, told in Mrs. Henry W. Cole's "A Lady's Tour Around Monte Rosa," was possessed of a keen sense of humor. Otherwise his dignity might have been ruffled by the unconscious revelation which came to his ears. In the course of Mrs. Cole's travels she met the Rev. Robert Montgomery, the poet, who told her an incident of his early career in the pulpit. When he was first admitted to holy orders he was appointed curate in a rural Scotch district and lodged in the house of a small tenant farmer. Notwithstanding his office of clergyman the family did not appear to hold their boarder in high veneration, for one day he heard the woman servant call out to her mistress:

"Missis, shall I feed the pigs first or gie the mon his dinner?"

Tea Drinking.

Tea drinking was regarded as one of the feminine vices of a hundred years ago. The Female Spectator of that period observes: "The tea table costs more to support than would maintain two children at nurse. It is the utter destruction of all economy, the bane of good housewifery and the source of idleness."—London Mail.

Costly Jar of the Subway.

The tuppenny tube, London's subway, once set fire to a house in a manner so extraordinary as to merit attention. In a mansion beneath which runs the subterranean railway one of the bedroom fireplaces was fitted with a blower—a sheet of iron inside the grate which can be raised or lowered to regulate the draft. The blower rested on a series of iron notches. One afternoon a servant kindled a fire in the grate and, when it was well alight raised the blower, so that the coal would burn but slowly, and so left it while she went downstairs. Presently, deep in the clay beneath the foundations of the house, a train rushed along. The vibrations from its passing were sufficient to jar the blower from the notches on which the servant had left it. It dropped down. The draft increased; the fire raged madly. The flames were enough to set the chimney on fire, burning soot set the water tank on the roof alight, and there resulted a considerable conflagration.—Pittsburg Post.

A Girl and a Snake.

It is a matter of fact that men have greater fear of serpents than have women. During a visit to friends in the country I was crossing a stretch of meadow in the company of my hostess' daughter, a sprightly girl of seventeen, when a black snake crossed the path ten feet in front of us. I caught my companion by the sleeve, but she wrenched herself loose, gathered her skirts about her knees, gave a running jump and landed squarely upon the back of the reptile. His snakeship thrashed the grass and the girl's ankles with equal futility. As soon as she could disengage one foot she planted it upon the serpent's head. In the absence of club or stones I was compelled to stand and witness a scene that to me was terrifying, but to the girl furnished supreme enjoyment. Years afterward when I read Haggard's description of Jess' fight with the kangaroo I understood the kind of entertainment that my young companion had provided for me.—Brooklyn Eagle.

There's a Hare in the Moon.

Equally famous with the man in the moon and the woman in the moon is the hare in the moon, says Garrett P. Serviss in his "Astronomy With the Naked Eye." The original is a Buddhist legend. The god Sakkria, disguised as a Brahman, pretended to be starving and went to the animals for help. The monkey got him a bunch of mangoes; the coot picked up a fisherman's neglected string for him; the fox stole him a pot of milk. At last the god approached the hare. "I have nothing but grass," said the hare, "and you can't eat that." "But your flesh is good," suggested the pretended Brahman. The hare assented. "Then," said the Brahman, "I'll kindle a fire at the foot of this rock, and you jump off into it. That'll save me the trouble of killing you." The hare assented again, but as he leaped from the rock the god caught him in his arms and then drew his figure in the moon as a perpetual reminder of the excellence of self sacrifice.

Cerebral Embolism.

Cerebral embolism, or the occlusion or plugging of an artery in the brain, causes sudden death. Growths or vegetations form on the valves of the heart. While attached they are harmless, but the instant one, large or small, becomes loosened and enters the rapid arterial current a very perilous condition obtains. The embolus, or plug, enters a vessel that becomes narrower and narrower and at last it is arrested and occludes or plugs the artery, thereby cutting off the blood supply. The force of the blood current back of the embolus keeps it at the seat of arrest. In brain cases the middle cerebral artery, at the base of the brain, is affected. Once lodged unconsciousness follows and soon death. Some of the symptoms resemble those of a true cerebral hemorrhage or apoplexy.—New York Herald.

A Quaint English Ceremony.

On the last day of each October the city solicitor of London, with an assistant, attends upon the royal remembrancer, when by proclamation "the tenants and occupiers of a piece of waste ground called the moors, in the county of Salop," are commanded to "come forth and do your service upon pain and peril that shall fall thereon." The solicitor chops in halves two fagots, one with a hatchet and the other with a billhook. Afterward comes the summons to the tenants, etc., of "a certain tenement with a forge" in the Strand and the payment of six horseshoes, with sixty-one shoe nails, by the solicitor. This forge has long ceased to be, and the same shoes and nails are used year after year, the shoes being at least two centuries old.

Spell This.

Some of you who think you are well up in spelling just try to spell the words in this little sentence:

"It is agreeable to witness the unparalleled ecstasy of two harassed pedlers endeavoring to gauge the symmetry of two peeled pears."

Read it over to your friends and see how many of them can spell every word correctly. The sentence contains some of the real puzzlers of the spelling book.

Too Good a Chance to Miss.

He (indignantly)—They have put us in a back pew this morning. Why, I wonder? She (calmly)—They probably noticed that I wore a dowdy hat and that I shouldn't care to have it seen!

There is a saying that people are as "homely as a mud fence." Did any one ever see a mud fence or know if there is such a thing?—Atchison Globe.

An Erratic Echo.

The late Sir John Leng had traveled in most quarters of the globe. On one occasion when visiting Spain he was asked at a certain spot by a traveling companion to test the powers of what was declared to be a wonderful echo. Sir John, slowly and deliberately, in rounded tones uttered the words, "Dun-dee Ad-ver-ti-ser," the name of the paper he owned. "Dundee Courier and Argus," the name of the opposition paper, came back as the echo! Sir John's friends had played him a trick.

Disease and Remedies.

It is almost a truism among physicians that the intractability of a disease may be measured by the number of "infallible" remedies for it which from time to time have been recommended.—London Times.

Sociologist Defined.

"Uncle Henry, what is a sociologist?"

"A sociologist, my boy, is a person who can inspect a garbage can and find enough material in it for a long lecture on the needs of society."—Chicago Tribune.

IDLE NOTES

There has been so much discussion of late concerning the influence of the moving pictures. The latest and best use the cinimograph has been put to, is to teach the peasants of France, Bible history.

* * *

In reading over the school report, we find that fire-escapes are expensive but when we notice that there has been sixty eight fires in schools in the United States this year, the price ought not to be considered if they are needed, for the lives of so many children ought not to be imperiled.

* * *

The story hour for the children of Adrian has become so popular that the ladies have been compelled to rent Everies hall. Last Tuesday afternoon one hundred children gathered to listen to Miss Alice Angell who entertained them in a most charming manner. Would not this idea of a story hour be a good one for the Tecumseh ladies to investigate. We are sure every child here would appreciate such an hour.

* * *

As I read over the recent report of the school board I wondered if there were many members of the "One Big Family" who realized the vast amount of time and thought the members of the board give so freely to the village and not only the time, but the responsibility they assume. How many of us ever stop to thank them and let them know that we appreciate their efforts to keep our schools up to the high standard they have mantained.

FREE RACE MATINEE.

The Tecumseh Driving Club are arranging an "after harvest" racing matinee for Saturday, July 25, for those who enjoy good clean horse racing, the club will endeavor to give the third of their free racing matinees on the Bills race track. The matinee will consist of four good races,—a 2:40 pace, 2:24 trot, green race, and a free for all trot or pace. All the races will be half mile heats, 3 in 5, with entrance free. Three prizes will be given in each race.

It is requested that all entries will be sent to the secretary, James McCann on or before Friday, July 24. Everyone is invited to come, the admission being free to all, and see the races. Many fast horses are expected.

The man I wish to marry, says a contributor to the August Designer, is one who would if necessary, when washday comes, roll up his sleeves and bend his back over the washtub: who would be the first to turn out on cold winter mornings and build the fires; who would be ready to walk the floor at midnight with a colicky baby; who would spend many of his evenings at home with me instead of loafing around barrooms, street corners, or other places of amusement, talking clap-trap and politics; who does not indulge in intoxicants of of any kind, who does not consider that he is IT. In short I wish to marry a MAN. As to looks, and age while they count, nevertheless they are a minor consideration.

BEST THE WORLD AFFORDS.

"It gives me unbounded pleasure to recommend Bucklen's Arnica Salve," says J. W. Jenkins, of Chapel Hill, N. C. "I am convinced it's the best salve the world affords. It cured a felon on my thumb, and it never fails to heal every sore, burn or wound to which it is applied. 25c. at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

Curing Snake Bites.

Considerable difference of opinion exists with regard to a trustworthy remedy for snake bites. Dr. Lauder Brunton advocates the use of permanganate of potash applied immediately. Mr. Greengrass of North Arcot district, Madras, however, as the result of various experiments states that acetic acid, even in the diluted form of vinegar, is an important and effectual remedy, and it can be applied effectually as long as an hour or an hour and a half after the bite. Cases of recovery from snake bites have followed the application of vinegar after such intervals. An incision must be made over the bite, as much of the poison as possible squeezed out, and then vinegar is to be injected. If the bite is on a limb, a ligature must be placed above it. Mr. Greengrass records twenty-nine cases of recovery from cobra bites by such a use of vinegar. The one failure which occurred was due to the fact that no incision had been made over the bite. A similar treatment is recommended for the stings of scorpions.—London Standard.

Smartness.

Do not be "smart." Whenever you see any of your mates showing signs of "smartness" in his work, his talk or his play take him by the hand, or both hands, or by the back of the neck, if necessary, and lovingly, playfully, but firmly, lead him to a knowledge of higher and more interesting things. In these words of Mr. Kipling is presented the gospel of real life, of common sense and of universal experience.—New York Outlook.

BASE BALL

Tecumseh vs. Adrian Independents.

The Tecumseh League baseball team crossed bats with Adrian Independents at Adrian yesterday, where a large crowd witnessed the game, that Adrian had entertained hopes of winning.

After their Herculean effort of gathering such an "ump" and such a crowd together, and then, for Adrian to have to write failure, the Herald extends their deepest sympathy.

Tecumseh made it three straight in a shut out game with Lansing on local grounds Friday, score 2 to 0.

Hogan and Lagoe engaged in a pitchers battle, Lagoe holding the visitors down to four hits, while but five safe ones could be secured off Hogan. The illness of McDonald crippled the Indians a little as Todd was obliged to play center and Doty in right field. But one error was made in the entire game and that in Tecumseh's infield.

In the first inning, the Indians started when, after two were gone, Streeter drew a pass, stole second, and scored, on Wagner's two bagger. In the sixth, Somerlot singled, advanced on Schippy's sacrifice, third on a passed ball and scored on Streeter's single. Score as follows:

OBITAURY

MRS. JANE POOL.

Mrs. Jane Pool, widow of the late John Pool, died last night at 11 o'clock at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. W. H. Hindes, at 505 Center street. Her husband died in October of 1906. Surviving her are two daughters, Mrs. Benjamin Hindes, of Tecumseh, Mich., and Mrs. W. H. Hindes at whose home she died. Her age was 74 years. The funeral will be held Wednesday at 2:30 o'clock at the Hindes residence and interment will be made in Oak Ridge cemetery.—Goshen Herald.

Mrs Hindes attended the funeral at Goshen, Ind., returning Thursday evening.

JOHN C. SMITH

John, the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John Smith, of Brownville, died last Saturday evening, at 11:30 of whooping cough. The funeral was held from the home this afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. Dunning officiating. The burial occured at Brookside. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have the sympathy of a number of friends.

MRS. HOWARD WHELAN

Mrs. Howard Whelan died at her home in Detroit last evening, after a long illness. The funeral will be held from the home in Detroit Wednesday morning. Mr. Whelan has the sympathy of his many friends in Tecumseh, in his bereavement.

writes P. S. Baxter, Kyneville, Fla.

Mr. Baxter writes: "My wife suffered with Sciatic Rheumatism for seven years. She was in a very bad condition. After using "5-Drops" for three months it made a permanent cure. This was several years ago and she is still well.

STOPS THE PAINS

"5-DROPS" taken internally rids the blood of the poisonous matter and acids which are the direct cause of these diseases. Applied externally it affords almost instant relief from pain, while persistent results are being obtained by purifying the blood, dissolving the poisonous substance and removing it from the system.

A TRIAL BOTTLE FREE

If you are suffering with Rheumatism, Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Kidney Trouble or any kindred disease, write to us for a trial bottle of "5-DROPS" and test it yourself.

"5-DROPS" is entirely free from opium, cocaine, morphine, alcohol, laudanum and other similar ingredients.

Large Size Bottle "5-DROPS" (300 Doses) $1.00.

"One who was not afraid, and who spoke the truth." This is the summary that F. Hopkinson Smith makes of the character of Captain Thomas A. Scott, Master Diver, whose life he sketches in the August Everybody's. Captain Scott was a plain American, one of the "common people," with a heart full of the milk of human kindness, a hand ever ready to help and protect the weak. He was a real hero—the record of his life as a wrecker and diver proves this. It is full of instances of his nobility and sacrifice of self, and not only inspires and uplifts, but forces one to be an optimist.

COL. A. S. CUMMINS

Of Port Townsend, Resigned his Service in the Army, July 10.

APPROPRIATE EXERCISES WERE HELD AT FORT WORDEN.

Officers Present him a Loving Cup.

We clip the following items from the Army and Naval Journal and the Seattle Post, concerning the retirment from office of Col. Albert S. Cumming of Fort Worden at Port Townsend, Wash.

Col. Albert S. Cummins, Coast Art., U.S.A., who retires July 10, 1908, upon his own application, is a native of Michigan and a graduate of the U.S.M.A., class of 1873, when he was assigned as a second lieutenant to the 4th Artillery. During his service he was on duty in the seventies at different posts in California, and while on frontier duty at Camp Robinson, Neb., in 1876, took part in the Powder River Expedition. He has served as professor of military science and tactics at the University of Vermont and at Forts Adams, Monroe, Warren, McPherson, Governors Island and other posts. He served as A.D.C. to Major General Ruger part of 1896 and '97, and as a captain in the 4th Artillery in 1898 took part in the campaign against Santiago, Cuba, with siege artillery, and in the bombardment and surrender of that city. He served in the Philippine campaign as lieutenant colonel of the 27th U.S. Volunteers in 1899 to 1901. He is a graduate of the U.S. Artillery School, class of 1881, and reached the grade of colonel Jan. 25, 1907. He would not have retired for age until July 19, 1915.

Exercises more important than ever before marked the existence of Fort Worden as an artillery garrison were brought to a close at noon Friday, July 10, in honor of the retirement from active army service of Col. Albert S. Cummins, commanding the district. The stellar feature of a long list of notable observances of the occasion came immediately after 12 o'clock yesterday, when, in the presence of officers of the district, the retiring officer was presented with a massive silver loving cup, a gift from the officers over whom Col. Cummins had presided for the past thirteen months.

The gift is richly hammered and designed, bearing the inscription: "Presented to Col. Albert S. Cummins, Coast artillery corps, United States army, upon his retirement from active service, July 10, 1908, by the officers of the artillery district of Puget sound, his last command, as a token of their highest regard and esteem."

The sentiment of the inscription was most appropriately approved by the ceremonies that marked the presentation. Col. Cummins had been asked to remain in his headquarters office for a moment after the noon hour had brought about his retirement. At the last stroke of twelve all officers of the district who could be spared from duty filed into the room, and without comment the gift was offered. Efforts to grace the occasion with addresses failed by reason of the feeling that overcame the recipient of the honor and the officers who were bidding good-by to a respected commander.

A conspicuous feature among the touching scenes of the last moments of service of Col. Cummins was the appearance before him of the noncommissioned officers of Fort Worden. Each was given permission to bid a farewell. Many of the formalities of army life were overlooked in the farewells of the men to their colonel. Each had words of regret for the sundering of their relations and best wishes for long life and happiness to the departing officer. Army men who witnessed the leave-taking do not recall an occasion where a retiring officer has been accorded so kindly a refirement by officers and men.

With sentiment aroused by the strains of "Auld Lang Syne," played by the Sixth artillery band, the army career of Col. Cummins was brought to a termination.

The dedication of a soldiers' monument in the Fort Worden cemetery was the last formal act of Col. Cummins. With an attendance including among the participants United States Senator S. H. Piles and other distinguished citizens, the occasion was made one that will be long remembered among the spectacular events of the post.

Col. and Mrs. Cummins will return to Tecumseh, arriving here about August 1st., where they will make their future home The Herald joins with their many friends in welcoming them back to their former home.

RELAY RACE.

Boys in New York-Chicago Relay Contest Pass Adrian.

AT AN EARLY HOUR MONDAY MORNING.

Four Tecumseh Y. M. C. A. Boys Are Interested in the Contest.

Three quarters of an hour before scheduled time, the great cross country relay race, struck Adrian yesterday morning, and the silver tube, which contains a message from the Mayor of New York City to the Mayor of Chicago, was handed to Mayor King by a Toledo runner and the mayor handed it to Bronson Aldrich, who started out on College ave., at 8:15 yesterday morning.

The message, was started from the New York City hall at 10 o'clock last Wednesday morning and was stopped at Freemont, Ohio for over Sunday, as no part of the trip was to be made on Sunday. The boys resumed running at two o'clock Monday morning, and they were 10 hours ahead of their schedule.

The average time made by the Toledo runners was 5:02 minutes per mile and twelve miles an hour instead of the eight scheduled.

Four Tecumseh boys ran from Osseo to Hilladale. They were Roger Waring, Kenneth Ward, Wade Frost and Seymonr Boyd. It is now expected that the message will be handed to Mayor Busse at the Chicago City hall about noon today, making the 1,000 mile trip in 118 hours, and at an average of eight and two third miles an hour.

RUNAWAYS.

Mrs. Geo. Wilson and Mrs. Arthur Dove of Tipton, had a lively time for a few minutes with their horse last Saturday evening, that finally succeeded in getting away from them. They drove up to the watering trough on west Chicago street. Mrs. Wilson got out and took the bit out of the horse's mouth in order to let it drink. When the animal had finished drinking, he backed and started to run. Mrs Dove, who had remained in the carriage, seeing that she could do nothing, jumped. The carriage passed over her right shoulder, but she was not badly injured. Mrs. Wilson was not injured, but was badly frightened. The ladies telephoned home and Howard Matthews took them home later.

Williamson's horse and wagon was driven to B. J. Pulver's last Friday afternoon, where several barrells were being loaded upon the wagon when one of the barrells fell from the wagon on to the horse. The animal started to run and broke loose from the wagon, but was caught near the barn. They were obliged to get another dray to come after the barrells.

BAND CONCERT.

Next Thursday at 7 o'clock the Tecumseh band will give a concert on the streets, taking up a collection afterwards to help them buy music and to pay their other expenses. Tecumseh needs a band and the boys have practiced under the leadership of Charles Skinner for some time and are able to give Tecumseh people good music. The band now play as well as the old Co. C band, and with a little encouragement from the citizens will be able to give them pretty good music during the summer evenings. If this concert is successful on Thursday evening they will continue to give them once a week during the summer.

GRANT—PARKER.

Wm. F. Parker of Tecumseh, and Miss Orris Louise Grant of Buffalo, N. Y., were married in Justice Wightman's office last Saturday night at 8 o'clock. Mr. Parker is employed at Thomas Elliott's blacksmith shop. They will reside in Tecumseh.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF AGONY

Will You Continue to Suffer From Catarrh in the Face of This Testimony?

"I suffered for fifteen years with catarrhal troubles so bad that I had to leave the sea. I could not lie down at night to sleep, on account of the constant catarrhal dropping. I went to two different hospitals for treatment, but without any lasting benefit. I was constantly raising yellow and green phlegm, and the trouble was so unbearable and nauseating that I was ashamed to go out in company. I have used only two bottles of Hyomei, and have been cured by the remedy. I have made a full and complete recovery." CAPT. WILLNEF.

Hyomei is a dry, healing, antiseptic air, extracted from the Eucalyptus groves of Australia. It is a pleasure to use Hyomei, because you do not take it into the stomach; you simply breathe in this germ-killing air, and relief is immediate, and complete recovery comes in a few days. Hyomei outfit, including an inhaler that will last a lifetime, costs $1.00. If it does not cure your catarrh, asthma, bronchitis, coughs or colds, C. A. Wright & Son's drug store will give you your money back.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition, beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

GIVING OUT.

The struggle discourages many a citizen of Tecumseh.

Around all day with an aching back;
Can't rest at night;
Enough to make any one "give out."
Doan's Kidney Pills will give renewed life.
They will cure the backache;
Cure every kidney ill.
Here is Tecumseh proof that this is so.

John B. Smith, debuty sheriff, living on East Chicago Avenue, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I experienced a great deal of suffering from pains in the small of my back, through the loins and about the kidneys and when an attack was present it was hard for me to do my work. On bending over, I would be seized with dizzy spells, when spots of fire would flash before my eyes. I was restless at night, and in the morning would get up feeling tired and unrefreshed. I doctored a great deal, also used a number of remedies, but received no permanent benefit. Finally I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and the statements made concerning them were so convincing that I was induced to procure a box at Wright and Son's drug store. I felt great benefit after taking the contents of the first box, and this encouraged I continued until they effected a complete cure. I will always recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone I hear complaining of kidney trouble."

Some Epigrams.

Tom Hood cast epigrams at himself in the face of death. His wife was preparing a large mustard plaster to apply to his shrunken chest. "My dear," said Hood, "that's a terrible lot of mustard for a small piece of beef."

Sir Walter Raleigh expressed himself in a similar mood after he mounted the scaffold. Feeling the edge of the ax, he said to the executioner, "This is a sharp medicine, but it is a cure for all diseases."

An Italian nobleman, probably beguiled by patent medicine advertisements, left this inscription for his gravestone: "I was well, wanted to be better, took physic and died."

A brother Scot who did not sympathize with his peccadilios in life, when asked to suggest an appropriate epitaph for Scotland's national poet, said, "His ain name's enough—Robert Burns."—Boston Post.

St. Peter's In Rome.

From the beginning of the foundation to the time when the great church of St. Peter's in Rome could be said to be complete three and a half centuries had elapsed, eighteen architects had been employed and forty-three popes had reigned. The cost of the great church can never be known with exactness. At the end of the seventeenth century it had cost $50,000,000, without including the sacristy bell, towers, etc. The last important work on the edifice was done by Pope Pius IX., on the four hundredth anniversary of the birth of Michelangelo. — New York American.

Waifs Who Became Famous.

The list of waifs who have become famous, says the Delineator, is a long one. It includes Sir Henry Stanley, Queen Catherine the Good, Alexander Hamilton, Rosa Bonheur, Edgar Allan Poe, Rachel, Leonardo da Vinci and dates back as far as Moses. All these were homeless children—children who if left to their fate would undoubtedly have drifted into evil ways. Instead they have lived to add glory to their names and have contributed to the knowledge of the world at large through the fruits of their genius.

Sleep

Sleep is nature's rebuilding period, when the energy used by the brain, muscles and organs is renewed. If you lose sleep, your system is robbed of the strength sleep should give. Continued loss of sleep multiplies this loss until you become a physical wreck. Dr. Miles' Nervine quiets the irritated nerves and brings refreshing, invigorating sleep. Nervine contains no opiates, and therefor leaves no bad after-effects.

"For over two years I suffered untold agonies; my friends thought I was going crazy. I could not sleep nor rest at all. I tried different doctors, but failed to find relief. My head would ache all the time; I was like one drunk; could not concentrate my mind, and was so restless and worried that sleep was out of the question. After taking one bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine I felt wonderfully changed. I am now on my third bottle and am gaining all the time. I can lie down and sleep like a child, and am able to do my work." MRS. MAY SCOTT, English, Ind.

Your druggist sells Dr. Miles' Nervine, and we authorize him to return price of first bottle (only) if it fails to benefit you.

Main street in Dundee will soon be a beautiful street. The paving being done by Messrs Johnson and Lynn, makes the street just like a floor to walk or ride on, and it will soon be finished. They have carried the work on in such a quite manner and the work of managing so many men in the quite good natured way will long be remembered by the people who live on Main street Those who have no chance to ride can sit on their porches and see others enjoy riding and to listen to the patter of the horses hoofs sounds as though we were in the city sure enough. We hope that other streets will soon be paved as it makes them so much nicer.

ECCENTRIC STAMPS.

Blunders That Bring Joy to the Hearts of Philatelists.

"The fascination of stamp collecting," said a postal official, "lies in the rare 'finds' which are continually made and the curious points which sometimes make a stamp of the face value of a few pence worth hundreds of pounds. For instance, the twopence blue Mauritius stamp which the Prince of Wales bought at a public auction for £1,450 was unique in one respect—the proper wording on it, 'Post Paid Mauritius,' had by a strange error been altered to 'Post Office Mauritius.'

"Another stamp which has been priced at several hundred pounds is valuable for the mere misspelling of a single word. It is a British Guiana issue worth just 1 cent, but it is sought after by all collectors because the word 'Patimusque' figures on it instead of 'Petimusque.'

"Again, a one penny Cape of Good Hope stamp changed hands the other day for nearly £200 simply because instead of being red, as are all the others of this issue, its color was blue.

"Some years ago in Western Australia a few stamps were printed with the figure of a swan upside down upon them. When the mistake was detected the issue was hastily destroyed. Several specimens had escaped, and one of them has been sold for £400."—London Tit-Bits.

Fortune For Forgers.

The last person to suffer death for forgery in London was a Thomas Maynard, who was executed on Dec. 31, 1829. It was not, however, until 1832 that the death penalty for the crime was replaced by transportation, though even then an exception was made in the case of forging or altering a will. This exception was not removed from the statute book until 1837. In the days of good Queen Bess a forger of deeds was very severely dealt with. He had to stand in the pillory; his ears were cut off, his nose slit, and he was branded with hot irons. If he survived these ordeals he was doomed to imprisonment for the rest of his days, and everything he possessed in the world was forfeited to the crown. Surely death would have been far more merciful.

Flavoring Tobacco.

Nearly all tobaccos are doctored in various ways in order to suit the tastes of different consumers. Each manufacturer—even in Havana—has his own secret methods, handed down from father to son, which are regarded as perfectly legitimate and necessary in the preparation of the soothing weed. Saltpeter is added to the tobacco to make it burn well, licorice, honey, molasses and maple sugar to give sweetness to it for the special benefit of chewers and rum to make it keep well and preserve its properties. Nearly every plant which will afford a perfume is used in the preparation of what are known as "fancy" tobaccos. But it is not true, as some suppose, that opium and deleterious drugs are employed, save in a few brands of imported Turkish and Egyptian cigarettes. Among the flavors used are coffee, tea, valerian, lemon, orange, geranium, sassafras, thyme, anise, mint and cinnamon. Gum and glycerin are occasionally employed to bind the tobacco particles so that they shall not crumble into dust. The various ingredients are made into a kind of sauce, into which the tobacco leaves are dipped or with which they are sprinkled.—London Answers.

The Proper Adjective.

At the close of a revival service in Philadelphia the minister of the church went down the aisle, according to his custom, to greet the strangers in the congregation. "I don't think you are a member of our church," said he to one as he warmly shook his hand. "No, sir," replied the stranger. "Well, you will not think me unduly curious if I ask to what denomination you belong?" asked the minister. "I suppose," responded the other, "I'm really what you might call a submerged Presbyterian." "A submerged Presbyterian?" exclaimed the minister. "I should be glad if you would explain." "Well, I was brought up a Presbyterian, my wife is a Methodist, my eldest daughter is a Baptist, my son is the organist at a Unitarian church, my second daughter sings in an Episcopal choir, and my youngest goes to a Congregational Sunday school." "But," said the minister, aghast, "you contribute doubtless to some church?" "Yes; I contribute to all of them," was the answer. "That's what submerges me."

Crows and Strings.

It was proved centuries ago that a crow can count up to three and no more. I met a farmer once who said that his corn crop had not failed in twenty years owing to his habit of stringing his field. He explained: "No crow will enter an angle formed by two strings stretched on poles. I illustrated this to some friends several years ago by sowing a small field in corn for fodder, protecting it by a zigzag string running from one end to the other. Within the angles formed by the string not a blade of the young crop was touched, but close without them, at each end, the whole crop was demolished. A crow is a very wise fool, and this is an effective and cheap way of circumventing him."—New York Press.

Sign Language on the Curb.

Any one would imagine all the curb brokers in Broad street were mutes. They use the sign language down there now to convey quotations and sales to their office boys and clerks who sit in the windows of the offices to catch the quotations. As a matter of fact, some of the brokers use the deaf and dumb alphabet; others use a distinct signaling code of their own, known only to the one single house and its representative. Even this, however, has to be changed now and then. The brokers possess a nimble wit, and they soon learn the secret signs of their competitors.—New York Cor. Pittsburg Dispatch.

The Safest Way.

"My friends dragged me into this wretched affair," shiveringly said the first duelist to his adversary as the seconds approached with the deadly weapons. "I never pulled the trigger of a pistol in my life, so if I hit you it will be an accident."

"Nor is this awful duel to my liking," whined the challenger, white to the gills. "Like you, a pistol is a strange article to my hands, and if I shoot you it will be with a stray shot."

"Then, for heaven's sake," exclaimed the first duelist, with a ray of hope, "let's aim carefully at each other or one of us may get hit!"—Kansas City Newsbook.

Selwyn's Curious Taste.

George Selwyn had a strange but not uncommon passion for seeing dead bodies, especially those of his friends. He would go any distance to gratify this pursuit. Lord Holland was laid up very ill at Holland House shortly before his death. George Selwyn sent to ask how he was and whether he would like to see him. Lord Holland answered: "Oh, by all means! If I'm alive tomorrow I shall be delighted to see George, and I know that if I am dead he will be delighted to see me!"

"And you," replied the second, getting red in the face, "are temperamentally inconceivable."—Philadelphia Ledger.

NOT DISHEARTENED.

Americans Will Continue to Contest in Olympics, Although Surpassed by Britishers.

London, July 20.—The United Kingdom, which before the opening of the Olympic games at the Stadium had a big lead over all other nations in the number of wins in the contest for supremacy in all sports, most of which, however, were scored in competition in which no other nation took part, almost doubled that lead during the past week and, furthermore, overtook the American team in the count for track and field events.

But this has not served to dishearten the American athletes and those of their countrymen who accompanied them to England. James E. Sullivan, the commissioner representing the United States, said to the Associated Press:

"We have come here to win the championship in field sports, and we are going to do it despite the handicap from which we are suffering. This handicap has been two fold. In the first place the men came to a country having the worst possible climate for those unused to it, and this affected them very seriously, more seriously than those not engaged in the games have any idea of. It is not only that the men cannot get into their best form, but the weather conditions make them low spirited.

"The other handicap against which we have had to contend is the manner in which the heat drawings have been conducted. The drawings have gone against us. Our best men, Sheppard and Halstead, were pitted against each other. Bromilow and Ramey also have been put into a heat together, while in two heats of the 800 meters not a single American has been drawn."

Mr. Sullivan concluded by saying: "The United Kingdom had its innings in the distance events last week; the Americans will have their turn this week in the sprints, hurdles and jumps."

BECOMES UNION MAN.

Taft Has Been Elected Member of Society of Steam Shovelmen.

Hot Springs, Va., July 20.—When Judge William H. Taft goes to Cincinnati to be notified of his nomination for the presidency by the Republican party, he will receive notice of his election as a member of a labor organization. He has been elected a member of the International Society of Steam Shovelmen, of which T. J. Dolan of Chicago is president. Mr. Taft had a good deal to do with the steam shovel men at Panama. His notification of his membership in the union will be made on July 29th. He will probably leave here next Saturday for Cincinnati and may not return until the following Saturday.

Judge Taft has concluded that it will not be possible for him to attend any state fairs before the election. After September 1st he expects to remain in Cincinnati until the election is over.

Willis Moore, chief of the weather bureau, is here today. Mr. Moore has some ideas concerning the treatment of the labor problem which he desires to talk over with Mr. Taft.

Judge Taft attended the opening of court at Germantown, five miles from Hot Springs, this morning and delivered an address on the administration of justice. General H. C. Corbin and Mrs. Corbin are here by invitation of Mr. Taft.

Balloons Didn't Go Far.

St. Paul, Minn., July 20.—All the balloons which started from St. Paul Saturday in an effort to surpass the world's distance and endurance records have landed. The Pommern was the last balloon to report. It landed at Warsaw, Minn., at 10:30 o'clock Sunday. The Chicago won the distance and endurance prizes. The Chicago, the largest balloon in the race, owned by C. A. Coey of Chicago, came down at noon Sunday near Blooming Prairie, Minn., 73 miles south of St. Paul. A. Leo Stevens, director of the race, in explaining the failure of the aeronauts to sail greater distances, said that the lifting power of the gas was not as great as they had counted on, and that consequently the balloons were unable to carry the amount of ballast necessary for a long flight. A table of the air line distances covered by the balloons from St. Paul to the places of landing follows: King Edward, twenty-four miles; United States, fifty-five miles; America, fifty-eight miles; Chicago, seventy-three miles; Pommern, fifty-two miles.

KEEP NAVY ABREAST TIMES

Roosevelt Talked in This Way at Newport Conference.

A GUARANTEE AGAINST WAR.

President's Yacht Mayflower Collided With and Sunk Schooner During a Dense Fog—Crew of Ill Fated Craft Rescued by the President's Crew—Mayflower Badly Damaged.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 23.—President Roosevelt and his party returned here today on board the Mayflower from Newport, where he addressed the officers at the naval war college.

In his address at Newport the president spoke publicly for more than half an hour, and then the conference went into executive session for one hour. During this session the president took a leading part in the discussion. He argued as a layman; he explained, and did not attempt to give advice to professional men. He impressed upon the officers, however, that it was given to them to keep the American navy abreast of the time and to make it the hard hitting, efficient fighting force which he believes to be a guarantee against the possibility of war.

Cheap Insurance.

Mr. Roosevelt characterized the navy as the cheapest form of safety insurance policy the nation can obtain. The battleship conferences will continue at Newport and in Washington until definite plans for the ships to be laid down in the near future are decided upon.

On the trip to Newport the Mayflower had an adventurous night run, in the blackest fog of the summer, resulting in a collision in which the lumber laden schooner Menawa was cut practically in two by the president's yacht. A lifeboat, lowered from the Mayflower, picked up the crew of six men on the sinking boat. They were taken on board, and when the Mayflower arrived at Newport, the president, who knew nothing of the accident and the danger of the collision until he arose in the morning, directed that they be given sufficient money to take them to their homes in Maine and that the master of the schooner, Skipper Hutchinson, be provided with transportation to the office of his agents in New York.

Inquiry to Be Made.

Commander Snowden, who was in command of the Mayflower, summoned the men to his cabin and organized a summary court of inquiry, in which he took their statements for use in an investigation which he immediately requested the navy department at Washington to undertake.

The Mayflower will probably go to the New York navy yards for a thorough examination and repairs. There was no excitement of any sort on the yacht at the time of the collision. The lifeboat crew got away their craft in fine style. The men on the schooner had launched a boat immediately after the Mayflower had struck them and were rowing away from the wreck when the Mayflower's boat hailed them.

Assistant Secretary of the Navy Newberry attended the conference at Newport, as did General Horace Porter, president of the Navy league and chairman of the visitors to the naval academy. The conference included no less than ten rear admirals of the navy and a host of officers from the grade of captain and below.

A barn containing eighty tons of hay, belonging to the estate of the late Barney Mills, at Prescott, was struck by lightning during a severe electrical storm and destroyed.

Sheriff Clinger and officers of Muskegon are searching Muskegon lake for the body of Arthur Sprague, a former Salvation Army worker, who disappeared, leaving a note in which he said he intended killing himself.

The directors of the Menominee and Marinette Light & Traction company voted to increase the capital of the company from $450,000 to $1,000,000 for the purpose of building an immense power plant at Grand Rapids, sixteen miles from Menominee.

At the annual meeting of the Mackinac Island state park board, held at Mackinac Island, H. O. Joplin of Marquette was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the death of his father-in-law, Peter White. C. R. Miller of Adrian was elected president of the board.

Deputy Sheriff Cassady and his brother of Cassopolis succeeded in arresting Johnson Hall, whom South Bend (Ind.) officers have been hunting for more than a year on a warrant charging him with an attempt to kill his wife. The Indiana officers had located the man five times, but he always succeeded in making his escape.

GOVERNMENT TO FILE PETITION

Will Take Exception to Ruling Remanding Big Fine.

FINE WAS ASSESSED WRONG.

Should Have Been Based on Settlements Between Railroad and Oil Company—Government May Go to Trial on Original Indictment if Rehearing is Denied.

Chicago, July 23.—Following the unanimous decision of Judges Grosscup, Seaman and Baker, composing the United States circuit court of appeals, reversing and remanding the case of the government against the Standard Oil company of Indiana, in which case Judge Landis in the district court had imposed a fine of $29,240,000, the federal attorneys have announced that the government had thirty days within which to file a petition for a rehearing, and that it would be filed within the allotted period.

In the case that was reversed the Standard Oil company of Indiana was found guilty of accepting rebates on shipments of oil from its refinery at Whiting, Ind., to East St. Louis, Ill. Judge Landis fined the company $20,000 on each of 1,462 counts, each count representing a carload shipment.

The opinion of three judges of the higher court leaves little of the contention that each carload constituted a separate offense. Even the various shipments, of which there were about 500, could not be considered as separate offenses under the ruling of the court of appeals. The fine should have been based on settlements between the railroad and the oil company, the opinion holds. Of these there were just thirty-six. The maximum fine on this basis would amount to $720,000 and the minimum $36,000. It is said that $223,000 is the total amount which the Standard Oil company is alleged to have received as rebates on the shipments in question.

In the event that a rehearing is denied, the government may go to trial on the original indictment, containing 1,462 counts. Such an action District Attorney Sims could be ready to take within two weeks. There are also seven other indictments, containing 4,422 counts. As a vast amount of work has been done on the case already decided and reversed, it is unlikely that an entirely new case will be instituted. The record of the present case contains over a million and a half words, and it is estimated to have cost the government $200,000.

Another move which may be made by the federal attorney is to transfer the prosecution from this jurisdiction, either to the western New York district or the eastern Tennessee court. In these two districts the government investigation led to indictments containing 2,000 counts against the Standard Oil company.

Newport, R. I., July 23.—President Roosevelt while here was apprised of the action of the United States court of appeals in Chicago in reversing the decision of the lower court in the Standard Oil cases, but he made no comment.

Fleet Continues Journey.

Honolulu, July 23.—The Atlantic battleship fleet is today on its way to Auckland, N. Z., the next point on its world itinerary, where it is due to arrive on Aug. 8. The Minnesota did not accompany the fleet, but remained in port. She will stay until the mail steamer from San Francisco arrives and then overtake the fleet before it reaches Auckland. On his departure, Rear Admiral Sperry returned formal thanks to the people of Hawaii for their treatement of officers and men. He said: "I wish to express to the people of Honolulu and Hawaii the sincere appreciation of officers and men for the kindly and courteous hospitality extended throughout our visit. The courteous and fair treatment shown the enlisted man is especially gratifying and cannot fail to engender pride in the uniform and add to the contentment of the enlisted ones, producing a lasting and beneficial effect on the naval service.

Bishop Potter's Successor.

New York, July 23.—The Rt. Rev. David H. Greer, who was bishop coadjutor of New York until the death of Bishop Henry Potter, at Coopers town, N. Y., now becomes bishop of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York. Bishop Greer enters immediately into the office of the bishopric, no additional consecration being necessary. Bishop Greer is now in London, but will return to New York at once.

PAPER HELD AS SECURITY.

Cameron Currie & Co.'s Receiver Seeks to Bring All Litigation Against Bankrupt Firm into One Case in Interest of Creditors—Injunction Question Heard Today.

Detroit, Mich., July 23.—Hearing is proceeding before Judge Mandell in the circuit court today why a preliminary injunction should not be maintained against the brokerage firm of Hayden, Stone & Co., restraining them from from disposing of stocks and bonds held by them as security against the recently failed concern of Cameron Currie & Co.

A bill of complaint previously filed by Fred G. Austin, receiver for Cameron Currie & Co., in the circuit court against the brokerage firm of Hayden, Stone & Co., who have recently taken over the lease to the apartmnts in the Hammond building formerly occupied by the insolvent brokerage concern, is the first step taken by the receiver to systematize the settlement of the entangled situation and to bring all litigation, if possible, into one case in the interests of the creditors.

Six Petitions Made.

Six petitions follow a preliminary statement of the situation which leads the receiver to make the complaint.

The court is asked to make an accounting of the transactions between the defendants and Cameron Currie & Co. to determine if a balance is due either party.

To determine the validity of the defendant's claim to being a preferred creditor in the matter of certain stocks and bonds held by the defendant as security.

That such creditors as claim to have rights paramount to the rights of the defendant be permitted to intervene and have their respective rights determined.

That the assets in the possession of the defendant be marshalled and properly distributed.

That all creditors of Cameron Currie & Co. claiming rights, other than as general creditors, in any of the stocks and bonds held by the defendant, be enjoined and restrained from beginning any suit or proceeding in respect to their claim.

That if the court deem it proper a preliminary injunction issue restraining the defendant from selling any or all stock and bonds held by the defendant as security until further order of the court.

The receiver sets forth that he has information that the accounts of Cameron Currie & Co. show that a large number of customers have purchased through the firm, acting as brokers, various amounts of different stocks and bonds on margin, and that these accounts show credits due customers amounting to upwards of $700,000. Some of these customers have entirely paid the amount due on stock for which they subscribed and that these customers aver that these transactions entitle them to a preferred claim to the assets of the brokerage firm.

On the other hand, the receiver says he has been informed that the defendants, Hayden, Stone & Co., through an agreement with Cameron Currie & Co., held as security certain stocks and bonds for sums owing them by third parties in connection with the acquiring of such stocks or bonds. The stocks and bonds thus held as security by the defendant are asserted to be a large part of the available assets of Cameron Currie & Co.

Hold Stock Worth $1,500,000.

The defendants claim that as a result of transactions of this nature, covering a long period of time, they are creditors of Cameron Currie & Co. to an amount of upwards of $1,300,000, and that they hold as security stocks and bonds, the market value of which at the present time would be upwards of $1,500,000.

The bill was presented to Judge Mandell, and, after consideration on his own motion, the court granted the preliminary injunction asked by the bill.

Train Kills Two Men.

Grand Rapids, Mich., July 23.—Two men who are supposed to be Charles Nichols, Tyron, Okla., and Lawrence Wheat, Knox, Ind., were killed by the G. R. & I. flyer from Petoskey, two miles this side of Belmont. Their bodies were literally cut to pieces, and their clothes were carried on the head of the boiler into the Union station. Information as to the identity of the men was gained from a letter which was pasted on the boiler with the grease.

PEOPLE ATHLETIC MAD.

Olympic Games Developing Into Huge Success.

London, July 23.—The Olympic games are developing into a huge success. While the meeting started discouragingly, with the weather and other conditions strongly against it, London is fast becoming athletic mad. People everywhere talk of nothing but the Olympian runners and jumpers, and the women seem as much interested as the men. Great crowds gather around the ticket office to secure the best seats for the final days, and a big attendance is certain from this on.

The following program of events took place this morning:

Athletics—Standing high jump, sections.

Swimming—High diving, semi final, one heat.

These will occur this afternoon:

Athletics—110 hurdles, heats; 200 meters, final; 110 hurdles, heats; 400 meters, final; Standing high jump, final.

Swimming—1,500 meters, semi final.

Counting all the events held within and outside of the Stadium, including many games in which the United Kingdom alone competed, the score up to date stands: United Kingdom, 32; America, 17; Sweden, 5; Norway and France, 2 each; Canada, Germany, Belgium, Italy, Finland and South Africa, 1 each.

The score in the field and track events, in which the American team came over to participate, is as follows: America, 75; United Kingdom, 56 1-3; Sweden, 12; Greece, 6; South Africa, 5; Canada, Norway, Italy, 3 each; France, Hungary, 1 1-3 each; Australia, Germany, Finland, 1 each.

The Americans had strongly cherished hopes of repeating Tuesday's grand record making clean sweep in the tracks events Wednesday but a dark horse in the person of the South African youth, R. E. Walker, upset the calculations. Walker broke the tape in what is considered the most important event in the Olympic games, the 100 meters dash, a short two feet in front of J. A. Rector, the University of Virginia crack.

The American team, however, did remarkably well. A world's record went to C. J. Bacon of the Irish-American Athletic club in the 400 meters hurdling, which he won in 55 seconds; an Olympic record of 24 feet 6 1-3 inches went to F. C. Irons of Chicago Athletic association in the running broad jump, and the victory of G. S. Dole of Yale in the featherweight wrestling, out of seven finals, should be a satisfactory day's performance.

Walker received an ovation seen only once in a lifetime on an athletic field. 40,000 people rose with a great cheer and filled the air with hats when the boy won the race.

WHEN BRYAN IS NOTIFIED

It Will Take Place on Lincoln Capitol Grounds August 12.

Lincoln, Neb., July 23.—It has been definitely determined that the notification of William Jennings Bryan of his nomination for the presidency shall occur on the grounds surrounding the state capitol. The exercises will begin at 2 o'clock on Aug. 12. A decision to use the capitol grounds was arrived at because of their great convenience to the large number of people who are expected to be present. The Bryan home is four miles from Lincoln, and it was manifest that the trolley service would be inadequate.

Honesty in business and a defense of the Denver platform, particularly with respect to publicity before election of campaign contributions, was the theme of the address made Wednesday by Mr. Bryan at Capital Beach to the Association of Butchers and Grocers of Lincoln. He also made a second to the state Democratic committee on practically the same theme.

In his remarks to the grocers and butchers, Mr. Bryan dwelt on monopolies in certain products, but declared that merchandising was the last branch of business in which there would be a monopoly, because, he said, the moment such monopoly was established a competitor would present himself, and the people would thereby be protected against extortion.

To the state committee Mr. Bryan gave assurance that reports of Democratic success from different parts of the country were encouraging. He expessed his gratification that Democratic newspapers were receiving campaign contributions and that the masses were taking a hand in the subscriptions. This, he argued, was an auspicious beginning of a new era of politics.

G. B. Burhans testifies after four years.

G. B. Burhans, of Carlisle Center, N. Y., writes: "About four years ago I wrote you stating that I had been entirely cured of a severe kidney trouble by taking less than two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure. It entirely stopped the brick dust sediment, and pain and symptoms of kidney disease disappeared. I am glad to say that I have never had a return of any of those symptoms during the four years that have elapsed and I am evidently cured to stay cured, heartily recommend Foley's Kidney Cure to any one suffering from kidney or bladder trouble." Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

"A repeating rifle—Robbing the same place twice.

IT CAN'T BE BEAT.

The best of all teachers is experience. C. M. Harden, of Silver City, North Carolina, says: "I find Electric Bitters does all that's claimed for it. For Stomach, Liver and Kidney troubles it can't be beat. I have tried it and find it a most excellent medicine." Mr. Harden is right; it's the best of all medicines also for weakness, lame back, all run down conditions. Best too for chills and malaria. Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 50c.

This is what Hon. Jake Moore, State Warden of Georgia, says of Kodol for Dyspepsia: "E. O. DeWitt & Co. Chicago, Ill.,—Dear Sirs—I have suffered more than twenty years with indigestion. About eighteen months ago I had grown so much worse that I could not digest a crust of dry bread and could not retain anything on my stomach. I lost 25 lbs; in fact I made up my mind that I could not live but a short time, when a friend of mine recommended Kodol. I consented to try it to please him and was better in one day. I now weigh more than I ever did in my life and am in better health than for many years. Kodol did it. I keep a bottle constantly, and write this hoping humanity may be benefited. Yours very truly, Jake C. Moore, Atlanta, Aug. 10, 1904." Sold by all druggists.

Slight of hand—Refusing a marriage proposal.

Bert Barber, of Elton, Wis., says: "I have only taken four doses of your Kidney and Bladder Pills and they have done for me more than any other medicine has ever done. I am still taking the pills as I want a perfect cure." Mr. Barber refers to DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. Sold by all druggists.

Doan's Regulets cure constipation, tone the stomach, stimulate the liver, promote digestion and appetite and easy passages of the bowels. Ask your druggist for them. 25 cents a box.

Lamson Pride

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Seymour frowned savagely into the fire and rumpled his hair with impatient fingers.

"If you would listen to reason," began Pauline argumentatively, but her fiance interrupted her.

"Reason!" he snorted contemptuously. "There is no such word as reason in a woman's vocabulary."

Miss Lamson arose from her seat and surveyed him with cool hauteur.

"You forget yourself, Mr. Seymour. Remember, please, that you have not now and never will have the right to address me in that manner. I beg you will excuse me, sir. Good night." She swept from the room while Seymour stared miserably after her.

Five, ten, fifteen minutes passed, and Pauline did not return. Then Seymour got upon his feet and, taking his hat and stick, left the house with a sense of deep injury, somewhat tempered by the knowledge that he was entirely in the wrong. If Polly wanted the dining room on the south side of the new house they were building, what matter?

His own wishes were for a cool, shady dining room on the north side of the house, while the library occupied the sunny southern exposure, where Pauline could have blooming plants in the windows and where he could see her bright head bending over her sewing when he looked up from his work.

What evil spirit had tempted him to argue the question with her and to act like an unmannerly brute? Now there would be no home at all. He turned in at the club and spent the evening in solitary wretchedness.

Miss Lamson made dignified haste to her own room, where she locked the door and confided to her pillow that Bob Seymour was a sour, cross, crabbed old thing and that she was glad they would never be married. Upon this reflection she sobbed more bitterly.

Finally, when the fury of her brief mental storm had subsided, she heard the closing of the front door and the echo of familiar footsteps on the pavement dying into silence.

She sat up energetically.

"Pauline Lamson, you are a little fool!" she soliloquized. "If Bob wants the library on the south side of the house, what difference does it make to you? He has to work in there most of the day, while the dining room is only used at mealtimes, and it doesn't matter where it is. Now there won't be any library, north or south, nor any dining room nor anything, for I cannot go back on my word. A Lamson never does that!"

She sobbed herself into a most unpleasant slumber, which was broken by frequent lapses into wakefulness, and at last a gray morning dawned. And all the mornings and afternoons were gray after that, for Bob Seymour did not come to sue for pardon, and neither did Pauline send the little note which would have brought him repentant to her feet.

It was Seymour pride against Lamson pride, and so Love drew his rosy mantle about him and spread his wings to be about other and more profitable business.

* * * * * * * *

"I came by the new house today, Pauline, and it is a dear!" Emilie Raymond helped herself to another bonbon from the dish on Pauline's tea table and nibbled it appreciatively.

"Yes?" Pauline's voice was faint, and there was a pink flush in either cheek.

"Yes!" mimicked Miss Raymond petulantly. "Your indifference is well assumed, Polly, dear, but"—

"Emilie," said Pauline, with sudden decision, "I must tell you—I haven't told another soul—that Bob Seymour and I are not going to be married!"

Miss Raymond uttered a surprised shriek.

"Polly Lamson, what do you mean? Why, I was talking with Bob not five minutes ago—he was standing on the steps of the new house—and from what he said"— She paused with embarrassment and busied herself with the bonbon dish.

"What did he say?" Pauline's tone was icily cold.

"Why—now, dear, of course I don't understand anything about the matter, but he said when I hinted that I would like to go over the house, 'Mrs. Seymour will have that pleasure in the spring,' and he smiled so naturally that I supposed"— She looked expressively at her friend.

"It is probably some one else—some other girl," smiled Pauline stiffly.

"It might be," was the disconcerting reply. "I did see him talking to Linda Burton the other day, and just as I passed them Linda was saying, 'I much prefer the library in green too.' I didn't think anything about it at the time, but—Linda is certainly attractive."

"Linda is a dear," gushed Pauline, pouring herself another cup of tea.

"Well," remarked Emilie practically, "of course I'm surprised to hear that your engagement is broken, but I must say that Linda Burton can certainly make that house look like a dream. She is an artist."

"That is so," said Pauline soberly. "Linda's gowns are lovely."

After Emilie Raymond had fluttered away to another tea table and probably to other confidences Pauline fled to her own room, where she spent a very quiet hour. Then just as the dusk was falling she donned her wraps and crept out of the house and along the avenue to that pleasant cross street whereon stood the house of dissension, the house that had been built with love as adviser and architect.

Pauline approached it timidly from the opposite side of the street. She would rather die than meet Bob Seymour in that vicinity. She could dimly see that the house was quite completed, a lawn graded and turfed with green, and—strange to relate—it was illuminated from top to bottom, and there were people moving about inside. She slipped across the street and entered the yard. Along the north wall of the house ran a flagged path to the rear, and when she had walked along this path she found herself directly beneath a brightly lighted bow window. Some one was speaking.

"This is to be the library, Linda," said Bob Seymour's voice, "and it will be green, of course."

"You are making a mistake, Bob, in using this room for the library. The south room is much more suitable."

"Polly planned it this way, and I want it to be exactly as she wishes." There was an obstinate note in Bob's voice that Pauline knew well. She uttered a bewildered little gasp at the complications of the situation.

"Very well," said Linda cheerfully. "I only wish Polly were here to give her opinion about that shade of green. But I am very grateful to you, Bob, for giving me an opportunity to display my talents as a professional decorator. I shall hope for an avalanche of orders after this. Why don't you run up and get Polly? We could decide all these puzzling matters at once."

"I don't believe she could come down this evening," came Bob's voice evasively and rather despondently. Pauline choked. He was clinging to a last hope that she would relent before it was too late. He was comforting himself with the hope that their engagement was not formally broken.

A moment later she found herself speeding through the wide hall into the library. She slipped her hand through Bob's arm, and she felt his start of surprise and then the warm, firm pressure of his hand upon her own.

"I came down to help choose the decorations, Bob," she said breathlessly.

"Good! Now everything will be all right!" exclaimed Linda gayly.

And so it was.

A Rule For Dramatists.

A dramatist must never keep a secret from his audience, although this is one of the favorite devices of the novelist. Let us suppose for a moment that the spectators were not let into the secret of Hero's pretty plot in "Much Ado," to bring Beatrice and Benedick together. Suppose that, like the heroine and the hero, they were led to believe that each was truly in love with the other. The inevitable revelation of this error would produce a shock of surprise that would utterly scatter their attention, and while they were busy making over their former conception of the situation they would have no eyes nor ears for what was going on upon the stage. In a novel the true character of a hypocrite is often hidden until the book is nearly through; then when the revelation comes the reader has plenty of time to think back and see how deftly he has been deceived. But in a play a rogue must be known to be a rogue at his first entrance. The other characters in the play may be kept in the dark until the last act, but the audience must know the secret all the time. In fact, any situation which shows a character suffering from a lack of such knowledge as the audience holds secure always produces a telling effect upon the stage. The spectators are aware of Iago's villainy and know of Desdemona's innocence. The play would not be nearly so strong if, like Othello, they were kept ignorant of the truth.—North American Review.

Apostrophe to a Champion Cow.

Hail, O champion nurser of the human race! Hail, O quiet chewer of nutritious cud! Blessed be peace and open air, beasts and sunlight, and especially blessed be this cow; of her we sing. Hail, Pauline; number 48,426—if that name you love, O butter champion of the world! Think of giving 104.4 pounds of milk in a single day and also at a high average of fat!

I think I could turn and live with animals, they are so placid and self contained.
I stand and look at them long and long.
They do not sweat and whine about their condition.
They do not lie awake in the dark and weep for their sins.
They do not make me sick discussing their duty to God.
Not one is dissatisfied, not one is demented with the mania of owning things.
Not one kneels to another nor to his kind that lived thousands of years ago.
Not one is respectable or unhappy over the whole earth.

Would the pen of Homer were our own, for we have no taste to celebrate the feats of admirals and presidents, prizefighters and millionaires and would fain do justice to the cow, for she by her own unaided might can support thirty babies on this earth.—Collier's Weekly.

A Sermon In Rhyme.

An English sporting parson who wished to shorten the Sunday morning's service so that he might join some kindred spirits delivered the briefest and meatiest sermon on record. "Dearly beloved," he said, "the subject of our discourse this morning is 'Life.' I shall divide it into three parts and a conclusion—first, man's ingress to the world; second, man's progress through the world; third, man's egress from the world, and, to conclude, man's life after departure:

"Man's ingress to life is naked and bare.
Man's progress through life is trouble and care.
Man's egress from life is nobody knows where.
If we do well here, we will do well there.
I could tell you no more if I preached a whole year."

HUGH McCURDY

Passed Away at His Home in Corunna Thursday, July 16.

GRAND OLD MAN OF MASONRY HAD A NOTABLE CAREER.

Funeral Attended by Hundreds of Masons.

After an illness that has confined him to his bed for three weeks, Judge Hugh McCurdy, well known throughout the world as one of the leading exponents of Free Masonry in all its branches, passed away at 9 o'clock Thursday, July 16, at his home in Corunna. He had been in failing health for two years since which time he has been forced to give up the active duties connected with the many offices he held among the Masonic fraternity.

The funeral of Judge McCurdy was conducted Sunday afternoon from his home and was attended with that simple elegance that so well became him who had attained so high a position in the social and fraternal world.

The services were in charge of the Grand Commandery Knights Templar, which was escorted by commanderies: Corunna No. 21, Detroit No. 1, Ionia No. 11, Fenton No. 14, Genesee Valley No. 15 of Flint, St. Johns No. 42 of Detroit, and several blue lodges.

The officers of the Grand Lodge F. A. & M., Grand Chapter R. A. M., Grand Council R. S. & M., and representatives from the Hugh McCurdy Commandery No. 34, Knights Templar, Grand Encampment Knights Templar and the Supreme Council, A. A. L. R.

Grand Commander Coleman, paid a beautiful tribute to the deceased.

The remains were laid at rest in the Corunna burying grounds, where the usual Masonic burial service was read.

J. Q. Look of this place attended the funeral.

MISS ANN McCOLLUM

Miss Ann McCollum passed away at her home in Ann Arbor yesterday morning after a ten weeks' illness, aged 92 years. She was a resident of Adrian before moving to Ann Arbor. She leaves one brother, George McCollum of Lansing, Mrs. Gates Smith of this place being a relative also.

The funeral was held in Ann Arbor this morning and the remains were brought to Tecumseh at 2:30 this afternoon for burial.

Secretary Reynolds of the Southern Michigan league Wednesday received the decision in the Maire case from Secretary Farrell of the national association, awarding the player to Bay City. Maire was drafted from Kalamazoo last year by the Boston Americans. Boston turned him over to Bay City and Kalamazoo objected, basing their claim of the national agreement, which says that "no player can be drafted from one club in a league, by a club of higher classification and turned over to another club in the same league from which the player was drafted."

Pitcher Tom Railing, last year with Tecumseh and now at Flint, may be protested by Tecumseh. Under the Farrell ruling in the Maire case, if Railing was drafted from Tecumseh and then offered for sale into the league again, Tecumseh could get him by paying the holding club the draft price. Tecumseh having the first chance to get the player. If Railing is a free agent through a release, as decided in the Preston case, Railing can probably sign where he pleases.

Tecumseh won the first game with Flint Tuesday by a score of 4 and 3. In the eighth inning the Indians broke the tie, scoring the winning run. The fielding of McDonald and Hildebrand were the features of the game, McDonald having 7 put outs. Wagner hurt his hand retired in the third inning. Doty was knocked out of the box in the first, Holmquist going in. Score:

After eleven long innings Wednesday at Flint, the Indians lost the second game to the vehicle men, Krapp and Doty were pitted against one another, each holding their opponents down to five hits apiece.

Umpire Benedict robbed Tecumseh of a run in the first inning, when McDonald was called out at the plate. He was believed by all of the fans to be safe. In the eleventh inning Krapp landed on the first ball pitched him for a home run. Score:

CAUGHT

Two Girls From the Reform School of Adrian.

Found on the Streets Last Night at Midnight by Nightwatchman Bennett.

They Were Taken to Adrian Early This Norning.

Two girls, giving their names as Mable Tolsley and Helen Butler, were seen by night watchman Bennett at midnight last night walking hurriedly, east on main street, each one carrying a basket. Noticing that one of them wore a uniform, he called to them and asked them where they were going. They claimed they had been working south of Adrian and had received a phone message from their father that their mother was very ill at her home in Detroit, and if they would come to Tecumseh, he would meet them here, but they had failed to find him. When asked why they had not gone on the train they replied that the lady for whom they had been working would not pay them.

Mr. Bennett took them to the Hotel Barrett, and leaving them with the clerk he phoned to Sherriff Holt, who said that two girls had escaped from the Industrial Home about eight Thursday evening. Mr. Bennett took them to Adrian this morning at 5:30.

Y. M. C. A. BOYS

End the 1,000 Mile Hike Across the Country.

ELEVEN HOURS AHEAD OF THE SCHEDULE THE MESSAGE IS DELIVERED.

Greetings from New York Delivered to Mayor Busse in Chicago at 9:35 Tuesday Morning.

Tuesday morning at 9:35 the message from Mayor McClellan of New York City to Mayor Busse of Chicago was delivered at the City Hall by William McCabe of Evanston, Ill. Mayor Busse was not in his office, as the runners were not expected until 2 o'clock.

The silver tube was opened by Vernon Bean, secretary of the board of public works and Asst. Corporation Counsel Childs. The message ran:

City of New York, Office of Mayor, July 9, 1908:—To the City of Chicago, the City of New York sends greetings by the fleet runners of the Young Men's Christian Association. This message is borne on foot, without halt, from the Atlantic to Lake Michigan, and the hundreds of boys who carry it gain no prize except the consciousness of having done their best.

GEORGE B. M'CLELLAN, Mayor.

Hon. Fred A. Busse, Mayor, Chicago, Ill.

As soon as Mayor Busse reached his office he sent the following telegram to Mayor McClellan:

George B. M'Clellan, Mayor of New York. Sir:—The relay race of the Y. M. C. A. terminated at this office at 9:35 a. m. to day, when William McCabe of the Evanston Y. M. C. A. handed your message to Vernon L. Bean, my representative. I desire to say it has given me great pleasure to encourage this great athletic organization which has arranged and conducted this event. It richly deserves the gratitude of the American public

FRED A. BUSSE, Mayor of Chicago.

This race brings to a close the longest relay race ever attempted. The distance is a trifle over 1,000 miles, and the runners, picked from a great number of associations, made the trip in 120 hours and 35 minutes, an average of 8 and six-tenths miles an hour for the entire course, and employed 2,200 young men.

Mr. Bean, who received the message for Mayor Busse, spoke most appreciatively of the showing which had been made. He said:

"I wish to congratulate you, Mr. McCabe, for the magnificent manner in which you have completed this great relay race. I congratulate you on behalf of Mayor Busse, the City of Chicago and the people of the entire country, who love athletics. The Y. M. C. A., also is to be congratulated for bringing this event to a successful conclusion"

Later the Mayor congratulated the heads of the local Y. M. C. A. on the character of the work they are doing.

CURE THE CAUSE

How to Remedy Much of the Suffering in Tecumseh.

Half of the sickness and suffering in Tecumseh comes from a weak stomach. Cure the cause by using Mi-o-na Stomach Tablets and be well and happy.

Even the most chronic cases yield to Mi-o-na. W. C. Worrell, connected with the Lake Shore Railroad for years, says: "For fifteen years I had acute stomach trouble and nothing helped me. A friend recommended Mi-o-na and two boxes entirely cured me."

Cure the cause of your suffering and be well and happy.

If the stomach is weak and you have indigestion, flatulence, dizziness, headache, etc., get a 50 cent box of Mi-o-na from C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. They give an absolute guarantee to refund the money unless Mi-o-na cures.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh, or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

War Against Consumption.

All nations are endeavoring to check the ravages of consumption, the "white plague" that claims so many victims each year. Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs and colds perfectly and you are in no danger of consumption. Do not risk your health by taking some unknown preparation when Foley's Honey and Tar is safe and certain in results. The genuine is in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

A man may deceive himself, but he never fools destiny.

The older a man grows, the longer he looks at a contract before signing it.

Torturing eczema spreads its burning area every day. Doan's Ointment quickly stops its spreading, instantly relieves the itching, cures it permanently. At any drug store.

The most becoming tie for young ladies—Modesty.

We wonder if there is anyone who would accept a million dollars with the agreement that he would give up his life at the end of a year?

There's nothing so good for a sore throat as Dr. Thomas's Eclectric Oil. Cures it in a few hours. Relieves any pain in any part.

Trying times—Going to the dressmaker's.

Quick relief for Asthma Sufferers.

Foley's Honey and Tar affords immediate relief to asthma sufferers in the worst stages and if taken in time will effect a cure. Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Where to recover yourself—At the tailor's.

The older a man grows, the fewer adjectives he uses.

GIVING OUT.

Around all day with an aching back;
Can't rest at night;
Enough to make any one "give out."
Doan's Kidney Pills will give renewed life.
They will cure the backache;
Cure every kidney ill.
Here is Tecumseh proof that this is so.

John B. Smith, debuty sheriff, living on East Chicago Avenue, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I experienced a great deal of suffering from pains in the small of my back, through the loins and about the kidneys and when an attack was present it was hard for me to do my work. On bending over, I would be seized with dizzy spells, when spots of fire would flash before my eyes. I was restless at night, and in the morning would get up feeling tired and unrefreshed. I doctored a great deal, also used a number of remedies, but received no permanent benefit. Finally I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and the statements made concerning them were so convincing that I was induced to procure a box at Wright and Son's drug store. I felt great benefit after taking the contents of the first box, and thus encouraged I continued until they effected a complete cure. I will always recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone I hear complaining of kidney trouble."

HIS EFFORTS IN VAIN.

Battle Creek Swimmer Rescues Unidentified Man Too Late.

Battle Creek, Mich., July 23.—An unidentified man was drowned in the mill race here, despite the heroic efforts of Richard Kesuvy, aged eighteen years, to save him.

The man was seen lying asleep on the bank near the Main street bridge and is supposed to have rolled over in his sleep and fallen into the water. At this point the mill race runs under several buildings, which form a dark tunnel. Kesuvy, who is a cigar maker's apprentice, saw the man just as he was going under the tunnel. He dove and, swimming in the dark, reached the man and held up his body until they reached State street, where spectators lifted them from the water. The most strenuous efforts failed to resuscitate the unknown man. Kesuvy was taken to his home in an exhausted condition.

William Winter Seriously Ill.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 23.—William Winter, author and dramatic critic, has been removed to a local hospital in a critical condition. From a relative in this city, it was learned that Mr. Winter has never recovered from shocks received in the Santa Fe wreck near Winslow, Ariz., June 28. He has been extremely sick ever since, though seemed able to throw it off. Mr. Winter came to California under contract to write a number of magazine and newspaper articles and with the expectation of delivering several lectures.

Captain McCrea Is Dead.

New York, July 20.—Captain Henry McCrea of the United States navy, who was in command of the battleship Georgia during the cruise of the north Atlantic squadron t othe Pacific coast, is dead of Bright's disease in the naval hospital, Brooklyn. He had been ill since June 22. Captain McCrea was fifty-seven years old.

The Romance of Buried Pictures.

A romantic story of a picture purchased at a London auction which on expert examination proved to be painted over a Rembrandt worth £8,000 is curiously reminiscent of the discovery of a Correggio under similar circumstances. A good many years ago two picture restorers, Lovera and Hunterspergh, bought at an art sale in Rome a number of old pictures in order to provide themselves with canvases for repainting. In the division of the spoils Hunterspergh received an indifferent picture of flowers, on which he painted a study of a head. This picture he offered to Lovera, who on close examination found that the new ground scaled off and that underneath were traces of a figure painted in a style that denoted the hand of a master. Replacing the scales and concealing his discovery, he purchased the picture for little more than the value of the canvas. Removing the two grounds, he disclosed an exceedingly clever painting by Correggio, which he sold to the Earl of Bristol for £1,500.—Dundee Advertiser.

Dogs of Luxury.

The appearance of little dogs as objects of luxury goes back to the most ancient times. Documents are not wanting that go to show that Greek and Roman women had little dogs which were idolized by their mistresses. Even men, particularly among foreigners, were not ashamed to walk the streets of Rome with pet dogs under their arms. Speaking of this subject, Plutarch relates that Julius Caesar, seeing one day in Rome some strangers thus loaded with their dogs, asked them ironically whether the women of their country did not bear children. Tertia, the daughter of Lucius Aurelius Paulus, was so fond of her dog that in the moment of bidding farewell to her father, who was about to leave his country and his family to wage war against Perseus, king of Macedonia, she frankly admitted that the sadness imprinted on her face was due to the death of her pet dog Persa. In Europe the greyhounds were the first favorites of women during the middle ages.—Boston Post.

Not Entirely One.

"And so they were made one."

"Oh, I don't know. I believe she still has a mind of her own."

Stimulation Without Irritation.

That is the watchword. That is what Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup does. Cleanses and stimulates the bowels without irritation in any form. Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Vacation time is here again, and when you go on your holiday you will be looking for reading matter to while away an occasional lazy hour. At such times one wants something bright and entertaining, and, above all, complete. This description covers the July Lippincott's Magazine. The leading novelette by Mrs. John VanVorst is entitled "Second Quality"—this name applies neither to plot nor treatment, but rather to the stripe of society people, so-called, who are for the most part foreign born.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is good for cuts, burns, and bruises and scratches. It is especially good for piles. Recommended and sold by all druggists.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN IS KILLED

Mangled Body Is Found on Tracks at Monroe.

Monroe, Mich., July 23.—Railroad men found the body of an unidentified man lying across the tracks in the Per Marquette yards. The body was terribly mangled, the wheels having passed over the chest. Nothing was found that would lead to an identification. The man was about thirty-five years old, weighed 175 pounds, had red hair, sandy mustache, brown eyes and was 5 feet 8 inches in height. He was well dressed, and it is believed he fell from a freight train which passed there.

Alleged Swindlers Arrested.

Jackson, Mich., July 23.—Chandler Randall and Fred Welch are being held by the police here, charged with swindling. They were arrested by Michigan Central Detective Deche and Passenger Agent Chase. They made a canvass of the city for the purpose of getting money for an alleged moonlight to be held by the trainmen.

Glazier Plant Ordered Sold.

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 23.—Judge Kinne has signed a decree authorizing the sale of the Glazier Stove company. The decree provides that an inventory shall be taken before Aug. 1, and that, after advertising, the circuit court commissioner shall sell the plant. The decree recites that there are claims amounting to $405,161.36 proved against the company.

Car Kills Detroit Boy.

Detroit, Mich., July 23.—While hitching on the rear end of an eastbound Jefferson avenue car, near the corner of Bewick street and Jefferson avenue, Joseph Pierce, aged fifteen years, 16 Navarre street, was struck by westbound car 208. The lad was unconscious when picked up and died before the ambulance arrived. His skull was fractured.

Postmaster Is Arrested.

Bay City, Mich., July 23.—Albert G. Reichtmeier, postmaster of Gera, Saginaw county, is in jail here, charged with the embezzlement of $800 of government funds. An inspector dropped in and discovered the alleged shortage, which was made good at once. This, however, could not save Reichtmeier from arrest.

Taft Journeying to Oyster Bay.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 23.—Judge William H. Taft will arrive this afternoon to confer with President Roosevelt regarding his Cincinnati speech accepting the Republican presidential nomination. He is making the trip across New York and down Long Island by automobile. Mr. Taft will doubtless be the guest of the president tonight. He has arranged to leave New York Friday afternoon for Cincinnati, where he will arrive Saturday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. His headquarters in New York will be at the Manhattan hotel.

Sherman May Drop Out.

Washington, July 23.—There is a good deal of quiet talk about town of the possibility that James Schoolcraft Sherman may be forced, on account of illness, to retire from second place on the Republican ticket. In the event of Sherman declining the nomination the national committee would fill the vacancy. The difficulty of this task is such that it can be said Sherman will not receive the consent of his party associates to withdraw, unless his health becomes such that to remain on the ticket would endanger his life.

Thought Only of Her Babe.

Coldwater, Mich., July 23.—Mrs. Irwin Salisbury, a young farmer's wife, in Mattison township, undertook to pour gasoline into the tank of a lighted oil stove when an explosion occurred. In a cradle near the stove was her sleeping four-year-old babe. Instinctively, the mother first tried to extinguish her burning clothing by pouring milk over herself from a pan; then she thought of her baby. The fire was spreading in the room. Afraid to touch the child or the cradle lest she would communicate the flames from herself, she seized the rope of the dinner bell, which she rang frantically. Attracted by the sound, neighbors rushed in just in time to save the babe. The rescuers extinguished the mother's burning clothing and the fire in the house, but the young woman was terribly burned. Her recovery is doubtful.

Shot Them by Mistake.

Amite City, La., July 23.—As a result of what is believed to have been a misunderstanding, Joseph Ansalome and Vincent Lucuto, Italian truck farmers, were shot down in their home, about ten miles south of here, by Sheriff John Saul and a party of deputies. Following an attempt to assassinate S. F. Simmons, a railroad section boss, who had recently discharged two Italians, Sheriff Saul and his men went to the home of Ansalome and demanded admittance. Ansalome said he though the sheriff and his deputies were thieves, and, opening the door, he fired shots in the air for the purpose, he declared, of scaring them off. The sheriff and his men then fired a fusilade of shots into the house, wounding both men. They were sent to New Orleans for treatment.

The great trouble with the good is, that in talking of evil, they seldom tell the truth.

An Opium Farm.

Not far from Macao, at the mouth of the Canton river, China, is an opium "farm." Standing in a courtyard is the great wooden building devoted to opium manufactures, and in its vestibules are heaps of brown balls, not unlike cocoanuts. Two coolies, seated, cut them open and remove the black, jamlike substance they contain—the compressed poppy. The outer covering is a thick layer of dried leaves. Inside the building the whole place is full of smoke, arising from a hundred charcoal fires in open earthenware "chattis," placed in a row around the walls. Over each fire rests a shallow brass pan in which bubbles a mixture of poppy and water. This mixture is strained through paper and passes on to be more carefully boiled in the next room, where the process is exactly similar. From there it goes to another room, where the sirup is reduced to the consistency of treacle over slow fires. In another building the opium is packed in tiny cans and placed in cases and sealed with the government seal.

A Banker's Generosity.

One day Humboldt was dining with Mendelssohn, the banker, and, an unusual thing for him, was very silent. His host, remarking it, observed to Humboldt that he was sure he must be ill.

"No," said Humboldt, "but I am in great trouble. Only ten minutes before leaving my apartment to come here I received from my landlord a note informing me that he had sold the house in which I reside and that I must move. The very thought drives me to despair. I really cannot bear to move again."

Mendelssohn gradually led Humboldt into conversation, during which he found time to write a note and receive an answer to it. He then took Humboldt aside and said: "By this note I learn that I am now the owner of the house in which you reside. The condition, however, upon which I have become its possessor is that you continue to occupy your apartment in it as long as you live."

Wanted a Bargain.

One day a small Cincinnati boy came to a halt before a sign over a desk in the office of the express company. It gave the rate for money orders, and after studying it for a few minutes he walked up to the cashier and said boldly:

"I want a money order."

"How large a one, my boy?" the clerk inquired benignantly.

"Well, let's see," pondered the little fellow. "The rate for a ten dollar order is 8 cents, isn't it?"

"Yes; that's right."

"Well, I want a drum and pair of roller skates and a new straw hat and some candy. Ten dollars will be enough."

Then he fished through his pockets and triumphantly placed a nickel and three coppers before the astonished clerk. It took ten minutes to convince the youngster that nothing less than $10.08 could buy a money order for $10.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Didn't Give Him a Chance.

"Say, ma," piped up little Johnny after the minister had finished his call and taken his departure, "when Mr. Meeker was here every time you stopped talkin' a minute he would start in to say somethin' an' git as fur every time as 'I dare say,' an' then you would start goin' ag'in an' talk a lot more, an' that is the way it kept on right along, an' the only thing he said all the time he was here was 'I dare say,' 'I dare say,' every few minutes."

"Well, what of it? I am not to blame for Mr. Meeker's paucity of ideas, am I?" demanded Johnny's mother, somewhat impatiently.

"I dunno 'bout that," said Johnny doubtfully, as if not exactly sure what was meant by paucity of ideas, "but anyhow, ma, you orter give him a chanst. When he started in with 'I dare say,' why didn't you keep quiet jest once, ma, an' let him go ahead an' say what he was goin' to an' have it over with?"—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

A Chapel on a Bridge.

At St. Ives, the little old Huntingdonshire town in which Oliver Cromwell lived for several years, there is a bridge spanning the lazily flowing Ouse, and on this bridge is a quaint building which at one time did duty as a chapel. The structure has been in existence for something like 500 years and was, according to local historians, originally employed as a beacon lighthouse. After that it was turned for a time into a hostel and eventually became an ordinary dwelling house. Some of the rooms in this curious building are below the level of the water in the river.

His Sorrow.

"You know that box of cigars you gave me on my birthday, dear?" said a man to his wife.

"Yes."

"Well, I took them down to the office, and some one stole them."

"I'm awfully sorry."

"So am I—for the thief!" was the cruel remark.

An Outsider.

Suitor—Your daughter, sir—well, er—that is—she told me to come to you—she says you— Pater—Quite so—I understand. Let's see, are you Mr. Bronson or Mr. Wibbles? Suitor—Why, I'm Mr. Hotchkiss!—Cleveland Leader.

Her Odd Way.

Sorrow's crown of sorrow is remembering happier things.—Tennyson.

It is said that the most trying moment in a girl's life is when her young man's kin call on her to pass judgment.

INDEPENDENCE CONVENTION.

National Party Will Nominate Ticket In Chicago.

HEARST TO FIRST PRESIDE.

Several Prominent Men In Field For First Place on Ticket—Hearst Believes There Is No Possibility of Fusion With Democrats—Independence Men Roast Democratic Anti Injunction Plank.

Chicago, July 27.—The delegates to the national convention of the Independence party are arriving in considerable number today, and it is confidently asserted that when Mr Hearst, as temporary chairman, begins his address tonight, fully 900 delegates will be in the hall.

It is asserted on all sides that the contest for the nominations will be free and open. So far, the indications are that such will be the case. Of the candidates now in the field, T. L. Hisgen of Massachusetts has a strong following and is apparently leading. W. M. Howard of Alabama has many friends who are making a strong fight in his interest.

The Indiana delegation is pushing Charles F. B. Neal of that state, although Mr. Neal himself said that he hardly expected his name to go before the convention. Other candidates are: John Temple Graves of Georgia, H. S. Taylor of Chicago and O. A. Walsh of Iowa.

William Randolph Hearst has reiterated the statement that he was not a candidate for the presidential nomination and that he would adhere positively to his declaration that he must not be considered in that light.

Mr. Hearst was asked if in his opinion there existed any probability of fusion with the Democratic party or endorsement of Mr. Bryan. He replied:

"I do not believe that there is even a remote possibility of fusion, or the endorsement of any candidates except our own."

It has been declared that Charles A. Walsh should be the permanent chairman of the convention.

The platform of the party will, if present plans are carried out, contain a much more radical declaration on the question of injunction than was embodied in the platforms of either the Democratic or Republican party.

From present indications, the temper of the convention will be in favor of a declaration doing away entirely with preliminary injunctions in cases of labor disputes and punishment for contempt of court until after a trial by jury.

The members of the Independence party make the identical statement regarding the Democratic platform that the Democrats made concerning the Republican declaration on injunctions They assert that it means nothing, says nothing and leads nowhere.

The national committee is in session today, making the final preparations for the convention.

Republican Executive Committee.

Chicago, July 27.—Announcement has been made by Frank Hitchcock, chairman of the Republican national committee, that the following men will constitute the executive committee: Charles F. Brooker of Connecticut, T. Coleman Du Pont of Delaware, William E. Borah of Idaho; Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, Charles Nagel of Missouri, Victor Rosewater of Nebraska, William L. Ward of New York, Edward C. Duncan of North Carolina and Boies Penrose of Pennsylvania.

Tragedy In Toledo.

Toledo, O., July 27.—Returning to his wife's home, after an absence of sixteen years, Louis Armour, aged fifty, murdered the woman, fired a bullet at his daughter and tried to commit suicide. The revolver failing him, Armour disappeared and is now being sought by a posse of police and citizens. Jealous because of the success of his family and the refusal of his wife to take him back to her home are attributed as the cause of the shooting.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

While working in the field, Peter Roll, living a mile south of Fenton, fell dead just as his wife reached his side in response to his call for help. He was sixty-three years old, a civil war veteran.

While driving through the woods on his route, Rural Mail Carrier Charles Hoffman of Boyne City narrowly escaped being killed by a falling tree which crushed out the life of his horse.

CONVENTION ENDS.

Hibernians Hold Very Successful Affair In Indianapolis.

Indianapolis, July 27.—The national convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians at Indianapolis this year, which has just closed, was the largest in point of attendance that the organization has held for several years. It opened with a reception to delegates and visitors by the Ladies' auxiliary in Tomlinson hall, and the daily sessions were held from day to day in Knights of Pythias hall.

Features of the convention were an address of welcome by Mayor C. A. Bookwalter, high mass at St. John's church, a parade of various civic and religious organization and a banquet in Tomlinson hall.

The origin of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, which is now one of the strongest organizations in America, was among the Irish peasants, who formed the bodyguard of the heroic priests who during the "penal days" offered up mass for their flocks. It was about seventy years ago that the order was introduced into the United States. Since that time its growth has been phenomenal.

The convention will be held in Portland, Ore., next year.

Visits Emperor Nicholas.

Revel, Russian Poland, July 27.—President Fallieres of France and Emperor Nicholas have arrived here today. President Fallieres comes to visit the emperor.

EVENTEUL DAY IN CINCINNATI

Notifying of Taft Comes Off Tomorrow.

Cincinnati, O., July 27.—William H. Taft has been a busy man today, attending the meeting of the state central committee, meeting informally the members of the notification committee, lending his aid to the local arrangements committee and placing himself generally at the disposal of national and state leaders. Tomorrow he will deliver his speech of acceptance and then surrender himself to the vagaries of a riot of political enthusiasm.

There seems little left for the local notification arrangement committee to do, as every part of Tuesday's program seems to have been perfected. The scheme of decoration is elaborate and gives the city a holiday appearance. Long lines of pointed, varicolored streamers are strung along trolley poles, flags placed out of windows and streamers and bunting festooned on buildings.

Senator Warren of Missouri, chairman of the notifications committee, has reached the city. With Senator Warner, on arriving, was Judge Nagel, national committeeman from Missouri. General Felix Angus of Baltimore, Maryland's member of the notification committee, is also one of the arrivals.

Frank H. Hitchcock, who arrived today, will make a report to the candidate on conditions in the west as he found them during his recent visit to that region. Elmer Dover, secretary of the national committee, has also reached the city.

Governor Warner has so far made 190 speeches in his campaign for nomination for a third term. This week he is making an auto trip through Livingston and Jackson counties, touching two or three points in Washtenaw and Hillsdale counties.

The Chinese government is o pet ing its preparations for the entertainment of the officers and crew of the fleet of American battleships at Amoy, where the visiting men of war are due to arrive the latter part of October. The original sum of 400,000 taels appropriated by China for the welcome and entertainment will be augmented by another 100,000 taels.

TWO YOUNG PEOPLE DROWN

Accidents On Water Occur at Lansing and Muskegon.

SAD ENDINGS TO PICNICS.

Lansing Couple Were Returning From a House Party When the Boat Capsized—Girl Was Saved—Prominent Young Muskegon Woman Fell From Launch While Fooling With a Companion and Lost Her Life.

Lansing, Mich., July 27.—Arlington Buckley, eighteen years old, of this city, was drowned in Pine lake here while boating with a young woman. Their craft overturned in the middle of the lake in some manner, and, before he could be reached by other boats, he sank. The girl was taken from the water in an unconscious condition by rescuers and revived.

The young people were members of a week's end house party at the lake. There were eight other members in the party, all from this city. The body of young Buckley was recovered.

Muskegon, Mich., July 27.—While fooling with companions of a picnic party on the stern of a launch owned by Eric Carlson, Esther Nelson, twenty-one years old, one of the prominent young women of Muskegon, fell overboard and was drowned. The party was returning from an outing at Interlake park, and they had just left the picnic grounds when the accident occurred.

The launch contained nine other people, but none could swim, and the unfortunate young woman arose twice to the surface of the bay, and she screamed for help, but before a boat could reach her sank from sight. The drowning occurred about 300 yards from the shore, where the water was deep. The accident makes nine drownings in Muskegon county this season.

Train Crushed His Leg.

Orion, Mich., July 27.—Screaming in agony so loudly that his cries were heard half a mile away, Tony Durski of 652 Grandy avenue, Detroit, was found beside the Michigan Central railroad tracks, a mile south of here, with one leg so badly crushed that it was later amputated above the knee. The man had been run over by a freight train on which he was riding.

Section hands working in the yards here heard the injured man's screams and found the man writhing on the ground. He was carried here and taken to a hospital. It is believed he will recover.

Burns Kill Child.

Detroit, Mich., July 27.—Leona Besrocher, the three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon Besrocher, St. Clair avenue, Grosse Pointe, is dead from the effects of a severe scalding, which she received by falling into a tub of boiling water. The child's mother ran to her daughter's assistance and was severely burned about the arms in removing the child from the water.

Remarkable Celebration.

Plymouth, Mich., July 27.—Mrs. Ann Wheelock, the oldest resident of this village, celebrated her ninety-fifth birthday Sunday. She was one of the first white children in this community and is still remarkably active for her advanced age. There were fifteen present celebrating the event, and the average age of each was eighty years. Mrs. Wheelock entertained her guests by executing several pieces of instrumental music.

To Discuss Campaign Plans.

Chicago, July 27.—James H. Ferriss, chairman of the national committee of the People's party, has called a meeting of the committee in Chicago tomorrow to discuss plans for the campaign.

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

Nearly 2,000 feet of the San Joaquin river levee at Antioch, Cal., gave way, and Jersey island, comprising 4,000 acres, including 300 acres of celery, was flooded. The property loss is estimated at $5,000,000.

Rose Morgan, twenty-three years of age, and Nellie Smith, twenty years old, were drowned off the west breakwater in Cleveland. Miss Morgan lost her balance while the two were dangling their feet in the water and, in falling, drew Miss Smith into the lake with her.

General Joshua H. Bates, a veteran of the civil and Seminole Indian wars, is dead at the Burnet House, in Cincinnati, in his ninety-second year. General Bates was born in Boston, March 5, 1817. He is survived by a widow and five children.

BANNER IS EYESORE.

Lincoln Democrats Hope to Have Taft Sign Down When Bryan Is Notified.

Lincoln, Neb., July 27.—Lincoln Democrats will make an effort to have the Taft banner, which is hung over the main street, taken down on the day that Bryan is formally advised of his nomination. The banner, which proclaims that Taft will carry Nebraska, has been an eyesore to local Democrats since it was hung. A week after it was placed the banner was burned and partly destroyed. It has since been rehung.

Extensive preparations are making in Lincoln for Bryan's notification on Aug. 12. The speeches are to be made from a platform on the state capitol grounds. After the notification is completed, marching clubs from towns in the state will form a parade through the business part of the city. The spectators will then take cars to Fairview, where a reception will be held on the Bryan lawn.

BRYAN GUEST OF OMAHA CITIZENS.

Will Be Initiated Into One of City's Societies.

Omaha, Neb., July 27.—William Jennings Bryan is today a guest of Omaha. He arrived directly from Chicago. Tonight, as the guest of the Aksarben club, he will speak at a banquet in his honor and be initiated into the society as a member.

Mr. Bryan has announced that on some day next week he would name the dates on which he intends making addresses during the next two months.

Chicago, July 27.—National chairman Norman E. Mack, whose appointment has just been announced, has determined to establish Democratic headquarters in the Auditorium Annex in Chicago.

NORMAN E. MACK.

Chairman Mack has also announced that the New York sub headquarters of the committee would be in the Hoffman House. There will soon be appointed an advisory committee, to be composed of men who are not members of the national committee. The executive committee will be composed exclusively of members of the national committee. Chairman Mack left today for Buffalo.

John R. Burton of New York will act as assistant secretary of the Democratic national committee throughout the campaign. Willis J. Abbott was appointed head of a press bureau that will work in connection with the advisory bureau, which is under the direction of Henry Watterson.

Americans' Score Highest.

London, July 27.—America claims the championship in the stadium events of the Olympic games. The boys from the states won fifteen first prizes out of a possible twenty-seven, scoring more firsts than the athletes of the entire world combined. On the basis of five points for first, three for seconds and one for thirds, the United states scored 114 1-2 points; Great Britain and Ireland, 66 1-3; Sweden, 12 1-3; Canada, 11; South Africa and Greece, 8; Norway, 5; Germany, 4; Italy, 3; France and Hungary, 2 1-2; Australiasa and Finland, 1. The games were brought to a conclusion Saturday afternoon, so far as sports held in the Stadium were concerned, when Queen Alexandra presented the gold medals and trophies to the successful competitors. The Dowager Duchess of Westminister, the Duchess of Rutland and Lady Desborough handed the silver and bronz medals, the diplomas and the commemorative medals to those entitled to them.

The Mysterious Signature.

By J. LUDLUM LEE.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

"The modern bungalow is a delusion and a snare."

"Suburbanites are an unneighborly, churlish lot."

Thus did Harriet and Pierce Elkins respectively sum up their first month at Meadow Manor, where, on the advice of old family friends, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Rogers, they had taken a picturesque bungalow for the season.

Harriet based her judgment on warping doors and a shortage in books and other small domestic essentials, summing up with the announcement that when women turned architects houses would be properly planned.

Her brother founded his criticism on the fact that the young woman whom he had nominated as the Meadow Manor beauty had so far ignored his very existence. She boarded the 8:30 train with him five days out of seven and yet seemed to hold herself aloof not only from him, but all other masculine creatures.

She was a most competent young person and never gave him the least opportunity to do her a service. In his determination to make an opportunity for knightly service he ignored the friendly overtures of other neighbors.

At last opportunity appeared on the horizon. Pierce had taken the 2:30 train home in hopes of getting a turn on the links to counteract the depressing effects of falling stocks, and there, walking briskly ahead of him under the arching trees of the quaint village, was the inaccessible beauty. And in the dust at the right of her daintily uplifted skirt lay a handkerchief. Pierce Elkins darted forward.

"I beg your pardon, but I think you dropped this."

The girl glanced first at the man, then at the bit of cambric in his hand, and smiled.

"But I did not drop it," she said and in verification of the statement pulled her handkerchief from her sleeve.

Mumbling inaudible words of apology, Pierce turned down the opposite street toward home. Even golf did not improve his humor, and the next morning at breakfast his mood had not changed.

"Will you have two lumps?" asked Harriet as she was pouring the coffee.

"Seventeen," growled Pierce.

"Seventeen, all in one cup!" cried Harriet in amazement.

"I thought you asked me the day of the month," explained Pierce. "Two will do. The fact is, Sis, I did not sleep well last night, and my brain is befuddled. That blamed roof leaked again, and the rain came right in on my bed. I've decided not to go to town this morning, but instead I'm going round to see our landlord and tell him what I think of him."

"The roof over the kitchen leaks, too," said Harriet plaintively. "You might mention that also."

"What's the beast's name?" asked Pierce.

"I really don't know," Harriet answered. "The bills come in signed 'M. M., per Hock & Hock.'"

"Well, I won't bother Hock & Hock, for they are like all agents," said Pierce. "I want the man higher up—the owner himself. M. M.," he mused—"I bet his name is Mike Murphy, and I'll also wager that I'll rouse his Irish before I get through with him."

"He lives in the little white bungalow on Maple avenue. Mr. Hock pointed it out to me," directed Harriet as her brother started on his mission.

Pierce soon found the bungalow and rang the bell. He waited a moment and then rang again. He was in no mood to wait. From the hall inside a voice called, "Coming, coming!"

And she came—the beauty!

Pierce gasped. He had evidently made another mistake.

"I am looking for our missing landlord," he exclaimed. "I really don't know his name—some Irish contractor, I'll bet, ashamed to sign his full name."

"Sit down on the porch, won't you, Mr."— She hesitated. The beauty would make no mistakes.

"Elkins is my name—Pierce Elkins—and I fear I have made a mistake. My sister and I live in the little red cottage on New street. I'm searching for our landlord—name unknown, but methods atrocious. Really Miss—Miss"—Now Pierce hesitated.

"Markwell," she added.

"This landlord signs his receipts 'M. M.,' and I'm after his blood," finished Elkins.

"Won't you sit down?" again suggested Miss Markwell, and she deftly turned the conversation into more agreeable channels. The landlord was forgotten.

"I wonder if your sister would like to know me," said the beauty finally. "I know it is my place to call, but I rather hesitated—well, for several reasons."

"Oh, I do wish you would call on Harriet! She's a brick all right and as lonesome as a stray cat. No one has called yet."

"Well, I'll come over this afternoon while you are on the links," said Miss Markwell, with some emphasis about the links.

But when Miss Markwell called that afternoon it was Pierce who answered the bell.

"You see, I've such a fearful cold from that leaking roof," he explained, "that I thought I had better stay home and nurse it."

Miss Markwell bit her lip.

"I do hope, Miss Elkins," she said, "that I may be allowed to see this much talked of roof while I am here. The fact is," she continued, with rather halting speech—"the fact is, oh, bother—I'm your landlord."

Pierce took a firm grip on the table to keep from losing his balance. Neither he nor Harriet spoke, and the beauty was forced to cover the pause.

"I'm the 'Terrible Turk;' I'm 'Mike Murphy,' alias Muriel Markwell, alias 'M. M.'" She seemed quite relieved that the awful news was out.

"Well, I'll be hanged!" This from Pierce.

"Who would think it?" This from Harriet.

"You see, I built these four houses as an investment with some money that father left to me," explained "M. M." "And now, Mr. Elkins, if you will come with me we will hunt up a roof man and have the repairs done right away. I am tired of agents. I want to be an old fashioned landlord and take good care of my tenants."

She smiled an irresistible smile.

Monday found the men at work, and "M. M." dropped in to see how things progressed. Tuesday morning she looked for Elkins on the 8:30 train, but he was not in evidence. Wednesday it was the same story, and that afternoon Muriel thought she would make another tour of inspection. Harriet met her at the door with rather a long face.

"The ceiling fell in Pierce's room on Monday night, and his arm is broken," was her greeting.

"Oh, Miss Elkins," cried Muriel, "I feel for all the world like a murderer at large. What am I to do?"

"Suppose you come up and see Pierce. Perhaps he can suggest a way out of it," said Harriet, with sisterly interest.

They found Pierce lying back in a morris chair reading the latest issue of a magazine. He made a very interesting picture with his bandaged arm and his smoking jacket thrown about his shoulders.

"What can I say?" said Muriel as she reached forth a supplicating hand to meet his free one.

"I don't know what you can say, but there's a heap of things you can do," boldly asserted the invalid.

"Anything—anything?" cried Muriel.

"Well, sit down for one thing," said Pierce as he pulled a chair very close to his. She sat down beside him, and it was twilight when she left.

It was a matter of comment in the neighborhood that Mr. Elkins nursed a broken arm for the longest time on record. When neighbors inquired of the local doctor how the patient progressed the doctor shook his head and smiled.

"A serious case," was his only comment—"a very, very serious case."

A Sudden Drop in Values.

One of those blinding snowstorms that sometimes happen had swept over the town, obliterating the landscape and piling the drifts high along the streets and on the sidewalks. The prospect as Mr. Hipperly looked out of his front window the morning after the storm was appalling.

"I suppose I've got to shovel that snow off my walks," he said to his wife, "but it will take me half a day. I wouldn't do it for $5 if I didn't have to."

He took his snow shovel, however, and went bravely to work. About five minutes later a man in the garb of a laborer came along.

"Mister," he asked, "don't you want to hire that done?"

"I don't know," responded Mr. Hipperly. "What will it cost me?"

The man looked at the huge drifts that covered the walks for a depth of nearly three feet and shrugged his shoulders.

"The job's worth $1," he said.

"It's too much," said Mr. Hipperly. "I'll give you 50 cents."

The man shook his head and moved on. Mr. Hipperly was about to resume operations when he happened to glance at his front window and saw his wife looking at him with a queer smile on her face. Then he remembered.

"Hold on!" he called out. "Come back here, my friend! I'll give you the dollar."—Exchange.

Admonished.

On Saturday night Pat Dougherty announced that he should call upon a sick friend. Accordingly he gave his money to his wife and departed. Home o'clock came—12, 3; still he did not return. At 5 in the morning the bell sounded.

"Be th' shades av St. Pathrick, Molke, yure a soight!" gasped Mrs. Doughtery as she viewed the battered figure of her belated spouse, who, with head tightly bandaged, one arm in a sling and his right eye done in court plaster, limped painfully into the room. "Phwat happened to yez?"

"Me an' Chris Schultz hod a little argymint down at Flannigan's."

"Argymint, is it? An' th' lolkes av yez be afther gittin' licked be wan av thim weasel faced, shpindle shanked Dutchmin?"

"Whisht, Maggie!" returned Mike softly. "Niver shpake disreshpictful av th' dead."—Judge.

He travels fastest who travels alone * * * but not after the frost has dropped below zero fifty degrees or more.—Yukon Code.

Day had broken cold and gray, exceedingly cold and gray, when the man turned aside from the main Yukon trail and climbed the high earth-bank, where a dim and little-travelled trail led eastward through the fat spruce timber land. It was a steep bank, and he paused for a breath at the top, excusing the act to himself by looking at his watch. It was nine o'clock. There was no sun or hint of sun, though there was not a cloud in the sky. It was a clear day, and yet there seemed an intangible pall over the face of things, a subtle gloom that made the day dark, and that was due to the absence of sun. This fact did not worry the man. He was used to the lack of sun.

Battle Creek of the Southern Michigan League has sold "Dad" Stewart to Springfield, Ill.

Umpire O'Toole of the umpire staff of the Southern Michigan league underwent an operation at Kalamazoo yesterday, which will keep him out of the game for 10 days or two weeks. He has been suffering from a drawn tendon in his left foot, which was injured several years ago and left him a cripple. An abscess formed on the bottom of the left foot, and today all this was removed.

After ten innings of fine base ball, Battle Creek passed Tecumseh on a couple of errors in the tenth inning, for a 2 to 1 victory. Holmquist for Tecumseh allowed but five hits.

Battle Creek's first score came in the third inning, the Indians tying in the 8th on Wagner's hit, who advanced on Todd's hot grounder to Henderson and scored on an outfield sacrifice. In the 10th Somerlott's error gave Hess first, and Traynor bunted. Vorpagel, anxious to catch Hess at second, saw he was too late and threw to first. This took Somerlott by surprise, and Hess kept going to the home plate, winning the game. Score:

Bat. Creek	0	0	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	1—2	5	0

Batteries—Holmquist and Mitchell; Latham and Boucher. Runs—Loughlin, Deneau—2; Wagner—1. Three-base hit—Loughlin. Bases on balls—Off Holmquist 2; off Latham 1. First base on errors—Battle Creek 2. Struck out—By Holmquist 5; by Latham 7. Double plays—Henderson to Deneau to Loughlin; Shippy (unassisted); Shippy to Somerlott. Stolen base—Todd. Sacrifice hits—Vorpagel, Traynor. Time—1:45. Umpire—Morgan.

Tecumseh took the second game on Saturday with the Crickets. Wagner saved the game from a possible tie in the ninth inning when he caught Hessberger's terrific drive, and cinched the game with a score of 6 to 4. Five hits in a row off Engel in the ninth inning gave the Indians their last three runs. Score:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	R	H	E
Tecumseh	1	0	2	0	0	0	0	0	3—6	11	2
Battle Creek	0	0	0	1	1	0	0	0	2—4	10	2

Stolen bases—Shippy, Stewart, Traynor. First base on errors—Tecumseh 2; Battle Creek 1. Struck out—By Doty 3; by Engel 3. Bases on balls—Off Doty 3; off Engel 2. Passed ball—Boucker. Hit by pitcher—Shippy, Deneau. Time—1:45. Umpire—Morgan.

Battle Creek won from the Indians last Sunday in a game that kept the fans guessing, the score standing 5 to 3. Fielding was fast on both sides, but Tecumseh's three errors were more costly than the Crickets.

The Indians first run came in the second inning when Wagner was hit and scored on Todd's single.

The Creekers cinched the game in the fourth when a bunch of errors gave them three runs.

In the ninth inning three hits gave them one run. Score:

In one of the most exciting games of the seasons the Indians won the first game of the series from Kalamazoo yesterday afternoon, by a 3 to 2 score, in 11 innings.

Stemile for Kalamazoo pitched until the seventh holding them scoreless, then when two runs were made off him, he was taken out, Method replacing him. Holmquist beside pitching an excellent game, brought in two runs with a two bagger, and in the ninth with the bases full pulled out of a bad hole, with but one man out, he caught a hot line drive and made a quick double play by throwing to third.

Streeter for Tecumseh and Andrews for Kazoo featured in the field. Score:

CAPTAIN BOYD BACK IN GREELEY

WRITER OF CITY HISTORY HERE

Came in On Wave of Delegates to the Big Democratic Convention.

And on the tourist tide that has been whelming Denver during convention days, who should return to the state and the town that takes justifiable pride in him, but Captian David Boyd.

It has been 11 years now since the man who wrote the "History of Greeley" has been in the city at whose real history he helped in the making and who afterwards wrote out the story for those who come to late for the pioneer days. A great book is that history of the Greeley colony, clearly and concisely written; not only valuable from a historcial standpoint, but reading like a romance to those whose ancestors were still resident at Cork or Boston when the pioneers were winning their laurels here.

During those 11 years Captian Boyd has traveled up and down across and back always seeing more and yet more of the world. A brother William Boyd is with him on this trip west. His travels have been principally in the east and in Canada although about a year ago he made a journey to California.

There is a chapter in Captian Boyd's history that antedates the Greeley pioneer days. That is the story of life in the army, for he reckons four years in the Civil war to his credit; and the G. A. R. men are delighted to welcome him back.

Mr. Boyd's other writings include a goverment treatise on irrigation.

We clipped the above article from the Greeley Tribune, a paper printed at Greeley, Colo., thinking that perhaps it would interest many of his former acquaintances. Capt. Boyd mentioned in the above article was a former resident of Ridgeway and who was among the first graduates of the Tecumseh high school. Of late years Mr. Boyd has been living with his sister in Albion.

The August number of The Ladies' World is given up chiefly to fiction—and excellent it is, so good, in fact, as to restore our belief in the short story. There is variety enough to suit every taste, but all have that touch of human nature that makes them attractive to everyone who reads. As a collection the illustrations are remarkable, and typographically the magazine is, as always, a delight to the eye. Beside the stories—eight in all—there are the usual departments, which take up timely matters of household interest, of health, the Care of Children, Summer and the Complexion, and the Midsummer fashions, all treated in a sane, practical way, which gives the impression that the writers know what they are talking about. To sum up, this number is up to the usual high standard of the publication.—(New York: Fifty Cents a Year.)

The August Lippincott's affords a good example of what can be done in the way of providing ideal hot-weather entertainment—though the magazine could hardly fail to be interesting were the mercury flirting with the zero mark. No cleverer or more diverting story has appeared this year than the complete novel, "The Road to Gretna Green," by Dorothea Deakin. Among the shorter stories are Kate Jordan's "The Quarrel," a charming love tale; Inez G. Thompson's "The Apple," which narrates how a young husband's love first grew cold, then was fanned into a stronger flame; Karl von Kraft's "The Destiny of Rip," the account of a dog who refused to be given away or otherwise disposed of; and E. Mirrielees' "A Sister to Jimmy," a touching story of the San Francisco earthquake.

A striking feature of the August McClure's—one that will be widely discussed—is an essay on "Prohibition and Social Psychology," by Prof. Hugo Munsterberg. The distinguished psychologist says: "Better America Inspired than America Sober." Another strong feature, from a pictorial standpoint, is the reproduction of several of the best paintings of Alexander Borisoff, the Russian artist, who went to the frozen North and painted the marvelously beautiful colors of the Artic region on the spot.

BEST THE WORLD AFFORDS.

"It gives me unbounded pleasure to recommend Bucklen's Arnica Salve," says J. W. Jenkins, of Chapel Hill, N. C. "I am convinced it's the best salve the world affords. It cured a felon on my thumb, and it never fails to heal every sore, burn or wound to which it is applied. 25c. at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

Elmer Mellon, who drove the Queen of Spades to victory last Saturday afternoon, in the 2:24 trot, drove in his first race on that day. He says it is fascinating work, and thoroughly enjoyed it. His manner of driving received many words of commendation from men who had often driven on the track.

FLAG DAY.

On Wednesday, Tecumseh will raise the pennant they won last year in the South Michigan League. On this day they will play their last game with Kalamazoo.

The stores will close, the band will be there, and a general program will be given suitable for the occasion. Pres. John Combs will give an address. Do not fail to see this game, as the pennant raising will be one of the events of the season in Tecumseh.

CASCIUS LABOUNTY

With aching hearts we are obliged to chronicle the death of Cascius LaBounty which occurred at his parents home east of town last Friday afternoon. He was born in Blissfield, March 23, 1891, being the second son of Mr. and Mrs. William LaBounty. At the age of six years he came with his parents to Tecumseh residing just west of town, on a farm, and at the age of 8 years with his family, moved east of town, on the Shull farm where his death occurred. His untimely death caused by Endocarditis has brought the bitter cup of sorrow to the lips of friends and relatives, and casts a dark shadow over the home and the community. For seventeen bright and sunny years not only had he been a joy and comfort in in the home, now desolate, but his kind and gentlemanly manner brought a wealth of sunshine and happiness into the lives of a host of friends. Every heart is touched with sympathy for the stricken ones, from whose fire side the light has fled, and may they not forget that He who "has borne our grief and carried our sorrow will comfort and sustain.

Rev. E. A. Wollam of the Friends church conducted the services at the house at 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon Six young friends Walter Morden, Webster Kay, John Scarlett, Leon Wilson, David O'Reilly and Paul Rowland, acted as bearers and tenderly laid the remains to final rest at Brookside amid a profusion of flowers. Yet, above all comes the comforting thought that this young man has been spared earth's cares and sorrows, and his memory but forms another cord to draw his loved ones to the brighter home beyond.

Among those from away who came to attend the funeral were; W. I. Ford, wife and son of Blissfield; H. E. Ford and wife of Adrian; Mr. and Mrs Peter DeShetler of Dundee; O. LaBounty and son Roy of Ironville; Mrs. Dr. Cook, Mrs. Alfred Packard and brothers Leo and Glad DeShetler of Toledo; Mrs. Robison of Auburndale. Mrs. C. D. Hemingway of Petersburg; Mr. and Mrs. Will Smith and daughter Ora of Blissfield.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to thank the many kind friends and neighbors who have aided us during the illness and death of our son and brother Cascius. We wish to especially thank Rev. Wollam for his kind assistance.

REMINISCENCES

Concerning Our Early Settlers.

Anecdotes Told by Geo. S. Tiffany of the Life of B. F. Baxter.

We are sure the Herald readers will enjoy this little sketch from Mr. Tiffany and we would be glad to hear from other readers along the same lines.

"Should auld acquaintance be forgot
And never brought to mind,
Should auld acquaintance be forgot
In the days of auld lang syne!"
BENJ. BAXTER.

The purpose of the Herald to devote a space to reminiscences of those who have made Tecumseh more delightful for having lived in it and though having "gone awa," as the Scotch say, are still members of the "Big Family" receives my hearty commendation. In token of which I will write a few lines in regard to the Hon. Benj. Baxter, the genial jovial witty, "laughing Deacon." About a generation ago his wit enlivened nearly every public occasion and his hearty laugh was familiar to every citizens.

A long time ago there was an Agricultural or Horticultural society gathering in Bidwell's Hall at which the important subject of Apple Butter was very fully and fluently discussed. What was said may be inferred from Baxter's comments, as nearly as I can recollect he spoke as follows:

"I am delighted to hear of the great merits of apple butter and that it will be a very valuable product of your farms and increase the wealth and happiness of the farmers of Lenawee Whenever the farmer is benefitted every person engaged in other pursuits is also blessed. This apple butter is a great thing for temperance people and Prohibitionists for as you say they can have sweet cider the year around simply by putting a few teaspoonfuls of apple butter in a glass of water. O I can plainly see that we townspeople will be immensely benefited for, instead of putting your small apples into the middle of the barrel you will now work them up into apple butter." * * *

Baxter was a witness in court and was questioned in regard to a man he very much disliked.

Attorney. Do you know Mr. ——

Baxter. "Yes," with a long sigh as if he were sorry that he did.

Attorney. Do you know where he is?

Baxter. I do not want to answer that question.

Attorney. Well I insist you shall answer it.

Baxter. I will not, unless the court order that I shall.

Judge. It is a proper question and the witness should answer it.

Baxter. I am a Presbyterian and a Deacon and according to the doctrines of the church the man is in hell. He's been dead six months.

The Attorney was discomfited and Judge and jury suffering with repressed laughter. Baxter had said what he really wanted to say. He had been "parrying for a home thrust."

One more incident. It occurred after the weariness of age had made him appear very feeble. He came into the Lilley house one morning in a faded ulster and carrying a great bundle of useless papers, while a group were discussing the 19th and 20th century question. Baxter listened attentively and silently noted they had finished and not arriving at a decision, Baxter decided it for them. Gathering up his papers and moving toward the door he turned and said, "Well Gentlemen it all depends on whether Jesus was a year old when he was born or not."

Yes, it is well for us often to speak of those who have "gone awa," not to "draw their frailities from their dead abode" but to show their wit, their wisdom and more than all their kindly ways, how they "wrought with human hands the creed of creeds in loveliness of perfect deeds."

A novelette of unusual interest opens the August number of The Smart Set. It is called "The Diary of an Unconscious Eve," and is written by G. Vere Tyler, a writer who probably has as keen an insight into the feminine temperment as any living author. The situation on which the novel is founded is at once unique and daring, and the ending is so absolutely unlooked for that it will surprise even the most clever readers. A more original piece of work has not appeared in this magazine.

"People talk about the midnight oil as if it had some virtue attached to it," writes Doctor Hale in Woman's Home Companion for August. "In truth, four times out of five the midnight oil means overwork, or it means that you have neglected some duty which should have been attended to before the sun went down. "Unless each night recovers the ground lost in the exertion of the day before, you are committing suicide by inches; and you have no right to commit suicide at all."

SINCERE THANKS

If You Have Catarrh, Asthma or Bronchitis, Read What Thankful People Say About Hyomei.

Mrs. M.A Drake, Utica, N.Y., writes: "I could not speak above a whisper, I inhaled Hyomei, and it gave me instant relief. Hyomei will cure Catarrh and Bronchitis if used as directed."

Lodwick Edwards, 1823 Madison ave., Columbus, O., writes: "I will let you know what your Hyomei inhaler did for me. It cured me of my Bronchitis all right. I feel very thankful to you for your valuable medicine."

Mrs Bertha Weekly, Pleasantville, Pa., writes: "I want you to know I used your Hyomei for Hay Fever with good results, having suffered with it for many years, and this is the first thing I ever found that ever gave me any relief."

Hyomei will cure Catarrh, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Asthma, Coughs or Colds, and C. A. Wright & Son's drug store will give you your money back if it don't. It is a pleasant remedy, and gives relief instantly. Just breathe it in through the pocket inhaler that comes with every $1.00 outfit. Extr bottles for subsequent treatment are only 50 cents.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physicians, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease undermines the system.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

War Against Consumption.

All nations are endeavoring to check the ravages of consumption, the "white plague" that claims so many victims each year. Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs and colds perfectly and you are in no danger of consumption. Do not risk your health by taking some unknown preparation when Foley's Honey and Tar is safe and certain in results. The genuine is in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

A man may deceive himself, but he never fools destiny.

The older a man grows, the longer he looks at a contract before signing it.

Torturing eczema spreads its burning area every day. Doan's Ointment quickly stops its spreading, instantly relieves the itching, cures it permanently. At any drug store.

The most becoming tie for young ladies—Modesty.

We wonder if there is anyone who would accept a million dollars with the agreement that he would give up his life at the end of a year?

There's nothing so good for a sore throat as Dr. Thomas's Eclectric Oil. Cures it in a few hours. Relieves any pain in any part.

Trying times—Going to the dressmaker's.

Quick relief for Asthma Sufferers.

Foley's Honey and Tar affords immediate relief to asthma sufferers in the worst stages and if taken in time will effect a cure. Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Where to recover yourself—At the tailor's.

The older a man grows, the fewer adjectives he uses.

No man can be satisfactory. If he is accommodating, others will say he expects a whole lot of accommodation in return.

GIVING OUT.

Around all day with an aching back;
Can't rest at night;
Enough to make any one "give out."
Doan's Kidney Pills will give renewed life.
They will cure the backache;
Cure every kidney ill.
Here is Tecumseh proof that this is so.

John B. Smith, debuty sheriff, living on East Chicago Avenue, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I experienced a great deal of suffering from pains in the small of my back, through the loins and about the kidneys and when an attack was present it was hard for me to do my work. On bending over, I would be seized with dizzy spells, when spots of fire would flash before my eyes. I was restless at night, and in the morning would get up feeling tired and unrefreshed. I doctored a great deal, also used a number of remedies, but received no permanent benefit. Finally I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and the statements made concerning them were so convincing that I was induced to procure a box at Wright and Son's drug store. I felt great benefit after taking the contents of the first box, and thus encouraged I continued until they effected a complete cure. I will always recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone I hear complaining of kidney trouble."

Unchanging Man.

Mortal man offers but little difference in spite of the diversity of race and climate, and in analyzing the Egyptian we almost find ourselves reproduced. Some Grains of Luck.

"Is your husband having any luck at the race track?"

"Some luck," answered young Mrs. Torkins. "He hasn't caught cold nor had his pockets picked."—Washington Star.

Vacation time is here again, and when you go on your holiday you will be looking for reading matter to while away an occasional lazy hour. At such times one wants something bright and entertaining, and, above all, complete. This description covers the July Lippincott's Magazine. The leading novelette by Mrs. John VanVorst is entitled "Second Quality"—this name applies neither to plot nor treatment, but rather to the stripe of society people, so-called, who are for the most part foreign born.

Epilepsy, Fits

Convulsions, or Spasms and St. Vitus' Dance are Nervous Diseases. Most cases can be cured by strengthening and building up the nervous system. To do this a nerve medicine is needed. Dr. Miles' Nervine will be found efficacious and satisfactory. It has cured many cases of these diseases and we believe it will cure you. We can give you names of many who have been cured through its use. Write for advice.

"My son John had epilepsy for years, and after having him treated by specialists for over 2 years he still continued to have spells. I had almost given up in despair, but knowing the virtue of Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills for sick headache, I concluded to try the Nervine. During June, 1906, I gave him a teaspoonful three times a day, then in July I gave it as directed, and I could see that he was improving, and he has not had a spell since August 22, 1906, and has taken no medicine since Jan. 07. I am writing the case just as it is hoping it will induce others to try it."

DUNDEE.

George B. Flint and wife have returned home for a vacation.

Mrs. Rose Flint entertained L. S. Fisher and wife also Mrs. A. Rennie and Miss M. Clare from Detroit this week.

Robert G. Walker died on Thursday last at the age of 29 years. Robert was born in Dundee and moved to Muskegon when a small child, but he has always been in Dundee much of his time spending his vacations here. When he attended the U of M. in Ann Arbor his mother moved here for her mother lived here and to be close to Robert while in college as Mr. Walker was traveling on the road. Robert after graduating began the pratice of law in his home town Muskegon, and last year was elected by the people as Prosecuting Attorney, and last October he married Miss Norrie Fisher one of Detroits prettiest young ladies. She is also an artist. Robert and wife had only kept house a month when in March he was taken sick with the dreaded disease of tuberculosis of the bowels, and it was past the power of man to save him as everything was done for him that could be.

He was taken sick in March and was brought to Ann Arbor for treatment and from there was brought to Dundee, his father, mother and wife with many others doing all in their power to aid him. The poor little wife, only 18 years of age has just seen her first sorrow as she has always had nothing before but pleasure, being the daughter of T. S. Fisher and wife who have one other daughter, Mrs. A. Rennie of Detroit, and one son, George Fisher at home. Mrs. Walker will return to her fathers home in Detroit. There on Thursday, July 16, Robert passed away, and on Saturday morning at 7 o'clock there was a prayer service and his favorite hymn sung and the remains were taken to Muskegon for burial accompained by his father, mother, his sorrowful wife and her sister, Mrs. Rennie and on Sun at 10:30 there was a funeral and the Masonic rites were given in all honor to their lost brother. Also attended by his many friends in the home town.

PROTECTS HER CHERRIES.

Woman Shoots Circus Hand Twice While Stealing Fruit.

Ludington, Mich., July 27.—Because she wouldn't get out of her cherry tree, Mrs. Marion Brown of this city shot one of the canvas men attached to a circus which passed through here in the arm and shoulder. The man refused to leave the tree when Mrs. Brown commanded him to, and, entering the house, she procured a revolver and shot him twice. He left the tree and has not been seen since.

Fugitive Brought Back.

Port Huron, Mich., July 27.—Sheriff Davidson has arrived here from Winnipeg with Fred Parker, who was arrested by the Canadian authorities on a charge of assaulting Elizabeth Pilger, a cripple, in her home on White street last April, since which time Parker has been a fugitive. When the sheriff reached Winnipeg the prisoner at first refused to return with him without extadition papers, but but later consented to make the trip without causing delay.

Blueberry Crop Small.

Marquette, Mich., July 27.—Contrary to earlier reports, it appears now that the blueberry harvest in upper Michigan will fall materially below the normal this season. The fruit is plentiful in some districts, but in others the crip is almost a total failure, the frosts of the late spring having killed the blossoms. The monetary loss is well in the thousands.

Pleads Guilty to Murder.

Calumet, Mich., July 27.—"I am guilty because I was driven to do it," was the reply of Tom Williams when examined before Justice W. T. Fisher on the charge of murdering his wife, Eliza Williams, the night of July 11. Williams is believed insane. The accused, early in the spring, was given $350 by his wife to pay as a deposit on a liquor license, but he took the money and made a trip to England. This estranged him from his family, and on his return home his wife would not allow him to enter the house. He procured a revolver and shot her, killing her instantly.

Bids received for the construction of a training school building at the Western Michigan Normal school at Kalamazoo have been rejected by the state board of education and more bids asked for.

Elmer C. Grant of the Fairview stock farm, two miles south of Rochester, claims the banner wheat crop so far this season. Fourteen acres yielded 570 bushels, one field averaging forty-seven bushels to the acre.

Victor Johnson, liquor dealer of Escanaba, has started suit for $5,000 damages against Rev. C. A. Lund, pastor of the Swedish Lutheran church, alleging malicious arrest. Johnson was accused of violating the liquor law and acquitted.

As English Turf Tragedy.

Half an hour before the race for the Two Thousand Guineas of 1883 Prince Batthyany, who bred St. Simon and who was one of the most popular racing men of any time, was talking with Lord Cadogan in the luncheon room of the Jockey club stand at Newmarket, when he suddenly reeled and fell.

He was carried to Weatherby's office, and doctors were summoned, but the prince was beyond all human aid, and just before the bell rang for the race for which his colt, Galliard, brother of St. Simon, was first favorite he breathed his last.

A few minutes later "the clear blue sky rang with cheers and shouts as the horses came thundering along, which rose into a roar as Galliard won by a head," while behind the drawn blinds of Weatherby's office Galliard's owner, who had been looking forward so eagerly to this moment, was lying dead. It was owing to the death of his owner that Galopin's great son could not run in the Derby of 1884, which he would almost certainly have won.—St. James' Gazette.

The great trouble with the good is, that in talking of evil, they seldom tell the truth.

Hoyle.

Hoyle was not really the inventor of whist, although often so stated to be, but he was the first who introduced scientific whist to the public. A recent authority says that very little is known of Hoyle's personal history except that he was a barrister by profession and held the post of registrar of the prerogative in Ireland. He was born in 1670 and died in Cavendish square in 1767 at the advanced age of ninety-seven years. He received the sum of £1,000 from his publisher for his treatise on whist, which ran through five editions in one year and was extensively pirated. Hoyle is said to have given lessons in whist at a guinea a lesson. One of his great points was the calculation of probabilities at various stages of the rubber. This at first was deemed so important in guiding players that a famous mathematician used to frequent the coffee houses (the old substitute for the modern clubs) and give his opinion on the state of the odds at any stage in a game of whist in return for a small fee from the players.—Glasgow Times.

Crossing the Ocean.

The following bits of conversation may be heard several thousand times each day:

"I think those people down in the steerage have a much better time than we do. But don't they look just like so many animals?"

"Don't those clouds over there look just like land?"

"Somebody said we aren't far from an iceberg, but I don't know whether it's so or not. You hear so many false reports on shipboard."

"Have you met the captain yet? I hope you didn't ask him any foolish questions, poor man!"

"No; I haven't seen a whale yet, but there were lots of porpoises around the ship today."

"Who is that man? I haven't seen him before. He must have come on board during the night." (Always funny.)

"Did the postman bring you anything this morning?" (Sure of a howl.)

"Is this your first trip to Europe? My, but you have a treat in store!"—Princeton Tiger.

As Arranged For Older Children.

Miss Mary was the possessor of a diminutive and immature specimen of the Ovis aires, a wool bearing and ruminant quadruped, whose flesh is highly esteemed by persons to whose gustatory organs its flavor is agreeable.

The shaggy and agglomerated filaments constituting in their collective capacity its natural outer covering, integument or garment presented to the vision a surface absolutely etiolated and albified and rivaling in immaculateness the lustrous mantle of crystallized vapor that commonly characterizes the winter landscape.

And to whatsoever locality, contiguous or remote, whither Mary's vagrant fancy, the call of duty or, perchance, the parental mandate impelled her, when not otherwise engaged, to betake herself, this juvenescent representative of the genus Ovis aires, with a fidelity remarkable in one so immature and inexperienced, could be counted upon with absolute and entire certainty to accompany her.—Chicago Tribune.

Too Much of a Good Thing.

George Marshall, a philanthropist who always kept a sharp lookout never to be wasteful, decided to go for a week's camping, taking as his guests some ragged street urchins. One morning he used the bits of meat left from the evening before and made hash for breakfast. There was some left over, which he concluded to reheat and serve again at noon.

"Johnnie, will you have some hash?" he asked one lad.

"Bet your life," replied the lad, who was constitutionally hungry.

"Peter, pass your plate for some hash"—to another freckled nosed lad.

"Not if I knows it," was the unexpected reply.

"I thought you liked hash from the way you ate it this morning," replied Mr. Marshall.

"I did like it for breakfast," said the lad, "but none of yer review of reviews for me for dinner."—Lippincott's Magazine.

Sided With Father.

"There is a little chap in our town," said the suburbanite, "whose father and mother have words quite frequently, and have them loud enough to be heard by the neighbors. The burden of their recriminations when audible is, on the wife's part, that she ever lowered the Hicks family sufficiently to marry a Stubbs, and on his part that he ever honored the Hicks family by allying it with the house of Stubbs.

"One day last summer the young son of the house went fishing. He had barely got his line into the brook when he heard his mother calling him.

"'There it is,' said he disgustedly, 'the minute the Stubbses begin to fish the Hickses begin to holler.'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Lesson in Thrift.

A lesson in thrift is found in the advice given by Congressman John E. Andrus to a young man for whom he had secured a minor appointment in the capitol at Washington. Meeting the young fellow in the capitol, he placed a hand on his shoulder and remarked:

"William, you are just beginning your life. Let me give you a bit of sound advice: When you leave your boarding house in the morning never take more than 30 cents in your pockets, enough perhaps for your luncheon and for car fare. You will then not be tempted to spend more than you can afford."—Yonkers Statesman.

It is said that the most trying moment in a girl's life is when her young man's kin call on her to pass judgment.

VILLAGE OF TECUMSEH, July 24, '08.
MRS. ELLA INGERSOLL,

You are hereby notified that at a meeting of the common council of the village of Tecumseh, Michigan, held on the 24th of July, 1908, a resolution was adopted of which the following is a true copy, viz:

Resolved, That the common council of the Village of Tecumseh does hereby require that a new sidewalk be constructed along that portion of the west line of Union street in this village which lies along and adjoining the east line of that parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, Lenawee county and state of Michigan, and described as follows:

House and south one-half of lots 7 and 8, block 8, Hoag addition.

Said walk to be 4 feet in width, on the established grade, of Portland cement, sand and gravel.

The trench shall be excavated to a depth of 10 inches at least below the established grade except for driveways and street crossings when the depth shall be at least 12 inches below the established grade.

The foundation shall consist of clean cinders or gravel entirely free from clay, thoroughly rammed to a thickness of at least 6 inches, except for driveways and street crossings which shall be at least 8 inches.

On the foundation shall be laid a concrete filling, thoroughly rammed to a thickness of 3 inches.

The concrete shall consist of not less than one part cement to six parts of clean, sharp sand or gravel.

On the concrete filling shall be laid a finishing layer one inch thick, consisting of one part cement and two parts of very clean, sharp sand. The said finishing layer shall in all cases be finished with a granular surface with a wooden float.

To secure a true line for the edges of the walk 2x4 strips shall be solidly staked down parallel to grade and on the true line of the walk, these strips to be removed when the walk is finished for use.

The concrete filling shall be tamped thoroughly till the water comes to the surface, then the finishing layer shall be immediately spread on in thin coats thoroughly rammed into the concrete, each coat being troweled until the water appears on the surface, the top surface being only troweled sufficiently to leave it smooth. The foundation shall be thoroughly wet while being rammed.

The joints for the blocks shall be made in the concrete and then in the finishing layer directly above those in the concrete.

Only Portland cement shall be used in the construction of walks and shall be in every respect the equal of the best grades of German Portland cement. The concrete filling shall be made from the same cement as the finishing layer.

And the owners and occupants of said lots and premises are hereby required to do the necessary grading therefor and to construct said sidewalk according to the provisions of this resolution, under the supervision of the street commissioner, said walk to be completed within ten days from personal service, upon the owner or occupant of said described land, of a copy of this resolution, and in case of any default in the construction and completion of said walk, as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to have said walk constructed, and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof assessed and levied upon said land in the same manner as other taxes.

Moved and supported that the resolution offered by Trustee Slater be accepted and adopted.

METHODIST CHURCH.

There was a splendid attendance at prayer meeting Wednesday evening and a good service.

We are glad to see Mrs. Dr. Barnes again in the services. She has been breathing Canadian air, and for a change, found it cheering.

These are orderly and profitable services and all our Christian people will do well to stand by the pastors in this, their earnest endeavor to extend the work and influence of the church.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward returned last Friday from Bay View and report a good meeting. They found quite a change from the cool breezes of Little Traverse Bay and the intense heat of Tecumseh.

The theme for Sunday morning will be "The Pastor—The man. The message. The method." In the evening we will join in the street service and would welcome as many as care to come. These services are full of promise of good things. Prof. Lackey will preach and Mr. Roscoe Swift of Adrian will conduct the singing. Let our people rally.

MISS ANNIE CATRON.

CATARRH MADE LIFE A BURDEN TO ME.

MISS ANNIE CATRON, 927 Main St., Cincinnati, Ohio, writes:

"As I have found Peruna a blessing for a severe case of catarrh of the head and throat which I suffered from for a number of years, I am only too pleased to give it my personal endorsement.

"Catarrh, such as I suffered from, made life a burden to me, my breath was offensive, stomach bad, and my head stopped up so that I was usually troubled with a headache, and although I tried many so-called remedies, nothing gave me permanent relief. I was rather discouraged with all medicines when Peruna was suggested to me.

"However, I did buy a bottle, and before that was finished there was a marked change in my condition. Much encouraged I kept on until I was completely cured in a month's time, and I find that my general health is also excellent."

Man-a-lin the Ideal Laxative.

They are to have a series of games with Clinton. Earl Brown will have charge of the work during the pastor's absence.

Sixteen new names have been added to the cradle roll recently. Several have been promoted from the cradle roll to the primary leaving the membership of the two departments Primary 63, Cradle Roll 51.

The pastor is preparing a series of sermons on "Christianity and Its Rivals" a study of the Beliefs that have opposed Christianity and their testimony to Christianity's truth. These sermons will be delivered to the evening congregation.

Prof. Lackey of Adrian college will preach at the morning service next Sunday. Prof. Lackey is a young man and a fluent and able preacher. The public is invited to hear him. Mr. Lackey will supply two Sundays, and this week will also preach at the Union street service.

During the pastor's vacation the midweek service will be in charge of laymen. The topics and leaders are as follows, July 29, "Jesus' Vacation Hours," Mrs. A. Wilson; Aug. 5, "Jesus' Vacation Hours," Mrs. J. J. Orr; Aug. 12, "The Duty of Forgiveness," H. S. Waring; Aug. 19, "Lessons From Ruth," Mrs. A. H. Halliday; Aug. 26, "The Kingdom of God," C. A Slayton.

Some Accident Claims.

The chairman of an insurance company instanced claims which might arise that were little expected. Among them he mentioned claims from a domestic servant who swallowed her false teeth while eating, a manageress who poisoned her hands from constantly handling copper coins, a housekeeper who, sitting down on a darning needle, was surprised to see it work out at her ankle, an underkeeper shot by poachers and accidents arising from walking in sleep, falling out of the window and the separation of a cat from the tender mercies of a dog.—London Telegraph.

He has played 34 games. Miller injured his knee while sliding the other day and has been out of the game, but will join the Saginaw team here tomorrow.

In a terrible slugging match Tuesday afternoon, the Indians won the second game with Kalamazoo by a score of 9 to 8 in 12 innings.

A total of 38 hits were made during the game, with five two baggers and four triples.

McDonald was taken sick and was replaced by Lagoe. Score:

Fully 600 people attended the ball game at the Tecumseh park last Wednesday, when the Indians crossed bats with the Kalamazoo team, for the third game of the series. This was also Tecumseh's pennant day, and the large flag, won last year, was unfurled to the breezes. Kalamazoo in last year's contest was a close second.

The Tecumseh band furnished music for the occasion, and marched across the diamond to deep center field, with the two teams, where a sixty-five foot flag pole had been raised. With the Tecumseh team, marched Village President, Jno. Combs, R. A. Heesen, Pres. of the baseball association, Will Fisher, Treas. and Arthur Pocklington, Sec. and Mgr. and Umpire Morgan.

The Kalamazoo team was led by James Frank, Pres. of the Kazoo association and Mgr. Meyers of the Kalamazoo team. With bared heads and while the band played, "Michigan, My Michigan," Pres. Heesen and Wagner, captain of the team this year, drew the pennant slowly to the top of the staff.

They marched back in a body, amid the cheers of the crowd. Village Pres. John Combs was introduced who made a nice speech, complimenting Tecumseh upon being able to support so famous a ball team.

Mr. Heesen then led the crowd in three cheers for the 1907 and 1908 baseball teams.

The game then began, with Lagoe and Taylor as opposing boxmen.

Lagoe pitched a good game, but was hit in the pinches. Score as follows;

After holding the Saginaw team down to two hits until the 8th inning, yesterday, Holmquist was found in that inning for three hits, and as many runs. Doty replaced him, while the bases were filled, and two hits, and two bases on balls allowed three more to score in 1-3 of the inning. Todd finished the game, allowing but one hit, and no scores in 1 1-3 innings.

Tecumseh had scored in the the first and seventh and apparently had the game cinched.

Harris of Adrian played centerfield in McDonald's place, who was ill.

JAMES EGAN

Body of Former Clinton Boy Found in San Francisco Bay.

REMAINS BROUGHT TO CLINTON FOR BURIAL.

The body of James Egan, formerly of Clinton, was discovered in San Francisco bay a few days ago by the life saving crew, who had been notified of his disapearance from home since July 6. It is not known whether or not it was a suicide. He was 38 years of age and had accumulated a large fortune which he has left to his sister, Anna.

Miss Egan will arrive in Clinton some time to-day with the remains and the funeral will be held from St. Dominic's church. Mr. Egan's childhood days were spent on a farm near Clinton. He was a cousin to John and Phillip Kensch, who were notified of his death.

A Prescription for Constipation

The bowels become clogged with impurities and body poisons, causing billiousness, colds, stomach trouble, headache, rheumatism, deranged liver and kidneys, etc.

A Tonic Laxative is prescribed in nearly every case. Those who need a laxative may use this prescripton with the assurance that no harmful results will follow its use. It has been given to the Public in tablet form and is known as Iron-ox (Laxative Iron-ox Tablets) and are put up in aluminum pocket cases.

The formula is wrapped around the case. The action of each ingredient is explained, that you may understand why Laxative Iron-ox Tablets are the safest Laxative to use; they strengthen the bowels, aid digestion, and keep the liver and kidneys healthy and active. We have secured the selling agency for Laxative Iron-ox Tablets and recommend them to our customers.

Had Never Seen a Burro.

The long eared burro, that hardy little animal that helped build the wonderful cog railway up Pike's peak, is considered a necessity in the far west, but is something of a curiosity "way down east" in the New England states. There is a story of the burro and a man from Maine. Here it is:

A wealthy Yankee went west last winter from Maine, leaving his family at home. His hobby was to collect quaint pieces of pottery, unique articles of furniture, bureaus, tables, desks and "whatnots." When he was ready to leave for home he found he had bought up several dray loads of curios. He chartered a car and loaded in his treasures, but there still was one end of the car that might be filled with something unique. Some one suggested that he buy a burro for his little boy to ride, which he did, and the "mountain canary" occupied the vacant space. The Yankee station agent back in Maine, when he began to unload the car, checked off each article on the bill of lading till he came to the burro. He was much puzzled, for he could not find this thing on his list. Finally he made an entry in the "remarks" column of his tally sheet as follows:

"One bureau short and one donkey over."—Kansas City Star.

HIKE TO TIPTON

Two Girls From the Reform School Attempt to Escape.

LEAVE THE SCHOOL ABOUT 8:30 TUESDAY NIGHT.

Captured at Tipton at 4:30 A. M. Wednesday.

Misses Anna Hull and Mary Fredericks escaped from the Industrial home last Tuesday evening and took a hike over to Tipton where they were captured about 4 o'clock Wednesday morning. Messrs. Swartz and Hall, two young farmers of Tipton, captured them, returning them to the school before noon and received the reward of $25 a piece.

A Stubborn Princess.

Count de Lesdain in his "From Pekin to Sikkim," an account of a journey through the Gobi desert and Tibet, tells a story concerning a Mongolian prince which has the traditional Chinese flavor.

He is not, properly speaking, Prince of Alasham, but really Prince of Kokonor. Several years ago he went to Pekin to be married. The policy of the Pekin court, to that extent wise, consists in marrying to all the Mongol kinglets princesses of the emperor's household, thus binding them to the dynasty by the links of matrimony. The Prince of Kokonor, having married a princess, set out again with his spouse for his distant kingdom. The princess had no liking for this journey and ceaselessly lamented the distance of the country in which she was to live in future. At last, having reached the opening of the Alasham desert, she absolutely refused to go a step farther. The prince in his perplexity sent courtiers to Pekin to submit his case and to beg that his spouse might be forced to be reasonable. The reply from Pekin was that if the princess refused to go on he must settle in the place where she had stopped, and thus the Prince of Kokonor became Prince of Alasham.

Twelfth Century Manners.

According to twelfth century manners, it was considered more than rude for any one, man or woman, to look aimlessly into space or gaze at the sky for any length of time, and staring about in the street or in church was considered especially impolite. People who desired to be considered well bought up were enjoined not to wave their hands about in the air and not to place their hands upon the head or shoulders of any distinguished personage.

When standing, both men and women were exhorted to place one hand over the other near the waist. A well bred woman, also, when walking out of doors, had to place the thumb of the left hand in the buckle or string by which her cloak was fastened under her neck, while with the two fingers of the right hand she kept the cloak closed.

When on horseback, men were enjoined not to look at their legs, but straight over the horse's head. In a book of the twelfth century we read of a model young woman who "walked nicely and did not look around. She did not speak to her mother nor greet her father; neither would she look at man or woman."

Old Sword Blades.

Rough as the fighters of old were, the inscriptions which they put on their swords often showed not only considerable poetic instinct, but sentimentality. "Faithful in adversity" is such a sentence engraved on an old sword of the seventeenth century. In a collection of blades of the sixteenth century are these inscriptions:

"I quarrel." "God give me speed that my foe be beat indeed." "With this defense and God's will all my enemies I shall still." "In battle I will let myself be used." "When I my sword uplift in strife, God give the sinner eternal life." "Trust in God, bravely war; therein your fame and honor are." "Your aim alone be God's great name. Who dares deny strike thou him lame." "Every soldier fine look on this sign and use his hand for God and the land." On blades from the eighteenth century are these inscriptions: "Nothing better in the world thou hast than to hold love and friendship fast." "I serve." "A good blade I. Who would deny let him meet me, and I will hold it will cost him or blood or gold."

MI-O-NA MEANS STOMACH COMFORT.

It's of Special Value to Many Here in Tecumseh.

A notable discovery, and one that appeals especially to many people in Tecumseh, is the combination of stomach help in the Mi-o-na treatment. This preparation works wonders in cases of indigestion or weak stomach.

It acts directly upon the walls of the stomach and bowels, strengthening and stimulating them so that they readily take care of the food that is eating without distress or suffering.

So positive are the good efforts following the use of Mi-o-na that the remedy is sold by C. A. Wright under the absolute guarantee to refund the money if it fails to cure. A 50-cent box of Mi-o-na will do the good the stomach needs which is simply to make it do its own work.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physicians, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease undermines the system.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

War Against Consumption.

All nations are endeavoring to check the ravages of consumption, the "white plague" that claims so many victims each year. Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs and colds perfectly and you are in no danger of consumption. Do not risk your health by taking some unknown preparation when Foley's Honey and Tar is safe and certain in results. The genuine is in a yellow package Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

A man may deceive himself, but he never fools destiny.

The older a man grows, the longer he looks at a contract before signing it.

Torturing eczema spreads its burning area every day. Doan's Ointment quickly stops its spreading, instantly relieves the itching, cures it permanently. At any drug store.

The most becoming tie for young ladies—Modesty.

We wonder if there is anyone who would accept a million dollars with the agreement that he would give up his life at the end of a year?

There's nothing so good for a sore throat as Dr. Thomas's Eclectric Oil. Cures it in a few hours. Relieves any pain in any part.

Trying times—Going to the dressmaker's.

Quick relief for Asthma Sufferers.

Foley's Honey and Tar affords immediate relief to asthma sufferers in the worst stages and if taken in time will effect a cure. Sold by all druggists of Tecumseh.

Where to recover yourself—At the tailor's.

The older a man grows, the fewer adjectives he uses.

No man can be satisfactory. If he is accommodating, others will say he expects a whole lot of accommodation in return.

GIVING OUT.

Around all day with an aching back;
Can't rest at night;
Enough to make any one "give out."
Doan's Kidney Pills will give renewed life.
They will cure the backache;
Cure every kidney ill.
Here is Tecumseh proof that this is so.
John B. Smith, debuty sheriff, living on East Chicago Avenue, Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I experienced a great deal of suffering from pains in the small of my back, through the loins and about the kidneys and when an attack was present it was hard for me to do my work. On bending over, I would be seized with dizzy spells, when spots of fire would flash before my eyes. I was restless at night, and in the morning would get up feeling tired and unrefreshed. I doctored a great deal, also used a number of remedies, but received no permanent benefit. Finally I read of Doan's Kidney Pills and the statements made concerning them were so convincing that I was induced to procure a box at Wright and Son's drug store. I felt great benefit after taking the contents of the first box, and thus encouraged I continued until they effected a complete cure. I will always recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone I hear complaining of kidney trouble."

For Sale by all Dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, Sole Agents for the United States.

Fruitless Plants.

The knowledge that the common white potato seldom produces fruit is so widely diffused that the barrenness of the plant causes no comment. Indeed, since the tubers in a measure function as seeds we have partially transferred the name to them. It is usual to speak of potatoes intended for planting as "seed potatoes." Real potato seeds may be found, however, if one searches the potato fields long enough, and from such seeds new strains of potatoes may be raised.

The potato is not alone in its strange ways. Many other plants, of which the ground nut and lily of the valley are good examples, rarely produce seeds. It is noticeable that all such plants have other excellent and efficient means of propagation, and it may be assumed that finding one method requiring less effort than the other they have genarally adopted it.

When plants have more than one means of multiplying, as, for instance, seeds above ground and tubers or runners below ground, they usually subserve two distinct uses, those below ground serving to multiply the plant in its own locality and those above giving it a chance of gaining a foothold in distant lands.—American Botanist.

A Sponge Garden.

"My prosperity is due," said the foreigner, "to a garden, a submarine garden, a garden of sponges that I own in the Mediterranean." He twiddled his fingers so that the diamond flashed on his brown hands.

"Yes, I am very rich," he said complacently. "I cut from my garden about $30,000 worth of sponges a year. It is a large garden. From the Syrian coast it extends to—oh, an incredible distance. You didn't know we planted sponges like potatoes. Men own sponge beds in the Mediterranean as they own oyster beds in the Chesapeake bay. Only sponges are more lucrative than oysters. They fetch from $1 to $10 a pound. It takes a sponge after planting three years to mature. The best depth for a sponge garden is 150 feet."—New York Press.

Angel's Fad.

By ANNA MUNSON.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

Michael Angelo Moultrie was his name, and the diminutive of "Angel" bestowed upon him by a doting mother, was well applied. At least this was the opinion of other tenants in the big Burlington apartment house.

Angel was eight years old, but he scarcely looked six, with his long golden curls and ethereal beauty. In his velvet suits he suggested some child of the Little Lord Fauntleroy period held over into an age of Buster Browns.

Mrs. Moultrie was possessed of a theory that as the child is named so the tastes incline, and she had set her heart upon his being a painter.

Angel's splotchy water colors were carefully preserved in a huge portfolio against the day they should become the priceless mementos of a world famous painter's youth.

The only child of a widowed mother, Angel was about as badly spoiled as a boy could be and yet escape the reform school, but his seraphic countenance and his big, innocent eyes had enabled him to successfully lie out of complicity in many juvenile crimes. Though the small boys of the block invariably explained that Angel was the instigator of all the mischief, even their own fond mothers believed them to be in a conspiracy to destroy the fair fame of the model child.

Angel was quick to perceive his popularity, and, with unerring instinct he found his way to those apartments where candy and cake were to be had. He seemed to know when callers with offerings of candy had visited the different young women, and his own calls were scheduled for the following day.

His one exception was Nannie Dimmick. Nannie seldom entertained callers of the sort Angel most approved. No five pound boxes of sweets lay upon her table, and no great masses of flowers scented the room, yet Angel liked best of all to visit at the Dimmick apartment, for there was a certain tenderness in Nannie Dimmick's manner of which Angel approved most highly.

"She always looks like she's going to cry," he had told his mother in an endeavor to discuss the girl's peculiar charm. "She looks like she's going to cry, but she doesn't. She just holds you tight in her arms, and you feel glad and sorry all at once."

Clearly this blending of emotions appealed to Angel, for he was a regular visitor to the Dimmick apartment, and the girl found odd comfort in his prattle.

Nannie sorely needed comfort, for the look of sadness in her eyes deepened as the weeks sped by with no word from Arthur Ryder. When he had come to her with his face aflame with happiness to tell her that he had found his chance at last, that the firm had decided to send him on a tour of the African and Asiatic countries to introduce their wares, it had seemed that fate, with kindly hands, had swept barriers from their path.

"It will be the making of me," Arthur had explained. "I start at Cape Town and work up the east coast of Africa, then cross to Asia and so up to China. It will take about eighteen months, but if I make a success I shall be taken into the firm and we can be married, dear."

Mrs. Dimmick had refused to listen to an engagement. Time enough for that when Arthur came back, she had told them. An engagement of a year and a half would be worse than useless.

It would deprive Nannie of many pleasures, and no formal engagement was really necessary. If they both were of the same mind when Arthur should return there would be no opposition to a short engagement and an early marriage.

And so Arthur had gone on his long journey with gladness in his heart, for Nannie had assured him that it did not need the formality of ring and announcement to ratify the promptings of her heart.

First had come glowing letters from London and from Cape Town, letters that breathed of hope and love, then blank silence. For more than a year not a letter in the familiar handwriting had been received, though an inquiry at the office of the firm elicited the information that Mr. Ryder was not only alive, but exceedingly well, according to his reports to the home office.

Mrs. Dimmick had stormed at what she had termed his discourtesy, but Nannie would not listen to her mother's urgings that she go more into society and forget the affront.

In spite of everything she still loved Ryder, though pride forbade her to confess that fact even to herself, and she had no heart for the bustle and stir of social events. She preferred to stay at home and tell Angel the fairy stories in which he delighted.

She was telling for the hundredth time one of his favorite tales when Mrs. Dimmick came into the room with an envelope.

"A cablegram for you," she announced coldly.

With trembling hands Nannie opened the blue and white envelope and drew out the slip. Her expression changed as she read.

"It is from Arthur," she said quietly. "He is sailing from Japan."

"Much good may it do him," was the unsympathetic reply. "This is a nice time to hear from him. It's more than a year since he stopped writing. I suppose that you will let him give you some flimsy excuse and be as crazy about him as ever."

"It will take a very excellent excuse to explain his long silence," said Nannie dully. "Unless he has some legitimate reason to offer I shall refuse to see him."

Gently she put Angel from her lap and slipped off to her room. Angel munched the last of the little cakes brought in for his refreshment and took his departure.

Some weeks later Angel, playing about the lobby, observed a stranger enter and drew near to the telephone desk to learn his destination. Angel was interested in young and good looking strangers as a possible increase in the number of purveyors of candy.

His face took on an expression of surprise as the operator returned an answer that Miss Dimmick was not at home.

"She was there a little while ago," insisted Angel, selfishly interested in the stranger's success.

The operator flashed an angry glance at him, which caused Angel to subside, and the stranger left the lobby with an air of dejection far different from the springy step with which he had entered.

The next day he came again and asked that a note be sent upstairs. He waited for the answer and read it before he turned to leave. Angel followed him to the street.

"I say," he began, "are you the fellow Miss Nannie used to like?"

"Why?" asked Ryder, parrying question with question.

"Because she's sore on you because you didn't write," continued Angel. "Are you the fellow?"

"On the level, I didn't mean to do nothing, but I took the letters for my collection."

"You are collecting letters?" asked Ryder, hardly comprehending the confession.

"Stamps," explained the Angel. "They were bully stamps. I didn't suppose Miss Nannie would care. Ma gets lots of letters that she throws into the fire without reading, so I hooked the ones with the funny stamps. I guess that's why she looks like she always wants to cry. I didn't think of it that way until the other day. Then I waited until I saw whether you made it up."

Ryder's face grew black as at last he realized what the boy was saying, but Angel's eyes were again his salvation, and the scowl vanished.

"Go up and tell Miss Dimmick what you have told me," commanded Ryder. "Tell her that I wrote every steamer in spite of the fact I received no replies. Tell her that I have been half frantic. Have you the letters that you can show?"

"Burned 'em," explained Angel—"that is, all except the stamps. They had no business leaving the mail out on the table where any one could swipe 'em. The elevator boy got most of the picture cards. I don't collect post cards," he added virtuously as though this were some extenuation of his fault.

Ryder paced the sidewalk while Angel went to make his confession. It was a long quarter hour, but at last Angel, his face white and scared, appeared on the steps.

"I fixed it for you," he announced, "but Mrs. Dimmick heard what I said, and I bet I get the licking of my life." And he sat down on the steps while yet he could sit to ponder on the fatal fascinations of a fad.

The Log Line.

Officers on the coastwise and foreign steamship lines are not limited to their regular duties, but are expected to answer the questions of curious passengers besides. Sometimes, however, the passengers take the matter into their own hands and instruct others more ignorant than themselves.

The purser on a well known liner tells of a lady who had made a passage before and who in consequence felt a superior knowledge of maritime things.

Several ladies were grouped in the stern, this one among them, when their attention was attracted by the log with its long line attached to the rail.

"Why, what can that be?" inquired one of the party.

"That?" said the knowing one. "Well, you see the vessel has to keep in communication with the land, and in order to tell just how far they have got on the passage they keep one end tied to the dock, and by looking at the amount of line paid out they can tell just how far they are from the other side."

"Oh!" exclaimed the other after this lucid explanation. "Well, I have always heard of the log, but I never knew what one was before. Thank you so much!"—Youth's Companion.

Fourteen Mistakes.

An English paper gives a list of what it terms "the fourteen mistakes of life." While there are undoubtedly other mistakes than those mentioned, the list is a fairly comprehensive one.

It is a great mistake to set up our own standard of right and wrong and judge people accordingly, to measure the enjoyment of others by our own, to expect uniformity of opinion in this world, to look for judgment and experience in youth, to endeavor to mold all dispositions alike, to look for perfection in our own actions, to worry ourselves and others with what cannot be remedied, not to yield in immaterial matters, not to alleviate all that needs alleviation as far as lies in our power, not to make allowances for the infirmities of others, to consider everything impossible that we cannot perform, to believe only what our finite minds can grasp, to expect to be able to understand everything.

And the last and greatest mistake of all is to live for time alone, when any moment may launch us into eternity.

It is said that the most trying moment in a girl's life is when her young man's kin call on her to pass judgment.

The great trouble with the good is, that in talking of evil, they seldom tell the truth.

Excellent Health Advice.

Mrs. M. M. Davison of No. 379 Gifford ave., San Jose, Cal., says: "The worth of Electric Bitters as a general family remedy, for headache, biliousness and torpor of the liver and bowels is so pronounced that I am prompted to say a word in its favor, for the benefit of those seeking relief from such afflictions. There is more health for the digestive organs in a bottle of Electric Bitters than in any other remedy I know of." Sold under guarantee at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 50c.

The RIDDLE GUESSER.

By BENJAMIN NICHOLSON.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

"Don't tell me you can't make him propose!" snorted Mr. Poole, turning a scowling face on one of his daughters who was primping before a mirror. "You don't go at it right. Get him in a corner and then look at him just as much as to say, 'What are your intentions?'"

"But how are you going to get him in a corner?"

"There are hundreds of ways. Ask him what he built his new house for and keep on asking questions about it till you get him in a place he can't squirm out of. I know men are dull and mighty provoking at times, but you've got to be patient and help them along."

"Since you think it is so terribly easy to corner him I'll just give you a chance to do it," snapped Miss Leah. "I see him coming through the gate now. I'm going to run upstairs. Tell him I haven't finished dressing."

* * * * * * *

"Howdy, Mr. King? Come right in. Take off your overcoat, draw a chair up to the fire and make yourself comfortable. Leah will be down shortly. She's not quite through frizzing her hair. Right cold today, isn't it? How's the folks?"

"About as well as common. How're you all?"

"We're all able to be up and stirring around. Ma's complaining, as usual, but not much the matter with her, I guess. I see you got the last coat of paint on your new house. Must have been pretty cold up on the top of that ladder, wasn't it? Says I to Leah the other day when I got home, 'If Mr. King doesn't catch his death of cold it'll be a wonder to me!'"

"Would you believe it? She got that badly scared about you that she had her ma make up a batch of her celebrated cold cure and then asked me to take it over to you. But I told her that most folks had their own cold cure and wouldn't think of taking anybody else's."

"WILL YOU GIVE HER TO ME FOR MY WIFE?"

"But I didn't get a cold."

"Leah will be mighty glad to hear that. 'Pa,' says she the very last thing before she went upstairs, 'if Mr. King's got a cold holler up and tell me, because I'm so worried about him.'"

"But I didn't get a cold."

"That's too bad—er—I mean, of course, it's too bad that I went and scared Leah so. But we were talking about your new house. What was your terrible rush to get that last coat of paint on? Something unusual going to happen?"

"Not that I know of. I just wanted to get through. And now at last I'm beginning to feel as if I were ready to live."

"Don't you need something besides a house? See if you can't think of something you're still short of."

"I can't say that I can."

"Something that stays in the house."

"Well, I got my ma to make out a list of the things she thought I'd need, and I turned it over to Burckey and had him fill it out."

"Maybe the thing I have in mind is not to be had at Burckey's."

"I must say if it can't be bought at Burckey's it must be something unusual. But don't tell me what it is. I'm a terrible fellow for guessing riddles and solving puzzles and such like. I never heard tell of a riddle that I couldn't guess."

"Well, a lot of men have got gray trying to solve this one. But dive in; maybe you can. I don't want to discourage you."

"Is it found in most houses?"

"No, not all. Old bachelors seem to think that they can get along without them. Whenever they do have one around it's an ugly old thing. I almost said secondhand, but caught myself just in time."

"I reckon you have one?"

"Oh, yes, four. I got one before I started housekeeping."

"Now, that's interesting! Which room do you keep it in?"

"For twenty years I tried to keep it in the kitchen, but as I didn't seem to make any headway I gave up trying. I'm just as liable to find mine in the parlor as anywhere else."

"Is it a bootjack? I don't think Burckey keeps bootjacks."

"Well, if a bootjack is supposed to make life easier for a man, then it's like one in that respect, but it's not a bootjack nor a cook stove, though it is supposed to stand around a stove a good deal and is like one in that it gets pretty warm at times."

"I reckon it couldn't be a coffeepot, for Burckey keeps them. I believe you said it made life easier for a man?"

"No, I didn't. I said it was supposed to. But the thing I said that was most to the point was that I got one before I started housekeeping and that now I've got four. Do you know, I've been expecting for some time that you were going to ask me if I wouldn't give you one so that you could begin housekeeping right."

"That's another good point. It's something that you'd give away, so I reckon it can't be worth so very much. I'll guess it yet! Now, you see if I don't!"

"Just to encourage you a little, I don't mind saying that, while I wouldn't sell it for any money, I'll give it to you just as soon as ever you ask me for it."

"Is it a stove lifter?"

Mr. Poole pushed a good sized handful of whiskers into his mouth and began to chew them angrily.

"Now, let me put all these points together," said Mr. King. "It's something that can't be bought at Burckey's, yet it's found in most every house. It's supposed to make life easier for a man and is like a bootjack in this respect. You tried for twenty years to keep yours in the kitchen, but couldn't do it, though it does stand around the stove a heap. It's something you won't sell, yet you'll give it to me just as quick as ever I ask you for it, and you've been thinking I was going to ask you for it. Now, if that's not a corker I'm no judge of riddles!"

"And you don't know what it is?" growled Mr. Poole.

"Give me another minute or two. I've got it! It's a coal scuttle!"

"Not by a darned sight! A wife, you blankety blank fool!"

"Oh, oh, and you'll give me Miss Leah? Will you, Mr. Poole? Will you give her to me for my wife?"

COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.

Resolved, That the Common Council of the Village of Tecumseh does hereby require that a new sidewalk be constructed along that portion of the east line of Maumee street in this village which lies along and adjoining the west line of that parcel of land situate in the village of Tecumseh, Lenawee County and State of Michigan, and described as follows:

House and 2-3 lot 3, Original Plat.

Said walk to be 4 feet in width, on the established grade, of Portland cement, sand and gravel.

The trench shall be excavated to a depth of 10 inches at least below the established grade except for driveways and street crossings when the depth shall be at least 12 inches below the established grade.

The foundation shall consist of clean cinders or gravel entirely free from clay, thoroughly rammed to a thickness of at least of 6 inches, except for driveways and street crossings which shall be at least 8 inches.

The concrete shall consist of not less than one part cement to six parts of clean, sharp sand or gravel.

On the concrete filling shall be laid a finishing layer one inch thick, consisting of one part cement and two parts of very clean, sharp sand. The said finishing layer shall in all cases be finished with a granular surface with a wooden float.

To secure a true line for the edges of the walk 2x4 strips shall be solidly staked down parallel to grade and on the true line of the walk, these strips to be removed when the walk is finished for use.

The concrete filling shall be tamped thoroughly till the water comes to the surface, then the finishing layer shall be immediately spread on in thin coats thoroughly rammed into the concrete, each coat being troweled until the water appears on the surface, the top surface being only troweled sufficiently to leave it smooth. The foundation shall be thoroughly wet while being rammed.

The joints for the blocks shall be made in the concrete and then in the finishing layer directly above those in the concrete.

Only Portland cement shall be used in the construction of walks and shall be in every respect the equal of the best grades of German Portland cement. The concrete filling shall be made from the same cement as the finishing layer.

And the owners and occupants of said lots and premises are hereby required to do the necessary grading therefor and to construct said sidewalk according to the provisions of this resolution, under the supervision of the street commissioner, said walk to be completed within 10 days from personal service, upon the owner or occupant of said described land, of a copy of this resolution, and in case of any default in the construction and completion of said walk, as herein directed, the street commissioner is hereby ordered to have said walk constructed, and payment therefor shall be required of the owner of said above described land, and the expense thereof assessed and levied upon said land in the same manner as other taxes.

Moved and supported that the above resolution be accepted and adopted.

Ayes—VanWinkle, Sherman, Magers, Lowry, Teachout, Slater. Carried.
